Auburn, Ala. — Idle on the back of many a kitchen range stands one of its most economical, useful, and convenient parts — the deep well cooker.

"This thrift cooker is ideal for such budget items as the less tender cuts of meat, dry beans or whole-grain cereals, for example, which need long, slow cooking," states Stella Mitchell, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist. "In the insulated well these foods can cook to delicious tenderness with a minimum of fuel and without the need for frequent watching to prevent scorching."

Miss Mitchell adds that the well can save fuel by cooking a whole meal together or by pinch-hitting for the oven when baking a few potatoes or heating up a few rolls. It is ideal for simmering soups or for steaming puddings, brown bread, or custard. The depth of the kettle makes it convenient for steaming bulky vegetables like corn on the cob or kale or other leafy greens.

WHITE STAINS MAY CALL FOR BRICK REPLACEMENT

Sometimes after brick work has been exposed for a number of years a white chalk-like substance appears on the exposed face of the brick or, in other instances, only at the mortar joint.

"The grayish-white substance is a salt that, if present in sufficient quantity, will cause the brick to fall apart," explains William T. Cox, A.P.I. Extension Service specialist in farm buildings. "When this is the case, the only thing to do is replace the brick."

He adds that wherever the mortar joints are damaged or begin to fall out, it will be necessary to "rake" the joint with a suitable tool and "point-up" the brick work.

W. L. PARRISH,
Judge of Probate and ex-officio Chairman of the Court of County Commissioners.

A BILL TO BE ENTITLED AN ACT

NOTICE OF CHANGE IN MONEY ORDER BUSINESS

On July 1st, a new Postal Money Order system will be inaugurated combining some of the features of both the old money orders and the postal notes which are now obsolete. The new order will be a card form similar to a treasury check and should not be folded, but will fit in the majority of envelopes, as it will be much shorter than heretofore.

The Postal regulations state that application shall be made by the person applying for the money order and should not be filled out by a Postal Employee, so we are asking that you please fill out application for purchase of money order before approaching money order window. These applications will be found on the desk in the lobby. This will reduce number of errors in issuing orders and is important since the application will be the only record at issuing office, and will comply with Postal Regulations. The cooperation of the public is requested.

A Miami restaurant operator sued his wife for divorce, charging cruelty because his wife forced him to eat all his meals in his own restaurant. He asserted that he hadn't had a "home-cooked meal" since his marriage.

CHILTON COUNTIANS WHO MAIL PACKAGES ABROAD CAUTIONED TO FOLLOW NEW REGULATIONS

Chilton Countians who plan to mail packages to persons abroad would do well to stop, look and listen before doing so, because there are now some new Federal Government regulations on the subject.

According to information received here from Merrill C. Lofton, regional director of the U. S. Department of Commerce in Atlanta, the post office in Clanton will not accept such packages except under the following conditions:

If shipment of the package is prohibited without a validated export license, such a license must be presented to the post office clerk with the package at the time of mailing.

If shipment without a license is permitted, the words "Gift-Export License Not Required" must be placed on the address side of the wrapper and the word "Gift" on the customs declaration.

The reason for this is that the Department of Commerce's Office of International Trade and the Post Office Department are cooperating to plug possible loopholes by which intentional violators of the government's export control regulations are violating such regulations.

Only shipments to Canada are excepted from the foregoing regulations.

Mr. Lofton explained that the majority of shipments by mail, both air and surface, do not require an export license because they come within the category of gift parcels that do not exceed $25 in value. Such shipments are permitted without license to all countries except China and North Korea. Nevertheless, from now on the mailers of such packages must mark them "Gift-Export License Not Required," he said.

The Commerce Department official urged that residents of Chilton County who plan to mail packages abroad get in touch with the nearest Department of Commerce field office for further information on the subject. Such offices with full-time world trade ex-

TWO MAJOR BILLS PASSED BY LEGISLATURE

Montgomery, Ala. — As the 1951 Alabama legislature completed one-third of its session, Gov. Gordon Persons had signed 67 bills and 19 resolutions.

Only two major pieces of legislation had been signed into law, two have been killed, and 15 bills and two resolutions await the chief executive's pen. One measure was vetoed because it duplicated one signed by Persons a few days earlier.

The house has introduced 540 bills and 44 resolutions, while the Senate has introduced 374 bills and 21 resolutions.

Still to be brought up, among major legislation, is the proposed $3 auto tax. Among major measures signed by Governor Persons was one which granted an emergency appropriation to the department of corrections and institutions, one setting up a $25,000,000 road bond program, to provide for a course of study in public schools, one requiring cattle owners to keep their cattle off highways, and another extending veterans benefits.

Also the legislators voted a 10-day recess with pay, June 20 through July 10th.

MONTGOMERY CHOSEN

Mark Johnston, chairman of the Montgomery Chamber of Commerce said that the polled shorthorn show would be held March 24-25, 1952. Johnston said it will be the first national livestock show to be scheduled in Montgomery.

Previously it had been announced that the National Livestock Exchange Convention will be held in Montgomery in 1952.

The polled shorthorn congress will be held at the state livestock coliseum.

Big Bargain!

The price of telephone service in Alabama has gone up, in the overall, less than one-third as much as prices in general as measured by the cost-of-living index.

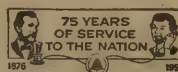

At the same time the amount of service available has increased immensely. Today Mr. and Mrs. Alabama can call and receive calls from nearly three times as many local telephones as they could ten years ago. And the service is better.

Any way you look at it, telephone service is still a big bargain.

In the event such future relocation, alteration or change is to be made without the then boundaries of the improved highway right of way, then the County will provide, or cause to be provided, for the Company and without cost to the Company new private rights of way, together with all necessary guy wire and anchor rights and tree trimming rights, to be owned by the Company; and in the event the County is unable to provide, or cause to be provided, for the Company such new private rights of way, then the Company may proceed to acquire such new private rights of way either by purchase or condemnation and the County shall cause to be reimbursed or will reimburse the Company for the entire cost of and expense to which it is put in acquiring such new private rights of way.

THE PRICE RUCKUS has hit Dawdle Dell.

Sam Steepbilly, proprietor of the General Store, allows that his price setting swap with Henry Potter, storekeeper over at Sweet Lick, is hereby null and void by authority of the Supreme Court spiking the fair trade laws.

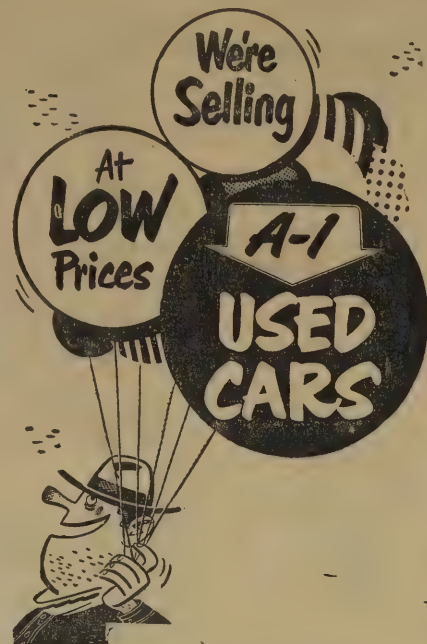

Sam aims to cut the price on buggy whips 50 per cent tomorrow.

Sam sees by the papers about these big stores up in the city cutting the price on electric mixers, and he has some hand egg beaters he's hankering to let go cheap.

Potter says he "ain't pestered." He doesn't carry buggy whips in his up-to-date emporium, and he doesn't see Sam cutting prices on Model-T magnetos and other new stock.

"If Sam tries any more polecatting," Hank swans, "I've got some slick auto-mobile curtains I can fetch from the back room at creek bottom prices."

Squire Gladmoney Debitside, moneylender herabouts, figures a real price fall won't come until Sam starts cutting staples like hog jowl and molasses instead of luxuries like egg beaters and buggy whips. "Folks still are gonna need lots of greenbacks and I got 'em to lend," chuckles Squire. Elsie Spindleshanks came back from the city with news that Bloomberg's is starting a price war in girdles. You know how women folks can't let a bargain alone. They all traipsed up to get girdles, the skinny ones as well as the fat. Now the beanpole gals look lumpy, with those loose girdles folded around them a couple of times, and the potato sacks look like somebody just stirred up the potatoes—that cheap elastic just rearranged the bulges.

TWIN POLLED HEREFORD HEIFERS BORN AT RESTFUL ACRES

According to the reports of the proud owners, "Chick" and Olive Fiquette, of Restful Acres Hereford Farm, their new Hereford herd sire, G. J. Advanced Domino, 50th, is more of a sire than they expected to purchase when in Mississippi last summer.

Twin Polled Hereford heifers were born at Restful Acres June 25th and are growing quite according to schedule. The calves are out of a Bama Perfection Cow and by G. J. Advanced Domino, 50th. The calves are granddaughters of C.M.R. Advanced Domino 66th, a 1945 show bull of note that sold for $15,000.00.

The occurrence of twin offspring in the Hereford breed is quite rare.

11,200 ACRES IN COTTON IN COUNTY 1951 CROP

According to B. A. E. final statistics, the Chilton County cotton acreage was only 11,200 acres. Final gin reports indicate that this acreage produced only 5,250 bales. This gave the county a per-acre lint yield average of 227 pounds per acre.

As low as this record may seem, it was the highest in Central Alabama cotton district 2 A, which consists of nine counties adjacent to or near Jefferson County. Mobile County led the state with only 322 pound average lint per acre. Cleburne County ran a close race for last with a per acre lint yield of only 123 pounds per acre.

Local farmers are now cultivating an acreage estimated to go in excess of 14,000 and yield prospects to date are certainly more favorable than that of one year ago.

COUNTY FARM BUREAU MEETINGS SCHEDULED THROUGHOUT MONTH OF JULY

Montgomery, Ala. — Barbecue menus are being prepared, Cotton Maid contestants being readied, speakers invited and serious business discussion arranged for annual county Farm Bureau meetings to be held throughout the state during the next two months. Bob Griffin, director of organization for the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, said the gatherings probably would attract in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million Alabama farm people. Farm Bureau membership this year has reached a little more than 60,000 families, which was short of the goal but considered good when considering crop conditions and other factors.

"A great deal of interest is being shown in plans for the meetings," said Mr. Griffin, "not only for the entertainment features and the chance to get together with friends, but because of the serious problems that confront farmers at this time. Farmers are vitally interested in production problems, inflation controls and other national problems, as well as many things being considered by the state legislature."

Many counties will hold the finals of their Maid of Cotton contest in connection with the annual Farm Bureau meetings. Winners will be sent to the finals at the Alabama State Fair next fall for a chance at the state and national titles, and in many cases will receive wardrobes and other awards from local business people.

Talent from 4-H clubs and other local groups will be featured on many programs. There will be basket dinners, with all families contributing fried chicken, pies and other things; barbecues, fish fries and less elaborate picnic lunches, according to local plans and facilities.

The list of speakers who will appear at one or more of the county meetings already include the following, with others to be added:

R. G. Arnold, director of organization, Southern Region, of the American Farm Bureau Federation; O. R. Long, Southern Regional Representative, AFBF; Walter L. Randolph, president; J. D. Hays, 1st vice president; C. H. Wilhite, secretary-treasurer; E. L. Lowder, director of services; John A. Garrett, director of dairy organization; T. C. Owen, assistant director of organization, and R. L. Griffin, director of organization, Alabama Farm Bureau Federation.

J. Bruce Henderson, Millers Ferry; Frank M. Stewart, commissioner, agriculture and industries; V. V. Mitchell, Sr., Tallahassee; James H. Jones, Centre; Walter C. Givhan, Safford; B. B. COUNTY GROUP TO ATTEND CAMP HILL MEETING.

"How to Select a Good Jersey Cow," that will be one of the main topics of discussion with Lawrence Colebank, Extension Dairyman, Tennessee, and John Parrish, Extension Dairyman, Alabama, team up for a series of four Judging Schools and Field Days in Alabama this month.

These schools are to be held on Jersey Breeder farms in various sections of the state. They are scheduled as follows:

July 7 — Joe Minter's Jersey Farm, Camp Hill, Ala.

July 18 — Cedarcrest Jersey Farm, Foundsdale, Ala.

July 19 — Joe Wittmeier's Jersey Farm, Oneonta, Ala.

July 20 — Hickory Lane Jersey Farm, Huntsville, Ala.

The Chilton County group will attend the Camp Hill meeting.

Judging schools of this type are new. Following a detailed demonstration on Jersey type animals will be held before the group one at a time. Everyone present will be given an opportunity to study each animal and record his classification rating on that animal. Mr. Lawrence Colebank will then give his classification rating and lead a discussion on the animal's strong and weak points.

The afternoon portion of the program will be devoted to a demonstration on Fitting and Showing Dairy Cattle. This will be followed by a 4-H and F.F.A. Dairy Cattle Judging Contest. While the Juniors are working on the Judging Contest, adults will be making plans concerning participation in the District and State Dairy Shows this fall. Bob Newman, President Alabama Jersey Cattle Club and Jimmy Davis, Field Representative, American Jersey Cattle Club will attend each of the schools.

Every Chilton County dairyman who is interested in Jerseys is cordially invited to attend the Judging School. Names should be submitted to County Agent a few days in advance in order that an accurate estimate can be obtained of the number that will be present for lunch and so that transportation can be secured.

THE BANK OF THORSBY INCREASES ITS CAPITAL STOCK

At a recent meeting of the Stockholders of The Bank of Thorsby, Thorsby, Alabama, it was voted by them to increase the Capital Stock from $20,000 to $25,000. This means that a 25% stock dividend was declared and was paid for out of the Undivided Profits. The Stockholders of the Bank of Thorsby are proud of the progress that the bank has made in the past few years and they appreciate their customers.

PINEDALE REVIVAL

JOHN D. WILLIAMS

There will be a revival beginning Sunday night, July 8th, 7:30 p.m., at the Pinedale Assembly of God Church with Evangelist John D. Williams of Augusta, Ga., as guest speaker. The Pinedale Church is located about four miles east of Clanton off the Lay Dam Road.

Rev. Williams is an outstanding young speaker. He will be praying for the sick on Tuesday and Friday nights. Come, bring your sick and afflicted. Hundreds have been healed through Bro. Williams' ministry. He has just closed a great meeting in Smithfield, Va. Everyone has a cordial invitation to attend this revival.—Pastor, Thomas D. Rachels.

CONDITION OF COUNTY COTTON CROP IMPROVING

The condition of cotton in Chilton County continued to improve during the past week. This was due mainly to the fact that rain fell in most parts of the county. The boll weevil situation is such that little or no poison is needed as yet in most parts of the county. Light infestation of Aphids if found in most fields but no economic damage has occurred in fields visited. Thrips were found in some number in fields examined. Thrip damage is lightened where rains have been fairly heavy. It is likely that no poison for thrip control will be needed.

The weevil infestation in fields that I visited varied from 2% to 20%. The number of wintering weevils in the area is decreasing but the first generation of young weevils are beginning to appear. Cotton growers in the county should watch their cotton closely for the next two weeks. If the infestation should reach 25%, dusting should be started at once.

Fields examined show that cotton is in much better condition than it was a year ago with respect to possible insect damage, however, if adequate soil moisture is maintained throughout the cotton growing season, it is evident that cotton will be damaged to some degree in most fields in Alabama this summer.

The supply of poison has not changed a great deal. Poison is scarce, therefore farmers should buy poison and take it to the farm.

Our plans are to send you a report on cotton insect conditions each week and when possible call or write giving me the results of your findings. Your reports will help keep all cotton growers informed on true weevil situations.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Harris of Birmingham visited with Mrs. J. V. Harris here last Thursday.

CLANTON HORSE SHOW DATE IS CHANGED

Because of conflicting dates the Clanton Horse Show has changed date of its showing.

Officials of this year's show had previously announced the show would be held on July 25th at City Park. It was announced the past week that the Horse Show would be held Wednesday, August 1st, just one week later than previously announced.

According to one member of the official group, the date conflicted with three other shows scheduled for the date of the Clanton Show. So remember the new date — Wednesday, August 1, 1951, at the City Park, Clanton.

JOE GRAHAM ANNOUNCES ANTI-FOREST FIRES CAMPAIGN THIS FALL

Montgomery, Ala. — A gigantic, statewide "Keep Alabama Green" campaign aimed at preventing forest fires will be sponsored by Alabama Forest Products Association beginning early this fall, Joe W. Graham, a director of the organization, Maplesville, reported today.

Graham outlined the program as being operated by statewide committee in cooperation with local committees in each of the 67 counties. He estimated that 2,000 or more people will gather in Montgomery this fall for the official launching, which will be followed by local launchings sponsored by each county committee.

Of all the forest fires in the South, he pointed out, 98 percent are caused by man and can be prevented. The "Keep Alabama Green" program is aimed at reducing the number of these fires and thus protecting the forests, Alabama's number one agricultural crop which brings in more than $450 million to the state's economy each year. Approval of the project was voted last week at the Association's board of directors meeting which was held in Huntsville. The "Keep Green" program, a cooperative venture of educational institutions, civic and farm organizations, individuals and state and governmental agencies, has been successfully developed in 29 states already. It is sponsored nationally by American Forest Products Industries, Inc.

The fact that Alabama loses more than a million dollars worth of timber to fires each year and has one of the worst fire records in the nation was emphasized by W. A. Belcher, Birmingham, president of the organization.

"The economy of hundreds of communities and a large percentage of our counties is based almost entirely on the manufacture of forest products," Belcher said. "For this reason," he continued, "every citizen has a stake in our forests and it is anticipated that every civic, public, professional and industrial group in the state, as well as the Alabama Forest Products Association's 850 members, will participate in the movement."

STOP THESE INVADERS!

STOP THESE LOSSES

The boll weevil and other cotton insects in 1950 robbed Alabama cotton farmers of 380,377 bales of cotton and 149,245 tons of cottonseed, the National Cotton Council points out in commenting on the final 1950 crop report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

In monetary value, the Council estimates these losses amounted to more than $88,000,000 or an average of about $610 per Alabama cotton farm.

Our national need for cotton is urgent, the Council reminds in calling on cotton farmers to do everything possible to meet the 16-million-bale goal set for this season by the Department of Agriculture. A 26.9 per cent reduction from the full yield, such as occurred in the 1950-51 season due to insect damage, could seriously jeopardize this goal.

To realize the high yields necessary for maximum cotton production, farmers are urged to follow closely their state cotton insect control recommendations.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

E. T. Whittington wants us to "get the cat off his back" in regards to the Fourth of July celebration at the County Training School, July 4th. In the article appearing in Chilton County News we stated that the celebration was announced by Whittington. This was an error, and we apologize. The article was announced by the Principal of the School, E. D. Sledge. We might here commend those who were responsible for the big celebration and observance of our Independence Day. It shows a truly patriotic spirit and serves notice to the world where our Southern Negro stands in regards to communism and all the other "isms," but for the one "Americanism."

"Tobe" Johnston has a good suggestion. While the City Street Department is marking the streets why don't they mark off the pedestrian lanes at the principal intersections? This is a common custom in the larger cities and would indicate where the motorists and would indicate where the motorist is supposed to bring his car to a halt, pedestrian.

Alkie as two peas in a pod is correct when you are speaking of the neices of Mrs. Ralph Morrison. They have been visiting she and Ralph for the past week and we heard their grandmother say the other day that one of them had received two spoonsful of medicine when they thought they were dosing both little girls.

We think it was a mighty nice thing for the Girl Scouts to name their Scout Troop in honor of Mr. Henry Adair. Mr. Adair was a prime figure in the Scout movement here for several years and accomplished much in his work with the young folks of Clanton. Lenoir Oglesby is Patrol Leader of the Adair Patrol and Mrs. Sally Speaks is the Counselor.

We thought we were going to have a good front page story last week about a man who was wanted by the Sheriff of another county for a number of crimes but the local officers weren't lucky so we didn't get any story. Some fellow left Selma hitchhiking carrying a portable typewriter, reportedly not his; an electric fan reportedly not his; a suit of clothes over his shoulder reportedly not his, and a bad check artist to boot. They didn't say whether the clothes he was wearing was his or not. We hope so because if they were not, that pore fellow didn't have anything. But anyway, he was reportedly coming this way but the officers never did intercept him, and nothing never did happen, but if it all had, how's that for a reportedly good news story?

The Sunday School teacher was reviewing the lesson, "Who led the children of Israel out of Egypt?" he asked. There was no answer. Pointing to a little fellow in the back of the class he demanded, "Little boy, who led the children of Israel out of Egypt?" The little boy had been made conspicuous and said timidly: "It wasn't me teacher. We just moved here last week. We're from Bibb County."

T. W. Bryan is already issuing invitations to his birthday party on July 29th. It is an annual affair at the Bryan home and he always issues his invitations to his friends, his relatives, and his enemies. He says that is bound to take in everybody and that's the way he wants his birthday parties.

Uncle Mon Wyatt, who has a peanut machine down the street in front of T. C. Davis Radio Shop, has got the hot weather licked. He has an electric fan on the side walk by the light post turned back toward his machine and chair and sells his peanuts in solid comfort. You know the lines: "The boy stood on the burning deck, eating peanuts by the peck. His father called, he would not go, because he loved those peanuts so." Those were some of Uncle Mon's peanuts.

Danger points which would seriously weaken or perhaps destroy the entire program include: Liberalize benefits so that the original purpose of the program is defeated; Abolition of the experience rating system; Removal of certain disqualification provisions; and, Federal control of Unemployment Compensation.

Since the Unemployment Compensation plan is so vital to employers, Rankin continued, we would like to see every employer in the State read the booklet. Additional copies may be had from the Alabama State Chamber of Unemployment of Commerce in Montgomery, he added.

MARKETING SEED

Farmers who fail to find an immediate, favorable market for their grass and legume seed crops need not be alarmed. They can place their seed in government loan through their local P.M.A. office, and the seed will be held for sale at a later date.

Our Independence

"Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage." (Gal. 5:1). We people of America have a liberty, and independence that no other people in the world have; but it is up to us to stand firm in this liberty, and be not entangled again with any yolk of bondage. Free people are the most happiest people in the world; therefore to preserve our happiness, we must preserve our independence. Personally, I want to be independent to do to think, and to talk as I desire.

A. T. HICKMAN This year as we commemorate our independence as a nation, let us renew our determination to keep it free. We are free to go to the ballot box and vote for whom we please. It may be that we need to consider who we are voting for when we exercise this independence and liberty. Let us be sure that the ones put in office are those who will help us to maintain our independence, and not those that will sell us to our enemies. Another thing that will help us to keep our national political independence, is for us to stay free from the bondage of sin. "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." To be exalted with freedom and independence we must have the righteousness of our Lord Jesus Christ. And to have his righteousness, we must forsake sin, turn from sin, and seek the Holy God to make us holy. Wherever the Gospel of Jesus Christ has gone, and been accepted, it has exalted manhood, and has sanctified the cradle, and brought the highest civilization to its people. This will always be true. Here I appeal to every American to attend and support the church of your choice every week. Help preserve America's way of life by supporting the greatest force against evil, the Church. Help all of us to stand in the liberty wherewith Christ has set us free, and may we never be brought again in the bondage of sin.—Hickman.

Invention By Mistake

IN June, 1922, a man named Alex Osborn, author of "Your Creative Power; How To Use Imagination," got on a train and went to Dayton, Ohio. When he arrived there he went to the research laboratory of the General Motors Company. He was given a guide and started through the plant, coming at last to a little room where three men were working with a small stationary engine. The guide was no other than Charles F. Kettering, the famous inventor.

"Here's the most promising experiment we have," said Kettering. "We think we can change gasoline until it will give five times as much power as it does at present."

The men worked for six years—and failed. But—and now comes the important point—they discovered something else that turned out to be highly important: Ethyl gasoline.

That, says Mr. Osborn, happens constantly. A person starts out to do one thing and fails. But sometimes he discovers something else that is important. This is brought out many times in his book.

As another example: The Corning Glass Company was brought a problem by a railroad executive. The lanterns used by the men employed on the road were constantly cracking when hit by icy sleet. The railroad wanted a lantern that would take it as it came.

The Corning people started in to develop a harder glass. The job seemed simple but it took seven years; in doing this they hit on something they hadn't started out to do: make a glass so hard that food could be cooked in it. The result was Pyrex. Since that time the women of America have bought over 300 million pieces of Pyrex.

Not only did the company thus turn up a new cooking glass, but it got a start on making glass for the new famous Palomar telescope near San Diego, California.

When Henry Ford was a young man on his father's farm he "foiled" with machinery. At last, he got a big idea. He would invent a wonderful steam engine for tractors which would make all other steam engines look silly. He worked long and hard—and failed. But in carrying this he hit on the idea of a self-propelled internal combustion engine. So he changed over from the thing he had started to do and made a stupendous success of the thing he hadn't even dreamed of doing.

You can buy a copy of Alex Osborn's book for $3.50, plus a bit of tax. If you buy it and read it and do nothing about it, you will be wasting your time and your money; but if you really apply it, you will live a more exciting and profitable life.

How I wish I had read this book thirty years ago. It should be used as a textbook in our colleges.

Your Health

DO YOU HAVE DIABETES?

"You have diabetes," says your physician. Today the control of diabetes is well established, resting almost entirely in the hands of the diabetic himself. Since the discovery of insulin, the doctor can teach the patient how, with proper diet and insulin, the patient can control his disease.

The word "diabetes" stems from Greek roots meaning a "pouring out." In the case of diabetes it is the pouring out of abnormal amounts of urine which contains sugar. In normal persons there is ordinarily no sugar in the urine. In the individual with diabetes, the gland called the pancreas, located behind the stomach, fails to produce a sufficient supply of insulin, a hormone essential to the conversion of sugar into energy. When the unused sugar reaches a certain level in the blood, it is removed by the kidneys. Before insulin, diabetes was a long, difficult, always fatal disease.

Because there is apparently some hereditary angle in diabetes, it is important for persons coming from a family where diabetes is known to be alert for symptoms of the disease.

Diabetes is not generally painful, though sometimes it is first noticed in numbness or pain in the toes. It is not contagious. Important symptoms are loss of weight, excessive thirst, lack of energy, fatigue and frequent urination. The loss of weight is most marked in persons who have previously been overweight and it seems that in this group of overweight persons there is a tendency toward diabetes.

Knowledge, intelligence and character are the essentials in controlling diabetes. Death is certain for diabetics who ignore the rules. Dividends are a normal life, insofar as energy and activity are concerned, and a longer life.

The wise person will have an annual physical examination. Then, if diabetes is detected, your doctor will help you establish a normal routine for your individual case.

Don't feel that everything in life has ended if you develop diabetes. Trust your physician. With your cooperation, he will help you live a long and satisfactory life.

HOUSEWORK ON WHEELS PROVES TO BE EASIER

Auburn, Ala. — Many routine household jobs can be put on wheels, finds Stella Mitchell, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist.

For example, she points out that a rolling tray-table may carry meals from kitchen to dining table and then carry out the dishes, or it may be used in laundry work, house cleaning, food preservation or even some outdoor gardening or painting work.

"The tea carts of the twenties went out of fashion because most were too awkward or ornate," explains the specialist. "But streamlined models have returned in recent years to suit today's informal living and one-level houses. Small tables or stands may easily be converted to such use by installing ball-bearing casters and a comfortable handle. Large-wheel casters roll easier than small ones. If two of the four casters will lock, the table can roll or stand securely, as desired."

In most cases when a heifer calf is sired by one of the bulls in use at the Auburn bull stud, it will eventually produce over $100 worth of milk a year more than daughters of cows bred to ordinary bulls. See the local county agent for full details.

Wire removed from bales of hay, straw, etc., has many uses. Straighten with simple hand stretcher shown, which consists of long plank having lever mounted on one end, hook on the other. Lever bolted between angle iron pieces.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY TO BUILD $38 MILLION STEAM ELECTRIC PLANT

Thomas W. Martin, Chairman of the Board, Alabama Power Company, announced today that, to meet the ever-growing industrial and defense loads, the Company will file with the Alabama Public Service Commission an application to build near Mobile another steam-electric plant to cost approximately thirty million dollars.

The new plant will be designed so that ultimately it could have a capacity of one million kilowatts. The initial capacity will be 250,000 kilowatts in two 125,000 kilowatt units designed to operate at a steam pressure of 3800 pounds per square inch. These units will be built by the General Electric Company and the first unit is expected to be in operation late in 1953, and the second in 1954. The estimated consumption of coal for the first two units is 800,000 tons per year.

The new plant will be located on a site long owned by the Company on the Mobile River 22 miles north of Mobile near the station on the Southern Railroad known as Salco. At this site, which affords ample water for condensing purposes, exploratory drilling to determine suitability for foundations have been underway for some months. Homes will be built as needed to house the plant operating personnel, and the necessary high-voltage transmission lines and substations, will be constructed to connect the new plant with the Company's existing transmission system. It is expected that most of the workers required for the construction of the new plant will be obtained from the Mobile area. The ground-breaking ceremony is planned for July 20th.

Mr. Martin stated that the Company's board of directors had decided to name the new power plant at Salco the Barry Steam Plant in honor of the Company's president, who has spent almost his entire business career with the Company and who has actively been identified with the economic development of the area served by the Company.

When the two units of the Barry Steam Plant have been installed, the total generating capacity in the Mobile area will be three times as great as at present. The Company now has three units, of 40,000 kilowatts each, installed in its Chickasaw plant, so that on completion of the new plant the Company will have in the Mobile area, to serve that area and South Alabama, 370,000 kilowatts of modern efficient steam plant capacity; in addition to the high voltage lines from its hydro-plants on the Coosa and Tallapoosa Rivers in central Alabama.

The total capacity of the Company's generating plants, when the present construction program is completed, will be 1,385,000 kilowatts, an increase of 806,000 kilowatts over the capacity in service in 1940.

"Our decision to build this large new power plant in the Mobile area, following closely the installation of 395,000 kilowatts of new steam and hydro generating capacity at the Gorgas and Gadsden Steam Plants and at Mitchell and Martin Dams, is evidence of our faith in the continued growth of Mobile and South Alabama, and a further indication of our determination always to have ample power available throughout our service area in advance of the need. It is expected that the power produced by the new Barry Steam Plant will be used in part by industries closely related to salt and oil and their by-products and as another important source of power for South Alabama. The expansion in the salt and oil fields also will lead to further development in related fields, as well as in commercial and other activities in the area."

Mr. Martin recalled that in 1925 when Alabama Power Company acquired the Mobile Electric Company, total annual sales of electric power in what is now the Company's Mobile Division were approximately $9 million kilowatt hours. For 1950, the use within the Division was 576 million kilowatt hours, or nearly 20 times as much.

"We are beginning to see all over Alabama the fruits of many years of effort to stimulate nation-wide interest in Alabama and the South as a good place to work and live. Much of this interest centers in South Alabama by reason of the great importance of our pine forests as well as more recent discoveries of oil and salt. All of these efforts, however, would be of little value without the progressive, energetic spirit of the people in the area. In my judgment," Mr. Martin said, "the development of the immediate future are just a small indication of what we may expect in the next ten or fifteen years."

To remove dust from upholstered furniture, cover the surface with a large, heavy turkish towel wrung out of water to which a tablespoon of ammonia has been added. Beat with a carpet beater and most of the dust will adhere to the towel, which is then easily removed.

William Lowndes Yancey, who was probably Alabama's most outstanding political figure during the 1850's, was editor of a rather influential paper, the Wetumpka Argus, at Wetumpka.

When Hernando deSoto crossed the country that is now Alabama, he is said to have the Indians keeping penned turkey flocks numbering thousands. The Indians had trapped the birds while very young and raised them in captivity because of the extreme wariness of the older fowls.

THE RAILROAD MONOPOLY

The Railroad Monopoly, written by John G. Shott, puts together the details of an important story which has not been previously told. The book contains an analysis of the underlying economic forces which for more than two generations have interfered with the economic development of the South. The southern reader will obtain from the book a better understanding of this long-standing problem.

A major part of the book is devoted to the issues developed by the State of Georgia in the Supreme Court action brought by that state against the Pennsylvania and other northern railroads in Georgia v. The Pennsylvania R. R. et al. The complete text of the Georgia Complaint is made available for the first time. (Pages 194-207.) The State of Georgia listed detailed charges of coercion and discrimination by the northern railroads against the shippers of products of the South. The book contains a careful digest of the principal instances set forth in the Georgia brief to support the charges against the northern railroads along with the revealing replies of the latter. (Pages 231-237.) The northern railroads admit, in specific instances, that they have blocked the entry of goods manufactured in the South into the great northern consuming markets at the same mile-for-mile rates enjoyed by northern producers when shipping the same or similar classes of products over equal distances in the North.

The admission by northern railroads in their reply brief that higher rates are imposed on the products of southern industry gives an effective answer, once and for all, to their ridiculous denials over many years that such discriminatory practices exist.

The book contains a similar discussion of the case brought by the Federal Government in the United States v. The Association of American Railroads et al. The Federal Government complaint is reprinted in full. Against the northern interests were charged with discriminatory rate and other practices which has impeded the industrial development of the West for years.

The two Federal court actions were instituted under the Sherman anti-trust law. But just as the northern railroads blocked industrial development of the South and West, so did they block the court actions by a tremendous legislative maneuver. They brought to bear the powerful influence of a vast lobby on the 80th Congress and in 1948 secured, through the Reed-Bulwinkle Act, an exemption from the anti-trust laws. The book quotes from Senator Russell who said that "the railroads through the vast machinery of their organization" had their speakers appear before the small town civic clubs and spoke to members "who have no detailed information on the most complicated thing in our economy today, who do not understand even the impact of that structure (the Reed-Bulwinkle Act) upon their community and the business which they operate."

Part II of the book thoroughly discusses the machinery of the railroad lobby, its component organizations, its sources of support and activities. It is a distinct contribution to the literature on lobby activities and leaves no doubt in the reader's mind of the magnitude and financial power of the forces that secured statutory exemption from the Sherman Act for the railroad industry.

The author, John G. Shott, is an economist with the Public Affairs Institute and was formerly economist to the Senate Small Business Committee and in various government agencies. The Railroad Monopoly is carefully indexed and completely documented. The cloth covered edition of the book is $3.00; paper cover $2.00. Copies may be obtained from the Public Affairs Institute, 312 Pa. Ave., S.E., Wash. 3, D. C.

FIGHT COTTON INSECTS

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan has called upon cotton producers to make an all-out fight against the boll weevil and other cotton insects this year in an effort to produce a 16-million bale crop. The Secretary points out that insects took a toll of some 3,000,000 bales last year.

JULY "BEEF"!

START SEEDBEDS FOR FALL-SEEDED CROPS

Auburn, Ala. — An early start on seedbed preparation is a very important factor in the establishment, growth, and success of many fall-seeded crops, according to D. R. Harbor, A.F.L. Extension Service agronomist.

An example of the importance of land preparation comes from the results of a survey of clover-grass permanent pastures made several years ago. The survey showed that good land preparation was about as important as the proper use of lime and fertilizer and the planting of a good seed mixture.

"And," says Harbor, "right now is the time to start seedbed preparation for a large number of crops to be planted this fall. These crops include clover-grass permanent pastures, alfalfa, crimson clover seeded alone or in a mixture with small grains or eye-grass, solid seeded white clover, and small seeded clovers and legumes which will furnish early grazing this winter."

Here are the big advantages of preparing an early seedbed. Grass and weeds will be killed, and soil moisture will be built up so plants can withstand the droughts we usually have in the fall. The plants also make good growth before cold weather comes, and last but not least, they make enough growth to provide winter grazing.

When making a cake, break the eggs into the measuring cups, then pour them into another container. Measure the fat in this same cup. This prevents the lard from sticking to the cup.

Dr. Dearing spent considerable time in this state in the late 1930's on a cooperative tuberculosis study carried on by the U. S. Public Health Service and the State Department of Health.

NO EPIDEMIC LIKELY WITH MODERN VACCINES

Montgomery, Ala. — Anything like a repetition of the World War I influenza epidemic, which killed 5,446 Alabamians in 1918 alone, is most unlikely, according to information received by the State Department of Health from the U. S. Public Health Service.

The announcement told of "successful results" of a "trial run" to determine how quickly a vaccine might be produced in sufficient quantity to help prevent nationwide epidemics of especially virulent strains of influenza virus.

Dr. W. Palmer Dearing, Acting Surgeon General of the U. S. Public Health Service and one-time resident of Alabama, explained how an influenza virus strain, shown as A-grime strain, was flown from England last January and sent to six pharmaceutical manufacturers who had agreed to produce the "trial run" vaccine at their own expense. One form produced 1,000 doses of vaccine in 22 days. Another did so in 23 days. The longest time required by any of the six firms was 63 days. "Hither-to six months to a year would have been needed for such preparation," the announcement stated.

The statement quoted Dr. Dearing as declaring that, on the basis of preliminary estimates, one laboratory could produce 1,000,000 or more doses of influenza vaccine within five weeks. "Theoretically," the statement declared, "this means that a large number of laboratories could produce enough vaccine in short enough time to meet the immunization needs of this country if threatened by the spread of dangerous type of influenza from abroad. In the event of a new and virulent type of influenza originating in this country, the vaccine could probably be made in time to minimize its effects in large segments of the population."

Dr. Dearing spent considerable time in this state in the late 1930's on a cooperative tuberculosis study carried on by the U. S. Public Health Service and the State Department of Health.

MAGAZINE FINDS 'TYPICAL' AMERICAN THINKS HE IS NOT 'TYPICAL' AT ALL

Do you have 1.6 children or own 3 of an automobile?

Probably not many can qualify as to the foregoing, but anyway, that's the status in which the typical American family finds itself.

And, according to the current issue of the American Magazine, most "Typical" Americans don't consider themselves as such. That's why the magazine sent Roul Tunley, one of its top writers, to Terre Haute, Ind., city nearest the center of population, recently to find the typical American family.

Bob Simmons, 34 production planner for the Quaker Maid Company, subsidiary of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, his attractive wife, Margaret, and their two sons, Steve and Phillip, were selected as the most typical of American families.

"Mine is not the typical American Family," was Simmons' first reaction to having the label pinned on him.

That was what Tunley was looking for, because he says:

"The most typical thing about an American is that he doesn't consider himself 'typical anything'."

Simmons' job pays him $4,000 a year and he is charged with planning the amount of spaghetti, or mayonnaise, or peanut butter, that will be produced in the A & P factory the next day or the next week. He lives in a $10,500, yellow-brick, two-story home which was purchased a year ago with the help of a GI loan. The payments are $65 a month.

All-in-all, he fits statistics compiled by statisticians pretty well (the latter say the average American family has 1.6 children). But Simmons, like other Americans, doesn't want to be chopped into any statistical slot. The article tells how he lives, works and plays.

Typically, too Bob Simmons' wife provided the answer to the typical question about success.

"Funny," she said, "but success is something you work for and you don't always know when you have it. Take us, for example. In lots of ways we have it right now. Nothing very great ever happens to us and nothing very bad. And I don't want it to. I find lots to gripe about, of course, but it doesn't really amount to a hill of beans."

With the first breath of its new life the American Republic officially declared in 1776:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights; that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed"

"Here is the distilled essence of Americanism, as stated in the first official document of the new United States of America, The Declaration of Independence. These are the eternal principles upon which our Puritans, Cavaliers, Catholics, Protestants, Jews, Gentiles, French, Germans, Dutch, Swedes, Scotch, Irish, and others, came together on a permanent and peaceful basis. Because each of them was equal before God, all of these people were made equal before the law of the land. Because their rights were bestowed by their Heavenly Creator, no power on earth could take those rights away. Since God had created each of us as individuals with personal and immortal destinies, no despotic man, majority or government could hereafter treat or regard any of us as a mere indistinguishable cipher in a collective mass.

"Despotism never advertises itself as such. Invariably it is a wolf in sheep's clothing. By its own self definition it may label itself 'democratic,' 'progressive,' 'liberal,' 'humanitarian,' or 'fraternal.' Those who oppose it will be called reactionaries, fascists and other currently 'bad names.' It is not by its name, therefore, that you shall know despotism, but by what it proposes to do. Whenever relaxation of existing limitations upon the power of government is suggested, you are upon notice that your liberty is threatened. Unless you counterattack swiftly and sharply you are likely to find, too late, that your freedom has been lost.

"State despotism or absolutism is no respecter of persons or of places. It can and does raise its ugly, un-Godly standard over the traditionally free soil of England with the same brash assurance that characterizes its sway in communist Russia. Always and everywhere, it is at war with the free God-given nature of man. For that reason alone, it cannot be justified by any of its real, pretended or promised benefits. It is out to destroy man and consequently, man must destroy it in self-defense.

"The all-powerful Despotic State has definite designs upon the one place on earth where effective resistance to it was conceived, established and justified in practice. That one place is America. The formula for effective resistance is:

continuous, strict and closely guarded limitations upon the power of government.

"Thus, as a good American, you believe that:

1. God is the Creator of all men;
2. Your rights, and the rights of your fellow-men, are God-given, and for that reason alone no power on earth can take those rights away;
3. As a personal creature of God, each of us is equal in the sight of God to every other person, and for that reason each of us is entitled to the equal protection of all the laws of the land.

Government is not man's master: On the contrary, government is man's servant, chosen by man to protect the God-given rights of mankind.

"Upon the firm foundation of these truths, the glory and prosperity of our beloved country has risen steadily through the years as the crowning wonder of the world. These truths have made America great. Only these truths can keep America great. To preserve the blessings of liberty for yourself and your posterity and to perpetuate the celebration of this great American 4th of July Anniversary—HOLD THESE TRUTHS!"

CHILTON COUNTY WILL PAY $762,450.00 IN TAXES IF PROPOSED BILL PASSES

Taxpayers of Chilton County would be responsible for approximately $762,450.00 for the 1951-52 fiscal year if the Federal government's proposed $8,500,000,000 foreign aid spending program is adopted by the Congress, James L. Rankin, Decatur, Alabama State Chamber of Commerce president, said in Montgomery today.

Alabama's share of the proposed whopping foreign aid bill is $97,750,000, Rankin continued. "This is more money than the State of Alabama proposes to spend for education for each of the next two years," he added, "including the revenue for the recently enacted sales tax increase. A total of 72 and a half million dollars is the expected cost of Alabama's schools, for each of the next two years, while the President is asking Congress for considerably more than that as Alabama's share of this proposed foreign aid plan."

A great deal of public interest has been aroused in Alabama over the proposed sales tax increase, yet Mr. Truman is proposing to take out of the State every year more than the combined income from Alabama's four major revenue producers — the sales tax, gasoline tax, income tax and ABC store profits. Yet this Presidential proposal has stirred little interest in the State.

All State tax revenue last year totaled only 116 million dollars, 19 million dollars more than the Federal bill proposed for foreign aid for a single year. Alabama could pay the principal and interest on the entire State debt at maturity and still have 44 million dollars left to build roads for what this proposed foreign aid program would cost.

With the $97,750,000 every city in Alabama could operate for six years without levying any taxes and every county in the State could run nearly nine years with no tax collections.

While the Federal government continues to reach down and collect larger tax bites, financing state and local government becomes more difficult. "Every Federal spending proposal saps at the grassroots of our economy," Rankin said. "Is a foreign aid program of eight and a half billion dollars necessary? Can we afford such a recurrent foreign aid program of indefinite duration? Are the cost estimates reliable and realistic? Does the proposal contain sufficient safeguards to insure that the money will be spent with maximum effectiveness?"

The answers to these questions, Rankin added, should be diligently sought.

KNOW HOW TO KEEP ALUMINUM BRIGHT?

When washing aluminum, use mild, pure soap or soapless suds, then rinse and wipe dry.

Stella Mitchell, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist, states that if the inside of an aluminum pan is dark, it's easy to brighten by filling with water, adding a little vinegar or cream of tartar and heating a few minutes.

"Another way aluminum may be brightened," says the specialist, "is to cook mildly acid foods like rhubarb, tomatoes, tart apples, or sour milk. This does not harm the food for eating."

FORMER ARMY CARETAKER NOW AT FORT JACKSON

Fort Jackson, S. C. — Former caretaker for the army in Clanton, Sergeant Arthur C. Henley, is now serving with the Dixie Division here. The Sergeant is a member of Company B of the 16th Infantry. He has been a member of the National Guard since 1947. During three years Henley has missed only three meetings. During his time in the army he recruited the five officers in the company now.

Henley spent the last war in the Air Corps. He was in Italy with the 15th Air Force and also attended the Aircraft Engine School, at Kessler Field, Miss.

The former caretaker is married and has one daughter, age five. Both are living in nearby Columbia.

JULY 25 STOP DATE FOR TRAINING

The deadline for starting GI Bill training for most World War II veterans is less than one month away, on July 25, Veterans Administration today reminded veterans.

The July 25 date applies to the vast majority of World War II veterans—those discharged before July 25, 1947, Harley A. Smith, Alabama Regional Office Manager of the VA, said. Veterans discharged afterwards may begin their GI training within four years from the time they left the service.

A veteran actually must be in training by the cut-off date if he wants to continue his studies, Smith emphasized. A mere application for training, filed before the cut-off date, will not do.

VA, however, considers a veteran to be in training, even though he has temporarily interrupted his course for reasons beyond his control. The summer vacation is one such reason. Another would be the case of a veteran who had once started a course and now cannot resume it because he has returned to active military duty.

The VA Manager outlined the conditions veterans must meet for post-cut-off date training:

They will be expected to pursue their training continuously until completion, except for conditions which normally would cause interruption by any student.

They may change their educational objective only while in training, and then for reasons satisfactory to VA. And once they complete or discontinue their program of training after the cut-off date, they may not start another.

MITE INFESTATIONS IN BROILER AREAS

Serious infestations of mites have been found in broiler producing areas in the state, reports John Weeks, A. P.I. Extension Service poultry specialist.

He warns that wherever these mites are found they should be brought under control immediately by the application of two pounds of sulphur for each one hundred square feet of floor space. The sulphur should be broadcast on the litter and raked in.

If mites are discovered when house is being cleaned or when no broilers are in the house, the lower parts of walls, foundation, and all stationary equipment should be sprayed with equal parts of burned motor oil and kerosene. Then add two pounds of sulphur to the litter on each one hundred square feet of floor space.

CHILTON COUNTY ASKED TO HELP RECOVER IDLE SCRAP METAL

Farmers, industrial leaders and owners of automobile "graveyards" of Chilton County were asked by the Federal Government this week to co-operate in relieving the present nationwide shortage of scrap supplies at steel mills so that the national program of rearmament could be carried out.

A concerted effort in ferreting out scrap steel and iron from plants, warehouses and other industrial centers, from farms and from automobile "graveyards" and getting it moved into market channels to save the nation from a grave shortage at this time was requested in an appeal received here from Merrell C. Lofton, southeastern regional director of the U. S. Department of Commerce in Atlanta.

Inventories of scrap iron and steel at the nation's 200 mills and foundries are "dangerously low," Mr. Lofton stated, and unless scrap supplies are appreciably expanded within the next four months the steel production program faces a serious crippling threat. "Without sufficient supplies of scrap steel, which is essential to the production of new steel, a lag in the steel program would affect not only defense and defense-supporting industries, but would limit production of civilian consumer goods such as automobiles, refrigerators and stoves," he added.

As evidence of the seriousness of the situation, the Commerce Department official pointed to the fact that two large producers recently were operating with less than a two-day supply of scrap and that most other mills have less than a two-week supply compared with a normal 60-day or larger inventory.

The present consumption of scrap steel is the highest in history, Mr. Lofton said, even higher than in the peak years of World War II. The highest wartime consumption was 24 1/2 million tons a year. Last year, 22 1/2 million tons were used, and this year the consumption is expected to rise to 32 1/2 million tons or more, an increase over 1950 of at least 3 million tons, he said.

Chilton Countians can help in this worthy campaign by "spotting" any scrap metal that may be lying around and getting in touch with the nearest scrap dealer so that it can be moved to market and thence to the steel mills which need it very badly," Mr. Lofton said. "It will find its way eventually into some weapon of defense, or some defense-supporting instrument which will help us in our present fight against the aggression of communism."

CHRYSLER NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING EFFECTIVE

Because of the effectiveness of the newspaper advertising campaigns during the first half of 1951 Chrysler will use more than 3,000 newspapers to carry its July sales message to the public, reports John H. Caron, Director of Advertising, Chrysler Division, Chrysler Corporation.

Representing a combined circulation of over 51,000,000, the newspaper list was drawn up to obtain maximum circulation penetration into the more than 3,000 counties in the United States that are served by Chrysler dealers.

"The effectiveness of our hard-hitting advertising program has helped build public acceptance so thoroughly that Chrysler dealers at present have about 35,000 firm orders for our Fire-Power V-8 models," Caron reported. "In fact Chrysler dealers in some cities are being forced to return deposits because they have been unable to supply demand."

Caron said that both new and used car stocks of Chrysler dealers are well below normal, a condition which he declared was largely due to the effectiveness of the advertising program.

"Our advertising has been concentrated on educating the public to the advantages inherent in the new 180 horsepower Fire-Power V-8 engine, explaining him this engine's designed-in 'mechanical overtones' make regular grade gas by what premium gases can't do in any other engine you can drive today," Caron said.

The advertising is prepared and released by McCann-Erickson, Inc., Chrysler's national advertising agency.

HARVESTING AT THE RIGHT STAGE PAYS

Proper harvesting of tomatoes, cucumbers, and other truck crops can be important in determining the returns a farmer receives for his products.

John Bagby, A.P.I. Extension Service horticulturist, says those products that are left on the vines too long may be worthless by the next picking.

Too Many Home Casualties

EACH day the papers publish new lists of the growing numbers of casualties among American boys fighting in Korea. These lists frequently carry the names of Alabama boys who have been maimed, injured, or killed in the conflict.

Most of the people of the state are keenly aware of the terrible losses in this war that isn't a war—but few are aware of the daily casualty list in the homes and on the farms of the state.

For the past few years the last week in July has been designated as National Farm Safety Week. The purpose of this week is to impress on every farm family the tragic farm accident toll and to point out measures that can be used to cut the number of accidents.

One out of every 10 farmers will suffer some disabling injury in 1951 unless the past record is improved. During the dinner hour every day two farm residents will be accidentally killed and 205 will be injured. The National Safety Council presents these figures based on past records—this record must be changed.

Farm safety is a family affair because each member usually takes some part in the farming operations. To help cut the annual number of accidents, each member of every farm family should learn the following things:

1. Where the danger spots are at home, on the farm, and on the highway.
2. What each can do to make these spots as safe as is humanly possible.
3. That carelessness on the part of any member of the family endangers the life and happiness of all.

PIG PRODUCER—Four years ago Joe Campbell, 13-year-old member of the Kilpatrick 4-H Club, grew out a ton litter of pigs for the DeKalb County Hog Show. Joe did an excellent job with his project and was rewarded for his work with a registered Hampshire gilt.

That was all of the help Joe needed. He carried his gilt home, and he's been in the business in a big way ever since. Joe says most of the success he's had in raising good big litters of pigs is due to the good green grazing and home-grown corn he feeds them.

Last spring Joe entered a pen-of-three pigs in the county show, and he again came off with one of the top prizes—this time a Duroc gilt. Joe is going to try his hand at producing a few red hogs now, but he still plans to stay in the Hampshire business also.

Their Club Away From School

Each year when school turns out, hundreds of 4-H Club boys and girls form small 4-H neighborhood clubs and carry on their monthly club meetings.

The group shown at right is one of several summertime clubs that have been formed in Blount County. They call themselves the Straight Mountain Neighbors 4-H Club and they meet each month at the home of one of the club's 27 members. The Tait's Gap Home Demonstration Club sponsors this group. Local leaders for the club are Mrs. Julian Conn, Oneonta, Rt. 2; Mrs. Herbert Brothers, Oneonta, Rt. 4; Mrs. C. E. Hudson and Mrs. Herbert Gargas, Oneonta, Rt. 2.

Hoe Time--Sew Time

OUTSIDE work and inside work—Bobby Jean Wilson, of the Cropwell 4-H Club, is a busy girl. Gardening, sewing, and cooking consume her time. The St. Clair County youngster says she had a hard time finding time to hoe her garden until she set aside a definite time to work with her vegetables. She finally declared late afternoon "Hoe Time," and that's when she fights the weeds.

Bobby Jean's inside specialty is sewing, and this summer she has already completed two aprons, a stack of pot-holders and dish towels, and a skirt and blouse. She also cooks a fancy dish or two each Sunday to keep up with her foods project.

Bobby Jean is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Wilson of Cropwell.

Lauderdale Farmer Named To State PMA Committee

JOHN B. McCURE, of Florence, has been named to the state committee of the Production and Marketing Administration.

The appointment, made by Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan, was recently announced by W. B. Crawley, chairman of the state PMA committee.

McCure, a Lauderdale County farmer and business man, has been connected with PMA and its forerunner, AAA, since the program began in 1933. He was community and county committeeman, then served on the state committee in 1936-37, and later was state administrative officer for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

Dairymen Make Plans For Fall Artificial Breeding Season

THE 10 counties in the Alabama Artificial Breeding Association are at work this month on plans for the fall dairy herd breeding season.

The state association was reorganized at a state-wide meeting in Auburn a short time ago, and dairymen who attended the meeting went home with the conviction that better dairying in Alabama is to a large extent dependent on the improvement of the average cow in the average herd. To get this improved cow, the association urges all dairymen to take advantage of the good breeding available through the artificial breeding bull stud at Auburn.

Any producer in any county that has an artificial breeding association can get the service of top quality bulls by contacting the county association technician. Breeding associations are located in Calhoun, Chambers, Lee, Baldwin, Mobile, Morgan, Tallapoosa, Montgomery, Limestone, and Cullman Counties.

Officers of the state association are Louie Glenn, Decatur, president; Aubrey Abram, Ohatchee, vice-president; Jimmie Farnell, Mobile, secretary, and John L. Whatley, Opelika, chairman of the legislative committee.

Members of the executive committee are T. S. Acker, Ohatchee, Rt. 1; Dawson Day, Five Points; R. H. Slaton, Loachapoka; J. W. Clark, Robertsdale; J. M. Sturtevant, Whistler, Rt. 8; Ted Poole, Decatur, Rt. 1; J. D. Ford, Alexander City; Joe Hall, Montgomery, and Charlie King, Athens.

Alabama's Best Crop

Four top Alabama 4-H Club members who represented the 126,000 4-H'ers in the state at Washington during the National 4-H Club Camp are shown at right. They are, left to right, Jean Stancil, Toney, Rt. 1; Jack Nichols, Coffee Springs, Rt. 2; Janice Crenshaw, Fort Deposit, and Terrell Guthrie, Jasper, Rt. 5. All of these club members have made outstanding records in leadership and project achievement, and all of them have been 4-H members since they were 10 years old. During this time they have completed numerous projects and have made outstanding achievements in leadership.

Janice Crenshaw has held every office in her local club. She is the Lowndes County 4-H Council president, and she is secretary of the State 4-H Club Council. This spring she was named Good Citizenship Girl for Alabama by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Jean Stancil has been a leader in Madison during all of her eight years of club work. Some of her talents are singing, public speaking, and parliamentary procedure.

Jack Nichols has served as county council president and is now the state 4-H treasurer. He is a capable leader and has made outstanding records in 4-H project work.

Terrell Guthrie has made his mark in almost every kind of farm activity from growing pheasants to raising chickens, hogs, and beef cattle. Also Terrell showed the champion shorthorn calf at the Birmingham Fat Stock Show this year.

These four farm youngsters attended the National 4-H Club Camp in the nation's capital June 13 through 20.

For Temporary Grazing Sow Some Sudan Grass

By J. C. LOWERY
A.P.I. Extension Agronomist

SUDAN grass may be just the crop for many farmers who need some temporary grazing to tide them over during the next few months when grazing is getting short in the pasture. It can be planted in June and early July in most of the state.

Sudan grass is a plant that looks much like Johnson grass, but it will not become a pest like Johnson grass. You must sow sudan seed every year because it is an annual plant and will not volunteer back on the land.

Sudan does best on fertile soil. It should be started on well prepared soil that has been fertilized with at least 200 to 300 pounds of 5-10-5 or 4-10-7. The crop should be top dressed with nitrate just as soon as the plants have started to grow. You may follow a good crop of winter legumes with sudan.

When broadcasting the seed, use about 25 pounds per acre. Seven to 10 pounds should be used when drilling the seed. Some farmers prefer seeding sudan in narrow rows to avoid tramping by livestock while grazing. It is a good plan to have several areas of sudan so livestock can be moved to new areas when the plants are grazed down to six inches in height. Wait until the plants are 18 to 20 inches high before turning cattle on to start grazing. Never graze stunted sudan grass.

Dairymen in particular, will find sudan grass a life saver for summer grazing when pastures are low.

NEW SEED PLANT—Members of the Green Brier Crop Improvement Association in Limestone County are going all out to process and handle good cottonseed. Forty members of the one-variety cotton community are now growing 5,000 acres of Stoneville 2-B.

Their new seed treating plant, shown at left above, will be one of the most modern in the state. Storage capacity will be about 2,000 tons, and equipment being installed in the new plant can clean and treat 40 tons of cottonseed a day.

Assistant County Agent C. R. Morrow, left, and Joe Bob Elliott, of Athens, are shown at right checking on the ventilating system that will be used in the new plant. The system will consist of a network of small ventilating pipes which will carry air to all parts of the building. Large exhaust fans will force the air through the pipes and up through the seed.

Along the Way

DIRECTOR, APL EXTENSION SERVICE

IN Covington, Coffee and Crenshaw Counties 644 farms and farm homes that don't have electricity will have it in the near future. Manager Basil Thompson of the Covington Electric Cooperative announced that 225 miles of electric power lines will be erected. A loan of $508,000 has been provided by the Rural Electrification Administration for this. It's all thrilling news.

Nothing means more to a farm home than electric service. No one who has not had it can appreciate it until it's available. So, we salute this cooperative, and we congratulate the farmers who are to be served.

FARM POWER

If you were farming in most places in the world your power would be an animal—either a horse, a mule, a cow, or a buffalo—because 85 per cent of the farm power of the world is animal power. For millions of people it's human power.

But here in the United States more than 80 per cent of all farm power is mechanical power. It's either tractors or trucks. This is one reason why fewer than one-fifth of the people in the United States on farms continue to produce enough food, enough fat, and enough fiber for all the people of the United States, plus more to go abroad.

Twenty years ago (1930) there were only 920,000 tractors in the United States. There are now nearly four million—an increase of 500,000 per year, 12,500 per month, about 500 for each working day the last twenty years. Only a great nation can do this.

SUCCESS STORY

Fourteen years ago Lum Cummings of Franklin County, Alabama, became a UTD farmer with 80 acres in his farm. He was then a row-crop farmer with 26 acres in cotton. Corn and soybeans were his other crops.

His ambition was to own and operate a cattle farm. So he and his county agent planned his farm to test the use of TVA fertilizers on pasture crops. He needed feed before cattle.

Success was his from the beginning. With high production of feed in the form of grazing he became a breeder of Hereford cattle. His success is proven by the fact that he has sold one bull for $10,000; and he was offered much more than this for his present herd bull.

Mr. Cummings and his son, Lawrence, try to use all of their land in the best possible way. Most of it, of course, is used in making grazing for cattle. And their land grows richer each year.

SAFETY ON THE FARM

Danger lurks more and in more places on farms with more machines, more power, more gadgets, more of other things to kill or injure people. In recent years accidents on farms have caused about 18,000 deaths and disabling injuries to 1,500,000. And the number is increasing.

But a big majority of these accidents would be avoided with more care, more forethought, better planning. Carelessness is the No. 1 cause.

It's through power and machines that people on U. S. farms are able to produce more each year. This is fortunate. It's progress in the right direction, but still it challenges each person to be careful. Otherwise, someone may be killed or injured or much property damaged or destroyed.

F. H. Cameron is shown at right above with County Agent James Moore looking over part of the producer's herd of commercial beef cattle. "Strict culling and good big bulls play a bigger part in the cattle business than many farmers realize," says Cameron.

No Magic Formula

Good Grazing And Good Cattle Make Beef Business Pay

GOOD grazing, big bulls, and strict herd culling—these three items pretty well spell success on any beef cattle farm.

The sprawling 475-acre Bullock County farm of F. H. Cameron is no exception.

An even dozen years ago Cameron launched his ambitious program of building one of the best commercial beef herds in this section of Alabama. Today he's not far from his goal.

When Cameron began his beef program, he first took a good look at the land that was to feed his cattle. What he saw was anything but heartening. Gullies deep enough to hide a steer streaked the farm, fences were scarce and broken, and the few patches of grasses and legumes fairly cried for fertilizers.

Like many another smart cattleman, Cameron knew he must build his farm as he built his herd. Earth-moving equipment began filling the ditches. New, shiny barbed wire went upon treated fence posts. Fertilizers and seed went into well-prepared seedbeds.

There was no magic in the making of this farm. Cameron used money from one bunch of steers to get this field in shape, cash from another few animals to fence that pasture.

But the farmer and County Agent James Moore, who worked with him, could see each fall more acres of green grazing and each spring more permanent pastures.

At the same time, Cameron gathered better bulls—big, rangy animals that sired big calves. Slow breeders, poor milkers, and other unsatisfactory cows were taken from the herd and marketed. The most promising heifers took their places.

Cameron, a unit test demonstration farmer, now has good grazing on practically every acre of his farm, with the exception of a 90-acre block of woodland. White Dutch clover and Dallis grass fill the permanent pastures. Sericea in summer and oats, ryegrass, and crimson clover in winter help keep grazing a year around business.

Last winter's freezes that wiped out most of his grazing crops caused Cameron to buy his first feed in 12 years. That record, explains the cattleman, is possible only when farmers keep their grazing program well ahead of their herd building program.

Twelve Ways To Prevent Farm Home Accidents

HAVE poisons clearly marked and keep in high, out-of-way places.

Read labels on medicine bottles before using.

Use flammable cleaning fluids outside only.

Keep matches out of reach of children.

Have regular places for tools and toys.

Keep halls and stairs well lighted and free from brooms, boxes, mops, toys, and other tripping hazards.

Have stairs and steps in good repair and equipped with handrails.

On basement stairs paint the top and bottom steps white.

Discard frayed and unsafe electrical cords.

When using a sharp knife, cut away from you.

Turn handles of cooking utensils toward the back of the stove.

Fall Dairy Show Dates

FOUR-H Club and FFA members along with dairymen in all parts of the state will soon be grooming their best heifers, bulls, and cows for the coming dairy show season.

For the winning state 4-H Club and FFA judging teams there will be a free trip to the International Dairy Exposition at Indianapolis, Indiana. The best 4-H Club showmanship winner will receive a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress, and the top FFA showman will attend the national FFA convention in Kansas City, Missouri.

Dates for the district dairy shows are August 23-24, Fayette, and September shows will be held in Gadsden, 4-5; Decatur, 6-7; Demopolis, 13-14; Mobile, 18-19; Montgomery, 20-21; and Dadeville, 21-22.

The state dairy show will be held in Birmingham, October 1-6. An added feature at this big show will be the extra competition in the open division of the show. For the first time this part of the show will be open to the world, and dairy cattle breeders from many states are expected to join in the contest.

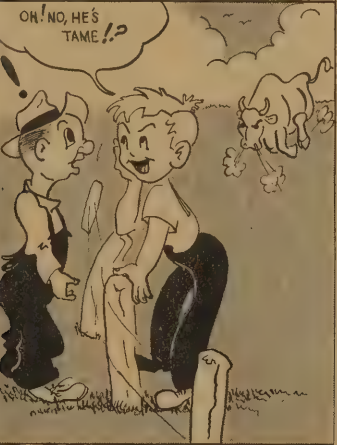

(Note—adult entries for the state show must be in the hands of S. Ross Smith, cattle superintendent, Alabama State Fair, Birmingham, by September 15. The entry fee for each animal shown by an adult is two dollars.)

SPRING GRADUATES—These hogs went to finishing school on white clover and corn on the farm of P. H. Yarbrough, of Albertville, Rt. 3. And when they graduated last month—as tops in a class of No. 1's—they brought the Marshall County farmer a diploma-like check that more than paid the hogs' tuition.

Yarbrough tops out around 60 hogs every year, and his success comes from a good feed program—one that contains corn for hogging from July to April and clover or alfalfa for grazing every day in the year.

Timber owners should contact several mill men before selling their forest crop. Often sawmills 30-40 miles from the timber will bid. Producers should not depend entirely on the market in their immediate vicinity. Competitive bidding will run the stumpage price up to the highest market price.

What's Wrong Here?

Spiraling Food Costs

Increasing The Value Of Farm Gardens

L. M. WARE, Horticulturist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

PRODUCTION of adequate vegetables in the farm garden to supply the needs of farm families is always important. It becomes, however, of increasing importance as food prices increase. Farm gardens are failing to produce by a considerable amount the vegetables required by the farm family.

A number of studies have been made to determine the extent of and some of the causes of failure in gardens. Studies in Alabama revealed that farm gardens, while providing adequate quantities of potatoes and leafy crops, were providing only 40 per cent of the dried beans, peas, and nuts, only 59 per cent of the tomatoes (also citrus), and only 36 per cent of the other vegetables required in a minimum diet.

Another study revealed that 500 per cent of the families did not use over 500 pounds of commercial fertilizers per acre on their gardens, 60 per cent of the farmers used no manure or less than three tons per acre, and at least 54 per cent of the farmers put less time on the garden than is believed necessary to obtain satisfactory production. Many farmers failed to follow an adequate disease and insect control schedule.

Studies with a large number of vegetable crops over a period of years at the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station showed an average increase in yield of 2,629 pounds per acre when the fertilizer was increased from 500 to 1,000 pounds per acre. When only 500 pounds per acre of fertilizer had been applied, the addition of organic materials (two tons of dried sericea straw and six tons of green crotalaria were used in this experiment) gave an average increase in yield of 4,655 pounds per acre. The addition of an extra 500 pounds per acre of fertilizer, or a total of 1,000 pounds, and organic materials resulted in an increase in yield of 6,758 pounds per acre. Irrigation increased the yield another 2,752 pounds, making the total increase in yield from the three practices 9,510 pounds of vegetables per acre.

The addition of the extra 500 pounds per acre of fertilizer, organic materials, and irrigation gave increases in individual crop yields of 111 bushels of beans, 19,630 pounds of cabbage, 15,440 pounds of lettuce, 43 bushels of lima beans, 149 bushels of potatoes, 183 bushels of sweetpotatoes, and

Observe National Farm Safety Week July 22-28; Practice Farm Safety Measures All Of The Year

By S. R. DOUGHTY

A farm should be the safest place on earth. Is yours? The chances are that it isn't, but you and your family and workers can make it a safe place to live and work. Living out in the quiet country, away from congested traffic and tall buildings, from the bustle and clang of factory and city commerce, one might conclude that farm folks would just naturally be safe from injury and tragic death. Yet the horrible truth is that every year hundreds of farm men, women, and children are crippled and killed right on their own farms. All of these mishaps are called accidents. Most of them belong under the heading of carelessness.

Practically every farm accident is the result of somebody's carelessness!

When a neighbor fell through the loose and open board floor of the haymow, it was the result of somebody's carelessness—the men who laid that floor knew it was a death trap. The dairyman gored to death by a bull in the cow pasture knew that a thousand other producers paid with their lives for carelessly trusting a bull.

The farm friend who was struck by a truck while crossing the road knew what the road was there for—but he didn't look. The mother who broke her back going down the steps with a bundle of clothes didn't see where she was going either.

The accident rate is much lower in many great industries than on farms because safety is taught and safety rules are rigidly enforced in the plant. Safety is made an important part of the business. The result—accidents are practically unknown in many factories.

On many farms nothing much is said or done about safety. And the results lead to broken arms, cracked skulls, and heart-breaking funerals.

Statistics on accidental deaths in Alabama during 1949 and 1950 are listed below. Home fatalities were next to the highest. A farm and home safety program could cut the loss.

PILES OF POSTS—E. B. Fuller, left, president of the Cahaba Wood Preserving Company, Suttle, and J. A. Bates, assistant county agent, look over a stockpile of fence posts being air cured before treating. The posts must be air dried for two to three months before they will absorb enough treating solution.

PRESERVED PINE—At right W. C. Smith, manager of the Cahaba plant, left, E. B. Fuller, and J. A. Bates, right, examine a load of pine fence posts that have just come out of the preserving vat. The poles have been treated with coal tar creosote in steam heated vats and they should last for 20 years. The Cahaba plant can turn out 2,000 treated posts in a 24-hour period.

Termites Beware

Business Booming At Modern Wood Treating Plant

UP until a few years ago most farmers wouldn't even bother to dig holes for pine fence posts. Usually after one year they were rotted out and had to be replaced.

But treated pine posts now stand up with the best of them, and post treating plants are going up all over the state. One of these modern wood preserving plants is located near Suttle in Perry County. The Cahaba Wood Preserving Company is turning out treated fence posts at the rate of 125,000 a year.

In 1946 the plant was built to treat lumber and construction timbers, but soon the fence post business began to take up most of the capacity. The plant now has two 42-foot treating vats and can turn out 2,000 posts in a 24-hour period. The posts are treated with coal tar creosote under pressure in steam heated vats.

The plant will furnish treated posts ready to be set or will treat the farmer's own posts at a contract price. E. B. Fuller, president of the company, says that so many farmers are asking for treated posts now that they must keep a backlog of several thousand posts on hand at all times. "Poles must be air dried for two or three months in the summer," he says, "or for a longer period of time in the winter and spring."

Peeling and treating is a very simple operation once the posts are in condition to treat. Four mechanical post peelers can skin a pole in a matter of seconds. But this pole must spend several weeks or months drying out to be able to absorb enough of the preservative solution.

The plant still treats a large number of poles for utility companies and heavy duty construction timbers, but now they have added another service for the farmer. They treat lumber and poles to be used in building barns, tool sheds, and cattle corrals.

Many farmers are taking advantage of the custom treating service offered, but many others are setting up small capacity treating plants at home. The result is the same thing—better posts that will withstand many more years of hard service.

Center—V. B. Kinney of Horton, Rt. 2, is shown at center in his new Auburn plan poultry house. The building contains 550 young pullets that are just coming into heavy production. The nest perches in his poultry house are hinged so that he can fold them up at night to prevent the hens from roosting in the nests.

Right—The bucket of eggs Mrs. Kinney is carrying into the storm cellar will be placed on wire racks so they will cool quickly. Egg quality is maintained for a longer period when the eggs are cooled as soon as they are gathered. Many of the producers in the new Sand Mountain egg business are using wire baskets when handling their eggs. The free movement of air through the baskets also speeds up the cooling process. Mrs. Kinney finds the cool cellar an ideal place for egg storage. Trucks from the Coop at Albertville pick up the eggs twice each week.

Another Poultry Industry

Cackling Hens Move In On Broiler Biddies

ALL over Sand Mountain, farmers who never had more than a few yard hens are busy this summer carrying feed out to long low modern poultry houses. They are coming back to the house with wire baskets filled to the brim with large, clean fresh eggs.

This back and forth business is all part of the newest big industry on the mountain—commercial egg production.

The commercial egg industry didn't just spring up. It came about as the result of a meeting at Albertville of the directors of the North Alabama Poultry Cooperative, county agents in the area, local business people, and A. P. I. Extension specialists. This group decided that a commercial egg program should be started, and at a later meeting the directors of the Cooperative employed Campbell Evans, of Albertville, Rt. 5, to serve as fieldman for the new enterprise.

Evans called on local county agents and Extension Poultryman John Weeks to aid him in setting up the program, and plans were made to start marketing eggs in June of 1951.

Local feed dealers and the banks in the area have assisted in financing the project.

In Marshall County, Farm Agent W. L. Martin reveals that more than 55 farmers have grown out flocks of hens for the program. The flocks range in size from 300 to 3,200 birds with the average sized flock around 800 birds.

Fieldman Evans says that the majority of the flocks have been grown out by producers who are new at the business. However, about 20,000 of the 80,000 hens in the program are in the hands of farmers who have had laying flocks for one or more years.

While many of the new egg producers are rookies at the game, County Agent Martin says that most of them have had good success in growing out their birds. V. B. Kinney, of Horton, Rt. 2, is one of the many new egg producers. He started with 1,250 straight run Auburn strain white leghorns and now has 550 laying hens. His pullets went into production at five months and were soon producing at a 80 per cent rate. Kinney keeps records on his birds and reports that when he sold 490 cockerels from his flock they paid for all his feed up to that time.

Another new producer, E. D. Fridmore, of Albertville, Rt. 5, started with 1,000 sexed chicks. He is in the business on halves with Campbell Evans. They plan to have 850 layers in full production in a short time.

The largest producer is Allie Brooks, of Boaz, Rt. 4. He has 1,700 white leghorns and 1,500 Rhode Island Reds. Jessie Bobo, Horton, Rt. 2, has 2,400 chickens and L. C. Collier, Albertville, Rt. 1, has 1,500 pullets.

Other farmers included in the list of commercial egg producers are Butler Cochran, Albertville, Rt. 1; E. E. Jones and Perry Fridmore, Albertville, Rt. 4; M. M. Mabrey, Emmett McCreless, J. R. McCreless, W. C. Burgess, J. A. Foshee, and H. W. Cook, Horton, Rt. 2; L. B. Robinson, James B. Hill, and Wade Cowan, Albertville, Rt. 5; G. A. Harper, Clyde Hood, Jess Ganter, R. C. Adamson, John Hood and Ray Hood, Albertville, Rt. 3; W. L. McCreless, Boaz, Rt. 4, and P. T. Turner, Boaz, Rt. 6.

Hogs--For Winter Cash Crops

WHILE many Jackson County farmers were worrying about the failure they made with cotton last year, one farmer was getting a fine winter harvest. It was a harvest of cash through hogs.

Builder of this winter harvest was Henry Hastings, of the Aspel community. Hastings has been a good hog producer for many years. And he has probably done just as well on many occasions through the years but because he never kept records before, he never knew exactly how well he was doing.

Can hog producers afford to feed $1.60 per bushel corn to thrifty shoats? That is a question that has bothered many farmers for a long time. Mr. Hastings' answer to this question is yes, and he backs his answer with facts and figures.

He had two good sows farrowing last August. They gave birth to 21 pigs and raised 19. A third sow brought six pigs in early October and raised them all. Of the first two litters farrowed, 17 tops weighing a total of 3,155 pounds were sold on February 13. One pig of the first litter was kept for breeding purposes and another pig was sold. The litter of six pigs was also topped out.

The 25 shoats, from birth to tops, consumed 193.6 bushels of corn and 1,825 pounds of 36 per cent supplement. They also had salt and mineral mixture free choice all the time.

The average value of Hastings' hogs when sold was $38.45 per head. The average production cost per head was $16.71. Value of the corn consumed was figured at $1.50 per bushel. After deducting all costs, Hastings found that he had received $4.55 per bushel for every bushel of corn his hogs consumed.

Since the productive life of the average cow in the United States is four years, 25 per cent of the nation's milk producers must be replaced each year. To maintain 100 cows in milk, 25 non-producing two-year-olds, 30 yearlings, and 35 heifer calves should be carried in the herd at all times.

Watermelons may be provided out of season in form of juice, meat, or flesh. Or the entire melon may be frozen and stored to be used later. Based on tests by the horticulture department, it is quite practical, as well as convenient, to package and store the meat of the watermelon in a frozen condition.

STACKED SACKS—The long string of sacks of fertilizer T. L. Gardner is stacking across his field adds up to just one thing—he's planning to grow a big crop of corn—and he is depending on heavy fertilization to help him reach his goal.

Gardner found out the hard way that it also takes good planting seed of a good variety or hybrid to make a good crop. Last year he planted 12 acres with "community corn" seed and averaged only 25 bushels per acre, while another four-acre patch planted with one of the good hybrids produced an average of 60 bushels per acre.

This year the Odenville, Rt. 1, farmer planted 10 acres of Tennessee 10 hybrid corn on land that had a good crop of vetch turned under in this spring. Gardner put 400 pounds of 8-8-4 fertilizer under his corn and side dressed it with 200 pounds of ammonium nitrate. He is planning to market his corn in the way that will bring him the most dollars per bushel—through hogs—and he is going to let them gather it for him.

Broiler Business Grows On Clay County Farms

THE O. R. Williamses, of Goodwater, Rt. 1, recently had a housewarming for 8,000 new visitors on their farm. The guests of honor were the first group of baby chicks for their new broiler house.

O. R. Williams, Jr., and his dad have been growing broilers for quite a few years on a very small scale. This year, however, they decided to step up their output and put chickens on a big business scale.

The first need was adequate housing and equipment for the birds, so they began working on this problem from the ground up. Lumber was cut from the farm, and most of the labor was furnished by the two Clay County farmers. The result of their work was a broiler house, equipped to handle 8,000 birds, and the total cost was $3,000.

After the house was completed, labor-saving devices and good equipment were their next concern. The Williamses decided to begin with automatic kerosene brooders and large watering cans. A little later on when profits from the birds begin to roll in they will add automatic waterers and other labor-saving equipment.

Other features of the new house include ground level ventilators that can be opened during the summer or closed during the winter to control air circulation. A solid row of windows on each side of the house is covered with cheesecloth, and as the thermometer rises during the summer, the cloth can be removed from the windows to give extra ventilation.

Baby chicks begin their life in the new house on an eight-inch carpet of clean shavings. And as each crop of birds is sold, more shavings will be added before the next birds are brought in. This deep litter method saves work; the house is cleaned only once a year.

"Of course," says O. R. Williams, Jr., "we plan to carry on a good disinfecting program at the end of every run of broilers. All equipment will be thoroughly disinfected to prevent bringing new birds in contact with any diseases and parasites that may be around."

As an added precaution against diseases and parasites the partners are feeding a medicated broiler ration containing sulfaquinoxaline. This ration is fed until the birds are six weeks old; then a mixture of home grown grain and mash is used to finish the birds for market.

Another very important part of the management system practiced on the Williams farm is vaccination. As soon as the chicks arrive on the farm, they are immunized against Newcastle by the intra-nasal method of vaccination, and no chick is released in the house until it has been vaccinated for this dreaded disease.

"Although it costs a little more for a good sanitation program," says the younger partner, "we aren't taking any chances on a disease outbreak wiping out our poultry profits. To our way of thinking it is much better to take all precautions and have a little more assurance of a modest profit than to risk losing all profits."

chayenne in saucepan. Add Worcestershire, tomato juice, vinegar, and water. Heat to boiling and pour all sauce over chicken. Baste chicken with hot sauce about every 10 minutes, leaving a pool of sauce in rib cage when halves are turned ribs up.

Cook until chicken is tender and sauce is reduced to a rich gravy, about 1½ to 2 hours longer. For larger chicken cook longer. Drop sliced mushrooms and livers into sauce about 15 minutes before chicken is done. Lift chicken to hot platter and serve the sauce separately. Yield: 4 halves or 8 quarters, or 4 to 8 servings.

MORE BROILERS—O. R. Williams, Jr., and Sr., are shown at top above putting the finishing touches on a new 8,000 capacity broiler house on their farm near Goodwater. The building was completed, including equipment ready for the chicks, for only $3,000.

An eight-inch carpet of shavings serves as the litter in the Williams broiler house. Looking over the shavings litter at center are, left to right, W. H. Cowan, county agent; O. R. Williams, Jr., and O. R. Williams, Sr. They are getting ready to put 8,000 chicks in the new house.

Before baby chicks are turned loose in the Williams broiler house, they are vaccinated for Newcastle disease. Shown vaccinating chicks by the intra-nasal method are O. R. Williams, Jr., left, and J. C. Richards, Decatur, farm service man for Alabama Flour Mills.

Recipe For July

SPRING chicken, once a luxury enjoyed for only a few weeks in the spring by those who could afford it, is now a year-round treat for everybody. Efficient mass production methods coupled with the increasing production of broilers have made chicken a good buy for the thrifty housewife.

Barbecued Chicken

Two 2½-3½ lb. young chickens, cut in half 1 large onion
1 clove garlic
1 t. sugar
2 t. dry mustard
1½ t. salt
½ t. garlic salt (optional)

½ t. black pepper
½ t. cayenne
4 T. Worcestershire sauce
1½ c. tomato juice
½ c. vinegar
¾ c. water
Chicken livers
½ lb. mushrooms (optional)

Lay chicken skin-side down in shallow open pan. Add sliced onion, gizzards, hearts, and garlic. Pour in water to fill pan about ¾ inch. Cook in moderately hot oven (275° F.) 1 hour, turning occasionally.

Meanwhile prepare barbecue sauce: mix sugar, mustard, salt, pepper, garlic salt, and

by API EXTENSION SPECIALISTS

NOW is the time to start marketing calves that were dropped last fall. They will usually bring more dollars in July than they will later in the season. Most years the market breaks faster than the big calves gain weight in the late summer and early fall so holding them longer is a losing proposition.

JULY is a very important month for the shepherd. During this month the ewes should be bred for early lambs. It is possible to have all the lambs come within one week. It is good business to do this because someone should be with the ewes day and night while they are lambing, and a long lambing season will require too much labor.

THERE is more profit in raising market hogs than there is in producing worms. It takes about four less bushels of corn to send a parasite-free pig to market than one heavily infested. The "clean green ground" treatment is the cheapest and best. But if pigs didn't get it and are runty, gaunt, straight tailed, and poor doing, the sodium fluoride treatment will pay off.

NEXT year's crop of strawberries may depend largely upon the care given the patch throughout the summer months. After harvest, reduce the matted row to about six inches in width by barring off with a turn plow. It may be best to leave this strip along one side of the row rather than in the center. After barring off the row, thin the plants to 18 to 24 inches in the row. Apply 500 pounds of 6-8-4 fertilizer per acre and work the soil back toward the row. Keep the patch cleanly cultivated throughout the summer to keep down grass and weeds.

START now to beat worms and rotten fruit for next year by destroying all wormy and rotten fruit. Next year's crop of worms and rot spores is started from the bad fruit that is left on the ground from this year's crop.

JULY is the month to arrange for winter legume seed, fertilizer, and inoculation so that you can have them when the right time to plant comes. Plan to produce winter legume seed to harvest in the spring of 1952. Farmers can produce crimson clover, Caley pea, and vetch seed in most of the state and lupine in south Alabama.

GIVE poultry houses more ventilation as weather gets warmer. Be sure that ventilators on the north walls are opened to the limit. Double doors at the end of the building should be opened and covered with poultry netting. Better ventilation will mean drier houses, better growth and feathering of chicks, and less danger from coccidiosis.

FERTILIZATION of fish ponds is important this month in order to keep down weeds and furnish fish food. If ponds have been well fertilized but yield only small blue gills or few fish of any size, they may be out of balance. Where such conditions exist, pond owners should contact their county agent so that he and a fish specialist can check the pond for balance and recommend corrective measures.

Broiler Expansion Points Up Need For Increased Hatching Egg Flocks

ALABAMA'S broiler industry is a big business and is making money for many farmers. The production of New Hampshire baby chicks is rising at a rate no other agricultural industry can match. A million and one-half birds go into houses each month.

But this unparalleled broiler project depends on another farm industry to keep it rolling—the production of hatching eggs. And this is a phase of poultry growing that Alabama farmers can do more about.

For hatcheries to turn out one and one-half million broiler chicks per month, they must put 2,000,000 eggs in their incubators. About one-fourth of our broiler chicks and many of our hatching eggs are now being brought in from other states. Herein lies a prosperous opportunity for poultrymen in this state.

Growers should plan their hatching egg programs wisely from the start and adopt good management practices. Hens must be good producers if the flock owner is to make a profit, eggs must have a high hatchability for the hatcherymen to profit, and chicks hatched from the eggs must be a good meat type and vigorous in order for the grower to make a profit.

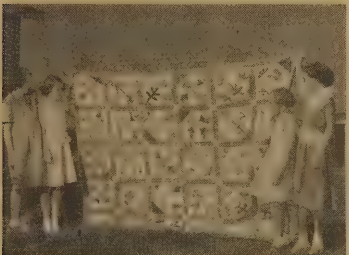

For these results, high quality breeding stock must be properly selected, fed, and managed. Mature pullets should be carefully selected and tested for pullorum disease before hatching eggs are kept.

Feed for the breeder flock is important in getting eggs of high hatchability and chicks that will live. Most breeder rations consist of a mash, grains, oyster shell, grit, and water. Almost all reliable feed companies mix a good breeder mash and give recommendations for feeding their particular mix. These directions should be followed carefully in using these feeds.

In addition to regular feeds many successful poultrymen feed green feed to their breeders. The greens are usually cut and fed in racks at the rate of five pounds per day per 100 hens. Deep built-up litter should be used in all breeder houses to provide important nutritional factors.

For a hen to produce eggs at a maximum rate she must have at least 13 to 14 hours of light per day. To give her this much light from September to April, growers must provide artificial lights.

Adequate space for the breeding flock is important. This applies to floor space, feed hoppers, water fountains, roosts, and shell

THEY QUILT FOR PLAYGROUND IMPROVEMENT—Members of the Vina School 4-H Club show off one of their money-making projects. The club members have quilted and sold chances on two quilts to help finance a school playground. The quilt shown above will be raffled off at a Halloween party at the Vina School this fall. Each member of the club made one square of the quilt. Members shown are, left to right, Anna Lou Newton, Doris Lindsey, Shirley Jean Thorn, and Ilasene Lindsay. Local leader of the club is Mrs. J. E. Parsons, of Vina.

NEW BEEF SYSTEM—A new system of using Holstein brood cows is being tried out by M. H. Hodnett, of Lineville, Rt. 1. He ordered the two Holstein heifers shown above from Wisconsin. He believes they will be heavy milkers and he can carry two or three beef calves to one Holstein cow. Hodnett sells all of his calves as baby beef at eight to 10 months of age.

The registered Hereford sire of Hodnett's beef herd (shown at right) is one of the producer's best bets for success with beef production. Hodnett is using the good-big bull to get large and thrifty calves that will turn milk and grass into cash.

feeders. For broiler type breeders provide four square feet of floor space per bird, three five-foot feeders for each 100 hens, and one automatic four-foot waterer for each 150 hens.

The importance of the breeding males must not be overlooked. Males should be in the breeding pen at least two weeks before hatching eggs are saved. Seven or eight males should be used per 100 hens. If the hens are culled, a proportionate number of males should be removed. Too many males in a flock result in excess fighting and interfere with mating.

Caring for the eggs is a vital point in the hatching egg business. Plenty of nest space for the layers is the first point in egg care. One square foot of nest space (community type nest) per five hens is needed. Use clean dry litter, and gather eggs three or four times per day.

Eggs should be gathered in a wire basket and held in a cool egg room over night before they are packed in cool, moist cases.

Eggs should be packed in cases with the small end down and stored in a moist holding room at 55 degrees Fahrenheit. The best place on most farms for holding eggs is an underground cellar or basement. The eggs should be delivered to the hatchery twice each week without excessive jarring or shaking in transit.

Following In Good Footsteps

AT 13 years of age, Lawrence Cummings, a 4-H Club boy of Franklin County, is a farmer in his own way, but he works closely with his dad and granddad, Lum Cummings and Lawrence Cummings, Sr.

Lawrence, Jr., has been in 4-H Club work about as far back as he can remember. His record has been excellent. In 1948 he was the reserve champion at the Birmingham fat stock show and sale. The money he received from that calf went into his business.

This year a half brother of that calf was sold to a Texas farmer for $5,000. This and other money he earned went into a farm of 425 acres near the farm of Lum Cummings and son.

All three of them work together. By good feeding, good breeding, and good management of cattle they have succeeded to a degree that thrills and delights all who visit their farm and home.

Anyone, however, who thinks and studies and works as they have done will succeed.

Housewives And Home Nurses

HOME care of the sick isn't a very big item during normal times of peace, but there is no assurance that this country will be spared the horrors of war if and when such a situation may again arise. That's the way home demonstration club women all over Alabama feel about the possibilities for the future, and they are making plans now to be ready to care for the injured and sick if their services are ever needed.

Typical of the work being done to teach more homemakers how to care for the sick is the program that has been recently carried out in Blount County. Taits Gap, Rosa, Wynnville, Hayden, and Cleveland Clubs have just completed a 12-hour course in the home care of the sick. This work is supervised by trained Red Cross nurses and instructors.

16,041 pounds of turnips. These are possible increases that might be obtained by giving the garden care beyond what many gardeners now give.

The average cost of the 500 pounds per acre of additional fertilizer, organic materials, and irrigation would amount to approximately $60 to $65 per acre. The value of the increased yields at five cents per pound would amount to $475.50 per acre.

Ethylene dibromide treatment of a soil heavily infested with nematodes increased the yield of cucumbers from 125 to 269 bushels per acre. Yields of other crops were increased as follows: potatoes from 49 to 62 bushels, carrots from 5,926 to 9,555 pounds, beets from 5,760 to 8,896 pounds, and sweet potatoes from 122 to 169 bushels per acre.

Yields of beets on a light sandy soil in the spring were increased from 3,944 to 10,790 pounds by dividing the fertilizer into several applications. The yields of carrots were, likewise, increased from 9,899 to 17,641 pounds and of mustard from 5,211 to 12,879 pounds per acre.

Results indicate that the following practices pay good dividends:

1. Thorough preparation of the garden before planting.
2. Application of six to 10 tons per acre of stable manure or turning under of a crop of crotalaria. The introduction of four to six tons of dried sericea straw or peanut hulls per acre will provide satisfactory organic matter.
3. Treatment of soil with ethylene dibromide when affected with nematodes. One quart of 40 per cent material should be applied to 600 feet of row, the material covered six inches deep, and about two weeks allowed to elapse before planting.
4. Selection of vegetables that will give enough fresh vegetables for the family throughout the year. A surplus of suitable types should be produced for canning and storing.

Like scores of other Henry County 4-H Club girls, Ann Bonds, center, of Newville, is using at least some of her summer vacation to catch up on her sewing. While Christa Givens, left, of Headland, Rt. 1, looks on, Eunice Ivey, assistant home agent, gives some sound pointers on sewing shortcuts.

5. Application of 1,000 pounds per acre or more of a fertilizer carrying at least 60 pounds of available nitrogen. It is desirable to wait a week after applying fertilizer before planting seed or setting plants.
6. Side applications at several periods of soluble nitrogen, especially if the soil is light and rainfall has been heavy.
7. Regular use of an "All Purpose Garden Dust."
8. Frequent cultivation to control weeds and grasses.

Research Results

EXPERIMENT STATION

COASTAL BERMUDA GRASS following crimson clover produced 195 pounds of beef per acre from August 4 to October 27, 1950. On an adjoining area in the same field, Coastal Bermuda that had received 200 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre in July produced 304 pounds of beef per acre during the same period. Crimson clover is grown in combination with Coastal Bermuda, and both areas are fertilized alike except for the nitrogen.

MAXIMUM EGG PRODUCTION usually comes from young birds, according to poultry research. A recent study of egg production and marketing practices by rural families in Alabama indicates that 42 per cent of all households that have poultry enterprises have no pullets in their flocks. Only a fourth have laying flocks made up of 60 per cent or more pullets.

FENCE POSTS that have been peeled and stacked for seasoning should be treated as soon as they "feel" dry. Visible evidence that posts are ready to treat is the appearance of checks, or cracks, in the wood. Better results from the cold soaking method have been obtained with posts seasoned just enough than with posts which were excessively dry at the time of treatment.

MOVABLE RANGE SHELTERS make it possible to use clean land and more green forage crops for growing pullets. The shelter must be small and light in weight for ease in moving. It must provide cool quarters during the hot part of the day and protection against predatory animals at night.

SMALL GRAIN SEED TREATMENT is good insurance against seedling blights and root rots. In tests at the Plant Breeding Unit, Tallahassee, the amount of Helminthosporium blight on oats was reduced greatly by treatment with one of the mercurial dusts.

CORN EARWORMS AND SORGHUM WEBWORMS attacking grain sorghum in 1950 tests were controlled with two pounds of DDT per acre applied either as a dust or spray.

A RECENT SURVEY OF RURAL HOUSING shows that among the owner-operator farm families in Alabama one-half of the houses had no closet space of any kind, and approximately one-fourth had only one closet. According to the report, however, a farm family of four needs closet space for about 200 items of clothing.

TOMATO FRUITWORM on tomatoes was effectively controlled in 1950 tests with dusts of five per cent DDD, five per cent methoxychlor, or 50 per cent cryolite.

HENS WITH A MODERATELY HEAVY INFESTATION OF LICE will lay 10 per cent fewer eggs than when free of lice. Lice can be controlled by sprinkling dusting sulphur on the floor of the chicken house at the rate of two pounds per 100 square feet and repeating this treatment seven to 10 days later.

THE PETS THEY LEAVE BEHIND

A LARGE STANDING ARMY?

Congress has spent much time recently trying to work out a satisfactory means of establishing a system of military training for all young men reaching the age of 18, but the purpose of the bill, it should be understood, is to provide for future training when world emergencies do not make it necessary to require regular military service of men of that age.

The people of the United States have, as a general rule, been opposed to the maintenance of a large standing army. The general idea behind universal military training is that the creation of a large number of trained reserves among the citizenry at large will make it unnecessary to have, as a permanent policy, a large standing army.

In the face of present threats that arise from the Soviet Union and its satellite states, we see no way for this country to avoid maintaining an army of considerable size. Despite the possibility that some militarism may develop, as a result, this is a risk that must be taken and it is considerably less than being unarmed in a world of the present dangers.

While the United States and the Western Powers are proceeding with the development of measures to increase their defensive power, on should not overlook the fact that the Soviet Union, both in Russia and the satellite states, is making similar efforts to bring up its military strength.

Some of the satellite states have been well developed as auxiliary forces of the Soviet Union but with Bulgarian, Rumanian and Hungarian armies about transformed into vassals of the Soviet Empire. Training, weapons, organization and staff work are Russianized, and with the high units of command under some control by a Soviet staff officer.

In East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia, the same is not yet true. In Czechoslovakia and Poland, the Soviet has run into some difficulties. The Poles, in particular, have a strongly nationalistic military tradition and both countries have many officers and men who served with the British during World War II. The Russians are moving slowly but are gradually purging from the armies those who might not be ideologically prepared to cooperate fully with the Russian High Command.

--By BEN

Spent a wonderful four days on the Gulf of Mexico since July-Fourth. Lots of people down there now. While we were there pretty little Billie Jean Poole, who is spending the summer at Mobile, came over to say hello to us. Mr. and Mrs. N. E. West dropped in Saturday for a short while. They were visiting over at Pensacola and other points along the Gulf Coast. Miss America (Yolanda Betbeze) was on the beach for the week but she didn't get to see us, darn it. Guess there were a lot of Chilton County folks down that way, but when we go down there we just sit. That's all, brother. Most of the view is hard on the eyes.

The Chilton County peaches they display down there are a disgrace to Chilton County peach growers. We don't know where they get them but they surely do not look like our peaches.

Our Alabama Journal boy came delivering our Journal on a tractor Monday afternoon. The boy is no bigger than a bunny rabbit and sitting atop that tractor with his paper bag he looked like a stamp on a watermelon. But we take our hat off to a boy like that who gets things done. There's always a way if there's a will. And that youngster has a will.

We're still chuckling over the advice given one of our businessmen who started on his vacation. When he went by the bank before leaving and asked Miss Harris what his balance was, she advised: "If I were you, I wouldn't go very far."

The old couple waved down the highway patrolmen Sunday afternoon as they were cruising along the highway. It seems that they were a part of a group who were traveling in two automobiles. One of the automobiles carried a small baby and the car with the old folks had the baby's milk. They wanted the highway patrolmen to contact the Patrol Office at Montgomery and stop the other car so the baby could get it's dinner.

T. C. Harrell spent the week end in Baldwin County and reports his father, S. A. Harrell, is doing fine and taking things easy. In off years we are sure it is no hard job to keep Mr. Harrell in Baldwin County on the farm, but during election years we'd have to have the job of keeping him still anywhere for long. In this county any time you see two men with their heads together talking politics—one of them is S. A. Harrell.

Rev. A. T. Hickman is much enthused about his revival starting July 15th at Temple Church and he is working hard for the highest and best revival of the 50 that have been held at the church. If it is a big success and the preacher gets complete cooperation he may even plan a bigger and better revival next year. There is a rumor to the effect that others might be fishing for the services of Rev. and Mrs. Hickman. We hope it is only a rumor. They mean much to Chilton County and her people and we could ill afford to lose them.

The Johathan Kirkbridge House at 104 Theater Street, in Mobile, is on the lot next to the site of Mobile's first American theater, which was also a part of the French Fort Conde. The house was Mobile's first courthouse and jail; it was bought by Jonathan Kirkbridge and converted into an imposing residence in 1885.

Marble is found in enormous quantities in the vicinity of Sylacauga; a strip 35 miles long extends from Marble Valley, Coosa County, into Calhoun County.

Pray For Peace

"Pray for the peace of Jerusalem." (Psa. 122:6). These words were given for a time when the City of Jerusalem was much in trouble. Her people were being destroyed by the sword. The enemies of all righteousness had come up against this city. And even her own people were divided; some to go one way, and some another. It looked as if the city was doomed from within, and from without. But the words came from the man of God, "Pray for the peace of Jerusalem." The godly people assembled at the house of the Lord, and there of-

A. T. HICKMAN fered their prayers to God for the peace of the city. David, himself, said, "I will go when they said unto me, Let us go into the House of the Lord." The high and the low, the rich and the poor, all assembled into the House of the Lord and prayed for the peace of Jerusalem. Of course, their prayers were answered. For as long as Israel was obedient to the Word of the Lord, she prospered. It was only when she failed her God that she was destroyed.

The world is much like the City of Jerusalem today. There are clouds hanging over us. There is strife from without our nation, and strife from within our nation; the same with the United Nations. The same with the whole world. The satanic powers are up against the peace and welfare of the righteous throughout the world. But may we pray for the peace of our world, the peace of the United Nations; the peace of our own United States; and for the peace of our homes, churches and communities in which we live. Pray for a spiritual revival to sweep this nation, and the other nations of the world. The Christians in Germany pray daily and regularly for the war in Korea to end quickly. They have a terrific fear of war, and at every meal, three times a day, they pray to God to end the conflict quickly. In order to prevent the outbreak of another world war. This week while our top men are in conference with the war lords of Red China, and North Korea, let us pray much for the peace that we so much desire. Peace within our walls, and prosperity within our palaces. -- Hickman.

Worry Works Its Way

A STORY TOLD ME BY M. M. Henry, 313 Chestnut Avenue, was based entirely on Worry.

About four years ago he developed a cold. This worried him because he had no time to spare. He had no appetite; that wasn't alarming, but the condition of his throat was. His worry increased. One night after he had gone to bed he struggled. Switching on the lights his wife saw that his lips were purple, and that he was getting black in the face. She called the doctor, who, after examining him, said, "Mr. Henry, I don't know what the trouble is, but what I can do for your husband. Tomorrow I'll arrange to have a specialist examine him."

But the specialist didn't help, and Mr. Henry's condition continued to grow worse. After a few more days, he took a plane to Atlanta, Georgia, and went to the best authority the city afforded. But this learned man only shook his head, laid down his instrument and walked out, saying that he would return in a few minutes. Soon a second doctor looked at Mr. Henry's throat and advised hospitalization and an operation. (Later Mr. Henry learned they thought he had cancer of the throat.) After the operation, he was sent home, but was to return in two weeks for a second operation.

At home, his family doctor told his wife there was little hope of his ever getting well, and advised sending him to John Hopkins in Baltimore. His wife urged this and accompanied him to Baltimore, where he started on the routine of X-rays and medical examinations which lasted three weeks.

He felt very hopeful now, and his wife was very encouraging. They decided to see something of the town, make it a sort of holiday period. There was nothing said against eating what he liked, so they visited the best eating places, too. And they thoroughly enjoyed their visit, almost forgetting what they were there for except at the times they must keep appointments with the medical men.

In three weeks, the doctor who headed the nose and throat department said, "Mr. Henry, we are going to dismiss you today."

"But, Doctor," said Mr. Henry, "you haven't told me yet what was the matter with me."

"Oh, nothing serious," was the reply. "You began to improve shortly after you got here."

What was the matter with him? Well, as stated above, Mr. Henry said it was nothing but worry working its way out of his system. And he has learned to put aside worry as he would the plague, for it can really bring on all sorts of things to plague a man.

GET RID OF RATS

A pair of rats is capable of producing 120,000 descendants a year. When one realizes that there is a rat for approximately every one of the 140,000,000 persons in the United States, an estimate of the total rat population is recorded. Dangerous, useless and destructive, the rat harbors and carries the germs of more than six serious diseases, including bubonic plague, typhoid fever, infectious jaundice, rat-bite fever and food infections.

Despite control measures to eradicate them, many rats survive because they live anywhere and eat practically anything. That is why good public health standards must be employed in garbage disposal. In areas where garbage containers are allowed to stand uncovered for hours and even days, there is usually a preponderance of rats. All cans should be tightly covered and, if possible, kept on a platform eighteen inches off the ground.

If garbage is kept in a sunken container, care should be taken that the rats cannot burrow underneath and that the container is not cracked. If garbage is burned, be sure that nothing remains except the ash. Paper, rags, packing material should not be allowed to accumulate because they provide nesting places for rats. It is estimated that the damage caused by rats runs to about $250,000,000 annually for the United States. In such places as hotels, the cost of damage per rat may be as high as $5.00. They destroy huge amounts of food, spoiling more than they eat. Unless energetically controlled, they are found in great numbers in homes, in warehouses, in granaries, on the farm and in the field. They kill poultry, steal eggs and sometimes attack other farm animals, making them in turn carriers of disease. Rats damage buildings by gnawing holes and even set fire to buildings by gnawing the insulation from electric wires between walls and floors.

Help your community to get rid of rats. Remember they breed disease, cause serious infections through their bites and are a curse to public health. TEACHER TURNOVER IN ALABAMA "SPOTTY" * Certain Alabama school systems have sustained heavy teacher losses since April 1, according to a study completed this week by the Alabama Education Association. The study, based on answers received from 57 county and 36 city school superintendents, shows that to date teacher turnover has been "spotty." The systems sustaining the heavier losses are found in the Tennessee Valley, and in three central and two south Alabama county systems. In addition, two systems near the Georgia line reported losses to the sister state on the east. The major cause for teacher resignations up to the present time, according to the study, is higher salaries in other fields of work. A northwest Alabama superintendent reported the resignation of a teacher receiving an annual salary of $1950 to accept work with a life insurance company at $7500 a year. Two systems reported resignations of men teachers working at salaries ranging from $2400 to $3000 to accept work in a federal project at salaries ranging from $3400 to $4200. Several rural counties have lost heavily in teachers who, to date, have not accepted positions. One of these reports the resignation of 56 white teachers between April 1 and May 30. Another rural county with a small teaching force reported a loss of 14 teachers. The majority of superintendents report that the teacher turnover is about normal for June. According to the Alabama tenure law, teachers employed last year must resign forty-five days before the opening of the school year.

EMPLOYMENT IN THE U. S. CONTINUES UPWARD BETWEEN MAY AND JUNE

Employment in the United States continued upwards between May and June as students streamed into the labor force at the close of the school term, according to the latest Census Bureau figures released today by District Supervisor, Mary L. Griffin.

Total civilian employment was estimated at 61,803,000 in the week ending June 9, or about 600,000 above the May level. Because the May-June rise was smaller than usual for this time of the year, however, total employment was not significantly greater than a year earlier.

Non-agricultural employment, estimated at 53,768,000 in June, was not significantly changed from the preceding month. Possibly in part because of the uncertainties of the draft, fewer male students were entering the summer labor force this year as compared with 1950. Nevertheless, large numbers of boys and girls had taken non-agricultural jobs by the June survey week. On the other hand, there was a substantial reduction between May and June in the number of women in non-agricultural employment.

Today's report is based on the information collected in the Current Population Survey which is conducted every month by the Census Bureau in the Chilton-Perry area.

About the normal increase in unemployment was recorded between May and June, with many young persons seeking summer or post-graduation jobs. The jobless total rose from 1,609,000 to an estimated 1,980,000 during this period, but there was no material change in the number of adult workers who were unemployed.

With greater employment opportunities, students were apparently finding jobs more readily than a year ago.

Agricultural employment rose from 7,440,000 to 8,035,000 between May and June. However, the change was smaller than that recorded for the same period last year. As a result, the gap between 1950 and 1951 levels continued to widen. In June, agricultural employment was about one million under the level of a year ago.

ALL PRICE CONTROL LAWS STILL IN EFFECT

Montgomery, Ala. — "All price control laws are still in effect, except that no roll-backs in beef prices and certain manufactured products will be allowed for the time being," the district director of the Office of Price Stabilization said today.

OPS Director Charles G. Dobbins pointed out that Congress has extended the price control program until July 31.

In summarizing the six-month OPS record, the director said: "The stabilization program has put the brakes on the inflationary trends that got underway right after the war began in Korea. Between the outbreak of the war and February 15 of this year, prices of consumer goods rose 8 per cent. Since the general freeze took effect, the consumer price index has risen less than 1 per cent."

He also said, "Between Korea and the price freeze, wholesale prices rose 15 per cent. Since the freeze, they have risen less than 1 per cent."

"Korea is but one of many grave international situations and, in the year ahead, there will be still more defense production. The inflationary pressures will be stronger than ever, but these pressures can be controlled," he concluded.

Notes—
 The 1st week of Vacation Bible School has passed. There has been an increase on the part of the community. The enrollment is almost the equivalent to the attending last year, and we have every reason to believe the enrollment will increase next week. The school is doing a fine piece of work in the department. The community service will be given Friday, July 13, at 7:30. We extend a special invitation to the parents of the children who are attending and the public in general is invited. On Friday noon between 11 and 12 o'clock a picnic will be enjoyed by students, faculty and parents who desire to attend. Each one will bring their lunch and drinks will be furnished by the church.
 Prayer meeting will be conducted each Wednesday evening at 7:30, followed by choir practice at 8:15. A number of the members of the choir have expressed themselves that they would like to return to Wednesday night as the time for their practice. Mr. Merchant, Superintendent of the Sunday School, will announce the time for officers and teachers meeting next week. He desires the cooperation of all who have the opportunity to work in the Sunday School as to the date and time preferred for this meeting.

Rev. John Gibbs, pastor of Forest Avenue Baptist Church, Gadsden, has accepted the invitation to be the evangelist for our revival beginning the third Sunday in August. Rev. Gibbs is one of the leading ministers of the Etowah Baptist Association and will do a splendid job leading us during our evangelistic campaign.

We extend our deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Luther Davenport during the illness and homecoming of Miss Alice Davenport; we shall keep them in our prayers. Also, we extend our sympathy to Mrs. Radliff in the sudden translation of her husband; we shall continue to remember her and the members of the family in the loss of their loved one.

Mrs. O. C. Johnson left Saturday morning for Houston, Texas, to be with her husband, Staff Sergeant O. C. Johnson.

MERCHANTS SHOULD BE NOTIFIED OF PRICE CHART FILING BEFORE JULY 31

Montgomery, Ala. — Many Chilton County merchants now have until July 31 to receive acknowledgement from the Montgomery Office of Price Stabilization that their price charts have been filed.

"Only those firms covered by Ceiling Price Regulation 7 are affected by the new OPS Regulation," District Director Charles G. Dobbins said.

"After July 31, retailers under CPR 7 may not legally sell any article covered by the regulation unless they have received word from OPS that their price charts have been filed," he said.

The earlier deadline was June 30.

BIG LEAGUE TRYOUTS AT SELMA JULY 13-14

Selma, Ala. — "Are there any potential major league ball players here?" is the question that veteran Red Bird scout Mercer Harris will be asking himself when the St. Louis Cardinals conduct their tryout camp at Memorial Stadium in Selma.

In the tryout camp at Selma, which is one of many such camps conducted throughout the country by the Cardinals, Harris will be looking for the natural ability which can be developed into the smooth perfection which is required in the majors. He will watch each aspirant go through his paces, noting particularly his fielding, throwing, hitting and baserunning. Those who adjudged by Harris to be future big league material will be signed to one of the 15 teams in the famous Cardinal farm system. They will develop there, through the top-notch coaching and invaluable experience of the minors into veteran baseball players. The best of these will become the major league stars of tomorrow, when they will be more than amply rewarded for their previously expended effort.

The tryouts will begin at 11:00 a.m. each day for all interested between the ages of 17 and 23. All those planning to attend are asked to bring their own shoes and gloves, and uniforms if possible, as the Cardinals "do not furnish this equipment. Any expenses incurred in attending the camp will be refunded to all players who are signed to contracts by the Red Bird scouts."

OPS Regulation All Articles Must Be Tagged

Montgomery, Ala. — All Chilton County merchants covered by OPS Ceiling Price Regulation 7 are now required to have each article tagged with the ceiling price, the district director of the South Alabama Office of Price Stabilization said today. OPS 7 is the "margin control" regulation covering a wide range of consumer goods like shoes, furniture, jewelry, clothing, silverware, yard goods, and rugs. "Each store should also post in a prominent place a sign saying that the prices in the store are no higher than OPS ceiling prices," District Director Charles G. Dobbins said. The director urged customers in this area not to pay above-ceiling prices.

Postman Searcy Always Rings Twice

Fort Jackson, S. C. — TWO postmen always ring twice in Company E, 167th Infantry Regiment of the 31st Infantry (Mech) Division. Two officers of the former Alabama National Guard outfit pounded the streets on City routes for the Postal Department before entering Federal service. Warrant Officer Hobson G. Searcy, who is now the unit administrator for company E, was a city carrier in Clanton, Alabama. Mr. Searcy had three years' seniority in the Clanton office. He worked as a substitute rural carrier for several years before taking the city route. Second Lieutenant Troy E. Haynes, a platoon leader in Company E, worked city mail for five years in the Birmingham Post Office. During World War II Lieutenant Haynes was a Chief Clerk in the Army Post Office. Both officers have many interesting experiences which they sometimes relate concerning the many people they met on their routes.

J. S. PLOTT

J. S. (Jim) Plott, Representative, announced this week that he would shortly introduce a Bill in the Legislature turning all county road work over to the State Highway Department. This plan has been adopted in Jackson County and in Baldwin County, and according to our representative, will cut the cost of road construction in half. Plott stated the citizens of the county he had talked to were not at all pleased with the present set-up nor were they pleased with the conditions of the roads. He stated under the new bill the state would receive the tax money for roads now received by the county and the state would be responsible for all road construction in the county and all road maintenance. He stated that Senator Tom Phillips concurred with him in the Bill and in the advisability of the change.

ABOUT DOGS

When the City Council revived the City Dog Law recently and employed a "dog-catcher," we thought it would be a good thing to get the stray, mangy, dogs off the streets and out of the alleys where they caused much confusion and worry.

Now, it seems, many complaints are coming in as to how the law is being carried out.

In the first place carrying a .22 rifle through the city streets and shooting dogs regardless of where they are found is dangerous. And we do not mean dangerous to the dogs, but to our children and live stock. Children play everywhere, and are as unpredictable as can be. One never knows where or when a "redskin" or a "cow-boy" will pop out of the weeds in vacant lots and from around house corners. No dog is worth the life of one of our children.

When a dog is reported and found the man in charge of that department of our municipal government should pick up that dog and take it to a place of safe keeping until it's owner can call for it, or after a given date, it can be destroyed according to law and without endangering the lives of human beings or live stock.

Indiscriminate shooting of firearms within the city limits is dangerous regardless of who is doing the shooting.

We hope there's something fishy about the report that a Bill in the Legislature would tax "doodle" fishermen. Why in Chilton County, they just as well tax us for going to Sunday School and Church. In fact, we'll bet more folks go "doodle" fishing on Sunday than go to Sunday School and Church.

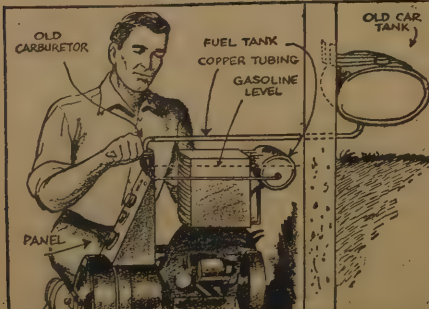

Went into a local store the other day and asked for two quarts of sweetmilk, and the clerk says, "Do you want pasturized or homonized?"

News item says there are three "Robert E. Lees" stationed at Keesler Field. Now we just wonder which section of the country they are from?

CLANTON'S SHRINE CLUB

Work of the Clanton Shrine Club was publicized in the Montgomery Advertiser last Thursday in a feature story by Joe Asbell.

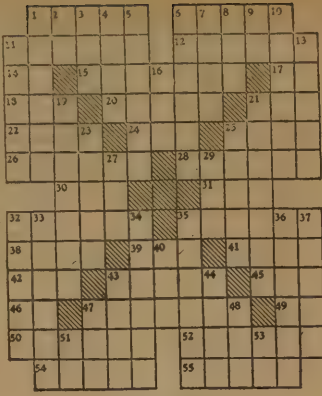

Joe went on to tell of the work of the Club in general and of it's President, James C. Martin, in particular. We appreciate these kind words by Mr. Asbell. Clanton is proud of the Shrine Club and the fine work they are doing for our under-privileged children.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

This is the week that Clanton's Natural Gas will be turned in. We note that some towns make a big "to-do" over the turning in of their Natural Gas. I haven't heard of any special celebration here, but it's a feather in the cap of the local administration to bring Natural Gas to Clanton.

Received a telegram from Hon. Edward deGraffenried last week end informing that the National Production Authority in Washington had OK'd the building of the Chilton County Courthouse. Probate Judge W. L. Parrish was at home and we were unable to get a statement from him, but will up on his return to his office.

Judge Parrish has had further trouble with his eyes and his doctor has advised him to stay away from his office and take extra care for another week. He spent Tuesday at the hospital in Birmingham undergoing another check-up.

Uncle Bill Hester was telling us this little story about his niece, Beverly, who was seriously injured near Plantersville the other week when she fell from the back seat of her home in automobile en route to her home in driving around 25 or 30 miles per hour according to Bill, and because of this, the child was hurt no worse than she was. Anyway, she was rushed to the Selma Hospital for care and observation. Now little Beverly knows, and is known by, all the nurses and doctors at the hospital and they were much concerned about her welfare. While one of the nurses was dressing her bruises and cuts, Beverly was "raising Cain." The nurse said: "Why Beverly, you have never talked like that to me." "No," returned Beverly, "but you haven't heard anything yet." Little Beverly had never hurt like that before either.

SUMMER IS NO EXCUSE TO PUT UP BROODERS

Auburn, Ala. — Summer and hot weather is here, but this fact does not mean that brooders, in broiler houses can be stored for the remainder of the season.

Successful broiler growers know that a baby chick needs to be kept where the temperature is about 90 to 95 degrees for the first week and this temperature lowered about five degrees per week. The daytime temperature of the house may be this high, if so, brooders can be shut off.

"But," warns John Weeks, A.P.I. Extension Service poultry specialist, "night temperatures and early morning temperatures are in the seventies. If small chicks have no heat at such temperatures, they will crowd together to keep warm. Those in the center of the huddle will get too warm. The other chicks will be chilled and all of them are likely to have colds, digestive trouble, poor feathering, and, consequently, poor broilers."

Therefore, Weeks suggests that extreme care be exercised to see that chicks do not have too much or too little heat. Since it is possible to have too much heat this time of year, remember to keep ventilators properly adjusted.

POND MANAGEMENT ON ALABAMA FARMS

Auburn, Ala. — Hatchery fish for stocking new farm ponds or restocking ponds that are unbalanced will not be available until late this fall or early next spring, reports Earl F. Kennard, A.P.I. Extension Service fish and wildlife specialist.

He adds that while new ponds may be constructed this summer, the valve on the drain pipe should not be closed until August in those ponds that will receive all water from rainfall. In ponds with small springs or streams the valve may be closed around September 1 because these ponds will fill completely by the time fish are to be placed in them.

Any pond that has been checked by a fish specialist and found to be unbalanced because of crappie, catfish, suckers, shad, or other undesirable fish should not be drained until August or September. When ponds are refilled they will be ready for new hatchery fish.

The chief reason for not filling a new pond with water now and for not draining a pond that has been recommended to be drained at this time, reveals the specialist, "is that underwater weeds will develop unless the water is fertilized."

What Must I Do To Be Saved

This question was asked by the Philippians Jailer. (Acts 16:30). And it is useless to say, perhaps, that it is the greatest question ever asked by man. It has to do with the eternal state of a man's soul. Jesus came to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance, and not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give His life a ransom for many. He was named Jesus. For He was to save His people from their sins. And He came to seek and to save the lost. And we all are like sheep we have gone astray; and God laid on Jesus the sins of us all. We are taught in the Bible that we are saved

A. T. HICKMAN by grace through faith, and our salvation is not of works. If it were of works, we could boast in ourselves.

Even though our salvation is entirely of grace, yet there is something on our part to do. We have to appropriate this grace to the soul. This is done by our obeying and believing the Gospel of Jesus Christ. For the answer was given to the jailer: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." Man must believe on the Name of the Son of God, and accept Jesus as his Lord and Saviour.

One of the first things a man has to do in order to be saved; is to realize he is lost. Outside of Jesus Christ, there is none good, no not one. We have all sinned and come short of the glory of God. If we say that we have no sin, (that is to say, we have no need of a Saviour), we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. Again, if we say that we have not sinned, that is, we have always been good, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us. But if we will confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. But if we do not confess and forsake our sins, then there is no cleansing and no forgiveness; and consequently, there is no salvation meted out to the soul. Again, we find in Rom. 10:9, "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved." But if there is no confessing of Jesus Christ with the mouth and no believing in his death and resurrection from the heart, then there is no salvation for the soul. You might become a member of some organized church denomination without doing the above things, but remember, apart from Jesus and His Word, there is no salvation.

How To Conquer Fear

JAMES M. BIRD, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada, says, "If you would be sure of controlling your fears, literally burn your bridges behind you so you will have no avenue of escape. Then advance against your fears and destroy them—before they can destroy you."

By the time James was 13 years old he was six feet tall and rather frail. Standing head and shoulders above his classmates made him self-conscious and in time he developed a terrible inferiority complex.

Whenever he engaged in sports he made a poor showing, and because of his not strong constitution he often suffered injury. When he was a little later enrolled in a school of commerce, he brought all his worries and fears right along with him, and as a consequence, although his classmates were a friendly lot, he failed to make a single friend during the four months he was there.

It was the army that took him out of his dilemma. He worked hard and obtained a commission, believing this would help him to face the two things he feared most: people and what he thought was cowardice.

One day the test came. He went into action with the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. He experienced terrifying fear time after time; his blood ran cold, his knees turned to jelly. But as he came through each experience he said to himself, "I was afraid, but here I am." And he realized anew each time that he could control his fear, and that through this fear he was really becoming a better leader of men.

GUARD AGAINST RINGWORM

Ringworm is the popular name for a disease of the skin caused by an invasion of the skin by any one of 40 species of fungus. In human infections however, ringworm is due in most cases to two microscopic types, one of which is found on the scalp, the other on other parts of the body. Scalp infections are usually found in children and are rare after puberty, but ringworm of the body can occur at any age.

Ringworm is exceedingly common. Foot infections, also known as athlete's foot, occur, it has been estimated, in from 50% to 90% of the population. The type found on the feet has been made familiar in advertisements of proprietary remedies as athlete's foot. Because the pinkish, scaly, elevated patches of infection on the skin extend outward and tend to die out in the center, they may sometimes take a circular form which explains the name ringworm.

Ringworm is highly contagious and extremely difficult to eliminate. The detailed, long-term, persistent treatment should be undertaken only under the care of a doctor; and no one should attempt to diagnose and treat with drugstore remedies this fungus infection in himself or his children. Recurrences are frequent; for the fungus often makes its way into hair follicles or deep in to the skin under treatment, giving the impression the disease is cured, only to emerge and begin its attack all over again. There is no ointment, drug or other medication which is suitable in all cases; and it frequently requires careful study of the individual case by a well-trained physician to devise a method of treatment which will bring the infection under control.

The prevention of ringworm on the foot is a complex one, involving a daily bath, thorough drying, use of a skin, wearing light shoes, and avoiding walking bare-footed in public bathing places. Mild fungus-killing medication should be used on the feet after swimming at a public beach or pool. Many beaches and pools require users to walk through a foot bath containing a chemical which kills fungus. This is now directed, and it has been found to be satisfactory to scrub the foot daily with an antiseptic solution.

SURVEY BY CENSUS BUREAU WEEK OF JULY 16th

How the Chilton-Perry area families which are interviewed each month in the Census Bureau's Current Population Survey are selected was explained today by Supervisor, Mary L. Griffin. Questions in employment and unemployment will be asked of the families in the July survey to be conducted during the week of July 16.

The outstanding feature of the sampling method used is that the census enumerator is directed to specific addresses selected in an impersonal way from maps and lists in the Washington Office of the Census Bureau, Miss Griffin said.

The first step in the selection is to divide the whole Chilton-Perry area into small pieces, such as city blocks. In those parts of the area where there are no regular city blocks the Census Bureau has set up small sections containing about the same number of households for this purpose. In order to do this, the Census Bureau has assembled a great variety of different kinds of maps, including aerial photographs as well as certain large-scale maps that show individual structures.

When the whole area has been subdivided in this way a sample of the blocks or other sections is selected in the Washington office according to modern scientific sampling methods.

The next step is to make a complete listing of all of the houses and apartments in the selected blocks or sections. A sample of the dwellings on the list is then checked off in a systematic way for the enumerator to visit and interview. This impersonal sampling method insures that the selection of the households to be interviewed does not depend on the judgment or convenience of the interviewer. In this way, the sample households interviewed here each month reflect the true influence of the Chilton-Perry area on the estimates that are made each month for the United States as a whole.

Miss Griffin pointed out that all information about individuals submitted to the Census Bureau is treated with strict confidence under Federal law and that only statistical totals are published.

The "drys" won a victory last week in that of voting out of the Senate Temperance Committee a bill calling for a referendum in Alabama. We would like for our people who are "dry" to stay on the alert, for it may be necessary for us to go back to Montgomery when this bill appears again.

A committee of three will soon be appointed to select a Sunday School Superintendent and Training Union Director for the coming associational year.

We are desirous of soliciting your interest in Training Union. We urge you to come and bring others every Sunday evening at 7:00 p.m. to take part and to be a part of this great training program. Parents' Problems

By DONALD M. MAYNARD

The Choice of Playmates

Do you think little children should be permitted to play with the same child (or children) day after day—as they usually do—even though the others may not be up to our standard of living, hoping that the others may be helped in their attitudes and behavior or should we help to choose other playmates (say our "adult" choice) who may be more on a level with our own thinking, etc.?

It is more or less inevitable, as you suggest, that children should play day after day with neighborhood children, even though these children may not have the same standards as do we. Fortunately, mothers can have a part in directing the play and building up proper attitudes where perhaps they were not present before.

There is no reason, however, why parents should not also encourage their children to make friends with playmates who seem to them to be more desirable. This may entail the favoring of such friends to your home for a day, as well as permitting your children to visit them.

It would be well to guard against giving your children the impression, however, that you think these particular friends are "better for them" than the neighborhood children. Children resent criticism of their friends and are not likely to be too fond of those whom you consider to be good for them.

The answer to your question, therefore, would seem to be "do both."

Germs Can't Be Avoided

How can I teach my little three-year-old girl that "cleanliness is next to godliness"? How can germs and sickness (from dirty fingers and toys in the mouth) be explained without instilling unnecessary fears in the small child's mind?

The answer to your first question is that "you can't."

Cleanliness is an adult standard, based upon that knowledge of germs and diseases that children do not have, and upon an aesthetic appreciation that is not to be expected of them. Children like to play in the mud, dig in the dirt, and get as dirty as they possibly can, and within limits they should be permitted to do so.

Think for a moment of how unnatural and absurd it would be to hear a three-year-old tell her playmates that she couldn't play on the floor or in the mud because she might get dirty.

The answer to your second question is much the same as the answer to the first. If a three-year-old got the impression that germs that caused sickness were on his dirty fingers, in the mud, on his toys, etc., he would probably develop fears that would make an emotional cripple of him the rest of his life. We do not want our children to become hypochondriacs, which they may become if we place too much emphasis upon germs.

It is inevitable that children should be exposed to germs. Fortunately, most of them are harmless, especially the germs that may be obtained from the child's own toys or hands.

It is well, of course, to encourage children to wash their hands occasionally, but again, parents cannot expect their children to be too clean. It is important, however, that children should be protected from other children or adults who have colds or who are otherwise ill. This can be done without going into an explanation of germs or without creating unnecessary fears.

Fear of Storms

How shall I help my son (age eight) not to be afraid of storms? Lightning struck our home when he was five years old. Before that he wasn't afraid. Now we both are afraid. I've tried to help him overcome his fear by first trying to overcome mine, but I haven't been very successful.

You are correct in recognizing that your first task is to overcome your own fear of lightning.

You can scarcely expect your son to overcome his fear until you overcome yours. At the same time, let us frankly grant that it is not easy to overcome a fear of this kind. If your experience when lightning struck your home was unusually vivid or terrifying, it may be that neither you nor your son ever will completely overcome this fear.

Your task, then, will be to admit your fear and learn how to manage it. And strange as it may seem, sometimes the admitting of a fear and the talking about it helps to reduce it.

Let me suggest, therefore, that you and your son talk quite frankly about your fear of storms and of lightning. Consider ways by which you think the fear may be overcome.

It may help, for example, to go to an encyclopedia and to find out all you can about storms and lightning. Note, too, how unlikely it is that either of you will ever again have an experience similar to the one when your house was struck. Talk about how you plan to act when a storm comes again. Suggest that you have a contest to see which one can act the least afraid during the storm.

When the storm is on, be sure to have something interesting to do, something that will help take your minds off it. It may help to visit or have friends in during a storm. Our doesn't like to show fear before others and their presence may help both of you to act as if you were not afraid.

Don't expect to overcome your fear completely, but try out these suggestions and see if it is not reduced.

REVIVAL IN PROGRESS AT TEMPLE

The fiftieth summer revival campaign is now in progress at the Temple Church. Everything got under way last Sunday when the Rev. and Mrs. Bird Campbell, inter-nationally known evangelists, arrived. Temple Church is located about three miles east of Clanton in one of the finest communities of Chilton County. This revival marks fifty years of old-fashioned Pentecostal religion in the county. It dates back to the days of Rev. L. P. Adams. Rev. Adams arrived in the community fifty years ago, and began his ministry which resulted in the founding of Temple Church. From then until now, the full Gospel of Jesus Christ has been preached in its power and simplicity. The attendance at the revival is increasing each night. Day services are planned for next week as well as the night service. The evangelist spoke Sunday morning on the subject, "Land To Possess," and Sunday night on "Man, Last Opportunity." Both of these messages were outstanding. At the close of the message Sunday night the large altars were filled with people praying for the conversion of sinners, and the success of the revival. Monday night the evangelist spoke on the subject, "The Shadow of the Dictator." Every word of Rev. Campbell's were filled with the power of the Spirit. This was a message of warning, and was a very timely one. At the close of the sermon again the altars were filled with people seeking God for more of His blessings upon their lives. As things have started out, Pastor Hickman says the outlook is good for an old-time Pentecostal revival. The Rev. Mrs. Campbell will be speaking Wednesday night of this week. The Thursday night of this week the Clanton Kiwanis Club in a body will attend the revival as guests of the pastor and the church. Mr. Campbell will be speaking on the subject, "The Budding of the Fig Tree." Everything is set for a grand week end. The evangelist will be speaking on "The Roll Call of the Faithful" Sunday morning, and Sunday night on "What Men See In Hell."

HOMECOMING AT ROCKY MOUNT

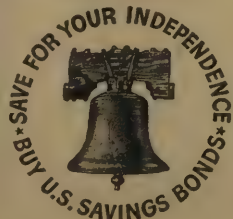

REV. J. B. HILLSON

Our forty-fourth homecoming celebration will be held July 29th, the 5th Sunday, at Rocky Mount three and one-half miles Northwest of Jemison. The Rev. J. B. Hillson of Greenville, Ill., will bring the homecoming message at the 11 o'clock hour. Rev. Hillson is President of Greenville College, also of the Wesleyan Methodist College. His parents were natives of this community and members of Rocky Mount Church. They passed away in 1918 within a few hours of each other during the flu epidemic and the four children were placed in an orphanage. There were two boys and two girls. After reaching maturity J. B. and his brother became ministers and the girls became Missionaries. Rev. Hillson made himself what he is. He is an outstanding man and this community is proud of him. He has not been here since a very small boy.

We hope to have the largest and best homecoming this time of any previous homecoming. We hope to have some good singers and quartets and are expecting people from several states to be with us. Hope to see you, and you, and all at the homecoming. Come and bring a well filled basket. — T. C. Harrell.

Instead of the usual pamphlet, this time they sent him a revenue agent. "Darn bunch of meddling bureaucrats!" declares Fluke. He's out on bail.

Fluke's the fellow that police up in the city hauled down from a perch on a tall smokestack where he was singing "On Top of Old Smoky."

Official business in Dawdle Dell is bound to lag for a spell now that the city's lost its town clerk, tax collector, board of health agent and treasurer. He was Clem Poore, who has resigned his official duties to devote full time to private business—the popcorn stand at the Savory Theater.

SOCIETY: P. F. C. Yancey Caruthers, who holds a position with the U.S. army, is visiting his parents in Baleful Gap. Yancey explains that he is not on furlough, but AWOL, because he can't stand to take orders from a WAC captain.

The new telephone directory contains many new and changed listing and other helpful telephone information and is easily distinguishable from the old green-covered telephone book by its gray cover. BLUE AND GRAY FOOTBALL GAME
In this football game, the best players from the North meet the best from the South. The game has been played annually at Cramton Bowl since 1939 on the last Saturday in December. Receipts of the game are given to charity. It was due largely to the efforts of William A. Gunter and Champ Pickens that this game originated and it has done much to cement good will between the North and the South.

GIVE YOUR PIG A CHANCE TO MAKE A HOG OF HIMSELF

Even a pig needs some help in order to make a hog of himself.

Good summer management helps pigs make market-topping hogs. Well-fed, properly managed hogs make a profit most years. Diseased or parasite-infested hogs that don't get the right care and feed are a poor bet any year.

Start with healthy pigs and keep them healthy for fast gains and efficient feed use. A sick pig is a poor producer. It takes longer to get to market and requires more feed.

Sanitation is the first requirement for disease and parasite control. Green pasture provides cheap, nourishing feed and is the best way to maintain sanitation. Avoid stale mud wallows. Keep water and feed troughs clean and supplied with fresh water and well-balanced rations. Well-fed pigs are easiest to keep healthy.

Worm hogs with sodium fluoride. Vaccinate for cholera if your farm or neighborhood had a recent outbreak. Consult your veterinarian immediately when diseases occur. Use the new efficient, proved insecticide—BHC—to control lice, mange and flies.

Good rations make the most profit. Balance them for protein, minerals and vitamins. Feed liberally but without waste.

The noted feeding authority, F. B. Morrison, says in "Feeds and Feeding" that one pound of protein supplement will save five to six pounds of grain when used in amounts needed to balance rations for pigs.

Growing pigs and breeding sows need the vitamins, minerals and growth factors they get from green pasture. If pasture is not available, feed rations containing 5% alfalfa meal for fattening hogs and 10 to 15% alfalfa for breeding animals. A good mineral mixture to feed, free access, is two parts bone meal and one part salt.

Self-feeders promote fast gains and reduce labor costs. Hogging-down grain in the field is another day to save costs by reducing labor.

Plenty of clean, fresh water is essential at all times, but is especially important during hot summer months. Partially covered water troughs make it easy to keep water clean and cool.

Gold is found in east central Alabama. Although the ore is low grade, there has been much gold mining on Hog Mountain, Tallapoosa County, with smaller mines in the east central counties.

Diamond News—

The Clanton Red Stockings went one up on the "Millers" by defeating the Mill team by a score of 6 to 4 Sunday afternoon at the City Park. The "Red Stockings" got off to an early lead and managed to hang on the rest of the way.

In the first inning, Ellison Jed off with a walk. Cobb, singled, Baker beat out a bunt. McCormick was on an infield fly and Armstrong's single, scored two runs. Clanton scored twice more when Lowery's line drive was dropped in right field.

Cobb, for Clanton, got a "Chinese home" in the third inning when his fly ball to right field was misjudged and bounced over the fence. This gave Clanton a five to nothing lead.

The Mill team failed to score in the third when they got 3 walks and a single, but it was a different story in the fourth. J. Smith led off with a single. He then stole second and third and scored on a hit by Chambers.

Julius Smith singled and with two out, Jones scored two more runners with his single.

Clanton added to this lead by adding one in the seventh inning.

The "Millers" closed the gap in the 8th by getting one more run. McGee and H. Smith came through with base hits and McGee crossed the plate on J. Smith's infield out.

Johnny Smith pitched all the way for the Mill team. He gave up only 6 hits and 2 walks.

The "Millers" got 9 hits and 8 free passes off Holsenbeck and Tiffin who pitched for Clanton.

For the entire season Clanton has won 3 of the 5 games played between these two teams.

The Alabama Mills team will take to the road this week end. Saturday they play Billingsley and Sunday they play Prattville. Everybody come on out and see these boys play.

News Of Local Service Men-Where And How They Are

Second Lieutenant Hilman E. Mims, son of Miriam J. Mims, of Clanton Route 2, and First Lieutenant Robert E. Williamson, husband of Billie Ann Williamson, of 406-6th St., Clanton, Ala., were both graduated recently from the Associate Company Officer Course at the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga.

This course is designed to produce Company Grade Officers well grounded in the fundamentals and technique of all infantry units and is especially devoted to developing capable company commanders. All infantry graduates of Officers Candidate School attend this course after they are commissioned.

Robert E. Jones, Aviation Boat-swoins Mate, third class, U.S.N., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jones, of Verbena, Ala., Route 2, recently returned to the United States from the Far East, aboard the Aircraft Carrier USS Philippine Sea.

Since arrival in the Far East last August this ship has steamed more than five times the distance around the world. Her air groups have flown more than 10,000 combat sorties and are credited with the first MIG-15 shot down by a Navy Pilot.

Pfc. Charles D. DeLoach, son of Mrs. Otis W. DeLoach, of Clanton, Ala., is with the 127th Pilot Training Wing. He entered the service December, 1950, and since that time he has completed his basic training at Lackland, AFB, Texas, and attended Radar Mechanics school at Keesler AFB, Miss.

Lt. (jg) Dale A. Wetzel, U.S.N., husband of Mrs. Thelma L. Wetzel, of Rt. 1, Clanton, Ala., is serving aboard the Destroyer USS Massey and the ship arrived in Norfolk, Va., on July 2nd, after nine months duty in the Far East.

The Massey, a unit of Destroyer Division 162, left Norfolk last September and proceeded to the Far East via the Panama Canal. In addition to other actions, in support of U. N. Forces, the Massey assisted in the historic Hungnam Evacuation.

Private First Class Charles T. Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Cox of Route 3, Clanton, Ala., was among 26 students graduating from an army leadership school at Camp Chaffee, Ark. This was a tough six weeks training course which is required before entering Officers Candidate School.

Pvt. Cox was a graduate of Maplesville High School and attended Alabama Polytechnic Institute, prior to entering the service.

Howard Anderson, Jr., son of Goldina Anderson (colored) of Maplesville, Ala., Route 1, has re-enlisted in the Reserve Corps, and he has been assigned to Company A, 20th Infantry Regiment, Sixth Infantry Division at Fort Ord, Calif. Prior to entering the service Anderson was employed at the Streamlining Veneer Company.

Pvt. Hollis T. Henley, son of Mrs. Canzadie Kelley, of Maplesville, Ala., was with the 7th Infantry Division, U.S. Army in Korea. He left his unit, the 31st Infantry Regiment, on the fighting front in Korea recently to be rotated to the United States. During the most recent action, the men of Henley's unit, attached north of Hwacheon to breaking up the Eastern corner of the Communists from Triangle. His unit has been fighting in the Korean Campaign since the Inchon landing last September. Henley, who wears the Combat Infantry Badge, entered the service in July, 1943.

Even though he had no airplane and had both feet on the ground, Aubrey L. Evans, seaman apprentice, U.S.N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Evans of Route 4, Clanton, Ala., participated in a night bombing mission.

This "flight" was part of a night vision course he just completed at the U. S. Naval Air Station at San Diego, Calif. The course is a short informal one set up to teach navy pilots the importance of being able to see distinctly during night flying.

SUGGESTIONS ABOUT AUTOMATIC WASHING

Three important rules for getting best service from automatic washing machines are given by Stella Mitchell, A. P. L. Extension Service home management specialist.

First, use hot water. The temperature for good washing should be at least 135 degrees Fahrenheit for white clothes in the family wash. Water of 140 to 145 degrees Fahrenheit cleans even better.

Second, don't overload the machine. No washer cleans satisfactorily if too many clothes are put in at a time. Clothes need to be loose enough in the water to move freely, and loads need to be balanced between large and small pieces for best results.

Third, use a suitable detergent. The new synthetic detergents have been found more effective than soaps in automatic washers, especially in hard water. The detergents eliminate soap curd and lint, which accumulate to cause greying and yellowing. With the tumble type of washer, or in machines where cleaning is done mainly by water action, a low sudsing detergent is recommended.

COOL FOODS POPULAR THIS TIME OF YEAR

Yes, on a hot summer's day there is nothing that will cause comment quicker than something that looks cool especially when it's on the dinner table. "Cool-looking foods," says Mary Hulsey, A. P. I. Extension Service nutritionist, "perk up jaded appetites."

Lettuce is one of those cool-looking foods. Its green crisp leaves act as a base for a salad or may be served in wedges that have been thoroughly chilled."

LONG-HAIRED FURS

Recent reports show that long-haired furs are becoming popular again.

Look what 1/2¢ still buys for Alabama Homes...

AN HOUR'S TELEPHONE SERVICE

Growing Bargain

The price of telephone service has gone up far less than most things you buy. At the same time the number of telephones you can call at your local rate has nearly tripled in the past ten years.

Before you decide bargains no longer exist, take a close look at your telephone service. The telephone in your home is on duty day and night at an average charge in Alabama of less than one-half cent an hour.

Regardless of the time, if somebody needs to get in touch with you—from across the street, across town or across the nation—your telephone can be ringing in a matter of seconds.

Then there are the calls you make—to the drug store, the doctor, the hairdresser, to relatives and friends across town—calls that save you tiresome and expensive errands, calls that bring joy and good times, that help keep family ties and friendships alive.

To these every-day calls you make and receive, add the constant protection of your telephone in the event of emergency—and we believe you will agree that telephone service is one of today's biggest bargains.

Calvin died at 2:30 a.m. July 11, 1951, after having been admitted to the hospital Tuesday afternoon. Calvin was born in Perryville, Ala., and was reared in this community.

Funeral services took place Saturday at 11:00 a.m. at the Stanton Baptist Church. The pastor, Rev. J. R. Robinson, Jr., officiating. Interment in the Stanton Cemetery.

Breslin Service had charge of the body.

Eddie Riddick was in charge of the music and soloist during the funeral.

Mrs. I. D. Harrison, pianist.

Mrs. Prude Perry, Mrs. Clyde Gregg and Miss Ruth Hicks were in charge of flowers.

Flower bearers were: Joe Edd Bearden, Reg. Bearden, William Everett Davis, Alvin Davis, O. V. Harrison and Joseph Dennis.

Surviving are: His mother, Mrs. Velma Huff; two sisters, Mrs. Samuel Hillman, of Selma; Mrs. Ruth Burnett of Stanton; five brothers—E. A. Huff with the U. S. Navy, Philadelphia, E. B. Huff and Aubrey Huff of Stanton, Willard Huff of Gulfport, Miss., and James Huff, U. S. Air Force, Cocoa, Fla.

Sympathy is extended the loved ones.

The death of Rosa Lee Atchison, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Atchison of Stanton, took place at 7:30 a.m. Friday in a Selma hospital. The infant's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Grady Houston and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Atchison, all of Stanton. Our sympathy to the loved ones.

James Huff returned to Cocoa, Fla., Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Huff and son returned to Gulfport, Miss., Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Huff of Philadelphia will remain in this section this week visiting with their mother, Mrs. Velma Huff, and Mrs. Nick Harrison and other relatives.

Miss Ruby Durden returned from a Montgomery hospital last Monday and is with her mother, Mrs. Harvey Barnes. Ruby is doing nicely and during her stay in Montgomery the cast was removed from her lower limb and after pictures were made of her limb the doctors told her that her operation was very successful. Ruby is still walking with the aid of crutches, but is able to be up and around every place now since the cast is below the knee and is much more comfortable. Ruby is a very courageous girl and one that makes friends wherever she goes. She has such a nice outlook on life and is always eager to better her self in every way possible. Much credit is due her.

On July 15, Mrs. Polly Barnes gave a barbecue with all the trimmings at her home honoring her son, Arthur Barnes, and his wife from Boie, Tex. Such good eats and a wonderful day for all present. Those enjoying the day together were: Mr. and Mrs. Louis Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Osborn and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Barnes, Miss Ruby Durden, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Barnes, Miss Willie Barnes, Ruby Nell Barnes, Blossom Barnes and Mrs. Polly Barnes.

Mrs. Chester Nichols and sons of Plantersville spent last Thursday with Mrs. Hinton Duncan and family.

Ruby Nell Barnes is spending this week with her father, Mr. Harvey Barnes, and Mrs. Barnes.

Of special interest throughout this section is the marriage of Miss Jimmie Lou Gregg, attractive daughter of Mrs. Stella Gregg and the late Mr. Henry Gregg, to John B. Simmons, son of Mrs. Dollie Simmons of Alamo, Tenn., on July 3rd, 1951, at 6:15, at the home of the Rev. James Monroe in Birmingham, Ala.

Witnessing this wedding were Miss Willie Mae Gregg, sister of the bride, and Mr. John Franky.

Mr. and Mrs. Simmons spent their honeymoon here with their mother, Mrs. Stella Gregg, and other relatives, are Mrs. Evelyn Gregg Everett and son, Gregg, of Washington, D. C.

In our news last week we erroneously stated that the Rev. Corkran of Montgomery was conducting a revival at the tent of the Church of Christ. This morning two of the members called and asked that a correction be made regarding this. They stated that their leaders were not referred to as Reverend, but as Evangelist. The spelling of this name was also incorrect. It was spelled "Corkran" and should have been spelled Corkren. Our sincere apologies to Evangelist Cecil Corkren. Evangelist Corkren is attending Christian Bible College in Montgomery and commutes daily to carry on his work here at the tent of the Church of Christ. Revival will continue through this Friday night.

Each Sunday afternoon at 2:30 the Church of Christ will have a speaker and extend a cordial invitation to all to worship with them.

A family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reedy near Plantersville Sunday, July 15th. A barbecue with all the trimmings was thoroughly enjoyed. Present to enjoy this get-together were: Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reedy and Reedy, D. Reedy, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Reedy of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. James Cable and Billy, of Fairfield; Mr. Morris Reedy, Jr., and Mr. Charles Reedy of Selma; Mrs. W. A. Gandy, of Billingsley; Mrs. W. B. Harville, of Plantersville; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Harville and Larry, of Selma; Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lecher, Mrs. R. E. Campbell and Bobby Campbell, of Fairfield; Mrs. L. P. Mills and Bruce, of Billingsley; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Thompson and Miss Sara Ann Thompson, of Bessemer; Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Thompson and Tommy, of Andalusia; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Herrold, John Wiley Herrold and W. C. Herrold, III, of Plantersville; Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Gay of Stanton; and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Little and Mrs. Ruby Mae Biscoe, of Plantersville, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay Watts and Donald Samek returned to their home in Miami, Fla., early Monday morning after visiting with their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mary Hicks.

Mrs. Velma Huff and family wish to take this means of thanking their friends and relatives who so generously gave of their time, their help, their food, their every deed of kindness, their thoughtfulness and for the beautiful flowers during the death of their loved one, Calvin Monroe Huff.

They wish to thank also Bro. Robinson for his kind message and comforting words.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Carter of Lawley has announced the birth of a son at the Baptist Hospital on Thursday, July 12, 1951, Selma, Ala. The Carters moved from this section to Lawley several months ago.

Also to Mrs. James Vessey and her girls we give thanks for keeping the glasses washed and ready for the next day's serving.

Don't forget our revival at Mulberry (Isabella School) will begin next Sunday morning with Rev. Fred Lowery doing the preaching, beginning Sunday morning while our pastor, Rev. J. W. has been invited to be our guest Sunday night.

Our pastor and superintendent urges everyone to be present Sunday if possible as they hope to have a record breaking crowd.

There will be a working by all who can on Mulberry's new church next Saturday. The women will bring dinner to them at 12 o'clock.

On Friday, July 20th, everyone will meet at the cemetery to clean it off. Bring the necessary tools you will need.

The W.M.S. still has plenty vanilla and lemon flavoring. Be sure to get some from Pep Lecroy's Store. We need to sell it.

We are still having good crowds at our prayer services in the homes. Let's all be very much in prayer for our coming revival next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Martin (nee Dora Frances Grooms) announce the birth of a 7-pound 5-ounce baby boy who was born at Maxwell Field Hospital in Montgomery Monday, July 9th. Mother and baby are doing nicely at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Grooms.

DDT TREATMENT FOR PEACH TREE BORERS

(Note: Research authorities vary widely on effectiveness of the borer-control method described below. Yet, a number of growers are requesting information and the following should be helpful to those who want to try the spray type of borer control treatment.

Due to a lack of constant facts, this is not a recommendation but a basis for trials.)

Up until forty years ago, treatment for peach-tree borers was a losing proposition. The knife-and-wire treatment was almost as destructive as the borers themselves and peach orchards passed out at eight to ten years of age. Treatment with PDB crystals started then and still gives satisfactory control when properly carried out, but it requires too much exacting care in soil preparation and application for high-priced labor. PDB in oil emulsions is about equally effective, safer and easier to apply. Ethylene dichloride emulsion (and others) proved tricky under some soil and weather conditions are not recommended at present.

Before discussing the DDT treatment, let's review what we know about the peach-tree borer itself. We know what the borer looks like and what it does to the tree. But, DDT treatment involves the adult borer, particularly mama, who lays the eggs. She looks and flies much like a wasp, but up close we see that she has steel blue forewings and a bright orange-colored band around her abdomen. She flies mostly in the heat of the day, lights on the peach tree trunk and tucks her eggs (she carries from 20 to 600 of them) into cracks in the bark.

There may be a few borer moths emerging early in the summer, but most of them emerge in late July, August and into September. Treatment consists in keeping the trunks of peach trees covered with DDT, from the ground up to the main crotches, during these months. Authorities differ on the strength of the DDT solution and time and number of applications, but rather extensive grower testing indicates that 3 to 4 pounds actual DDT (6 to 8 pounds 50% DDT) per hundred gallons in three, monthly applications, early in July, August and September give excellent control. (Peculiarly, moths emerge earlier further north and treatment must start earlier—about mid-June.) Some growers are satisfied with only two applications, late July and late August, but this is not recommended at present. DDT at this strength remains potent for the month interval and kills many of the moths as they alight to start egg-laying, and later it kills any larvae which hatch from these eggs as they crawl to the moist bark near the soil line to start their "boring."

A portable sprayer with pressure cut to a minimum (10 pounds will do) and rods with single 45-degree-angle nozzles will cover trunks completely at steady walking speed. For smaller acreages or young trees, a hand-pumped garden sprayer will do satisfactory work. A grower, who didn't want to will the pipes of his stationary spray system with the heavy DDT solution, had him carry pails of the solution and swabbed the trees with long-handled whitewash brushes with excellent results. Far mature trees it will require between a pint and a quart of material—depending on age, roughness of bark and length of trunk—to do a good job with a power sprayer. Hand sprayers use less material but labor costs are higher.

RECOMMENDED LOCATION FOR FALL VEGETABLES

Gardeners often run into dry weather after July, and this lack of moisture may be the limiting factor in the production of late summer and fall crops.

John Bagby, A.P.I. Extension Service horticulturist, says that this condition may be partially avoided by planting fall beans, turnips, and other crops in small fertile branch heads and draws.

If your aluminum pots and pans have become stained they may be cleaned to their original bright color by boiling them in buttermilk or a weak vinegar solution. A few rhubarb leaves added to a quart of water and boiled in the pan also will brighten it up.

The best way to preserve paintbrushes when not in use is to hang them in raw lined oil in covered containers. Thus supported from the top, the bristles are completely covered by the oil yet they do not touch the bottom of the can.

County Commissioners Urge Election On Bonds For Building Of New Courthouse

The Judge of Probate and the County Commissioners voted unanimously Monday to have a county wide election on bonds to pay for the cost of the new courthouse and annex. The Judge and each Commissioner expressed the opinion that the new facilities were sorely needed by the County.

The election is to be held when the Constitutional Amendments are voted on after the present Legislature adjourns. Such voting must be within ninety days after legislative adjournment. While the county has received the equivalent of a priority from governmental authorities for the construction, county officials decided that the amount of the cost was so large that they preferred a favorable vote from the people before proceeding.

A special election would cost from four to five thousand dollars. Even though the approval for construction from the government lasts only until September 12th, the officials decided to take a chance on an extension of time rather than pay the cost of a special election on the courthouse question only. It is believed that the necessary extension of time will be granted.

The officials expressed the considered opinion that there was no hope for cheaper construction costs within the foreseeable future. They felt that the new facilities are a "must" for the county.

The election will probably be held in December of this year. Under this plan the following will be true:

- (1) The qualified voters shall decide whether or not bonds of the county are to be issued to defray the cost.
- (2) The county shall be spared the expense of several thousand dollars for a special election.
- (3) The price and rate of interest on the bonds shall be established at a competitive public sale.
- (4) No new taxes shall be required to pay the bonds.

W. L. PARRISH, Judge of Probate and Ex-Officio Chairman of the Court of County Commissioners.

Rev. J. B. Hillson will preach at the homecoming at Rocky Mount next Sunday, July 29th.

Rev. Hillson was born at Macon, Ga., and spent most of his young life at Knoxville, Tenn. In 1916 the family moved to Baldwin County where he lived until 1922. He finished college at Marion College in Indiana and served as pastor of various churches in South Carolina for the next 11 years. He is now secretary of Greenville College at Greenville, Ill.

The previous article printed in Chilton County News stated that Rev. Hillson was placed in an orphanage upon the deaths of his parents; this was not true. According to the writer he had been misinformed as to the facts in the case.

A CORRECTION

In the funeral notice of Mr. C. W. Lewis in last week's issue of Chilton County News we should have said that the service was conducted by Rev. Ray M. Jones of the Methodist Church, assisted by Rev. B. B. Burk, pastor of the Thorsby Baptist Church. This error was in the report received by the News and we are glad to make this correction.

EVANGELIST CHAS. C. CRIDER TRUTH FOR THESE TIMES

MRS. CHAS. C. CRIDER R.N. and B.S. in Nursing Education

Are you attending the services at the Gospel Tent located on South 7th Street? If not, you are missing very important and timely lectures.

Last Sunday night Evangelist Chas. C. Crider talked on the Destiny of Asia as taught from the Scriptures. Joel 3:9-12 speaks of the heathen awaking. Rev. 16:12-16 mentions that the way for the Kings of the East will be prepared for the Battle of the Great Day of the Lord which is Armageddon. He very strikingly pointed out how these prophecies are fulfilling today.

Next Sunday night Evangelist Crider will speak on The Destiny of Europe as told in the Scriptures.

Besides spiritual and Biblical messages Truth For These Times features a special series of health talks by Mrs. Charles C. Crider.

Mrs. Crider is a registered nurse with an A.B.S. degree in nursing education. She will talk on problems concerning the family health and current health problems.

The Clanton Chamber of Commerce is issuing certificates in $25.00 denominations for the purpose of financing the buying of good dairy cattle throughout the county. These certificates bear no interest, but are issued with the understanding that any purchaser can cash the certificate at any time he so desires with a 60-day notice to the Chamber of Commerce.

Money raised in this manner is going to buy cattle for worthy farmers who are financially unable to stock their farms and get started. Of course the money will be a loan to the farmer and will be paid back to the Chamber of Commerce who will then use the money to finance another farmer who desires to get into the cattle business.

A representative group of C of C members were to visit in Marion, Ala., Wednesday to learn first hand just how the system operates and the benefits that can be derived from the undertaking, but the trip was cancelled at the last moment. Marion Chamber of Commerce has used the system to bring dairy cattle into the county and have found it pays large dividends to the merchants of the county as well as the farmer.

COMEDY NIGHT IS COMING!

Jemison, Alabama, July 24, 1951.

Ben Tucker, Editor
Chilton County News
Clanton, Alabama

Dear Sir:

I am very much opposed to turning our road building over to the State, as I believe we have people as capable as you will find anywhere. It seems to me we have some very good roads in our County compared to roads in other counties.

Changing the present set up won't necessarily mean we will have better roads. Under any system it is possible to have graft and mismanagement.

It is not possible to legislate morals and integrity, this must be furnished by the ones who administer the law. I believe if all the elective officers in the county were required to be filled every two years, it would give the voters a greater opportunity to keep better officials. I think we would have a better commissioners Court if each district voted for their Commissioner instead of the present system. There is just as much logic in the whole county voting for the different town mayors as for the whole county voting for each district's Commissioners.

I would like for the people to be given an opportunity to vote on any proposed change or at least discuss the PRO and CON in community meetings.

There are so many important things for our representatives to use their talent in solving, such as: Some way to finance a real pension for our old people and setting up a State hospital for alcoholics, who in the near future will present a real problem.

Yours truly,
P. J. NORWOOD.

Many out-of-town people came to attend the funeral of their friend and loved one, Bradley Sanders, Sunday.

Samuel Bradley Sanders, age 31, of Plantersville, was killed almost instantly in a 9:00 a.m. Saturday accident, which occurred at the abandoned plant of the Southeastern Sand & Gravel Co., near the railroad trestle east of Selma, Ala.

Sanders, an employee of the Southeastern Sand & Gravel Co., was reported by Coroner Bernard Reynolds to have been assisting fellow employees in loading an old shovel dipper onto a truck for movement to Plantersville when the fatal accident occurred.

Coroner Reynolds said that Sanders was on the back of the truck and had unhooked the lifting cable from the shovel dipper after it had been raised and loaded by a wrecker into a local automobile concern. Throwing the cable outward, after having signaled the wrecker to move out, Sanders lost his footing and fell to the ground. Unsteady on the truck body, the dipper fell off of the truck and on to him before he could move.

A doctor pronounced him dead on arrival at a local hospital, where he was rushed by Breslin Service ambulance.

Born and reared in Plantersville, Mr. Sanders was the son of Mrs. Ola Mitchell, his wife, Mrs. Willie Belle Sanders, of Plantersville; four brothers, Raymond of Selma, Ala., Joel Harper and Monroe J. of Birmingham, Zeddie of Plantersville; three sisters—Mrs. C. B. Rucker of Selma, Mrs. Hicks Harrison of Stanton and Mrs. John Howard Rush of Plantersville.

Funeral services were held from the Plantersville Baptist Church at 4:00 p.m. Sunday, July 22nd, 1951, Rev. J. R. Robinson, Jr., officiating; interment in the adjoining cemetery.

Barbecue—
Mr. R. W. Stremming entertained the employees and their families of Stremming Veneer Co. Plant No. 1 and 2, with a barbecue in the Crumpton Grove Clubhouse last Saturday. Several hundred attended with lots of invited guests.

A nice plate of barbecue, baked beans, potato salad and all the trimmings were served. Cold drinks for everyone. There was music all day. Everyone had a nice day with plenty to eat.

I wonder if anyone thanked Mr. Stremming? Maybe so, and maybe not, everyone is aware this was quite expensive. So I would like to thank Mr. Stremming for the nice barbecue. It meant so much to the employees and community. I am not an employee, nor did I attend the barbecue, but I feel that he should have a few words of thanks here in this column of Maplesville news items. So I am taking upon myself to thank him. It takes such outings as this to get our people together and help build a better community. This is not the first barbecue he has given and probably will not be the last.

I was not able to get the names of the out-of-town guests, but I understand there were quite a few, including Mr. Stremming's father.

HOMECOMING AT PINEDALE CHURCH

There will be a homecoming at old Pinedale Church July 27th. There will be services all day with dinner served on the grounds at noon. The church is located about four miles northeast of Clanton off Lay Dam Road. This will be the 42nd annual homecoming for this fine old church. The church congregation was formed about 1909. The present building was erected in the fall of 1912. The church became a member of the Alabama District Conference of the Assemblies of God soon afterward. Then on March 28, 1928, it was received into the General Council of the Assemblies of God, Inc. with headquarters in Springfield, Mo.

This church was founded and pastored for many years by the late Rev. J. J. DuBose. Down through the years the old church has made its mark upon the community in which it serves. This church has long been noted for its stand for the full gospel. Its roster has had many new names added each year; the past year has seen a good increase in Sunday School and other work in general. We have just closed our 42nd revival Sunday night. This meeting drew some of our largest crowds with much good accomplished. All former members and pastors are urged to attend this annual homecoming. — Pastor, Thomas D. Rachela.

Baptist Notes—

Mr. Merchant takes this opportunity to announce the Sunday School Monthly Workers Council for Friday, August 3, at 7:30. He anticipates a report from all the departments of the Sunday School and asks that preparation be made for refreshments. We are insisting that the various classes of our Sunday School shall go out on a visitation program in the interest of bringing in the absentees and also reaching as many of our possibilities as we can.

Bro. Cobb will inform us as to the time for the Program Planning meeting of our Training Union. It is imperative that we have this meeting in order to keep up the interest in Training Union and also to render the best possible programs each Sunday night. We trust there will be the closest cooperation in carrying on this kind of work.

The church extends our deepest sympathy to the Lewis family in the homegoing of their father, and also to Mr. Leonard Marcus and his family in the homegoing of his wife. They can be assured that we will keep them in our prayers.

Prayer meeting Wednesday night at 7:30-8:15, followed by choir practice. If there has ever been a time that the people of the Lord should turn to God in earnest prayer and supplication, it is now. We trust that more of our church family will respond to this opportunity to pool their interest and their prayer at the throne of God.

The pastor reports a fine revival at Chestnut Creek Church. The power of the Spirit of God has been demonstrated in a great way. Many have rededicated their lives to the service of God. May we continue to remember this fine church, its pastor and family in our prayers. Also, we should constantly pray for a great outpouring of the Holy Spirit on the people throughout our land, and that revivals scheduled may be a great success.

INSECTICIDES CAN KILL HUMAN BEINGS

Insecticides are poisons. Most of them will kill people and other kinds of animals.

With these two facts in mind, W. A. Ruffin, A.P.I. Extension Service entomologist, urges that all kinds of insect poisons be handled with care. Use them only as directed. Do not breathe dust or fumes of insecticides, and remove poisons from face and hands by washing with soap and water.

PROTECT GRAIN

Every bushel of grain produced this year will be needed in the nation's defense effort. Farmers are urged to protect grain in storage from insects. Insect damage after harvest and while grain is in storage ruins an estimated five to 10 per cent of the annual U. S. production of food and feed grains.

GOOD FISHING MAY BE RIGHT DOWN THE ROAD

Auburn, Ala. — Looking for a good place to fish in Alabama? If so, Earl F. Kennamer, A.P.I. Extension Service fish and wildlife specialist, is ready to share the secret.

In fact, he has published a list of privately owned ponds that may be fished by the public. It includes the name of the pond, its size and location in relation to a well known geographical point, and the cost of a daily fishing permit. Also, the list states whether or not boating privileges are available.

The specialist points out that a good, well managed, and properly fertilized farm pond will produce more game fish than an equal area of stream water.

A copy of the list can be obtained from the local county agent or from most of the approved hotels and tourist courts in the state. Sporting goods stores, hardware dealers, and approved hotels and tourist courts that do not have the list may request one by writing Earl F. Kennamer, fish and wildlife specialist, A.P.I. Extension Service, Auburn, Ala.

PASTURE IRRIGATION PROVES PROFITABLE

Auburn, Ala. — In dry seasons milk production and returns above feed costs drop in proportion to pasture quality and quantity.

"It's this pasture quality and quantity that need to be kept at a high peak in order that maximum milk production can be obtained from all cows," states Pete Turnham, A.P.I. Extension Service dairyman. "And with pasture irrigation it is possible to have tender, green, nutritious pasture plants that will help keep milk production and milk profits at a maximum peak during hot, dry seasons."

Clemson College has just completed a survey on the value of pasture irrigation and the cost of applying water to pastures. By using a perforated pipe system it cost $2.28 an acre to put on a two inch application of water. By another similar method of irrigation the cost amounted to $4.02 an acre for a two inch application. Expenses included cost of equipment, interest on money invested, gas, oil, and manpower. The irrigated area produced 1,646 pounds more dry matter per acre than the non-irrigated.

"These figures prove that pasture irrigation is profitable from the dairyman's standpoint," declares Turnham.

Farmers who plan to defoliate cotton this fall are urged to make arrangements with their local dealers now so that the defoliant material will be on hand when needed.

Diamond News—

Playing one of their best games of the year, the Millers won a ten-inning game from a favored Billingsley team by a score of 7-6.

It was a costly victory, as Chambers, the team's leading hitter, suffered a badly injured hand in the first inning and will be a loss to the team for several days.

Chambers had led off with a walk and raced to third on Johnny Smith's bunt and was hurt sliding into third. He was replaced by Julius Smith who scored on Hamrick's infield out.

Billingsley scored once in the first and repeated in the second. Coggins, pitcher for the Millers, settled down and through the next five innings gave up only one hit.

The Millers scored 2 in the fourth and 2 more in the fifth and once in the seventh to lead 6-2.

Coggins was pitching for his sixth victory against no losses and had gone the route in every game that he had started began to tire and had to be relieved by Johnny Smith in the ninth, as the Billingsley team all but pulled the game out of the fire.

They scored four times to tie the score and had runners on second and third with one out. Smith passed one batter to fill the bases and then promptly fanned one batter and got the third out on a fly to center field.

In the tenth Jones singled and stole second. Minor then doubled into left center and Jones scored. Smith pitched to only three batters in the tenth, Jones made a nice running catch in center field to get the third out.

The Millers' outfield composed of Bannister, Julius Smith and Minor turned in several sporting catches.

Lehman Jones, the Millers' first baseman, who played the last two innings in center field, led the hitting parade with four safeties. Hamrick got two hits and Smith was the winning pitcher.

Alabama Mills vs. Prattville—
Leo Hamrick, the Millers' new pitcher, set the Prattville team down with six hits and should have scored a shut-out, but support by his teammates was not up to par and errors allowed four Prattville runs to cross the plate.

The Millers scored 11 runs off 13 hits to gain the victory for Hamrick. McGee and Hamrick had two hits each. H. Smith three and Bates four. The Millers' season record now stands at 15 wins and 11 losses.

The Millers will clash with Lomax Wednesday, Billingsley Saturday and Greenville Sunday. All games are to be played at the City Park. Come on out, folks, and let's support our team. They need our support and confidence. So come on and let's make these boys feel good by showing up at all of these games.

DANIEL - MURPHREE

The marriage of Miss Erlene Daniel to Sgt. Oliver E. (Gene) Murphree was solemnized at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, July 14th, at the First Methodist Church of Clanton, Ala.

Rev. J. M. McKinney officiated using the double-ring ceremony and the nuptial music was presented by Miss Pat Huddleston with Mr. Joe Mullins, Jr. at the organ.

The vows were read before an altar draped in smilax and white ribbon and centered with a large basket of gladioli. Tall candle holders were placed on either side of the altar and the candles were lighted by Cpl. Ralph Brown.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Robert, was lovely in a ballerina length dress of white lace over ring satin. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was caught to a tier of orange blossoms and she carried a prayer book marked with a white orchid and satin streamers.

Miss Ruth Daniels served as her sister's maid of honor and wore a ballerina length dress of blue lace with a arm bouquet of pink carnations. The groom's sister, Miss Virginia Murphree, was lovely as maid of honor in a ballerina length dress of yellow net and carrying an arm bouquet of pink carnations.

Sgt. Matthew Thomaston served as best man and Mr. Lee Gore and Cpl. Ralph Brown, Jr. served as ushers. Following the wedding a reception was given at the home of the groom's parents.

The receiving rooms were lovely, decorated in summer flowers with the lace covered dining table, centered with a three-tiered embossed cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and flanked by tall burning tapers.

In the receiving line besides the bride's party was the bride's mother, Mrs. Wise Daniel, wearing a lovely dress of light blue crepe with a corsage of pink carnations, and the groom's mother, Mrs. G. T. Murphree, in a navy sheer dress with a corsage of pink carnations.

Serving at the tea table were: Mrs. Robert Daniels, Misses Joan Hartley and Clara Smith and Miss Dorothy Nell Blacklock kept the bride's book.

The couple left for a brief honeymoon immediately following the reception. For traveling the bride wore a suit of navy with white accessories.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. George Looney, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond House, Mrs. Ada Marsh, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Jackson, Mrs. Robert Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Love, Misses Joan Hartley and Clara Smith and Mr. Lee Gore, Jr., all of Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. Carl Williams, Miss Billie Faye Williams and Mrs. Hugh Goodwin, from Mt. Pinson; Pvt. Howard W. Williams, Sgt. Matthew Thomaston and Cpl. Ralph Brown, Jr., from Fort Jackson, S. C.; Mrs. Emmette Daniel, of Camp Hill, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daniel and children, Buddy and Brenda, from West Point, Ga.; Mrs. Leonard Bosworth, of Thorsby, Ala.; Mrs. Jim Murr, of Selma, Ala.; and Mr. Lamar Deloach, of Heflin, Ala.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

CONGRESS continued with its legislative fort-during during this past week with little accomplished except debate on the controls extension act, with some indication that both houses may repudiate their action in extending the measure on a 31-day stop-gap basis banning price roll-backs. The indications were in the first days of debate in the house that the Administration might get through a fairly workable defense production measure, with the ban on roll-backs applying only to farm commodities.

In the meantime, if the President cares to make any further comparisons of congressional action, such as he did with the 80th congress, here is the box score as of July 1. By that date, the 80th congress had enacted 145 public bills into law. The 81st congress enacted 154 bills during its first six months, and the present congress has enacted only 58 through June 28, plus five which were awaiting the President's signature at that time.

In cold-shouldering some of Truman's proposals, the 81st congress has been about the same as its predecessors.

Some defenders of the congress point to the intense investigative activity and assert that the exhaustive inquiries into the President's troops-for-Europe policy and his ouster of MacArthur, to cite two examples, plus the crime probe and the present inquiry into narcotics, have been as worthwhile in their way as action on bills would have been. They also declare that the Administration has been slow in sending up its proposals. However, the first tax message was sent to the congress Feb. 2, and the message asking extension of the whole economic controls program embodied in the defense production act was sent to congress April 26, while the message on the $6.5 billion foreign aid program was sent up on May 24. All these programs, with exception of the tax bill had expiration dates of June 30.

The debate on extension of the defense production act started in earnest July 5 with a statement by Congressman Brent Spence, of Kentucky, chairman of the house banking committee, with the warning that the nation faces a "disaster" if economic controls are allowed to lapse. Spence, fearing a letdown in defense mobilization as a result of the peace talks in Korea said: "It takes a Pearl Harbor to arouse a people; it takes very little to hull it to sleep."

While over in the senate, no less a farm champion than Senator George Aiken of Vermont said that an armed truce in Korea "would pretty well wipe out whatever little need there may be now for those (price and wage) controls."

While the House was considering the production act, the senate took up debate on the $350,000,000 appropriation bill for the Interior Department and restored much of the cut made in that measure by the house. Of this, the senate restored $5,500,000 stricken by the house, for construction funds for the Bonneville Power Administration. On the public power question, the senate restored to a degree, an amendment agreed to by the House which would have prohibited the reclamation bureau from starting construction of duplicating power distribution lines where private utilities have agreements to transmit government-generated power. The senate version would permit the bureau to build these lines for which construction funds already have been appropriated, or for which contracts have been entered into, or where private utilities are "unable or unwilling" to carry out such "wheeling" agreements.

Over objections of Senator Wherry and others, who championed the measure, the senate deferred further consideration of the now famous freight transportation measure called the "basing points" bill until August 2. The bill approved by the Senate Judiciary committee without hearings is virtually the same as the measure vetoed by President Truman last year. Senator Russell Long, of Louisiana, in opposing the bill, said it would injure business and do a great amount of harm to our competitive economy.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT GIVES INFORMATION REGARDING FOOD HANDLING

It must be presumed that all foods are contaminated with some bacteria. They may be the harmful kind which cause infection or sickness of the person who eats the food. These are the ones with which we are most concerned, and are the hardest to detect because they seldom change the appearance, taste or odor of the food even when present in large numbers. Bacteria may be introduced into foods from handling; utensils with which the food comes in contact; water with which the food is washed or prepared; dust; or flies, roaches, rats, etc. In the case of meat foods, bacteria are sometimes present or introduced when the animal or fowl is killed.

If only a small number of bacteria are introduced into foods, and the food is moist and warm, they will grow to enormous numbers in a short time. Under good conditions bacteria may double in number every 20 minutes. Thus a portion of food which has 1000 bacteria in it, (and these all might be laid on the head of a pin without one touching the other, they are so small), may contain 64,000 bacteria at the end of two hours, and 4,096,000 at the end of four hours. This can be prevented by handling the food so as to prevent introduction of the bacteria into the food and by either keeping the food too hot or too cold for their multiplication.

College, was home for the week end with him was Percy Levine, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Miss Ola Rogers is spending a week with the Joyce Howard family in Birmingham.

Mrs. Seymour Reynolds is in the West End Hospital. She is slowly improving. We hope she will soon be at home.

Mrs. Lester Pate spent Thursday in Birmingham with her niece, Mrs. Euphemia Ballard. She called on Mrs. Seymour Reynolds at the hospital.

Mr. Watson is at home, having been in the hospital for an operation. He is gradually improving.

Betty Jean Gloss is in Panama City, Fla., for a few days, having accompanied her sister, Mrs. Aubrey Robinson, who lives there now.

Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Thomas, of Birmingham, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Gloss.

tin once they have been introduced. Heating by thorough cooking kills practically all bacteria.

In order to prevent the entrance of the bacteria into foods in so far as possible, and to prevent their growth if they do gain entrance, the following simple rules should always be observed when handling food:

1. Hands, nails, persons and clothes should be kept scrupulously clean and after washing the hands a clean single use towel should be used.

2. Avoid touching a food with the hands whenever possible.

3. The utensils, containers, tables, etc., with which food comes in contact should be scrupulously clean and free of cracks and breaks. Dishes and other utensils should be thoroughly disinfected by immersing them in hot water (170 degrees F or more) for at least one minute.

4. Fresh fruits and vegetables should be placed in small shallow pans when they are to be stored in the refrigerator to insure quick cooling. Cooling to the center of a thick mass of food may be sufficiently delayed to permit bacteria growth.

6. Foods that are to be served hot should be kept hot from the time of cooking until serving. Cooked foods to be served cold, should be promptly cooled after cooking and then immediately placed in the refrigerator.

7. Meat that is to be used in soups, dressing, etc., should be used and served soon after preparation.

8. All foods, and especially mixtures like hash and dressing, should be prepared, cooked and served in as short a time as possible. They should never be prepared the night before or even several hours in advance.

9. Canned foods which can be heated should always be heated to a boiling temperature before serving. Bulged cans or those with off taste or odor should be discarded.

10. Surroundings should be kept free of insects, rats, roaches and dust. All food should be kept covered to prevent contamination from these.

11. Persons having skin infections such as boils, sore throats, or intestinal disturbances or any infectious conditions should not work with food until they are well.

THOMAS WYATT IS SIX

It was a happy birthday for Thomas Wyatt, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Wyatt, on Saturday, July 21st, when he celebrated with a party, and thanks to Old Man Weather. He and his guests were able to play on the lawn of his parents' home. There were games galore, with the goldfish pond proving to be a very interesting place.

The highlight of the afternoon was on the arrival of the honor guest, Uncle Riley Robinson, great grandfather, of the little host. Uncle Riley was one-hundred years young in February. On his arrival he shook hands and spoke to each little guest who in return showed his and her appreciation by each one trying to serve Uncle Riley the most glasses, filled with the delicious lemonade.

Mr. Scott was on hand to make pictures of Thomas beside the many lovely gift wrapped packages from his little friends. Pictures were taken of the honor guest and of several scenes during the gala affair.

The guests were invited into the dining room where bright colored inflated balloons dangled in dashing

The cake was cut and served with ice cream. As the group of girls and boys assembled around the table, they sang, "Happy Birthday" to the little host.

Each little face glowed with enchantment over the colorful balloons and candy filled miniature baskets given as favors.

Lovely orchid glads with fern and potted house plants were used in the living room, with the pink and white color scheme repeated in the flower decorations of the dining room.

Parents' Problems

By DONALD M. MAYNARD

The Eating Problem

Our eighteen-month-old son doesn't have a very good appetite and all he eats at each meal is his milk. I have tried many ways to get him to eat, but my husband believes the only way is to force him to eat and spank him when he spits out the food that is forced down him. I tried to discourage my husband but it did no good, so finally I let him handle it his way. He scolded the baby, shook and spanked him until the baby was so upset that he vomited several times. How can I help my husband see how harmful his attitude is toward the child?

First of all, let me commend you on your understanding of your problem. Forcing children to eat not only tends to create a violent dislike for the food forced upon them but, also, to create an emotional state that takes away their appetite and makes it difficult to digest the food that is eaten.

If your husband had knew it, he is using the method almost universally condemned by experts in child psychology on eating issued by the Children's Bureau, The United States Department of Labor, Washington, D. C. It might be worth your while to order these and have them around the house, hoping your husband will pick one up and read it.

The Pocket Book of Baby and Child Care, by Spock, that can be secured from almost any newsstand, contains good suggestions concerning how to get children to eat. Dr. Florence Dunbar, in her book, Your Child's Mind and Body, has an excellent chapter on eating that should be helpful to your husband.

Food should not be forced upon your child, or even given to him with the attitude, "Now you'll find out how wrong you've been." Let him either pick them up of his own accord, or suggest that since you do have this problem of eating, it might be helpful if both of you would try to find out what some of the experts advise.

In addition to having books and pamphlets on eating around, it might be helpful for you and your husband to have a conference with your physician about the problem. Your doctor should be able to suggest to your husband more desirable ways of dealing with the situation.

Old Folks and New Rules

I live in a three-generation home. How can my husband and I keep grandma and grandpa from spoiling our young son? It is hard to observe schedules because they want to play with him. They say our "rules" are poppycock.

The three-generation home that does not face the problem you have presented is indeed a rarity.

For as parents so situated, let me suggest first of all that you try to be as understanding of and patient with the grandparents as possible. It is quite to be expected that they should feel that their way of bringing up children cannot be surpassed. After all, haven't they raised their own, and aren't you a shining example of the success of their method? So really you should feel complimented when they look somewhat askance at what seems to them to be your newfangled and thoroughly absurd ideas about raising youngsters.

It would not be altogether out of place, furthermore, for you to look a bit more closely at the rules you have established to see whether or not any of them really are "poppycock." It is well to remember that sometimes young parents, in their zeal to do what is right, place too much emphasis upon routines and schedules and not enough upon the need of children for attention and affection.

Wouldn't it be fine, too, if, as you rethink your rules, you would get suggestions from the grandparents? Of course, you will not be able to accept all of them, but the simple fact that

If you have a question about your child—from infancy through the teen—send it to Donald M. Maynard, 810 Broadway, Nashville 2, Tennessee, to be answered through a future column.

They have been consulted with ease the tension somewhat. If you can accept one or two of their suggestions, assuring them how grateful you are for them, they may even decide that you have inherited at least a few bits of their intelligence!

You will want to get the judgment of your physician and of others who have given much thought to child guidance. As you make out your new set of rules, don't forget that your boy probably needs to have the grandparents play with him at least occasionally. Provide times in your schedule, therefore, when they can do so. There will be other times, of course, when the boy must not be disturbed.

With your new schedule carefully thought out, you now are ready to take a firm stand with respect to it. Let the grandparents know the reasons for it. Face frankly with them the fact that they may not agree with all of the rules, but that you expect them to co-operate with you. Be tactful and understanding but firm. They may grumble a bit, but probably will co-operate as best they can.

If it is important that you and the grandparents should not quarrel about these rules in front of your boy. To do so will bring to him a sense of confusion, frustration, and insecurity.

May I add that it would seem very desirable to encourage the grandparents to read such magazines as The Christian Home and Parents' Magazine. Some of us wonder, too, if it would not be well for the church to offer occasionally a course on child study, designed primarily for grandparents!

Summertime is a good time for the family to get together at an outdoor grill or barbecue pit. Also occasional buffet and picnic basket meals give everyone a chance to relax occasionally from indoor meal time.

Whether you evaluate your telephone service in terms of transportation costs saved, time saved, "missions accomplished," protection in case of emergency—or just in the friendship and good times that result from keeping in touch—you'll find your telephone is still a big bargain!

The price of telephone service has gone up far less than most things you buy. At the same time the number of telephones you can call at your local service rate has nearly tripled in the past ten years.

Flowers - "Made to Measure"

Looks like clear sailing ahead for flower growers. Those of us who have been putting around in our gardens, can now relax and let science take over.

Seems as though it's all done with different color lights. Want your petunias to be stronger? Grow 'em under blue light! And if you want your flowers to really blossom—try red lighting.

Scientists also found the growth of tulips can be regulated to they'll bloom on the day you want—even the size and shape of leaves can be controlled. Looking at my wilted scales, I wish I had some of those lights set up right now!

From where I sit, we can usually make things better when we don't "leave it to chance." That's why the Self-Regulation Program sponsored by the Brewing Industry is such a success. Beer retailers voluntarily co-operate with this program. They keep their place clean, orderly, and well-regulated down to the last inch... so they'll always "measure up!"

FLOWERS FOR TWO

By Estelle Finnegan

MRS. O'TOOLE'S kind old face was beautiful and I remarked upon the fact.

Presently she said "One day I saw a nice young man look in at the window, and at last come sneaking in. I knew what it meant. Every boy who is in love for the first time sets the same way. His voice stuck in his throat for a minute, and then he said he wanted some nice fresh lilies of the valley sent up to —"

"There weren't any lilies in the shop better than the ones I sent up. I wanted the girl to be good to him. She must have been kind to him, for in a few days he came back, not looking so frightened. Soon it was the regular thing for him to drop in every Friday afternoon and have some sent up that evening. Well, one day I saw them walking past on the other side of the street. As they passed they pointed over to my shop, and then they both blushed.

"Well, the boy came in that Friday and the next, but on the one after that he didn't. I worried about it.

"One day—it must have been a couple of months afterwards—I saw him coming across the street. As soon as he came in, I saw that things were not right. Roses were to be sent that night to the Palace Theater. I hated to send them, knowing what the boy was giving up. I didn't send my freshest flowers, but they must have been acceptable, for before long he ordered some more, always buying expensive roses. It was good business for me but it went to my heart to do it. In the middle of my worrying I looked up and there, across the street, was the little girl, looking so wistful like at the shop. I understood it all. As I sat there, hardly able to keep from crying, it came to me all of a sudden that it was Friday. I didn't think of what might happen to me, but I put back all of the roses the boy had picked out for the basket and I made up a little bunch of lilies of the valley, just like the ones he used to send her every Friday. I planned his card to it and sent it up at the regular hour. Somehow, in the bottom of my heart, I felt that I had done the right thing, but I was all in a tremble when I came to the shop next morning. I didn't see the boy that day and I slept better that night. On Monday morning a messenger boy came to the shop with an envelope. It had in it the price of the big basket I didn't send and a slip of paper with a "God bless you" on it, and the boy's name.

"I still would like to know how it all happened. He must have told that actress woman he was going to send something very special, and she was angry when nothing was handed over the footlights to her, and then when the show was over she showed him a side of herself that he hadn't seen before. And then in the morning he received a happy note from the little girl, thanking him for the flowers. Of course he didn't understand about that, but he went to see her that night, and never pretended but that he had sent them as a sort of peace offering, and the two of them made things up together as young folks can.

"It must have been that way because they were married today."

No Sale On Records At Maplesville

In the Advertising of Mr. Bashore at his store in Maplesville, we state that reduction in everything but phonographs and radio parts. This should have read: "Everything but phonograph records and radio parts." But just because he could not afford to make a reduction doesn't mean he hasn't got the best stock of up-to-date phonograph records in Central Alabama. Go over and pick out a few. He carries everything from Bach to boogie.

MR. AND MRS. W. A. REYNOLDS

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary on July 26th with open house in their handsome white columned colonial home. On this memorable occasion, over two hundred friends and relatives called to extend hearty felicitations.

Throughout the spacious reception rooms arrangements of white flowers and southern greenery, and burning white tapers in decorated candelabra were used lavishly in the mode traditional for weddings.

Choosing to receive in the parlor, the scene of the wedding of two daughters and of two grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds sat on a quaint mahogany love seat placed before the antique mirrored mantel which reflected the glow of soft candle light and the radiant smiles of old and new friends. Lilies, gladioli, asters and stock used with palms in artistic profusion formed a background of rare beauty.

The gracious charm of Mrs. Reynolds was enhanced by a becoming gown of aqua crepe richly embroidered in bugle beads of matching hue. A purple throated orchid was her corsage. The simple gold wedding band placed on her finger with loving affection by Mr. Reynolds sixty years ago is a treasured heirloom. It has been in the Reynolds family for over one hundred and ten years.

The music room contained large arrangements of wedding white flowers

GOOD CROWDS AT GOSPEL TENT

A sudden gust of wind blew over the sign at the Gospel Tent Sunday afternoon, but it did not keep the crowds away. The largest attendance yet was reported.

Those who came heard Evangelist Charles C. Crider discuss the future of Europe and were able to leave with the Bible assurance that Stalin nor any other world power would ever succeed in consolidating Europe under one government.

The text used was seven words from Daniel 2, verse 43. "They shall not cleave one to another." The second chapter of Daniel tells the history of the nations of Europe from the time of ancient Babylon until the end of the Christian Era. The prophecy is graphically symbolized by the image of a statue in a dream by Nebuchadnezzar. The different parts of the image representing the different kingdoms, four in number, until the end when the fourth kingdom would be divided into ten divisions. Of these divisions, the prophecy declares, none shall unite them until the God of Heaven sets up His kingdom.

These seven words, Evangelist Crider pointed out, defeated Charlemagne, Charles V. Louis XIV. Napoleon, Kaiser Wilhelm, Hitler, and would just as surely defeat Stalin or anyone else who attempted to unite Europe.

He also read verse 44 of Daniel 2. "In the days of these kings, shall the God of Heaven set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed." He appealed to Christians regardless of creed to take heed to the truth for these times and be ready for the setting up of God's kingdom.

The first lesson in the Community Bible School was given out last Sunday night. Those interested in studying in detail the prophecies of the Bible and other important truths are cordially invited to enroll in the Community Bible School. It will open Tuesday night, August 2nd, and meet twice each week thereafter. One may go through the course as fast as he likes. Upon satisfactory completion the course he will receive a diploma. This course is especially helpful to Sunday School teachers.

The time is 7:30 p.m. and the place is the Gospel Tent on Highway 31, South Clanton.

Diamond News—

It must have been Van Edwards' day at the City Park last Wednesday afternoon when the "Millers" played the Lamax team. All he did was to shut out the Millers on two hits. He used a tricky curve ball with a fast one to turn the trick. Johnny Smith and Hamrick were the only two Millers to get hits. In the meantime Lomax slammed out 12 hits to score nine runs. Three of the Lomax hits went to Thomas Martin who led their hitting attack.

Coggins was the losing pitcher. This was the first loss he had suffered this season.

These same two teams will meet again to play at the City Park on August 11.

On Sunday, July 29, the Greenville Mill team came to Clanton and played at the City Park. Johnny Smith got off to a slow start but kept improving as the innings slipped past. He gave up three hits in the 3rd and his teammates committed two errors and Greenville had a 3-0 lead at this point. In the first of the 5th inning Greenville got two more hits. The Millers errored again and the visitors led 4 to 0. The home team broke the ice in their half when Minor, who had singled and went to second on an error, rode home on a wild pitch. The Millers left three men on bases that inning.

In the last of the 6th inning the Clanton fans began yelling and cheering for a rally. The Mill boys responded. Melton singled, Johnny Smith doubled him home, Julius Smith was out but Johnny scored on Minor's hit. Hamrick singled, Jones got a base hit, but was picked off first.

Henry Smith singled and Minor and Hamrick scored and the fans went wild as the Millers led 5-4.

After two were out in the 7th inning the fans all but tore the roof off the grandstand. Johnny Smith got a base hit and second on Julius Smith's long double. Minor then slapped out a two-base hit and Julius rode home.

Hamrick walked and Minor came home on a sharp single by Jones.

The Millers added coal to the fire when H. Smith singled and scored on McGee's double in the 8th inning. The final score was 9-4 in favor of the "Millers" of Clanton.

Johnny Smith only gave Greenville six hits. They got 3 in the 3rd, 2 in the 5th and 1 on the 7th inning. They failed to hit in the other six innings. Bunch led Greenville in hitting with three hits.

Our team has now won 16 and lost 12.

On Saturday afternoon the Mill team faces one of the strongest teams in Central Alabama. The visitors will be the hard hitting team from Vincent, Ala. This game will be played at the City Park at 2:30 p.m. Folks, this game, I think, is going to be one of the toughest and best games of the year. Come on out Saturday and see this game and support your team.

deGraffenried Makes Statement On Splitting Up "Dixie Division"

Representative Edward deGraffenried met recently with General J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, to discuss reports that the 31st Division would be broken up and announced plans of the Department of Defense to make levies against this Division for overseas replacements. Representatives Winstead and Smith of Mississippi and Representative Roberts of Alabama also participated in the conference. Representative deGraffenried had previously been informed by General Miles Reber, Chief of Legislative Liaison, that there were no plans under consideration to break up the Division.

At the conclusion of the conference, Representative deGraffenried stated, "While they still insist the 31st Division is not going to be broken up, based on the present levy that is being made for overseas replacements, and from what I can understand the future policy to be as to additional levies, I am apprehensive that at the end of a year or two years, the Division will lose its essential characteristics as being an Alabama-Mississippi Division comprised largely of Alabamians and Mississippians." The Congressman further stated, "We might as well make up our minds, in my judgment, unless the present policy is changed, to look upon it as a federalized division which will be very little different from any other division, except that as long as the present set-up continues, I am satisfied it will remain an all-white division."

When the 31st Division was called into Federal service, it was comprised of about 9,300 National Guardsmen. Since it has been stationed at Fort Jackson, there have been about 11,000 draftees added to the original 9,300 guardsmen taken into Federal service and it is estimated that about 40% of the men comprising the division at this time are from states other than Alabama and Mississippi.

The Congressman stated that the present levy on the division calls for 150 officers and 4,008 enlisted men, 2,000 of whom have already been sent to Arizona and the balance of this levy will leave within the next thirty days and will be replaced in the division by draftees. He quoted General Collins as stating that the only additional large levy being planned on the division is for the month of September with very much smaller levies being contemplated after that date, "provided conditions remain the same."

General Collins told the Congressmen that the overseas replacement levies were necessary against the division, as there are no regular infantry divisions in the United States and that replacements had to come from draftees and the 31st and 47th Infantry Divisions. Representative deGraffenried stated General Collins advised him that the action to make replacement levies against the Division had been concurred in by National Guard Headquarters, in view of the Army's rotation policy that no man would have to remain in a combat area for more

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS
George Jarrell, Sawyers Cove, is preparing land for Kentucky 31 Fescue and Ladino Clover. He will start mowing sericea this week. Some of it will be baled for hay, the other left as a mulch on the ground.

Dewey Collins and Leonard Hayes have combined their Button Clover.

Monroe Bales has cleared off the rest of the bottom south of the house and will prepare and plant Kentucky 31 Fescue, and Ladino Clover.

Farmers who have planted Coastal Bermuda should apply a tablespoonful of Ammonium Nitrate per hill as soon as the grass begins new growth.

C. C. Fiquette has started preparing land in the Hinkle bottom to replant fescue and Ladino Clover.

W. A. Williams planted six acres of sericea last week and will begin land preparation for Fescue and Ladino soon.

Rescue grass-Sericea combination will be tried on established sericea by the following farmers: Ellie Mitchell, Charlie Patterson, Charles Patterson, Sam Johnson, Joe Johnson, Russell Shelton and O. H. Lawrence.

Plan now to expand your sericea acreage. The farmers who are cashing in on grazing are the ones that have their grazing system planned and centered around deep-rooted perennials such as kudzu, sericea, bahia, fescue and bermuda.

H. M. Kelley has the land prepared and will seed a meadow outlet as soon as weather will permit.

than nine months, and in order to release former inactive and volunteer reservists, against whom many inequities have been practiced. Mr. deGraffenried quoted General Collins as stating there was less likelihood of large casualties to the Alabama and Mississippi units as a whole if they were not sent into combat as a unit and that the Division will retain its identity as the 31st Division. General Collins stated that the same practice was followed in the last World War.

The Congressman stated, "This action by the Department of Defense does not meet with my approval, because I know these boys were told when they came in they would retain their identity and be with their buddies and I intend to do everything I possibly can to have the policy changed. We strongly urged General Collins to keep the Division intact as a unit and are meeting soon with Secretary of the Army Pace in an effort to have the policy changed."

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

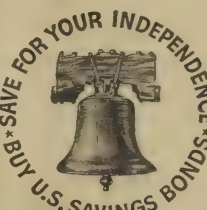

Will Rogers, famous humorist, lived in era that launched radio. His voice and thoughts are cherished in the American memory.

From Mrs. Edythe Monk, Burlington Junction, Mo.: I remember when my grandfather brought out from the pantry in the evening about every two weeks an old square can of tallow and an old rag. After heating the tallow on an old wood-burning stove until it melted, he greased my shoes with the tallow. This was supposed to make them waterproof and cause them to wear longer.

From A. L. B. Dudley, Fairmont, W. Va.: I remember when Dad went to the woods and cut a hickory brush which he made into a broom.

From Mrs. Georgia Fowler, Somers, Iowa: I remember when the itinerant peddler came on foot, with a pack on his back, stopping at our home in the country to show his wares of various kinds in hopes of selling some.

From Mrs. Gertrude Ramsdell, Rockford, Mich.: I remember when we went out with the horse and outer winter evenings we would take a lighted lantern and put it under our robe for warmth. Or we would have a warm stone at our feet.

PLACES TO FISH

Looking for a good place to fish in Alabama? If so, a list of privately owned ponds that may be fished by the public can be obtained from the local county agent or from most of the approved hotels and tourists courts in the state.

INSECTICIDES ARE POISONS

Entomologists urge that all kinds of insect poisons be handled with care. Use them only as directed. Do not breathe dust or fumes of insecticides, and remove poisons from face and hands by washing.

For an appetizer, spread pieces of dried beef with cottage cheese seasoned with Worcestershire and Chili sauces or onion juice; roll, and then secure with toothpicks.

To beat egg whites, let whites stand a while. They whip up best when they're as warm as room temperature. For a larger foam, add a pinch of salt before beating.

To simplify flower picking, pruning, or weeding, use a basket-on-a-cane. Push a cane through a wicker basket, fastening basket underneath to keep it from slipping. Stick the cane into the ground as you pause to cut blooms or hoe around a plant.

Baptist Notes—
Mr. Merchant will alert the thinking of all who have opportunity to prepare for and execute the Sunday School Council meeting this week. Reports will be heard from each department. At the council meeting we usually have dinner together; a committee will be appointed to provide for this meeting. It is the opportunity of the department superintendents to have all workers present. Class and Department records will be checked thoroughly to see if we are gaining or losing. Special prayers will be offered for Divine guidance and direction in this great work.
I am sure those attending the Program Planning meeting for B.T.U. Friday evening have plans under way for a great Training Union program for the month of August. Bro. Cobb, our Director, needs the moral support and encouragement of all members of the T. U. & I am sure we will stand by him in the great work that he is endeavoring to lead us in.
Prayer meeting Wednesday night at 7:30, followed by choir practice. The prayers of our church family were surely effective last Wednesday evening for in that service of the revival 10 young men accepted Christ as their personal Saviour and united with the church at the revival where our pastor was preaching. God gave a great revival to the people at Independence and 21 persons will be baptized into the fellowship of their church.
Say, have you ever attended the Young People's Training Union of our church? If not, we extend you a cordial invitation. If you have, and are not now, we are expecting you back. It seems that we are missing the great number who have come streaming out of that room for some time on Sunday evening and we want so much to have that thrill again, so please

WEST END BAPTIST CHURCH NEWS

The Young Women's Auxiliary of the West End Baptist Church W.M.S. met in the home of the Counselor, Mrs. A. P. Taylor, on Friday evening, July 20th.

A lovely devotional was given by Miss Carolyn Mims. Scripture reading was taken from Psalms 96:12; Math. 13:44-46; Ephs. 1:15-19. The theme of the program, "Is It Worth The Price?" was very interestingly given by the following girls: "Everything Cost Something," by Willie Frank Wilson; "Democracy Requires Strong Men," by Betty Jo Williams; "Education Can't Be Treated Lightly," by Carolyn Mims; "A Happy Home Does Not Just Happen," by Madgeleen Neesley; "Salvation At A Great and Terrible Cost," was brought by Joan Royal.

A business session followed, after which the meeting was dismissed with sentence prayer. Light refreshments were served.

W.M.S. Circles Met—

The West End Baptist W.M.S. Circle No. 1, met Monday afternoon at the church. Mrs. J. D. Williams opened the meeting with a lovely devotional.

Some very inspirational talks were made on the afternoon program topic, "Give Attendance To Reading and Citizenship For The Indians." Those taking part on the program were: The W.M.S. President, Mrs. Jesse C. Jones, Mrs. Jim Blair and Mrs. Tom Powell. The meeting was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Jim Blair.

Mrs. R. E. Wilkins was hostess to Circle 2. The devotional consisted of several Bible references given by ladies present, reading, Neh. 8:25; Jer. 36:15-16; Psalms 119:105; 1 Pet. 1:24-25 and Ecc. 12:12. After the Scripture readings, Mrs. Billy Dykes talked on "What The Bible Says About Reading." Mrs. Dykes also told just what each magazine used by the W.M.S. meant to all who read and use them. After this, all the ladies subscribed to one or more of the magazines. A playlet on "Goodwill Center," was presented.

Refreshments were served to the following: Mesdames Birdie Miller, E. H. Davis, J. I. Spiller, Billy Dykes, Claude Apperson, Lawis McGee and two visitors from the Friendship Community; Mrs. Charlie Haggard and Mrs. Gillespie.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY POST 206, THORSBY

The American Legion Auxiliary, Post 206, Thorsby, Ala., held its regular business meeting Friday night in the Marcus Hardware Building.

The meeting was called to order by the President and the Star-Spangled Banner was sung. Mrs. Jim Collins served as Chaplain.

Mrs. Kincaid and Mrs. Collins attended the Legion Convention in Birmingham Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of last week. They gave a very interesting report which was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Kincaid served as nurses aide at the Veterans' Hospital in Tuscaloosa Wednesday for the last two weeks. Mrs. Kincaid reported that each and every Auxiliary member is really needed over there. I would like to take this means to urge each and every member to try to go to the hospital at least one day of each month. The men and women need us over there and we should go. After all, it was those men and women over there who helped win the war. The least appreciation that we can show is to go over there and help them now. Some of them won't ever be able to go home. So won't you try to go at least once a month? It is your duty. Do not shirk it!

After the business was finished the meeting was adjourned to the Thorsby Sundry Store where the following members enjoyed delightful refreshments:

Mrs. Idelle Kincaid, Mrs. Billy Pate, Mrs. Jim Collins, Mrs. Amos Glass, Mrs. Mabel Thompson, Mrs. Margie Baggett, Mrs. Mary Maude Messer, Mrs. Betty Martin and Mrs. Blanche Bosworth.

Comedy Night is coming.

SCHOLARSHIPS FOR TWO 4-H'ERS

Honors that can be won by only one Alabama 4-H Club boy and only one Alabama 4-H Club girl in 1951 have been awarded to Rebecca Slaughter of LaFayette and Charlie Brannon of Rayland. Each honor consists of a scholarship covering two weeks of leadership training at the American Youth Foundation Camp near Shelby, Michigan.

Most meat eaters today show a preference for lean pork. They prefer putting emphasis on the meat-type hog—a hog which produces a high proportion of choice cuts of ham, pork chops, and bacon, all with a minimum of fat.

MORE PROFITABLE MILK PRODUCTION

Auburn, Ala. — Alabama milk production can be increased from year to year provided good sound practices are followed.

"On the other hand," declares Pete Turnham, A.P.I. Assistant Extension Service dairy specialist, "if good dairy cows are bred to beef bulls instead of dairy bulls, milk production cannot be increased. In fact, breeding good dairy cows to beef bulls is one way to get out of the dairy business. Sound, economical practices using good, high-quality transmitting dairy bulls and raising herd replacements.

Good dairy herd replacements and dairy heifers are scarce, and if dairy-men will raise enough for their own use and a few to sell, greater profits can be realized. In general, it can be said that profitable milk production can be obtained by breeding better animals and feeding them in such a manner that a profit can be realized.

"Good pastures are the cheapest sources of feed and will go a long way toward helping dairy farmers get greater profitable production."

HEAD OF THE BEEF HERD SHOULD BE ON VACATION

Auburn, Ala. — July 1 until December 1 is vacation time for Alabama herd sires, but it's not too late to remove bulls from cow herds right now.

That's the advice given Alabama cattlemen by W. H. Gregory, A.P.I. Extension Service livestock marketing specialist.

"There are several reasons for removing bulls from herds at this time," he explains. "Calves born after the middle of April have more trouble with digestive disorders and internal parasites than early calves. They are also too light to sell while the market is high."

He states that cows bred around the first of December will have calves early in September. Calves born in September and October will be big enough to sell the following July when the market is still high.

Gregory advises that while bulls are away from cow herds, they should be given sufficient feed to get them in good flesh by December. Many cattlemen find it profitable during this time to give their bulls a little grain in addition to providing a good pasture.

IMPORTANT FACTS ABOUT WINTER GRAZING CROPS

Getting winter grazing crops planted on time on land prepared right is one of the most important things on Alabama farms for late July, August, and early September.

"For example," says J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. Extension Service agronomist, "crimson clover and ryegrass should be planted in North Alabama in late July and early August; a little later in Central Alabama; and in September in South Alabama."

PHONY PEACH ERADICATION PROGRAM IN PROCESS

Chilton County peach growers will again have the services of trained inspectors to assist in identifying "phony" infected trees in their peach orchards.

"Phony" is a virus disease that cannot be controlled by any known dusts or sprays. Removal of infected trees is the only practical means of keeping the disease under economic control. Growers who have neglected to remove phony trees have lost their entire orchards to phony infection in only a few years.

Past years experience shows "phony" occurring in all sections of the county. Growers that are not on the inspectors' lists may receive the services of a trained control agent by calling the local headquarters, Hotel Willingham, or by calling your county agent's office.

All growers are encouraged to remove infected trees as rapidly as they can be identified to protect healthy trees in personal orchards and in the orchards of neighboring peach growers. Failure to remove "phony" infection from peach orchards is jeopardizing the valuable Chilton County peach industry.

He shall also keep a complete record of all receipts and disbursements of all county funds, and must be prepared at all times to show the exact financial condition of the county.

Section 15. Before entering upon his duties, the clerk shall make and enter into a surety bond in the amount of ten thousand dollars ($10,000), payable to Chilton County, conditioned upon the faithful discharge and performance of his duties as such clerk, and for the faithful accounting of all monies or property of said county which may come into his possession or custody; said bond to be executed by a surety company authorized and qualified to do business in Alabama, and to be approved by the Chairman of the Board, the premiums thereon to be paid by

If said nomination is not acceptable to said Board, the State Highway Director shall be requested to make additional nominations. Should the State Highway Director refuse, or fail to make nominations, the Board may fill the position of County Engineer with any person who has the qualifications herein set out.

Section 17. It shall be the duty of the County Engineer: (1) to employ and supervise all persons who are necessary to properly maintain and construct the public roads, highways, bridges, and ferries of Chilton County, and he shall have authority to prescribe their duties, and to discharge said employees for cause, or when needed; (2) to perform such engineering and surveying service as may be required, and to prepare and maintain the necessary maps and records; (3) To maintain the necessary accounting records to reflect the cost of the County Highway system; (4) To build, or construct new roads, or change old roads, but only when or where ordered by proper order of the Board; (5) It shall be his further duty, in so far as is feasible, to construct and maintain all County roads on the basis of the County as a unit, without regard to any district or beat lines.

Section 18. The said County Engineer is hereby designated as the person authorized to make written requisition upon the Board, or its duly designated purchasing agency, for all articles, materials, supplies, and equipment necessary for the maintenance and construction of roads, bridges and ferries in Chilton County.

Section 19. It shall be the duty of the Board to fix, from time to time, in accordance with prevailing economic conditions, the various scales of wages or salaries to be paid for labor necessary in the maintenance and construction of said roads, bridges, and ferries, and said wage or salary scale shall not be exceeded by said engineer in the employment of labor and assistants, provided, however, that should the Board refuse or fail to fix said scale of wages or salaries, said engineer shall request the State Highway Director to fix the same, and the wages or salaries so fixed by the State Highway Director shall not be exceeded in the employment of said labor and assistants.

Section 20. The Board shall fix the amount of the salary of the said County Engineer, payable in equal monthly installments from the road and highway funds of Chilton County.

Section 21. Before entering upon his duties, the said County Engineer shall make and enter into a surety bond in the amount of seven thousand five hundred ($7,500.00) dollars, payable to Chilton County, conditioned upon the faithful discharge and performance of his duties as such Engineer, and for the faithful accounting of all monies or property of said County, which may come into his possession or custody; said bond to be executed by a surety company authorized and qualified to do business in Alabama, and to be approved by the Chairman of the board, the premiums thereon to be paid by the County.

Section 22. The Board shall furnish the County Engineer with an office at the Court House, or elsewhere, at the County Seat, and all necessary office supplies, and shall furnish him with necessary transportation in connection with his duties under this Act.

Section 23. The County Engineer shall be the custodian of all road tools, machinery, supplies and equipment of Chilton County, and he shall be accountable for the same, at all times. The Board shall furnish the necessary storage facilities in which to keep said tools, machinery, supplies and equipment, and the County Engineer shall keep on files in his office, at all times, an up-to-date inventory, containing a list of all said tools, machinery, equipment and supplies belonging to Chilton County.

Section 24. The authority of said County Engineer shall be limited to the expenditure of such funds for the purpose of construction, maintenance or repairs of public roads, bridges, and ferries of Chilton County as may be set aside and appropriated by the Board, as hereinafter provided; it shall be the duty of said Board at some meeting in September of each calendar year, or not later than the first meeting in October following, by order or resolution spread upon the minutes, to fix and determine the amount of funds which will be available for the purpose of building, maintaining and constructing public roads, bridges and ferries of Chilton County for the current fiscal year, beginning on October 1st, which said amount, other than the salary of said County Engineer and his necessary expenses, shall not be exceeded by him in building, maintaining, repairing, and reconstructing the structure of the Chilton County public roads, highways, bridges and ferries, and shall, during his employment, reside in Chilton County, Alabama.

Section 25. (a) All purchases for the County shall be made by the Board or its duly authorized agent. The Board, in making purchases, shall obtain at least three written, sealed, competitive bids for all purchases of supplies, materials, equipment and contractual services. Invitations for bids shall be posted on a bulletin board in the courthouse and sent to prospective suppliers at least five calendar days before the final date for submitting bids. Bids shall be opened publicly at a time and place stated in the invitations. The board shall award the purchase to the lowest responsible bidder, or it may reject all bids and renegotiate the purchase when the public interest will be served thereby. Provided, however, that in making such purchases, the Board shall obtain information from the Division of Purchases and Stores of the Department of Finance concerning the price to the State of the items to be purchased, and if the State price is less than the lowest bid received, and if the delivery date is reasonable, all bids shall be rejected and the purchase shall be negotiated through the State Purchasing Agent.

(b) In an emergency purchases of less than fifty dollars ($50) may be made without obtaining bids and without obtaining information from the Division of Purchases and Stores as hereinabove provided, and purchases in excess of fifty dollars ($50) may be made without obtaining bids and without obtaining information from the Division of Purchases and Stores if the Chairman and all the members of the board approve the purchase and such approval is shown in the minutes of the board.

Section 26. The County Engineer shall make written requisitions to the Chairman of the Board for all materials, machinery, equipment and necessary supplies needed for the construction, maintenance or repair of the public roads, bridges and ferries of Chilton County. It shall be the duty of the County Engineer to inspect all materials, machinery, equipment and supplies purchased by the County for use on public roads, bridges and ferries, when the same are delivered, and the same shall not be accepted and paid for without first having been approved by him.

Section 27. In the event an emergency should arise, in which it would be impossible for the Board to employ an Engineer, as hereinabove provided for, then, in that event the Board shall employ a competent Road Supervisor who need not be an engineer, but, when so employed, he shall have all the duties and authority of said Engineer, and be subject to the provisions of this Act; but an emergency shall not exist so long as the State Highway Director can nominate an engineer who will accept employment by said board under the terms of this Act, it being the intention of this Act to provide that, when County roads are to be maintained or constructed in said County, the supervision thereof shall be either under a County Engineer, as hereinabove provided for, or by a Road Supervisor, who is not a member of the Board.

Section 28. It shall be the further duty of each associate member of the Board to inspect the roads of his district from time to time, and hear the suggestions and complaints of the citizens, and report the same to the Board with his recommendations; to advise with the County Engineer concerning the problems of his district, particularly; and to assist in securing right of ways, and assist in public relations generally.

Section 29. No county equipment or machinery shall be used on any property not owned by or under the control of the State, the County or a municipality.

Section 30. All the duties imposed on the chairman and members of the board by this Act are mandatory and all the limitations and restrictions imposed on them shall be strictly construed.

Section 31. The chairman or any member of the board or any county employee who uses county equipment, machinery or property contrary to the provisions of this Act or who violates any provision of this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars ($1000) and in addition may be imprisoned in the penitentiary for one year and one day.

Section 32. All laws, and parts of laws, in conflict with the provisions of this Act are hereby repealed.

Section 33. Should any section, clause, or part of this Act, be declared invalid it shall not affect any other part thereof.

Section 34. From and after the passage of this Act, it shall be unlawful for the Board or any member thereof to rent or lease any county road building machinery to any private individual, corporation or association.

Section 35. This Act shall become effective immediately upon its becoming a law.

FOR INDIVIDUAL ROOMS

Auburn, Ala. — Living room pictures should be of general interest to all members of the family and to guests in the home, be it Alice Peavy, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist.

She explains that the pictures should be restful — not too unusual in composition, color, or subject matter. "Landscapes, marines, beautiful buildings, flowers, and figure compositions are the most popular types from which to choose," states the specialist.

She adds that dining room pictures should be the kind that will contribute to the pleasure of the meal hour. Flowers, still life, and landscape are all good subjects.

"Bedrooms may have very personal pictures," says Miss Peavy, "if the owner so desires, but it is well to hang impersonal pictures in the guest room."

DRINK NUTRITIOUS THIRST QUENCHERS

Those who substitute soft drinks for fruit juices, milk, and milk shakes replace needed vitamins and minerals with sugar and calories, points out Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist.

To avoid this, she suggests that a can or two of citrus fruit juices or tomato juice, or a pitcher of homemade lemonade, and the full quota of milk for each child and adult be kept in the refrigerator. "These drinks will provide a variety of thirst quenchers that will promote good nutrition and cost no more than an equal quantity of sodas," declares the nutritionist.

SELECT LEUCOSIS RESISTANT CHICKS

Leucosis is still one of the most costly diseases in laying flocks, according to John Weeks, A.P.I. Extension Service poultryman.

The two best ways of controlling the disease are to select strains of chickens that are resistant to the disease and grow young stock away from old chickens and infested areas, since there are no cures for it.

POISONING COTTON

Fourteen bales of cotton from 10 acres took the grin off of Mr. Boll Weevil's face on J. D. Martin's farm near Malvern, Alabama, last year. Of course cotton practices other than a good poisoning program were needed to get a yield like that. The Geneva County farmer planted the cotton on land following a good crop of lupine and used 500 pounds of 4-10-7 fertilizer under the crop. The cotton was dusted seven times to kill the boll weevils.

Tourist Group Hit Toll Road Plan

Clanton, Alabama, August 9, 1951—Firm opposition to the proposal to establish a Turnpike Authority to build Toll Roads as a "shortsighted, visionary and unfair scheme" was expressed today by Erle Ellis, President, Alabama Motel Association, Clanton, Ala. "Many people who now applaud this idea just haven't thought it through," declared Mr. Ellis. "They have forgotten the highly undesirable consequences that will certainly follow the establishment of one or more Toll Roads."

He said, "Some people would be deluded into thinking the cost of toll roads would be borne exclusively by those who travel on it. People who find themselves being taken in by this theory should think back to our sad experience with Toll Bridges." He continued, "We were also told that the Toll Bridges would be paid for entirely by those who use them but what happens? The cost of repaying the toll bridge bonds was shifted on the taxpayer and the bridges were made toll free." He asserted that, "There is some justification for charging tolls on bridges, since they are special facilities, of particular service to those who use them but it makes no sense at all to free bridges of tolls and then launch a super costly toll highway project."

Mr. Ellis warns that "the taxpayer can expect to get stuck with the cost of this toll highway plan just as they got stuck with the cost of toll bridges but," he added, "they will get stuck in many other ways as well. Far from generating more business in the community it passes near, toll roads would pipe business away from those towns and cities. Businessmen from all over this state who now depend on this trade might as well close up shop, if this toll road plan is enacted. Few tourists will leave toll roads and drive to adjacent communities to shop, later paying another stiff toll to get back on the road."

"Toll Roads are noted for their speed," he said, "but merchants in other states have noted sadly that the speediest thing about such roads is the way they run business away from local stores, restaurants and motels. These merchants feel they might as well set up shops along the rails of a roller coaster. The effect will be the same as far as trade opportunities are concerned."

His statement concluded by urging "All roadside businessmen, farmers and residents of small towns to register their immediate opposition with their representatives in both houses of the Legislature. If they don't defend themselves against this reckless plan they will have years of suffering ahead as taxpayers, as businessmen and as residents of threatened areas."

Six citizens of the county died tragic deaths this week. There were three deaths from automobile accidents, two murders and a suicide.

Last Thursday afternoon David Wilton Littlefield died in an automobile accident on the Lay Dam Road near Cane Creek when the driver of the car lost control and the vehicle left the road turning over several times. It is reported that Littlefield was thrown from the car and it rolled over his body killing him almost instantly. Coroner Leroy Martin stated he was dead upon arrival of their ambulance.

Friday afternoon at Montgomery, two Chilton County residents were prisoners in a murder-suicide tragedy. They were Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Marlar of Clanton Route 5. Marlar, it is reported approached his wife while she sat in an automobile in front of a Montgomery Cafe and killed her by firing a shotgun into her body at close range. He then turned the gun upon himself and fired a charge into his own body. Both were killed instantly.

Friday night Carl F. Gray and Harold Edwin Price were killed when the car in which they were riding left the road at Verbena and went through the guard rail of the bridge there killing them both. It is reported they were returning from Montgomery and the accident occurred around midnight.

DO TEACHERS GET THE MONEY?

A mistaken belief about Alabama teacher's salaries seems general.

This belief concerns the amount of money that teachers receive from taxes levied for schools or from appropriations which the Legislature makes for schools and for salaries. It is often expressed in such statements as "The Legislature votes taxes for teachers' salaries, but they don't get the money."

Such statements are not supported by the facts. This bulletin tells of safeguards placed around the distribution of state funds for schools or for teachers' salaries. Some of these safeguards are in the Constitution. Others are embodied in statutes, while still others are included in regulations of the State Board of Education.

The bulletin also shows the per cent of the current Alabama school dollar spent for teachers' salaries.

Constitution Earmarks For Salaries—

The Constitution earmarks two sources of taxes for teachers' salaries.

In 1949-1950 the gross collections from this tax were $12,903,232. As the Constitution provides, expenses of collection ($137,005) and homestead exemptions ($2,091,032) were deducted. The balance, $10,675,195, was available for teachers' salaries, and was so spent.

The second is the Public School Fund. This is derived mainly from the constitutional 3-mill state ad valorem tax. The Constitution requires that at least 96 per cent of the receipts from this tax be spent for teachers' salaries. In 1949-50 this Fund totalled $5,115,817, of which $4,911,185 went for salaries.

Legislature Earmarks For Salaries—

In addition to the income tax and the Public School Fund, the Legislature earmarks receipts from certain taxes for schools. At present no legislative act earmarks any fund for salaries alone.

What are the taxes, besides the income tax and the state 3-mill property tax, which are regarded as "school taxes"?

Three special and eight excise taxes are levied for schools. Receipts from them are credited to the Alabama Special Educational Trust Fund. This is the account from which appropriations for schools are made.

The three main taxes which support this Fund are the sales tax, the use tax, and the tobacco tax. These taxes, together with the income tax, produced in 1949-50 about 75 per cent of the state revenue for schools.

The sales tax is the largest single source of all state revenue and is earmarked almost wholly for schools. The act that levies the present two per cent sales tax also provides how its receipts shall be spent. (The increase in this tax to three per cent takes effect October 1.)

From sales-tax receipts there is first deducted expense of administration and collection. Then an annual appropriation of $1,700,000 to county governments is deducted. The remainder is credited to the Alabama Special Educational Trust Fund, and from there is appropriated for schools.

Board Regulations Earmark For Salaries—

Regulations of the State Board of Education govern the use by local boards of state funds allotted to public schools. These provide that all state funds allotted for salaries must be spent for salaries, for no other purpose, and that any money allotted for salaries that is not so spent reverts to the state.

State funds are allotted to local boards on the basis of training of teachers, as indicated by the rank of teaching certificate they hold.

The actual salary of each individual teacher is determined not by the State Board but by local boards of education, upon recommendation of the superintendent.

In many cases, through use of local funds, the board is able to set salaries of its teachers above the amounts allotted from the state. In 1949-50, $6,885,757 of local funds went to payment of salaries, in addition to the funds from state sources.

How Parts of School Program Fare—

All state appropriations to public education in 1949-50 totalled $64,350,280. Of this amount, $49,006,047, or 76.2 per cent, was for public elementary and high schools. Institutions of higher learning received $8,846,613, or 13.7 per cent. The State Department's appropriation was $200,000, or 0.3 per cent. Other educational services accounted for $6,297,620, or 9.8 per cent. Included in the last classification are physical restoration of crippled children, civilian rehabilitation, free textbooks, Alabama Institute for Deaf and Blind, teacher retirement, trade schools, regional education and temperance education.

Of the $49,006,047 expense for elementary and high schools, $44,557,377 was spent for teachers' salaries, excluding principals.

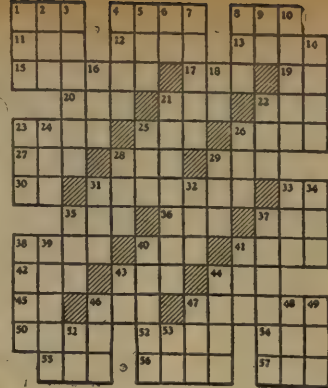

Alabama Topped Nation In Per Cent For Salaries—

In 1948-49, the last year for which national figures are available, Alabama topped the nation in the per cent

Answer to Puzzle No. 145

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Funny! We dropped into Watson's this week and the manager was lots prettier than the manager last week.

Harold Smith, the County Commissioner, has been approached time and time again about the condition of the roads in his District and he is doing all he possibly can to get around to all the bad roads as soon as time and money will allow. The other day he was told by a caller that something had to be done at once and Harold told him: "Well, everybody in the District seems to want their roads paved this morning, but it just can't be done. Some of them are going to have to wait until this afternoon."

People should be more careful how they answer the telephone. Very few answer correctly, or even politely. Ralph Morrison is an example of the correct answerer. He says: "Good morning, Morrison Furniture Company. Ralph Morrison speaking." Now with an answer like that any one can go ahead with their conversation knowing to whom they are talking—the place of business, etc. Ben Studdard always answers: "Gulf Refining Company. Ben Studdard speaking." But 99 per cent of our local answerers say, "Hello," and that is all. Then you ask, "Who is speaking?" and they answer: "Roberta," or "Jean," or somebody else. And then you ask, "Is this such and such place of business?" And they answer, "Sure," just like you was a sap for not knowing all the time who you were talking to, and where you were talking to. It doesn't make a customer a better customer to have to go through a rigamarole like that above before they tell you what they want. Try a little courtesy and politeness on your telephone. It will pay dividends. A good rule when answering the phone is to: "Answer the telephone with a smile in your voice."

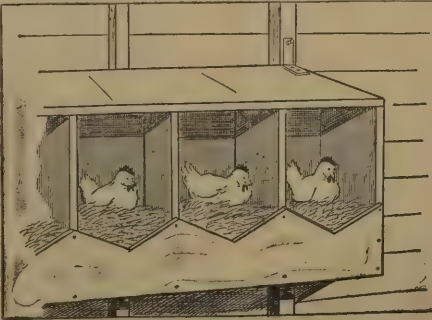

We didn't get to see Uncle Thomas' abode at the Clanton Drive-In Theatre last week, but we sure want to see Pinky that comes this month. The movie Pinky was banned in most of the big cities of the South—Memphis, Atlanta, Birmingham—all banned showing of the picture. We understand, too, it is a picture well worth seeing.

At the expense of being called an "I told you so," we have repeatedly warned about speeding on the Lay Dam Road. Of course driving at high speed is dangerous anywhere as proved by the two deaths Friday night at Verbena. But three Clanton citizens in two days lost to the God of Speed, should certainly be a lesson to others who drive too fast and too careless. It is an awful price to pay for a lesson, but the school of experience has a costly teacher.

Boy, are we mad at Hazel Cox? And Charles, too, for that matter. Here, something real nice happens to them and do they let us know? They do not. We can understand Charles not telling us but after all, Hazel spent the better part of three years getting news stories for us, and she knows what it means. Of course we will have to forgive them because there's nothing else we can do about it, but to get even we'll just wait a day or two before wishing the young couple the very best of luck and congratulate Charles on his accomplishments. In case you didn't know he has been made football coach at Starke in Montgomery.

Burke Allison, the new mail carrier, lives in South Clanton on U. S. 31. Burke tells us he is going to furnish us a list of the miscellaneous items he finds in his front yard on Monday mornings after the constant stream of traffic on this artery of travel over the week end. He can save his time and effort. We have lived on this highway for ten years and blindfolded can name the items which end up on our front lawn, each Monday. Beer cans, cigarette packages, paper napkins, milk bottles, sardine cans, dirty handkerchiefs, a silk stocking, and piles and piles of chewing gum wrappers. Now our place might look more like the city dump than others along the highway, but we'll wager their front yard contains the same items come Monday morning. Motorists are so thoughtful about where they throw their rubbish.

PREVENT CHICKENS from roosting on edge of nests by notching the edge of the front retaining board. This will make it difficult for chickens to perch on it, forcing them to give up the habit.

of current school expenditures used for teachers' salaries. Of her current expenditures, Alabama spent 73.7 per cent for teachers' salaries. The national average was 62.2. The nine highest ranking states for 1948-49 were: Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, Maryland, Kansas, Virginia, Georgia, Rhode Island and West Virginia. — From The Education Bulletin.

Always Darkest Just Before Dawn

IN THE FALL of 1931, at the start of the depression, Irving T. Knutson, Oshkosh, Wis., was the cashier of a small bank at Nelsonville. One bank at Stevens Point had closed. The Arnott State Bank had closed, and it was rumored about that the Nelsonville bank would be next. The fatal day came; they had a run. That night there wasn't enough money in the vaults to cash a fifty dollar check.

At four o'clock as Irving locked the door and pulled the shade, he was thinking about what was going to happen to his wife, his little girl then five years old, and another little bundle just six weeks old.

He walked back into the directors' room, closed the door and sat down and bawled like a baby. "Imagine a man, 31 years old, doing that," he says, but he did. He also did some heavy thinking and he prayed that somehow his little family would be taken care of. Though he could see no prospects of getting another job, he prayed that his family would be spared the humiliation of living on relief. Suddenly he recalled a plaque that his mother had hanging on the living room wall back on the farm: "Come unto Me all ye who labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." He hadn't thought much of that plaque as a little boy back home on the farm, but he remembered it now. It gave him the comfort that he needed for the time being.

The next morning, he drove with the president of the bank to Madison to turn the assets over to the banking commissioner. After a brief conference between the president of the bank and the commissioner, he was called in. The commissioner asked: "How would you like to go back into the bank and help us liquidate it? We will give you a raise of $5.00 per month and keep you there." A miracle had happened. His prayer had been answered.

From that day on, he says he has never worried too much about anything, always keeping in mind that "It is always darkest just before dawn."

CORONARY THROMBOSIS

Strain, worry, fatigue and overwork are important factors in heart ailments, particularly in those persons who carry a heavy load in professional and business life. Coronary thrombosis is a common type of heart disease, and its onset is likely to occur when the body is at rest.

Coronary thrombosis or occlusion is caused by a clot of blood forming in a hardened artery to block off the flow of blood to the heart muscle. As artery walls harden, because of a sort of chalky substance develops within them, they lose their elasticity and the power to carry an increased flow of blood. Then the clot forms in the narrowed artery. Since it is the flow of blood through its arterial system that keeps the heart muscle functioning, the heart fails when the flow is blocked.

While some patients die in the first or second attack of coronary thrombosis or occlusion about 75% of those so afflicted may continue a useful life. Necessarily, their activity must be curtailed so that the strain on the heart may be lightened. Rest is all important in the treatment of the patient who has suffered one of those attacks. The damaged heart must be given a chance to mend. If there is enough blood circulation left, the body builds a new arterial system, but the heart is not so strong as before and a new attack may occur unless its work is eased. The output of energy must absolutely be reduced, if repetition is to be avoided.

Coronary thrombosis occurs in all age groups, appearing frequently in those under 40, and three times as often in men as in women. In all types of heart disease, worry should be avoided, as well as excessive muscular effort. A physical examination is necessary at least once a year. A trip to your physician and strict adherence to his counsel will yield large dividends. A healthy heart is essential to long and normal life. Take care of it. The alternative is early death.

During the hot summer months cabbage plays an even more important part in the menu than it does in other times of the year because it lends itself to easy preparation for hot weather meals.

There is no satisfactory treatment for fowl pox after a bird is affected, but it is easily and effectively prevented by vaccinating the chickens when they are six to 12 weeks old.

A good friend, Mr. Carl Turnquist, who has at last retired from his business and come back home, had painted a large colorful sign advertising my place of business and had placed it in a conspicuous place in front of my home and Beauty Parlor. It's nice to have friends, and it is doubly nice to have friends who do nice things for you. Now, I can't say that a facial or a permanent wave would help the looks of this fellow, whose women folks are regular patrons of mine, but maybe I can do something to show my deep appreciation for his thoughtful kindness. Everyone remember preaching service next Sunday morning and evening.

A large number of the Young People and parents from the church attended the singing school at Tabernacle in Bibb County last week. We may expect some good singing here now, as we have many talented singers in our church.

Rites For Mrs. Lula Head—

Farmers in this community are very despondent due to the loss of their crops by the drouth, especially corn crops. Most of the corn crops are a total loss. However, the weather is something we cannot control.

Mrs. Willie Hathcock made a business trip to Montgomery last Thursday, and en route home she stopped over in Prattville and visited Mr. and Mrs. Horton Walker.

Mrs. Lillie Latham Gentry of Centerville, Ala., was here last week visiting her brothers, Mr. Cleve and W. Latham.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

O. H. Lawrence, Billingsley, Ala., Rt. 1, states, "The dry weather sure has hurt crops such as corn, watermelons, and truck crops, but my cows haven't lost my milk production and all they have to graze is sericea."

Charles Patterson, Clanton Route 2, states, "My cows are gaining every day on sericea. If we farmers only had a winter-time sericea we would be in the cattle business."

C. R. Childress, Jemison Route 1, is taking advantage of the dry weather by preparing wet bottom land for a fescue-ladine clover planting.

E. C. Leecroy, Clanton Route 2, turned his cows on to a good growth of kudzu last week. Mr. Leecroy states, "Kudzu is worth a lot more for times like this (dry times) than most any crop I know."

Dewey Collins is clearing land of all the underbrush and briars and leaving the larger trees to be cut later in order to plant a mixture of fescue and ladine. G. U. Mims has 400 pounds of Kentucky 31 fescue that he has harvested off his own farm which will be planted this fall. G. U. states, "I don't expect to share-crop any more. I am going to sow my land down."

Land use planning of each acre of land according to its capabilities calls for a lot of sod crops. Sod crops properly stocked with good cows will produce a lot of milk or beef. Why not get in the going by sodding all of your questionable land?

POULTRY INCOME SKYROCKETS IN MARSHALL

Marshall County's 1951 poultry income shows every indication of soaring as high as $2,200,000, according to W. L. Martin, county agent.

This figure would be about double what the industry was worth in 1950. More than 100,000 pullets are being grown this year for commercial egg production. About 70,000 of these chickens are in a radius of some 15 miles of Albertville.

A large number of farmers will market their eggs through the North Alabama Poultry Cooperative at Albertville. The eggs will be collected, graded, packaged and sold by this organization. The eggs will be sold under the trade name, "The Pride of Sand Mountain."

SNAKES

Only one snake out of about 10 seen in the woods is poisonous. However, those persons who like to tramp the swamps and wade streams for fish should always wear good rubber or leather boots for protection against possible snakebite.

HENS IN THE LAYING HOUSE

Recent research shows that hens confined to the laying house laid 28 more eggs each than the hens that were allowed to run outside. In other words, hens which were kept in the house made their owners 70 cents per hen more than hens that were allowed to roam over the farm.

RUSH - MOOR

The First Baptist Church of Chickasaw was the scene Saturday, June 2, for the beautiful candlelight ceremony of the marriage of Miss Jessie Faye Rush, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rush of Chickasaw, Ala., and Pfc. Morris Moor of Chickasaw, Ala. Rev. Bob Barker officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was artistically decorated in the bridal motif of green and white. Basket arrangements of gladioli and fern were interspersed with palms against a background of lighted tapers in tiered candelabra. The altar an, improvised arch, where the bride couple exchanged their wedding vows, was banked in smilax and magnolia blossoms against a white background. Individual candleholders entwined in smilax were placed along the center aisle. The family pews were marked with large white satin bows.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Minnie Lee Hatten, organist. Selections included "Trauerzeit," "To A Wild Rose" and "Always." Mrs. E. J. Barnes, soloist, sang, "Because" and "I Love You Truly." Lubstraum was played throughout the ceremony. The traditional wedding march was played for the professional and recreational.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a white gown of bridal satin.

The bride's bouquet was a cross arrangement of white carnations centered with an orchid and placed upon a white Bible. Tiny streamers tied in love knots fell from the Bible.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was her sister, Miss Emma Rush. The bridesmaids were Miss Doris Moor, sister of the groom and Miss Ruby Rush, sister of the bride. They were dressed in identical gowns of net and taffeta featuring scalloped necklines and sleeves in pastel shades of pink, blue and yellow. Their headpieces were arrangements of net attached to their dresses with pearl clips, gifts of the bride. Junior bridesmaids were Charlotte Rush, niece of the bride, and Lynda Moor, niece of the groom. They wore dresses of pink and blue organza. Each one carried a nosegay of roses, carnations and asters with streamers of ribbon to blend with their dresses. Sandra Moor, niece of the groom, was flower girl who wore a dress of yellow organza and carried a basket of mixed spring flowers.

Serving the groom as best man was his brother, William Moor. Charles and Robert Rush, brothers of the bride, were the groomsmen. Junior groomsmen were Charles Rush, Jr., nephew of the bride, and Jerry Evans. The ushers were Bob Burnett and Vauchas Evans. The groomsmen and ushers were attired in white jackets and black trousers with buttonholes of baby orchids.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Rush chose a blue printed sheer dress with navy accessories. Her corsage was a cluster of Vanda orchids.

HOME SEWAGE SYSTEMS

In the last few years there has been an ever increasing demand for modern plumbing, and the conveniences which go with it, in rural homes or areas where there is no municipal sewage system. Science and education have greatly increased this demand by pointing out the great dangers to health incident to the careless disposal of sewage. No group of diseases is so readily controllable as the ones carried in this manner, which include typhoid fever, hookworm, dysentery and probably polio. Improper disposal of sewage is frequently the greatest menace to the health of a family or community.

A septic tank and disposal field properly constructed is the most satisfactory and sanitary method of sewage disposal, where a community sewage system is not available. The type septic tank recommended and approved by the Health Department is rectangular in shape, monolithic in construction, water tight, and of at least 500 gallon capacity. A disposal field of an even number of lines totaling at least 150 feet for a family of five or Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. The house was artistically decorated in white gladioli and fern. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth which held the two tired wedding cake. A floral arrangement of fern and gladioli blossoms encircled the cake. On either side of the cake were crystal punch bowls. After the bride and groom cut the traditional piece of cake, Mrs. Vauchas Evans completed the cutting. Miss Katie Sheffield and Mrs. William Moor presided at the punch bowls. Miss Katherine MacFarland was in charge of the bride's book.

For traveling the bride chose a most becoming suit of orchid and purple linen with black accessories. Her corsage was the orchid from her bridal bouquet. After a brief honeymoon along the Gulf Coast, the couple will reside in Albuquerque, N. M., where the groom is stationed at Kirkland Air Force Base.

An after rehearsal party in the form of a buffet supper, was given Friday evening, June 1, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Moor. Mixed flowers were used in the decoration throughout the home.

Out-of-town guests were: Miss Doris Moor, of Alexandria, Va.; Mr. Paul Jones, of Feasterville, Penn.; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Morris, grandparents of the bride, of Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. MacFarland and family, of Spring Hill; Mrs. Elton Pierce and son, of Panama City, Fla.; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rush and family of Gulfport, Miss.

Before her marriage the bride was entertained at a miscellaneous shower by the Grace Williams Circle of the First Baptist Church of Chickasaw and a linen shower by Messrs. Robert and Charles Rush.

less disposes of water from the tank. Cesspools, tanks made of well fitting or concrete blocks, and circular tanks are strongly disapproved. Bulletins, illustrating step by step the proper way to construct a septic tank are available at the Health Department.

It is extremely desirable to have a home sewage system approved by the Health Department, not only to be assured that it is properly constructed and will function properly but also to comply with G.I. and F.H.A. regulations. Most lending agencies require a sewage system approved by the Health department before a loan can be secured.

If you plan to build a septic tank contact County Health Department, beforehand, and the Sanitation Officer will come to your home or place of business, explain the plans, lay out the tank and field and otherwise assist you materially.

What's So Funny?

Just finished reading a magazine article that "proves" you and I don't know what's funny.

A bunch of psychologists came to this sad conclusion after telling jokes to college students. Very often they would give out what they considered a side-splitter—and not get even a chuckle in response. Other times the students would laugh their heads off at stories that weren't considered really funny.

Maybe I'm wrong, but what makes a psychologist such a better judge of humor than the rest of us? If a man gets a kick out of a joke that proves it was funny to him—doesn't it?

From where I sit, when psychologists try to set up a standard for a sense of humor they're getting too serious for me. Stands to reason that different people laugh at different things, just as they have different tastes for most everything. I'm partial to a glass of beer with meals myself—but I promise to make any "wise-cracks" if you prefer tea.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PREPARE FOR GREEN FIELDS IN WINTER

RIDE through almost any part of Alabama during the next month and you will see fields being prepared for planting. These same fields will be green in Winter. They will be the fields which, in an increasing number, are providing year-round grazing. They are also the fields improved by the cover crops planted in the Fall and plowed under in the Spring.

More and more Alabama fields are green in Winter. Their increasing number is a symbol of agricultural progress — progress which has lead to improved farm income in many sections.

For details of what to plant for green fields in Winter and when to plant, ask your county agent or write Extension Service, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Alabama.

NEW DISEASE THREATENS STATE HOG PRODUCTION

Auburn, Ala. — A disease of swine called atrophic rhinitis looms on the horizon as a threat to Alabama hog production. Seventy years ago the disease was first recognized in Europe, and now widespread outbreaks have occurred in herds throughout the Corn Belt and in several southern states. Therefore, a sharp lookout for this disease should be maintained by Alabama hog producers. All suspicious cases should be examined by a veterinarian immediately, or carcasses of animals suspected of having the disease may be sent to the State Diagnostic Disease Laboratory in Auburn.

State Veterinarian R. S. Sugg says that the disease usually appears on farms several months after the introduction of brood sows or boars purchased from farms on which the disease has occurred. Apparently the infectious agent is carried by the sows even though they appear normal and show no symptoms. Young pigs are usually the first to become infected. They begin sneezing and scratching or rubbing their noses against the ground and other objects.

"Fortunately," states Sugg, "the death rate is not high; however, infected pigs usually grow off slowly, and after a few weeks the nose and facial bones become distorted. Frequently the snout becomes crooked and pulled around to one side. Pneumonia is a complication in many instances."

Since no effective means of treating this disease has been found, swine producers should inquire into the history of the herds from which they purchase breeding stock. This precaution should prevent bringing the disease on the farm.

NUMBER OF ARTIFICIALLY BRED COWS GETS LARGER

Auburn, Ala. — Through the first six months of 1951 artificial breeding in Alabama showed promise of reaching more cows than during any other period since its beginning in 1947.

According to reports from breeding technicians in 10 Alabama counties, a total of 2,375 cows were bred by this method through June 30.

"Not only are cow numbers increasing in this program," states Pete Turnham, A.P.I. Extension Service dairy specialist, "but the conception rate on first service is climbing steadily. Based on a 60-day conception rate, 64 cows out of every 100 cows bred in June conceived on the first service."

He believes, with a heavy breeding season yet to come, that more cows will be bred this year than at any other period in the history of the program.

DEAD BOLL WEEVILS CAN MEAN DEAD FISH

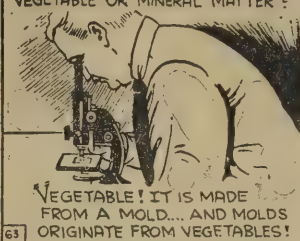

The potential danger of all insecticides should impress upon the minds of pond owners the importance of locating fish ponds on watersheds that will not be row-cropped. The best cover for any watershed with a fish pond is timber, good pasture, or a cover crop.

SHRINK AND SET COLOR ALL AT THE SAME TIME

Auburn, Ala. — When in doubt as to whether a garment or fabric is fast color or pre-shrunk, test a small sample.

"The way to do this job," states Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist, "is to soak a small piece of the fabric in luke-warm suds for a few minutes. Then remove and press on a piece of white fabric on which the outline of the sample was traced before soaking."

Those who want to shrink and set color at the same time will be interested in the following suggestions given by Miss Ellis. Place the material to be shrunk in a vessel large enough to hold it easily. Leave the goods in its original folds. Have enough warm, not hot, water in the vessel to cover the goods. To set color while shrinking, add one of the following ingredients to the water:

- 1/2 cup of salt to 1 gallon of water
- 1/2 cup of vinegar to 1 gallon of water
- 1 tablespoon of alum to 1 gallon of water
- 1 tablespoon of sugar of lead to 1 gallon of water

Use vinegar to set blues and salt to set reds and pinks. Let material stand in water for several hours. Be sure that the water soaks through the folds of the fabric. Remove from the water, rinse, and hang in the shade. Press while still damp.

"This method works satisfactorily, but it is not a cure-all for fading."

Stabs at Stalin

BEAMING happily, Molotov walked into Stalin's study one day and declared, "There's no doubt about it. Adam and Eve were both Russians. Now we can claim the invention of mankind along with the invention of radio, television, the airplane and everything else. Isn't that wonderful?"

Always cautious, Stalin inquired, "Are you sure of that? You know the Voice of America likes nothing more than to tear down our invention claims. We'll have to really back that one up."

"Nothing to it," was Molotov's confident answer, "Just think about it for a moment. Adam and Eve had no clothing to cover their nakedness. They had no roof over their heads. They lived on apples. Yet they thought they lived in Paradise. What else could they be but Russians?"

AN ASTONISHED BORDER guard held up a horde of rabbits that were seeking to crash the Soviet border into Poland. He asked for documents. "We are going," said the rabbit leader, "on a G. P. U. order."

"What order?"

"The G. P. U. has just ordered the arrest of every camel found in the Soviet Union."

"But you are not camels!"

"Yes, but just try to tell that to the G. P. U."

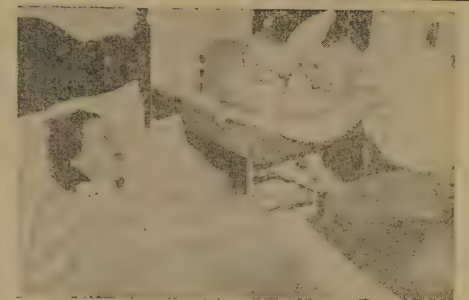

Three Soviet citizens who had somehow survived the purges were comparing notes in a forced labor camp. "I am here," said the first "since 1929, for calling Karl Radek a counter-revolutionary."

"And I," said the second, "since 1937, for saying that Radek was not a counter-revolutionary."

"And I," said the third, "am Karl Radek."

A PHYSICIAN WRITES FOR THE WOMEN

Rarely are books written of which it can be said that they should be read by every mature person. This applies to the work of the world-famous Viennese physician, Dr. Hermann Knaus, in which he concludes his investigations of the difficult and yet vital problem of the periodic fertility and infertility of women. In easily understandable language, which causes the layman no difficulty whatsoever, Dr. Knaus explains how every woman can calculate the exact days of her monthly cycle conception is possible and on which it is impossible.

Every woman should be intimately acquainted with the contents of this book. No girl should take on the responsibility of becoming a wife and mother before she has familiarized herself with the rules of her own life. Many problems of her personal life are solved in this book, and many a marriage will be saved through it.

This book, a bestseller in Europe today, has been published in an English translation, and a consultation service, whose purpose it is to prevent miscalculations, has been established by the publisher of the English edition. The book, entitled "The Fertile and Infertile Days of Women and Their Definite Calculation," is sold together with the booklet, "About the Necessity of Keeping a Record of the Onset of Menstruations in the Form of a Calendar," and can be ordered for the unit price of $3.00 from The Hainos Company, 55 Poplar Ave., Hackensack, N. Will Be Chilton y Maid of Cotton

The Chilton County Farm Bureau is again sponsoring the Maid of Cotton Contest. Every cotton ginner in this county may enter a contestant in this contest. According to Mr. J. A. Ogburn, Chairman of the County Cotton Committee, the date for the contest has been set for August 24th. The contest will be held at 8:00 p.m. at the high school auditorium in Clanton.

All expenses of the trip, meals, and hotel accommodations for the county winner and her chaperone will be paid. The county or college contestant will be selected by the Alabama Maid of Cotton Committee.

It will be noted that all texts in the Junior High grades are the same as last year. There is a probability that some principals will prefer a new math text for Junior III. It is advisable for Junior III pupils to check with their principals before buying a text for this course.
Textbooks for senior high grades will be uniform also. Since it is so important that each senior high school pupil work out his schedule with his principal, we are not publishing a list of the texts to be used in these grades. All high school principals will be in their offices during the week beginning August 20th for the purpose of assisting any pupil in getting a schedule set up for the year; most of them will be in most of the time preceding this date. If it is possible, students of senior high school grades should contact them then.
Teacher and driver lists will be ready to publish at a later date.

A SHEEP HERDER TOO—Flocks of native ewes put profits in the pocket of the farmer who includes them in his production program. W. R. Odom, shown in the background at center, says his small flock of ewes crossed with a registered ram turn out a good crop of young lambs each spring. And returns from the annual crop of wool are another good dividend, he adds.
CORN FOR HOGGING—This 23-acre field of N. C. 1032 hybrid corn will be gathered in the easiest and most profitable manner. W. R. Odom plans to turn a herd of thrifty, fast-growing, good-grade hogs in on the field to gather the crop for him. Odom is shown at right with his young son, David, who is making plans to be a first class farmer like his Dad.

The Big Three Sheep, Hogs, And Timber---A Paying Proposition

"It doesn't necessarily take a 'Jack of all trades' to make a good living in this Southwest Alabama section, but a little knowledge about a lot of subjects sure comes in handy." That's the opinion of W. R. Odom, of Sims Chapel.

Odom doesn't claim to be an expert on a lot of subjects but when it comes to his own system of farming—he has a plan worked out that pays good dividends. He grows a few sheep, markets a bunch of top hogs on home-grown corn, and in his spare time he cares for 7,000 turpentine faces. Of course, in off seasons he does some selective cutting on his timber land—and he also logs out the timber and hauls it to the mill.

The Sims Chapel producer works on the theory that one man can do a whole of a lot of farming if he times his business so that there is always a job ready when another job is finished. For example, he cuts his timber during the winter months and during the summer after his crops are laid by. In the early spring he gets his turpentine faces started before crop time comes. Mr. Odom does the big part of his farming by himself, but he says some outside help is needed to tend the turpentine faces and do other odd jobs during the rush farming season.

The Odom farm consists of 600 acres, more than 500 of them in timber. On the remainder, the producer usually grows about 30 acres of hybrid corn and puts the rest in grazing crops. He has a small flock of 38 native ewes and sells a wool and lamb crop each year. Odom turns his corn into cash through hogs. He keeps a bunch of well bred sows and markets around 300 top hogs annually.

He says there is no time to spare with the set-up he is operating, but he will soon be getting some help from his 8-year-old son, David.

On Limited Acres Fall Lima Beans A Possible Cash Crop

By L. M. WARE, Horticulturist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

On a limited number of acres, lima beans offer the possibility of a cash crop where early plantings of field crops failed because of drought.

Lima beans may be planted during July and up to August 15 in central Alabama. The first week in August is the deadline for planting in North Alabama, and South state farmers may plant up to September 1. The crop stands drought well and is well adapted to fall production.

Results of studies conducted by the Agricultural Experiment Station indicate yields ranging from 125 to 200 bushels per acre, costs of production ranging from $200 to $300 per acre, gross returns ranging from $300 to $500 per acre, and net returns ranging from $100 to $200 per acre.

Labor requirements for lima beans are high. These studies also indicate that approximately 500 man hours are required to grow and harvest an acre of lima beans that produces 150 bushels.

The Henderson bush lima is a satisfactory variety. One bushel of seed is required to plant one acre. Approximately 800 to 1,000 pounds of 6-8-4 fertilizer per acre should be applied before planting and about 200 pounds of nitrate of soda applied when the crop is several inches high. The fertilizer should be drilled to the side of the row so that it will not come in contact with the seed.

Experiment Station---Home Style

C. O. LOWE, of Opelika, Rt. 3, is convinced that it takes fertilizer to make any crop produce at its best.

The Lee County farmer has been using recommended amounts of fertilizer on most of his crops for a long time, but this year he decided to run a little experiment of his own. He let his crop yields show him the true worth of fertilizer.

Lowe had a good many acres of crimson clover last winter, and in February he fertilized most of the crop with phosphate and potash. For the next couple of months he got a noticeably increased amount of grazing on the fertilized land. But the real difference didn't show up until he harvested his seed. On the crimson clover that had received ample fertilizer he combined 200 pounds of seed per acre. On the land that had no fertilizer he collected about 100 pounds of seed per acre.

The conclusion Lowe made was that it pays to fertilize—and it did pay him—at the rate of 100 pounds of seed per acre. That's a pretty good return on an investment of a couple of 100 pounds of fertilizer.

That Stinky Stuff Means Natural Gas

(By BEN)
Our name will go down in the history of Clanton as being present when natural gas came into our fair city—stink and all.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones struck a match to natural gas at the home of Lewis Baker, on the "Boss" Miller place, Monday afternoon about 4:30. That point is the furthest east that the gas mains were laid and according to the gentlemen representing the natural gas people if the gas was sufficiently strong there it would be at any other point in the city. Well, brother it was sufficiently strong because about the time he turned it on and before the Mayor struck his match—a gust of wind came from the gas main directly to my nostrils and practically asphyxiated me. However, as for pressure, it was plenty strong there, too.

Semmie Scott, our local photographer, came out and took pictures and same will be published in the next issue of the Chilton County News. Suffice it to say we now have natural gas in Clanton and so far as Mayor C. Fenn Jones is concerned another dream has come true.

A quick salad dressing can be made by blending two tablespoons of tomato paste with six tablespoons of mayonnaise. Season this with grated onion, a dash of chili powder, and a few drops of tabasco sauce. This is very good with meat or fish salads.

Of interest to the many close friends and acquaintances throughout this section and adjoining communities is the news that Mrs. J. R. Bearden gave as about her son, Lt. Joseph R. Bearden, Jr. (Reube, Jr.) Lt. Bearden has been training with Company C of 598th Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N. C. He was there for two weeks of summer training. Lt. Bearden now lives in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Company "C" is a part of the 598th Airborne Engineer Battalion which was activated in Knoxville on November 6, 1946, as an active reserve unit.

While there they built bridges, fired machine guns and various types of weapons used by the Airborne Engineers, worked with demolitions and mines, and did night problems. They had regular army training, following regular army schedules, including K.P. and guard duty and instructions.

During the period of intensive training attempts were made to familiarize new men and refresh the minds of old members in the various activities carried on by an Airborne Engineering Unit.

All equipment and men used in training would in actual combat be dropped to the ground by parachute. The course included tactical combat training and engineering construction training.

We're always glad to hear from and write about our home town boys.

FUR CROP

This year the Nation's fur crop is valued at $125,000,000. Alabama's share of this amount ranges between $500,000 and $750,000. And if farmers will give attention to food and habitat requirements of these three furbearers, mink, muskrat, and beaver, sale of their pelts will increase the farm income.

INCOME TAX "MISTAKES"

One out of four taxpayers makes a mistake in their individual income returns, according to the Internal Revenue Bureau, which adds that, in nine cases out of ten, the mistake is in the taxpayer's favor.

While making a survey of returns in 1948, the Bureau found that 14,000,000 returns contained errors, with the Government being short $1,400,000,000 and the taxpayers short only $100,000,000.

Because of inadequate help, many of the erroneous returns for any year will not be adjusted. While spot checks will be made of a selected number of returns in the lower brackets, all those reporting income of $25,000 or more will be fully scrutinized.

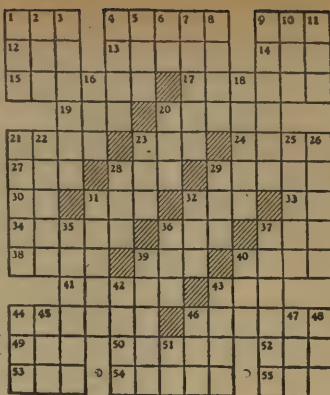

Another surprising revelation is that business men, despite their training, make mistakes in nearly half of their returns. This includes sole owners of farms or non-farming enterprises, which are not incorporated, doctors, dentists, lawyers and other professional men. Because of the high percentage of error, the returns of this class will be checked more closely in the future.

Undoubtedly many of the mistakes made in connection with filing income tax returns are honest errors. Equally undoubted, is the intentional effort of some taxpayers to avoid as much of the levy as they can. These mistakes take from the Government more than a billion dollars a year.

--By BEN

Ed Nunn, who is with the United States Public Health Service and who was sent to Kansas City a few weeks ago, got his picture in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. The edition we have is loaded with stories of the flood disaster and many pictures are in the issue of the awful flood. Ed writes his wife, who operates The Smart Shop here, that all was going fine and things were getting under control. Ed's work is in checking the spread of disease in disaster areas and like as not by the time he is finished in Kansas and Missouri he will be called to another unfortunate locality.

Speaking of people who go places Mrs. A. E. Smith has just returned home after a ten-day trip to see her husband in Pittsburg, Pa. She made the round trip by air and enjoyed it every minute. She disliked only one thing about the whole trip. She said she couldn't hardly understand a single word those Yankees said.

Earl Parrish and others at the First National Bank were having lots of fun Friday morning at the expense of Ben Studdard, our local Gulf Gasoline dealer. Seems that Ben rushed off on an errand the other day and came to a sad end—he run out of gasoline. Mrs. Otto Jones came along and upon learning the trouble went after gas for him and got him going again. The funny thing was that Ben said he would have walked ten miles to town if necessary rather than let Betty know he was out of gas. He knew what a ribbing he was going to get. But he couldn't think of another excuse fast enough to tell his rescuer so he blurted out the facts and he was trapped. His friends around town are wondering what make of gasoline our Gulf Gasoline dealer came into town on.

We hate to lose M. P. Braswell as one of our locally stationed State Highway Patrolmen. He has made many friends here in Chilton County and has proven a good officer. Officer Danely who replaces Officer Braswell is already here and on the job. Braswell went to Cullman where he assumes his new duties this week. Officer Hugh Champion will remain here. Champion is a good officer and very efficient, in fact, Chilton County has been fortunate in getting the very best officers in the Department for many years.

WHEN THERESA HARPER, New York City, was told that she had another's life in her hands, she was terrified. Who wouldn't be when that person was one's own mother? The emotional impact of that remark came like a thud of lead on her head—and her imagination. The doctor went on to explain that her mother had cancer, and that the only hope of a cure was in the help she could give herself in building up resistance. She could not build up resistance, went on the doctor, if she worried about her condition. Your mother has a 75 percent chance, he said, provided she doesn't worry. The only way she can be kept from worrying is for you to be absolutely confident that she is going to get well. You must never display even a vestige of fear, doubt or worry in your words or your actions. If you do—well, just remember that you have your mother's life in your hands.

This meant that Theresa herself must not worry; that she must always put on a brave and smiling front; that her mother must see her hopefulness in order to have hope herself. "Hope is contagious," said the doctor, "just as all good things are—as well as bad."

Theresa always had been a chronic worrier, and now she was frantic. She not only needed to conquer ordinary worries of her own but she had to combat the worry of one who wasn't strong enough to combat her own. She had stood by when they brought her mother from the operating room, but the moment she saw her mother's unnatural looking face she fainted dead away. That didn't seem to be the act of one who could rout another's worry, did it?

"Strength will be given you to do whatever is necessary," she had read somewhere. And she proved it. She turned and walked directly to her mother's room, with the biggest smile she had ever worn. She forced herself to see her mother walking around the park, downtown in the shops. She wouldn't allow herself to see her lying there in the bed. Soon the haunted look left her mother's eyes; soon her face relaxed into a smile.

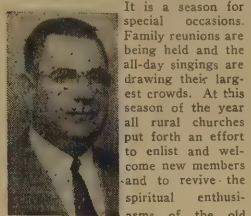

Did it work? "Like a miracle," says Theresa, "and every day I look at my mother and thank God that I had 'the necessary strength when I needed it.'"

Your Health THE WINDOW OPERATION

Otosclerosis is a disease of the ear which was once considered a hopeless state of deafness. The word describes the formation of a spongy bone in the internal or middle ear which prevents the vibratory devices there from carrying out the normal function of transmitting sound. About 15,000,000 persons in the United States suffer from some degree of otosclerosis.

In 1938, a New York surgeon, Dr. Julius L. Lemp, published the story of twelve years' research, the development of an operative technique which

We have come to another revival season here in Alabama and throughout the Southland. The crops have been laid by, the fruit trees are bending low with their fruit, watermelons are ripe and all kinds of good cats.

A. T. HICKMAN members. The winning of souls to Christ is the object of today.

It is inspiring and uplifting to any one and every one to attend these summer time revivals. See the shining faces of old-time Christians; hear the songs of praise sung to Almighty God. The pastors and evangelists preaching their soul-stirring sermons, warning the sinners to turn to God, prepare to meet their Creator, repent and be baptized for the remission of their sins.

This is a characteristic of the Protestant religion. For in other religions you do not find such periodic evangelism which comes to a white heat at this season of the year, but you do find it among almost all Protestant churches—the Assemblies of God, the Church of God, the Baptists, the Methodists and others of like precious faith.

In some of these revivals emotional runs pretty high, but why not? Some may be critical toward this spiritual emotionalism. But there is a proper emotional content in the Salvation of our Lord. When the publican stood afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes to heaven, but smote upon his breast, saying, "God be merciful to me, a sinner." He was filled with emotion. Zacharias came down out of the tree, and received Christ joyfully. He, too, was filled with emotion. The Ethiopian eunuch was baptized by Phillip and went on his way rejoicing. His emotionalism ran high. And so did the Philippian jailer. He believed in the name of Jesus Christ and was baptized, and rejoiced, believing in God with all his house.

Friend, attend the revival nearest your home, and the one held at the church of your choice. These revivals are the feeders of the religious faith in our nation, and are the foundation of wholesome living.

Parents' Problems

By DONALD M. MAYNARD

Family Tension

My family was never very demonstrative. The members of my husband's family are very talkative, affectionate, and pay much attention to birthdays and any kind of "special" occasion. It is difficult for me to adjust my thinking to such a changed pattern of living. In fact, there has been some tension because my husband is determined that our small children shall have the same background that he had and I feel unable to "rise to the occasion" every time. Is this incompatibility a danger to our happiness? What can I do about it?

The very fact that you are facing this problem frankly and honestly is a good indication that you and your husband will be able to make the adjustments necessary for a happy family life.

You will need to guard against putting a damper on his demonstrativeness by appearing disgusted or indifferent. You will need to discipline yourself that most of the time you can reciprocate his affection and his enthusiasm.

Dr. Maynard's booklet, Your Child Today, discusses unhappy parents. It's free to readers of this newspaper. Mail a postcard to Donald M. Maynard, 810 Broadway, Nashville 2, Tennessee, for a copy.

and enjoyment over special occasions. If he wants birthdays and holidays to be celebrated in a big way, enter into the spirit of the occasion as best you can. Do your part in making the celebration a gala one.

At the same time, your husband should realize that he can't expect you to rise to every occasion, and that you tend to express your affection in less articulate and less demonstrative ways. He must learn to accept you as you are and must guard against getting his feelings hurt because you feel sometimes that he shows as much enthusiasm as he would like over something that means a lot to him.

In other words, this seems to be a situation that calls for a compromise on the part of you both. I would remind you, however, that most studies of successful marriages show that families in which affection was freely demonstrated are happier than are those in which it is taken for granted.

It is exceedingly important, too, that your children should be assured of your understanding when they are making a lot over special occasions is good for them, too. Happy family experiences give them the feeling of security that is so essential for wholesome development.

Teen Troubles

We learned recently that our sixteen-year-old had shipped out several times with the family car and taken a long drive alone from two to four o'clock in the morning. What should we do about this?

What you should do depends upon several factors, such as your own relationship with the boy, whether or not he continues to slip off with the car this way, and his general emotional stability.

Your first concern, of course, should be to discover why he feels the need of getting up in the middle of the night to go out in the car. It may be because he is never permitted to have the car alone in the daytime. He may have heard other boys bragging about their doing this and the idea has appealed to him, to his desire for adventure.

On the other hand, it may be that something is troubling him and he wants to get out alone to face his difficulties. He may be disturbed about any one or several of the following:

1. His school work.
2. His social standing—he may be having trouble with his girl friend; there may be disappointments in connection with extra-curricular activities; or he may be burdened by a deep sense of inferiority.
3. If he is a thoughtful chap he may be disturbed by some of the puzzling questions of life. He may be trying to figure out what life is all about and his place in it.
4. Unfortunate physical habits that have created in him a sense of anxiety and guilt.
5. A feeling that neither you nor his teachers appreciate and understand him. This is especially likely to be true if he has been labeled as "boss" him, ridicule his ideas, or accuse him of always wanting to argue.

Let me hasten to add that it is rather to be expected that your boy should be bothered by one or more of the above. Think back to your own adolescent days. Weren't there times when you felt that you were misunderstood? Can't you remember how you, too, liked to get out alone in the car—or buggy—to meditate about life, its meaning and its tragedy?

To be sure, you didn't do this from two to four in the morning, but after all, the time of the day or night is more or less incidental. In fact, don't you even now occasionally want to get away by yourself?

If your youngster seems to be fairly well adjusted emotionally and to his fellows, therefore, I wouldn't worry too much about what has happened. On the other hand, if you discover that he is seriously troubled by something, try to find ways, indirect ways, that you can help him. Don't face yourself upon him or insist that he confide in you, but try to be understanding and patient.

It may be that you will want to let him know that you know that he is going out during the middle of the night. Do not scold or blame him for doing so, but face frankly the fact that there is a certain amount of danger in going out alone at that time of the night. It should not be difficult for him to understand that it is but natural for you and your wife to worry when you find he is gone with the car. Suggest that you would appreciate his finding some other time for his trips. If you are patient, understanding, and fair, he is likely to cooperate with you.

Later work overcame many obstacles in his operation. His technique, called fenestration or the "window" operation, often restores persons formerly labeled "hopelessly deaf" to complete hearing. It does not apply to all cases of deafness. However, when competent physicians advise the operation, 98 percent of the persons operated on are restored to normal hearing.

Few surgeons perform this delicate operation which needs special training. It is suitable only for "properly selected cases" following careful preoperative examination to determine particularly that the hearing nerve itself is intact.

The authority of said County Engineer shall be limited to the expenditure of such funds for the purpose of construction, maintenance or repairs of public roads, bridges, and ferries of Chilton County as may be set aside and appropriated by the Board, as hereinafter provided; it shall be the duty of said Board at some meeting in September of each calendar year, or not later than the first meeting of October following, by order of resolution, spread upon the minutes, to fix and determine the amount of funds which will be available for the purpose of building, maintaining and constructing public roads, bridges and ferries of Chilton County for the current fiscal year, beginning on October 1st, which said amount, other than the salary of said County Engineer and his necessary expenses, shall not be exceeded by him in building, maintaining and constructing public roads, bridges and ferries in Chilton County during said period; provided, however, that said Board is authorized, from time to time, within such period, to increase the amount so allowed to be expended by said County Engineer during said period, when such authorization will not conflict with provisions of the General Law under the Budget Act, Title 12, section 74, of the Code of Alabama 1940. Bids shall be opened publicly at a time and place stated in the invitations. The board shall award the purchase to the lowest responsible bidder, or it may reject all bids and renegotiate the purchase when the public interest will be served thereby. Provided, however, that in making such purchases, the Board shall obtain information from the Division of Purchases and Stores of the Department of Transportation and State Affairs, for information concerning the price to the State of the items to be purchased, and if the State price is less than the lowest bid received, and if the delivery date is reasonable, all bids shall be rejected and the purchase shall be negotiated through the State Purchasing Agent.

(b) In an emergency purchases of less than fifty dollars ($50) may be made without obtaining bids and without obtaining information from the Division of Purchases and Stores as hereinabove provided, and purchases in excess of fifty dollars ($50) may be made without obtaining bids and without obtaining information from the Division of Purchases and Stores if the Chairman and all the members of the board approve the purchase and such approval is shown in the minutes of the board.

Section 27. In the event an emergency should arise, in which it would be impossible for the Board to employ an Engineer, as hereinabove provided for, then, in that event the Board shall employ a competent Road Supervisor who need not be an engineer, but, when so employed, he shall have all the duties and authority of said Engineer, and be subject to the provisions of this Act; but an emergency shall not exist so long as the State Highway Director can nominate an engineer who will accept employment by said Board under the terms of this Act, it being the intention of this Act to provide that, when County roads are to be maintained or constructed in said County, the supervision thereof shall be either under a County Engineer, as hereinabove provided for, or, by a Road Supervisor, who is not a member of the Board.

Section 28. It shall be the further duty of each associate member of the Board to inspect the roads of his district from time to time, and hear the suggestions and complaints of the citizens, and report the same to the Board with his recommendations; to advise with the County Engineer concerning the problems of his district, particularly, and to assist in securing right of ways, and assist in public relations generally.

Section 29. No county equipment or machinery shall be used on any property not owned by or under the control of the State, the County or a municipality.

Section 30. All the duties imposed on the chairman and members of the board by this Act are mandatory and all the limitations and restrictions imposed on them shall be strictly construed.

ALABAMA HOSPITAL PLAN BEGINS ENROLLMENT

Starting Wednesday morning, August 15, the Community Enrollment Division of the Alabama Hospital Plan will begin its annual enrollment in Chilton County and will continue for two weeks. Since one person out of every two Chilton County families will become hospital cases each year it indicates a need for a high type hospital surgical coverage, and heavy enrollment is expected. The Alabama Hospital Plan has achieved great popularity over the state and currently protects thousands of Alabama families.

The need for protection against heavy hospital and doctors' bills appears to be growing, according to the latest figures released. In 1947, 158,291,514 men, women and children throughout the nation were admitted to hospitals, nearly 10% of the entire population. That is more than double the number of people who went to hospitals in 1935 and means that, on the average, a member of every second family in Chilton County can be expected to enter a hospital during the year. On any one day 1,217,229 persons are in hospitals. Eight out of ten require surgery.

Farm Folk Hit Hard—

The percentage of farm people who enter hospitals each year due to sickness is about the same as the percentage of urban dwellers. However, because of accidents farm workers enter hospitals far more frequently than people living elsewhere. The National Safety Council reports that one out of every four farms is the scene each year of a disabling injury. Financially farmers are often hit harder by sickness and accidents, too. In other occupations workers sometimes have group hospitalization policies. Also, their salaries or wages may go on for a few weeks after disability. But since the farmer is self-employed or has a share basis, he does not enjoy any benefits of that type.

Alabama Hospital Plan Men To Visit—

During the Alabama Hospital Plan annual Community Enrollment in Chilton County, authorized Enrollment staff members will visit each home here. Staff members will carry official cards to identify themselves and are all licensed by the state of Alabama. Because of the number of features included in the Alabama Hospital Plan, each of these acts are hereby repealed.

Section 33. Should any section, clause, or part of this Act, be declared invalid it shall not affect any other part thereof.

Section 34. From and after the passage of this Act, it shall be unlawful for the Board or any member thereof to rent or lease any county road-building machinery to any private individual, corporation or association.

Section 35. This Act shall become effective immediately upon its becoming a law.

each Enrollment staff member will spend about an half-hour with individuals or families interested in the plan. Individuals and families who are in good health may join even though they are not members of an employed group.

Popular Among Nurses

The Alabama Hospital Plan which is underwritten by the reliable Jefferson Life & Casualty Company has become highly popular with professional medical people, especially nurses and doctors, many of whom are to be found among the membership. Considering the fact that most of these people deal with hospital cases and hospital policies day in and day out, their acuity in taking out the Alabama Hospital Plan personally speaks much for the plan.

Some of the Unusual Features—

In addition to the standard benefits provided by Alabama Hospital Plan, such as $400 to $1000 a day for hospital room and board, $500 to $200.00 for surgical operations, full costs of operating room and anesthesia and payments toward other hospital extras, such as X-rays, medicines, ambulance, etc., several unusual features are found. For instance the Plan will advance up to $250.00 hospital expense if a Alabama Hospital member is injured and needs that financial aid. Then too, full benefits are paid in addition to any other policy a member may have, and in addition to Worker's Compensation. Should another party pay the member's hospital bill (as cases where the person responsible for an accident pays expenses), Alabama Hospital Plan pays full benefits directly to that member.

Individual Needs To Be Analyzed—

During the Alabama Hospital Plan Annual Community Enrollment Period authorized staff members will analyze the needs of interested persons in Chilton County and will recommend the Alabama Hospital Plan best suited to them.

BETTER GRADE COTTON IS WORTH MORE MONEY

Auburn, Ala. — The way cotton is handled from the boll to the bale may mean the difference between profit or loss on this year's crop.

"Middling or higher grades should be the goal of every cotton grower," declares O. N. Andrews, A.P.I. Extension Service cotton improvement specialist.

He says that under the 1951 loan program a bale of 1 1-32 inch middling cotton is worth $22.25 more than a bale of low middling grade of the same staple length. Quite often the market shows an even greater spread. This year the discount for lowering cotton one grade, from middling 1 1-32 inch to strict low middling 1 1-32 inch, amounts to $13.25 per 500 pound bale.

MONEY FROM EGGS

A survey has just been completed on 20 egg producing farms, and the average producer on these farms made an in-the-pocket income of $2.29 per layer. As if this weren't enough, the five growers making the most money averaged $3.89 per layer.

DINGY LIGHT BULBS MAY NEED REPLACING

Auburn, Ala. — The thrifty time to change an electric light bulb is when it begins to look dark under the glass, according to Stella Mitchell, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist.

"To let the bulb continue burning until it goes out wastes electricity—and money," she explains. "Once a bulb becomes dingy inside, it may give off only about half as much light as a new bulb yet use about the same amount of electric current."

The housewife can check on the condition of bulbs when she dusts. If the dingy look won't dust off, even with a damp cloth, that's her cue to put in a new bulb.

Fluorescent lights flicker when they begin to wear out and need changing. That farewells flicker not only is hard on the eyes but wastes electricity as well. Sometimes these fixtures need a new starter to give steady light.

PRESSURE SAUCEPAN USED FOR CANNING

A pressure saucepan may be successfully used for small jobs of home canning provided the saucepan meets certain requirements, and provided processing times scientifically adapted to saucepans are used.

Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. Extension Service food preservation specialist, points out that for home canning, a saucepan must be tall enough to hold pint jars on a rack with the saucepan cover locked in place, and the saucepan must have a gauge that allows pressure to be controlled accurately at 10 pounds.

"For safekeeping of vegetables," says Miss Curtis, "processing time at 10 pounds pressure must be one-half as long again as regular canning time."

Use peanut butter bait to trap mice. It makes a better mouse catcher than cheese and other baits. If peanut butter is soft, work it into a bit of cotton before placing it on the trap.

FARM PRICE SITUATION IS FAIRLY FAVORABLE

Prices of farm products in recent months have declined faster than prices at wholesale or retail levels, according to A. W. Jones, A.P.I. Extension Service marketing specialist.

Last February the parity ratio of all farm products stood at 113. By June, it had dropped to 106. However, in spite of lower prices in recent months, the market and price situation appears fairly favorable for the next several months.

Jones adds that major factors in the current outlook are prospects for heavy production of most crops in 1951, a high rate of employment and good business conditions that will strengthen and maintain consumer demand at a high level, and in spite of moderate declines over the last several months, prices of most farm products are fairly satisfactory and above the levels of a year ago.

FACTS ABOUT BUILDING FARM PONDS IN STATE

A new fish pond will be on the minds of many farmers as soon as crop harvest is over.

Therefore, Earl F. Kennamer, A.P.I. Extension Service fish and wildlife specialist, urges farmers who plan to construct ponds this fall to contact the local county agent for helpful information.

Many ponds in the state have proved to be almost worthless because the pond owner failed to recognize the importance of proper pond site selection.

HALT SWINE DISEASE

Since there is no effective means of treating atrophic rhinitis, a disease that threatens Alabama hog production, swine producers should inquire into the history of the herds from which they purchase breeding stock. This precaution should prevent bringing the disease on the farm.

In the dining room where the color scheme of pastel shades of green and yellow were accentuated, the tea table was covered with a beautiful hand-crochet cloth, and centered with a large crystal bowl of green punch. Churches Map Programs
To Help Farming Regions

RELIGIOUS LEADERS are more and more insisting on the need for effective programs to strengthen America's rural areas both spiritually and economically.

Rural life problems—a subject on which Protestant and Roman Catholic groups have concentrated special efforts for many years—were aired by clerical and lay experts at the second quadrennial National Methodist Town and Country Conference at Sioux City, Ia.

Addressing more than 1,500 delegates from 48 states, Methodist Bishop Hazen G. Werner of Columbus, Ohio, described the preservation and cultivation of a religious family life in this country's rural communities as vital to "our social survival and the survival of religion itself." He said that "the low ebb of religious life generally is due to the low ebb of the spiritual life in the home."

A featured speaker at the conference was Miss Katharine F. Leeper, chief of the Children's Bureau of the Social Security Administration. She said that while much is being done to strengthen church life in rural areas, "regional assistance in religious education program and service to the community is important if rural people are to be reached in ways commensurate with opportunities afforded by city churches."

Dr. Charles M. McConnell, professor at Boston University School of Theology, recommended ways in which, he said, the Church could render better service to rural communities. He said the Church should give an example of harmonious human relations within its own membership, meanwhile seeking to serve an entire community rather than a select group.

Veering from religious to economic questions, the conference heard one speaker urge the observance of an "eleventh commandment"—proper and conscientious use of the land and natural resources. A resolution was adopted asking the federal government speedily to complete "all possible work looking toward soil conservation and flood control." It stressed that the Church has "a large stake in the preservation of farm living and in Christian stewardship of our agricultural assets."

Concern over economic matters in the rural regions was evidenced also at the Methodist Assembly Missionary Conference held at Lake Junaluska, N. C.

Dr. Hugh Hammond Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, declared that soil conservation "is a field in which science and religion can work side by side for the betterment of man." He said that ministers should expand church-directed efforts toward saving the soil.

"There is missionary work to be done here at home as well as abroad," the official said. "This work is closely akin to saving the soul."

A challenge to town and country churches to show more concern for the varied interests and problems of farmers was sounded at the first annual Baptist Rural Life Convocation held at Green Lake, Wis. The meeting was sponsored by the home mission agencies of the American Baptist Convention and was attended by over 300 pastors, farmers and lay leaders from all parts of the country.

University courses on rural missions and on the Church and economic life are being offered this summer and fall under the auspices of the National Council of Churches.

In the meantime, the National Council's Department of Town and Country has recommended the revival of the ancient custom of observing an annual harvest festival in churches. It was suggested that a Sunday in late summer or early fall be chosen for the festival and that the service include a collection of food to be displayed in the church and then given to the needy.

CAREER TRAINING PROGRAM

Mr. Ralph Johnston, part owner of Upchurch's Rexall Drug, has announced the completion of arrangements whereby their salespersons will receive free career training.

Through a program developed by the Rexall Drug Company for the training of drugstore employees, Upchurch's Rexall Drug Store will teach their salespersons correct selling techniques, personality improvement and human relations.

The medium used for this educational program is that of film. These slide films, accompanied by music and voice sound, were made in Hollywood and employ the talents of professional actors and directors. Using a portable projector no larger than a woman's cosmetic case, these films will be screened at the store. They will portray the experiences of a druggist, his clerks and his customers. The program is to be a continuing one with a new film being shown each month.

Mr. Johnston says he expects this program to accomplish several things. Not only will it be used to train his present personnel but it will also be an easy and efficient way of teaching proper drugstore selling to new employees. He believes it will enable him and his sales staff to serve their customers better and more efficiently than ever before. In addition,

W.S.C.S. HELD REGULAR BUSINESS MEETING

The W.S.C.S. of the First Methodist Church held their regular business meeting at the church Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Omar Reynolds gave a most interesting talk, using as her topic, "The Church's Mission to Older Adults."

Miss Annette Broadhead was musician for this meeting and the opening prayer was given by Mrs. Hoyt L. Taylor.

During the business session Mrs. G. T. Murphree, Secretary of Missionary Education, was elected to go as the delegate from this church to the Leadership Training School which will be held this week.

Mrs. Milton Diefenderfer made a plea for new and old clothing to fill a box for the Aldersgate Missionary.

It was voted that this church shall be hostess to the Upper Selma District for a Missionary Seminar (an all-day meeting) of the W.S.C.S., on September 13th.

After the business session, the meeting was dismissed with prayer.

he believes the basic psychology lessons learned from these films will prove to be invaluable career training for his employees and will enable them to get more enjoyment out of their work.

IT'S A GOOD TIME TO PLANT FALL TURNIPS

Auburn, Ala. — Turnips and collards tie for first place in southern winter gardens, finds J. C. Ford, A.P.I. Extension Service garden specialist.

He reminds gardeners that turnips, especially the Purple Top Globe and Seven Top varieties, produce two choice foods, roots and greens. Purple Top is the best for roots. Seven Top grows deeper in the ground; therefore, it will stand more cold. Seven Top will live and grow greens after the Purple Top has been frozen out.

However, it can be killed by a hard freeze.

"August is a good time to make the first planting of these two varieties for this fall and winter," says Ford. "A good seedbed should be prepared in fertile ground."

Another variety of turnips called Shogoin has several points in its favor for hot weather planting. They will stand more hot, dry weather than other varieties. Insects and diseases attack them somewhat less severely than other varieties, and the leaves grow in a rather up-right position, making it easy to dust both sides of the leaves when worms, aphids, or leafspot attack.

A sound cropping system provides for the systematic cropping of the land in a way that will stabilize the soil and maintain or improve its fertility.

Local FHA Reveals Principal Objective For 1952

Helping family farmers make needed improvements to bring their farms to maximum efficiency will be the principal objective of the Farmers Home Administration during the coming year, Joe M. Murphree, local FHA Supervisor, said today.

The policy was established at a statewide meeting of the agency's employees held in Birmingham last week. Messrs. Joe M. Murphree, Wyndol Murrah, Raymond A. Robinson and Edgar H. Waldrop, Mrs. Mae V. Foshee and Mrs. Helen P. Blackmon attended the meeting.

The Farmers Home Administration provides several types of supervised credit. "All of them fit very well into this policy, and all of them are flexible enough to help the farmer increase his production in line with the defense effort," Mr. Murphree said.

The real estate program will be used primarily for making farm development type loans. These will provide the credit and on-farm guidance to enable small operators to do land clearing, drainage, fencing, basic soil treatment, permanent seedings, or the construction, repair, or remodeling of existing farm buildings to make them more efficient. As example, a farm owner unable to get credit from other sources might use Farmers Home real estate or housing loans to convert his present dairy barn into one which would enable him to sell Grade A milk.

The operating loan program, too, will be directed toward increasing farm efficiency. A farmer can use this type of credit to obtain the additional livestock or farm equipment he needs to put his farm into maximum production. Such loan funds can also be used to develop better pasture, to obtain seed, feed or fertilizer, or to cover farm and home operating expenses until a crop can be harvested.

The committee of local farmers who assist Mr. Murphree in administering the program will continue to approve all applicants for Farmers Home Administration loans.

Willams-Arnold Will Head Industry Days For Clanton

Birmingham, Ala., August 23—R. C. Williams, President of the Clanton Chamber of Commerce, was named Chairman of the Clanton Alabama Industry Days committee today by the Associated Industries of Alabama, one of the sponsoring organizations of the industry celebration.

Named to serve with Mr. Williams as Co-Chairman was Dick Arnold, Superintendent of the local plant of Alabama Mills, Inc.

In a statement released to this newspaper today by D. Trotter Jones, Executive Vice President, Associated Industries of Alabama, he termed the selection of Mr. Williams and Mr. Arnold as "complete assurance to the people of Clanton and surrounding communities that they will again have an outstanding event in celebration of the Second Annual Alabama Industry Days Program."

The three-day celebration will take place throughout the state during September 13, 14 and 15.

Full text of Mr. Jones' statement reads as follows:

"It is always a source of deep satisfaction to us when the leading citizens of any communities see fit to endorse and wholeheartedly support a program such as Alabama Industry Days.

"This program is designed for all the people of Alabama. Its purpose is to acquaint the people in every community with their local industry—and to give them a better idea of what that local industry means to their community.

Success of the program must, therefore, be attained at the local community level. Further, if the program is to be successful at the local level, it logically follows that the program must meet with the approval and receive the endorsement and support of local leaders in every community.

"It is with great pleasure that we appoint Mr. R. C. Williams and Mr. Dick Arnold as Chairman and Co-Chairman respectively of the Clanton Alabama Industry Days Committee. Their appointment gives complete assurance to the people of Clanton and surrounding communities that they will again have an outstanding event in celebration of the Second Annual Alabama Industry Days Program."

ATTEND CONVENTION AT MILWAUKEE

Red Fulmer, Commander, Chilton County Chapter, D.A.V. and Bob Fullen, National Service Officer, attended the 30th Annual DAV Convention held in Milwaukee, Wis., from the 12th to 18th of this month.

According to Fulmer and Fullen there were many distinguished guests who appeared on the program. Among them were Gen. Carl Gray, Administrator of Veterans Administration; Mr. Odum, Solicitor Veterans Administration, and leading representatives from other Veteran Organizations.

A general feeling of uneasiness was expressed by many veteran leaders that there is an immediate danger of war disabled losing many of the benefits which they now enjoy. Many World War I disabled veterans can well remember what happened to them in 1933 when an economy law went into effect and the suicide rate went up 8%.

There were many important resolutions passed by the National Convention effecting veterans' benefits.

There will be an installation of newly elected officers of the local D.A.V. Chapter at the County Courthouse Thursday, September 6th, at 7:30 p.m. Raymond Mims, local attorney and Past Post Commander of the American Legion was elected as Commander of Chilton County Chapter D.A.V. All disabled veterans are invited and urged to attend.

PLOTT OFFERS AMENDMENT TO LOCAL LEGISLATION

The Bill appearing in the News pertaining to changing the county government from a Commissioner's Court to a Board of Revenue which will be introduced the last of this month in the State Legislature, will be presented with several amendments, it was reported by Representative J. S. Plott this week.

When the Bill is presented to the Legislature one amendment will be the section regarding the working of relatives. Many citizens of the county have been to Representative Plott stating that it would be unfair to discharge long-time employees who were already employed by the county because a relative was elected to office. The amendment will allow these relatives to continue work where they have been employed for several years.

Another section to be amended will be that where county machinery is prohibited from building private roads. This will be allowed to homeowners where the distance is not too great and distance will be determined by the Members of the Board.

These two amendments were especially sought after by many of the voters of the county and it was stated by Mr. Plott that the wish of the voters would have his undivided attention.

FAREWELL TO SUMMER

45 YEARS LONG ENOUGH

With the remark: "45 years is long enough for a man to deliver milk in one town," E. W. Miller quits the dairy business.

Mr. Miller, who is more familiarly known as "Boss," has about as many friends in Chilton County as any citizen here. Many of these friends were made "delivering milk," and many were made delivering mail, which he did for some thirty-five years.

We can only remark that any rest "Boss" Miller gets he has well deserved and we wish for him many more years of living among the friends he has made serving milk and mail.

MILLION DOLLAR INCOME

M. R. (Red) Glasscock, local County Agent, estimates that Chilton County now has a million dollar livestock income. In a county so blessed with everything agricultural this is but a small amount compared to what could be.

This month Glasscock sent out questionnaires to livestock farmers in the county to try to determine:

1. Who is interested in a hog and cattle market to be established in the county.
2. What type market will best serve your needs?
3. Number cattle already being sold annually?
4. Number of hogs sold annually?
5. If an increase is planned. Hogs or cattle?
6. If market plans are developed, what form of business is preferred; (a) individual ownership and operation; (b) corporation ownership and operation; (c) a cooperative organization with the cattle and hog owners participating in ownership and management?

Whether intended or not Mr. Glasscock's letter and questionnaire ties in with the campaign recently started by the Chamber of Commerce to bring more and better livestock into the county. He is an active worker in the Chamber and is serving on this committee.

It will be interesting to know the answers received on the questionnaire sent out and with a million dollar income and better dangling as bait, how can our livestock raisers do anything but cooperate with the County Agent and the Chamber of Commerce in bringing this added revenue into their own pockets.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

We owe an apology to all our good friends at Thorsby and especially to our correspondent, Mrs. Estelle Hayes, for omitting the Thorsby News last week. It was unavoidable, and we're sorry.

Another correction we wish to make is for the article we wrote for Bud Gerald. His office is now in the Johnson Building. We wrote J-o-h-n-s-o-n on the typewriter, but it came out Gowan. Guess we'll have to get a new typewriter.

Semmie Scott told us the other afternoon while he was taking the picture of Mayor C. Fern Jones lighting the first natural gas in Clanton, that he had made a picture of Mayor Jones turning the water into the city mains of Clanton when the program was enlarged and mains extended some fifteen years ago. The engineer said the two pictures would hang side by side in his office at Birmingham.

Bob Argo and Dick Arnold of Alabama Mills, Inc., were in to see us the other day. Bob had Alabama Industry Days, which are coming up next month, on his mind. The program this year is for all merchants to build an individual display in their store of Alabama maid products. The Associated Industries of Alabama will furnish large banners in bright colors to decorate your store and help present the Alabama Maid Products. R. C. Williams, C of C president is chairman and Dick Arnold is vice-chairman.

DALE CARNEGIE

Conquers Alcoholism

MORGAN C. JUDD, Knoxville, Tenn., says before he could solve the Big Problem in his life, he had to form a whole new philosophy of living. He learned that this had to be done by his own self and that anything another contributed in the way of help was merely help.

He awoke one day about six years ago to find himself suffering an alcoholism. He had suddenly realized that every time he took a drink, he wanted to keep on drinking until he "drew a blank." The habit, of course, had come upon him by degrees, and in the full belief that when he wanted to stop drinking, all he had to do was to stop. Now he knew it was not as simple as that. Every time he had had occasion to worry, he had taken a drink; every time Fear had risen within him, he had taken a drink. Now he could not stop, for his will power had been, if not destroyed, at least stymied.

Carnegie

Realizing the seriousness of his condition, knowing that since it couldn't get better by putting off from day to day, from drink to drink, the actual discarding of the now terrifying habit, he appealed to that Society that has done so much to help men who have similarly suffered, Alcoholics Anonymous. Telling him that his case was most hopeful, since he really wanted to cure himself, they gave him rules to practice. Here are two; the first one was the most important:

1—Every day decide that you won't take a drink today. Never mind about tomorrow, that will take care of itself. Live for today only.

2—Forget your own problem by becoming interested in others.

There were other sage pieces of advice, but Morgan Judd says these two alone were sufficient for him.

Your Health A BASAL

"Oh I've just had a basal." People using the phrase are inclined to do so loosely. Actually the test is a basal metabolic rate determination to measure the heat production of the body. Metabolism of the body might be defined as the speed of chemical processes of the body. In its junction, the body uses up oxygen. When the body is at rest, all its activities slow up. However, during digestion, exercise or even when exposed to the cold, the body needs more oxygen to fulfill its needs. This changes the rate of chemical change that occurs within the body. Food is the fuel burned for energy and is also needed to repair and rebuild body tissue.

A given amount of food will require a measured amount of oxygen to give off a certain amount of heat and carbon dioxide and water, and the rate and use of oxygen to carry on daily activities have been established on an average basis.

The thyroid, located in the neck, is the gland that interferes with the speed of processes of the body. If it is not functioning in balance, too much or too little energy may be used. To determine the degree of balance, the patient is asked to have a good night's rest and to go without breakfast when the test is given. Mental and physical quiet are important.

The reading on the metabolic test is not completed in terms of oxygen used per minute or hour, but in calories. One liter of oxygen is equivalent to about five calories. Thus the measure of calories used when the body and mind are at rest, reflects the normal or abnormal function of the thyroid.

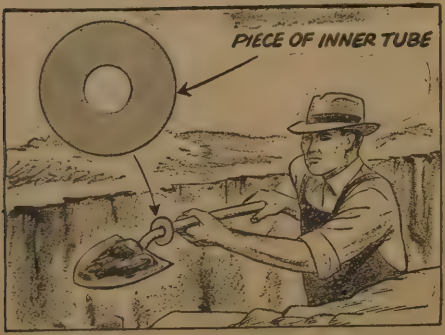

Since the body requires protein, sugar and a certain amount of fat to furnish energy and to rebuild tissue, all of which are involved in the speed processes of the body, it is obvious that metabolism includes all the numerous chemical changes that are going on constantly. Then too, other factors covering the activity of other glands of the body, must be considered. Thoughts, ideas, anger, frustration, ambition and drive, all stemming from various portions of the brain, enter into the picture of metabolism.

COTTON TIP

The way cotton is handled from the boll to the bale may mean the difference between profit or loss on this year's crop. Under the 1951 loan program a bale of one and one-thirty-second inch middling cotton is worth $22.25 more than a bale of low middling grade of the same staple length. Quite often the market shows an even greater spread.

Screaming Spells

My baby has screaming spells. He is a healthy, happy baby, but after a healthy, Ever since he was six or eight months old he has responded by crying and yelling, often for a long period of time, over a very little thing that didn't go his way. When he was a year old a person of some authority suggested that we shut him in a room alone and he stopped screaming. This produced hysterics, continuing an hour or more, and we thought it unwise to keep it up.

What should we do, completely ignore him? So far this treatment has worked the best although it has not lessened the number of attacks.

One would need considerably more information than is given above to answer this question adequately. The following suggestions, however, may prove helpful:

1. Find out if the crying is the result of physical causes. Food that does not digest, teeth coming in, undue fatigue, or other physical discomforts may be a factor in his tendency to cry frequently.

2. You are wise in discontinuing the practice of putting him in a room alone. This is the advice that frequently was given ten or fifteen years ago, but pediatricians are increasingly realizing that such advice is not wise.

3. Make every effort to avoid situations in which your child will feel frustrated. He should be able to do all the things he has his own way, of course, but there is no reason why there should be frequent occasions when he feels frustrated. Right now he needs many happy and satisfying experiences. Be sure he has play materials that are suitable for him and that do not put him under any strain.

4. Be certain that he has plenty of affection and love from both you and your husband. He needs these if he is to have that feeling of security that will enable him to face obstacles without being overwhelmed emotionally.

5. Although it may be necessary to ignore the crying when he has one of his spells, he does not necessarily mean that you must ignore him. At times you can divert his attention to something that is interesting and thus stop his crying. After he has stopped crying, be sure that he does not feel that you are angry with him.

Learning to Talk

Our son is eighteen months old. He has been talking for ten months. He is very active and independent physically, but he won't try to talk. Occasionally he will say "Mama" or "Dada" but he won't try to talk or let him talk his time?

Most children begin to say words somewhere between the ages of one and two, so you should not be concerned if your child is not yet talking. Individual differences are quite apparent in the time that children begin to talk and even though your child may not talk much at the age of two, there is nothing particular to worry about. If at the age of two and a half or three he does not talk, then you may have some reason for concern.

In your son's case, I rather suspect that when he wants to talk he will begin to cry. I would not unduly urge him to talk as this may cause him to develop more rapidly than is normal for him. I see no reason, however, why you should not teach him a word now and then and express approval when he uses one correctly. There is a difference between "encouraging" and "encouraging." There is no urge, therefore, is perhaps the best way to indicate what you should do.

If you have a question about your child, come in infancy through the teens—send it to Donald M. Maynard, 810 Broadway, Nashville 2, Tennessee, to be answered through a future column in this newspaper.

When parents will be sure that the child knows the name of various objects and will then refuse to give them to him until he asks for them by their correct name. When the child is asked for something, they will be generous in their approval, although they will guard against giving so much approval that the child becomes spoiled and talks in order to show off.

If the parents of these retarded children follow these suggestions and no improvement results, the retardation may be due to physical causes, such as deafness or malnutrition.

Let me urge you to secure from the United States Children's Bureau, Washington, D. C., the excellent booklet "Your Retarded Child." You will find in it the answer to many of your questions.

Large Families

We have a happy home, three fine boys, and are mutually happy as husband and wife. For the last year or so, I have had a desire to have one or two more children, maybe even a girl! Or even more boys, as I love them all. The idea of the old-fashioned family strikes me favorably and I love it! However, in this day and age, with the financial strain of these times, the financial responsibilities, doing our best by the three we now have; and in addition, the need for help in the communities, the schools, the churches. Is it practical, or advisable, in these days to have a large family? My husband agrees with my attitude.

It seems to me that you and your husband may be just the ones who should have a large family.

Certainly you should not let the needs of the church and the community for more children deter you from having additional children. There is no better way to serve either than by bringing up to maturity fine intelligent, sensitive, and socially and spiritually sensitive.

If your family income, therefore, is such that you can assure your children adequate educational opportunities, there would seem to be no reason why you should not have the family you desire.

proper order of the Board; (5) It shall be his further duty, in so far as is feasible, to construct and maintain all County roads on the basis of the County as a unit, without regard to any district or beat lines.

Section 18. The said County Engineer is hereby designated as the person authorized to make written requisition upon the Board, or its duly designated purchasing agency, for all articles, materials, supplies, and equipment necessary for the maintenance and construction of roads, bridges and ferries in Chilton County.

Section 19. It shall be the duty of the Board to fix, from time to time, in accordance with prevailing economic conditions, the various scales of wages or salaries to be paid for labor necessary in the maintenance and construction of said roads, bridges, and ferries, and said wage or salary scale shall not be exceeded by said engineer in the employment of labor and assistants. Provided, however, that should the Board refuse or fail to fix said scale of wages or salaries, said engineer shall request the State Highway Director to fix the same, and the wages or salaries so fixed by the State Highway Director shall not be exceeded in the employment of said labor and assistants; Provided, However, that no person connected by consanguinity within the fourth degree, or affinity within the fifth degree with any member of the Board of Revenue and Control shall be employed by the Board as a whole or any member of the Board, to serve the County in any respect.

Section 20. The Board shall fix the amount of the salary of the said County Engineer, payable in equal monthly installments from the road and highway funds of Chilton County.

Section 21. Before entering upon his duties, the said County Engineer shall make and enter into a surety bond in the amount of seven thousand five hundred ($7,500.00) dollars, payable to Chilton County, conditioned for the faithful discharge and performance of his duties as such Engineer, and for the faithful accounting of all monies or property of said County, which may come into his possession or custody; said bond to be executed by a surety company authorized and qualified to do business in Alabama, and to be approved by the Chairman of the board, the premiums thereon to be paid by the County.

Section 22. The Board shall furnish the County Engineer with an office at the Court House, or elsewhere, at the County Seat, and all necessary office supplies, and shall furnish him with necessary transportation in connection with his duties under this Act.

The Board shall furnish the necessary storage facilities in which to keep said tools, machinery, supplies and equipment, and the County Engineer shall keep on files in his office, at all times, an up-to-date inventory, containing a list of all said tools, machinery, equipment and supplies belonging to Chilton County.

Section 24. The authority of said County Engineer shall be limited to the expenditure of such funds for the purpose of construction, maintenance or repairs of public roads, bridges, and ferries of Chilton County as may be set aside and appropriated by the Board, as hereinafter provided; it shall be the duty of said Board at some meeting in September of each calendar year, or not later than the first meeting in October following, by order or resolution spread upon the minutes, to fix and determine the amount of funds which will be available for the purpose of building, maintaining and constructing public roads, bridges and ferries in Chilton County during said period; provided, however, that said Board is authorized, from time to time within any such period, to increase the amount so allowed to be expended by said County Engineer during said period, when such authorization will not conflict with provisions of the General Law under the Budget Act, Title 12, section 74, of the Code of Alabama 1940. And, provided, further, that if such funds are presently available, and have not heretofore been set aside by the present Court of County Commissioners of Chilton County, immediately upon the passage and approval of this Act, it shall be the duty of the Board herein created to set aside a sufficient portion of said funds for the maintenance of said roads, bridges, and ferries until the meeting in September or October, 1951, as hereinabove provided for.

Section 25. (a) All purchases for the County shall be made by the Board or its duly authorized agent. Provided, however, that in making such purchases, the Board shall obtain information from the Division of Purchases and Stores of the Department of Finance concerning the price to the State of the items to be purchased, and if the State price is less than the lowest bid received, and if the delivery date is reasonable, all bids shall be rejected and the purchase shall be negotiated through the State Purchasing Agent.

(b) In an emergency purchases of less than fifty dollars ($50) may be made without obtaining bids and without obtaining information from the Division of Purchases and Stores as hereinabove provided, and purchases in excess of fifty dollars ($50) may be made without obtaining bids and without obtaining information from the Division of Purchases and Stores if the Chairman and all the members of the board approve the purchase and such approval is shown in the minutes of the board.

Section 26. The County Engineer shall make written requisitions to the Chairman of the Board for all materials, machinery, equipment and necessary supplies needed for the construction, maintenance or repair of the public roads, bridges and ferries of Chilton County. It shall be the duty of the County Engineer to inspect all materials, machinery, equipment and supplies purchased by the County for use on public roads, bridges and ferries, when the same are delivered, and the same shall not be accepted and paid for without first having been approved by him.

Section 27. In the event an emergency should arise, in which it would be impossible for the Board to employ an Engineer, as hereinabove provided for, then, in that event the Board shall employ a competent Road Supervisor who need not be an engineer, but when so employed, he shall have all the duties and authority of said Engineer, and be subject to the provisions of this Act; but an emergency shall not exist so long as the State Highway Director can nominate an engineer who will accept employment by said Board under the terms of this Act, it being the intention of this Act to provide that, when County roads are to be maintained or constructed in said County, the supervision thereof shall be either under a County Engineer, as hereinabove provided for, or by a Road Supervisor, who is not a member of the Board.

Section 28. It shall be the further duty of each associate member of the Board to inspect the roads of his district from time to time, and hear the suggestions and complaints of the citizens, and report the same to the Board with his recommendations; to advise with the County Engineer concerning the problems of his district, particularly; and to assist in securing right of ways, and assist in public relations generally.

Section 29. No county equipment or machinery shall be used on any property not owned by or under the control of the State, the County or a municipality.

Section 30. All the duties imposed on the chairman and members of the board by this Act are mandatory and all the limitations and restrictions imposed on them shall be strictly construed.

Section 31. The chairman or any member of the board or any county employee who uses county equipment, machinery or property contrary to the provisions of this Act or who violates any provision of this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be fined not more than one thousand dollars ($1000) and in addition may be imprisoned in the penitentiary for one year and one day.

ESTELLE HAYES

Baptist Notes—

May I use this means to ask the prayers of the church family in its entirety for my brother, J. N. Burks, and his family of Warrington, Fla., in the loss of their mother and companion. The homegoing of Gertrude was a terrific shock to us all; she moved to the Upper Room to be with the Savior from a hospital in New Orleans and left no doubt as to her ultimate destination. Please breathe a breath of prayer for us at this time.

We take this opportunity to extend to the visiting minister, Rev. John Gibbs, pastor of Forrest Ave. Baptist Church, Birmingham, and singer, Rev. Wanell O'Bar, chorister of the 85th St. Baptist Church, Birmingham, a cordial welcome into our town and church. We are so delighted that you have accepted our invitation to come and work with us in the vineyard of our Lord. We are asking for Divine guidance that you may have wisdom, strength and power to do the work which we feel our Savior has assigned for you to do while with us. Remember, we are at your command; please tell us that we may be together in this glorious opportunity of winning the lost to Christ. Bro. Gibbs will be with us for their service tonight and Bro. O'Bar will join us in the morning at 10:30.

To all the committees who have functioned to the extent of their abilities as suggested in the light of their opportunities, we take this opportunity to express our profound gratitude and appreciation. Let us all remember that there is nothing so important as this evangelistic campaign and no excuse will justify us for not putting this revival meeting first. The Lord is counting on you and me to give ourselves unstintingly in this evangelistic campaign.

To you who are visiting our congregation please let us tell you "Thank you" for your presence and you are cordially invited to attend every service. Morning services at 10:30 a.m., evening services at 7:30 next week.

Lutheran Church News—

The homecoming at the Lutheran Church on last Sunday was a success in every way. A beautiful service was conducted by Student Pastor Fulmer, and he used for his sermon topic "Christians, answer boldly." The church was filled with members and friends, some having come from a distance to be present at the homecoming event. Special music was furnished by Miss Carol Howard, whose lovely voice was enjoyed when she sang a solo and also a duet with Miss Gwendolyn Witt.

After the service the crowd gathered on the lawn of the Bosworth home, where a picnic dinner was enjoyed. It being Pastor Fulmer's birthday, they also celebrated in his honor, by first presenting him with a beautifully embossed birthday cake and the church also presented him with a purse as a love gift.

After the dinner they assembled in the church again, when a song service was enjoyed. Pastor Fulmer led the group singing with Mrs. Erle Ellis at the piano.

Those who appeared in solos were: Mrs. Lois Mims and Mrs. Erle Ellis of Clanton; Miss Carol Howard, accompanied by Mrs. Mims; Mr. Robert Holley, of Jemison, and Howard College and Rev. David Conrad of Birmingham.

He will leave immediately after the service for his home in Augusta, Ga., where he will visit for a short while with his parents before leaving for Columbia, S. C., where he will enter the Seminary. You are invited to attend this service next Sunday.

FIVE LEGISLATURE DAYS LEFT THIS SEASON

Montgomery, Ala. — The Alabama Legislature went into its 31st of 36 legislative days Tuesday faced with calendars literally loaded down with pending measures.

As of last Friday, the House had a 95-page calendar — with an average of several bills to the page — and the Senate had a 68-page calendar.

Highlighting events in the Legislature last week was final legislative approval of a bill which might pave the way for each of the state's 67 counties to have a senator. Final approval came in the House by a vote of 77-21.

Another highlight was passage of what amounted to a companion bill to the 67-senator measure. The House gave final approval to a new voter qualification bill. The two bills were passed after an agreement was reached between Black Belt and North Alabama legislators.

The House killed, however, a proposal designed to limit to four years' back payment the amount of poll tax that could accumulate. At $1.50 per year, the ceiling of accumulated tax would have been $6.00.

Both the 67-senator bill and voter qualifications measure will go before the people for ratification, since both are in the form of constitutional amendments.

Education forces received one of their few setbacks of the session last week. A Senate committee indefinitely postponed an education-supported bill which would have raised the ceiling on county property tax rates, the money to be used for education.

Meanwhile, Senate consideration of the House-approved $7,000,000-per-year educational appropriation bill for the next two fiscal years was due Friday. Passage was expected.

Thursday, the Senate rules committee gave a favorable report to a resolution calling for an investigation of Alabama school laws. The resolution, already passed by the House, calls for a study committee composed of two senators and three representatives.

WHEREAS, in the meeting of July 23, 1951, the Court of County Commissioners authorized W. L. Parrish, Judge of Probate and Chairman of said court, to secure upon the best terms possible the services of Watkins, Morrow & Company and Associates to handle for the county the issue of certain bonds recited in the preamble thereof; and

WHEREAS, said Watkins, Morrow & Company and Associates have offered the county a contract for such purposes as hereinafter set out,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED AND ORDERED: That W. L. Parrish, Probate Judge and Ex-Officio Chairman of the Court of County Commissioners, in the name and on behalf of Chilton County, Alabama, execute on behalf of said County a contract in words and figures as follows:

AGREEMENT between CHILTON COUNTY, ALABAMA, a municipal corporation organized under the laws of the State of Alabama, (hereinafter referred to as the, "County") and WATKINS, MORROW & COMPANY and ASSOCIATES (hereinafter referred to as the "A. L. S.")

WHEREAS, the County is of the opinion that it is to its best interest to construct an annex to its Court-house, and

WHEREAS, such an undertaking will require the expenditures of large sums of money, and

WHEREAS, the County is of the opinion that the construction and issuance of County bonds should be decided by an election by the qualified voters, and

WHEREAS, the County will need the services of people experienced in handling and setting up such matters,

NOW, THEREFORE, THIS AGREEMENT WITNESSETH:

The County agrees as follows:

1. To call an election on approximately $450,000 General Obligation Bonds, such election to be held at the time that constitutional amendments adopted by the regular session of the 1951 Legislature of the State of Alabama are voted upon. Such election may be held at any other time as may be mutually agreed upon.

2. To adopt all resolutions necessary for the holding of such election.

3. To pass all resolutions necessary to legally authorize and sell such bonds. The Agents agree as follows:

1. To furnish without cost to the County all resolutions and legal papers necessary to consummate the transaction contemplated hereunder.

2. To set up a schedule of maturities, place or places of payment and redemption provisions satisfactory to the County and to the Agents.

3. To furnish without cost the approving legal opinion of recognized bond attorneys as to the validity of the bonds to be issued.

4. To furnish without cost suitable bond blanks ready for execution by the designated County Officials.

5. To pay for the legal advertising in connection with the election and the bond sale.

6. To furnish to all prospective purchasers of the bonds pertinent information in an effort to make certain that the County receives the best price possible for such bonds.

In consideration of such services and expenses, the County is to pay to the Agents at the time of delivery of the bonds the sum of two per cent (2%) of the principal amount of the bonds issued. In the event that the vote of the qualified electors at such election is unfavorable for the issuance of such bonds, then the County owes the Agents nothing for its services.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have set their hands and seals this first day of August, 1951.

We had a very good crowd out for Sunday School and Church Sunday, but there is plenty of room for im-provement. Rev. Clarence Roper de-livered two mighty good sermons, and were enjoyed by all.

The health of our community is very well, except Mrs. Lishie Gore. We are hoping her a speedy recovery.

Next Sunday is our annual all-day singing. We invite all singers to come and help us out. Bring a good full basket of something good to eat and all have a good time together, eating and singing. We want to invite all quartets. We are expecting some good singing. Bro. Brasher Northcutt will be the chairman for the day.

Our revival will start Monday. Rev. Melvin Coleman will do the preaching and others. Rev. Deason of Clanton will be preaching here Sunday night, August 19th.

We are having a good singing school here. It is taught by Prof. Annie Boswell.

Next Friday morning, the 17th, we will meet at the church to clean up. All come if you can. We want the community to all cooperate together, as well as our neighboring communi-ties and we will have a good singing and a good dinner.

Let's all pray that we will have a good singing and a good meeting fol-lowing the singing.—M. Gore.

LIVESTOCK AND FEED

BALANCE FAIRLY GOOD

Auburn, Ala. — The feed supply situ-ation continues to be of major interest to many farmers.

And, so far, A. W. Jones, A.P.I. Ex-tension Service marketing specialist, says the livestock-feed balance looks fairly good.

Of course the second biggest spring pig crop in history is coming on to be and fed and marketed. Better prices than this year has been running about 31 per cent above the same period last year. Enormous amounts of other poultry products, dairy products, and meats are in production. But, present prospects are for a record production of corn, the country's major feed crop. On July 1, this year's corn crop was estimated at 3,295,000,000 bushels, con-siderably more than last year and the 10-year average.

To stretch this feed supply, Jones advises farmers to make good use of all grain by balancing it with protein supplements, minerals, and grazing or other feeds, depending on the type of livestock or poultry on hand; save all the corn, hay, and other feeds now maturing by harvesting some with live-stock and storing the remainder for use later; and produce all the winter and spring grazing that will be needed.

ONE COTTON QUESTION BRINGS UP THREE MORE

What is the price of cotton today? The answer most often given is the price of the highest 15-16 inch cotton be-cause it is the grade and staple length used as a base for spot market quota-tions.

"However," admits O. N. Andrews, A.P.I. Extension Service cotton im-provement specialist, "the question cannot be answered with a one-price fig-ure because the price of a bale of cot-ton will vary, depending on the grade and staple length. Therefore, it is very important for cotton farmers to not only know the price of cotton but the loan value and grade and staple length of every bale they have to mar-ket.

STANTON NEWS

A reunion at the home of Mrs. John McKinney last Sunday of all her children. This was indeed a happy get-together. Present to enjoy this day together were: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith and Grace Carol of Clanton, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Motley, Mabel and Harold of Maplesville, Mo., and Mrs. Jack Kyriard and Richard of Selma, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Lee Lawley and two daughters of Birmingham, Ala.; Archie McKinney, J. R. McKinney and Bob Ed McKinney of Stanton, Ala.; and Mrs. McKinney.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Linsley (Mildred Parnell) have returned to their home in Virginia after a two weeks vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Parnell, and other relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Earl O'Neal, Judy and Bobbie and Mr. W.M.D. O'Neal spent Sunday with the Wheeler O'Neal family in Montgomery, Ala. In the afternoon this group enjoyed a visit to Oak Park.

Mr. Millard Reynolds, Miss Ruth Hicks and Miss Hazel Guthrie joined a group of people from Selma and Montgomery and spent the week end in Columbus, Ga. They enjoyed a motorcycle race at Idle Hour Park Saturday night. Sunday afternoon they attended the Southeastern Championship Progressive Field meet. Millard Reynolds won a nice trophy in the Rodeo in the Dig-Out Event. He also won second place in the plank race and the three-man load contest. Men from Montgomery winning trophies were: Clarence Gray, J. H. Amos and Ed. Chambliss; William Smith of Selma, Ala., won two trophies.

The spectators got a real thrill out of two youngsters putting on a show at the race Saturday night and also Sunday afternoon. Ted Edwards, age 8, whose father is well known in the racing world and whose number throughout the years has been "13" was assigned the number 13 1/2 at the age of 8 when he started putting on the races before the grandstands at the races where his father would be entered. Ted Edwards, Jr., No. 13 1/2 rode his Harley-Davidson motorcycle in competition with another young contestant in a racing car No. 1 whose name your reporter failed to get. These youngsters put on a nice show and certainly brought cheers from the large crowd that attended the race.

Our sympathy to this family in their great loss.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Willis of Austin, Texas, are leaving this week for their home. Mr. and Mrs. Carey L. Willis and two daughters, of Corpus Christi, Texas, left Monday for their home. Baptist Notes—

Due to the interest of the revival in Calera the pastors felt it necessary to exchange pulpits. We extend a warm welcome to Rev. Anglin for both services today. The Lord is moving in a very definite way upon the minds and hearts of the people of Calera. We ask your prayers for a continuation of His blessings and that a great number of souls may accept Jesus and take a stand for Jesus.

To the committees who have accepted opportunity to serve preparing for the revival in our church August 19-26, I want to express my personal thanks for the fine way you are serving. There is much to be done that we can do with our hands but our greatest resources are unseen. Let us pray without ceasing for a great revival. The one challenging need of this hour is for a great revival in every church that may sweep into a nation-wide revival of what we might term old-fashioned, Holy Ghost, Heaven-sent religion.

We wish to express our deep sympathy to Bro. B. V. Ray who lost his father and also to each member of the family. May the Lord bless and keep them and cause His face to shine upon them and give them strength in our prayer.

The Board of Deacons recommended to the church Wednesday evening that we set the first Sunday in September as sacrifice Sunday. On this day every member of our church family will be asked to bring an offering to be put into the building fund in anticipation of building an auditorium to our church. The goal will be set and announced later. Please make this a matter of prayer and act as you feel in your heart that God would have you in bringing to Him a gift on this day.

Bro. W. H. Raybon is asking the church to relieve him of all duties in the church becoming effective immediately.

Officers and teachers meeting Friday night at 7:30.
Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 followed by choir practice at 8:15.

PREPARING SOIL FOR FALL PLANTED CROPS

Auburn, Ala. — Farmers still have time to prepare soil for all fall planted crops except alfalfa and crimson clover alone or in mixtures with grasses or small grains, according to J. T. Gaillard, A.P.I. Extension Service specialist in farm mechanization.

He urges farmers to remove obstructions, such as rocks, stumps, and any other structures that might interfere with soil preparation, planting, or harvesting. Also stalks should be cut and left on the ground, preferably with a stalk cutter that will shred them.

The land should be turned with a disc or flat bottom turn plow. Then the land should be cut with a disc harrow at least twice to remove air pockets and to pulverize the clods. Next, the land should be section harrowed thoroughly to remove air pockets near the surface and to smooth the land. A float or drag will help with the leveling and smoothing, and a cultipacker will finish the job.

FARM MARKET AND PRICE SITUATION

Last February the parity ratio of all farm products stood at 113. By July, it had dropped to 104. However, in spite of lower prices in recent months, the market and price situation appears fairly favorable for the next several months.

DOVE SHOOTING

New regulations on hunting mourning doves have just been released by the Fish and Wildlife Service. Dove shooting in Alabama will extend from December 17 to January 15. Shooting hours will be from noon to sunset. The bag limit, however, has been reduced from 10 to eight doves per day.

By LYN CONNELLY

A NEW IDEA in dolls has hit the market that will make little girls very, very happy indeed. . . . Radio's most famous nurse, Nora Drake, has made her debut as a doll! Dressed in a starched white nurse's uniform especially designed for her miniature figure, the doll is another tribute to the popularity of the CBS network show, "This Is Nora Drake," starring Joan Tompkins. . . . Although it has been heard for only four years, it was voted one of the top daytime dramatic programs in a recent national listeners' survey.

Last year Nora's early nursing career inspired a popular novel by Cornelia Blair entitled "The Nora Drake Story". . . . The new doll is billed as "Toni Doll Plays Nora Drake" and has exclusive nylon hair which can be shampooed for hospital cleanliness and then given a play permanent to insure her prettiness. . . . Each doll kit includes a play-wave set and a comb. . . . We had a personal experience with the doll that you might be interested in. . . . We presented one to Susan Bellerive, a little four-year girl who has been in hospitals enough to have many nurses among her friends. . . . She was thrilled with it and immediately named it "Miss Curly" after the "Super Circus" nurse. . . . Of course, all little girls will be delighted with it, so remember it when shopping for birthday or Christmas presents.

STAR CHATTER

There's talk that Joe E. Brown, who is subbing for Don McNeill on "Breakfast Club" this summer, may be offered a job as baseball commissioner to succeed Happy Chandler. . . . Anyone wondering what a life is worth, ought to take a gander at Tallulah Bankhead's contracts for her autobiography. . . . She's said to be getting a guaranteed advance of $85,000. . . . Sen. Estes Kefauver's book, "Crime in America," may be the basis of an ABC-TV dramatic series with the senator as host. . . . Stories will be fictionalized and not based on actual cases of the Kefauver records. Many of your favorite radio standbys may be missing from the airways this fall, due to economy moves by sponsors.

On his last visit to Montgomery, April 3, 1825, General LaFayette was entertained by a lavish ball which was held at Trinity Tavern on the corner of Tallapoosa and Commerce Streets, which has long since been demolished. VOL. XXIX CLANTON, ALABAMA THURSDAY, AUGUST 30, 1951 NUMBER 35

NATIONAL RED CROSS BLOOD BANK PROGRAM

On August 24th I accepted the Chairmanship of the committee responsible for recruiting blood donors for the Red Cross Blood Bank Program which begins in Chilton County, September 18, 1951. This is very short notice of chairmanship for a program that will be operating September 18th, but I believe we can put it over if every one will enter into the proper spirit of service to our fellow man.

Chilton County is in the Birmingham Blood Bank Area as you have learned from Publicity Chairman, Miss Helen Parrish, of WKLF. Our plan is to have the Mobile Unit, for taking blood, in the county about every three months.

We have the county divided into three districts as listed below and we plan to have the first day at the Methodist Church in Clanton on Tuesday, September 18th.

On the second trip some three months from September 18th, the Mobile Unit will be at Thorsby and then the next stop will be at Maplesville.

I have asked Mr. Archie Ogburn of Thorsby and Dr. H. M. Nix and Mr. Ray Stremling of Maplesville to serve as Co-Chairmen for the County Wide Organization. These co-chairmen will not have anything to do until we begin recruiting blood donors from their respective districts.

For the convenience of the blood donors, we are asking that the people of the County follow the schedule below:

Clanton District — Beats 1-4-5-6-10-16.
Thorsby District — Beats 2-9-11-12-13.
Maplesville District — Beats 3-7-8-14-15.

We must have 300 people, between the ages of 18 and 60, meet the Mobile Unit at the Clanton Methodist Church on September 18th. If this worthy program is to be a success.

The following citizens are being asked to serve as Recruiting Officers for this first date on September 18th at Clanton: Hollis Jackson, R. C. Williams, Dent Williams, M. R. Glascock, J. C. Parr, Jack Hayes, Rip Burnett, L. A. Lambert, John Mullins, Ralph Morrison, Bob Windham, Melvin Mims, James C. Martin, Howard Bookholdt, Dave Tingle, Francis Speaks, Ed Walters, R. M. Roshee, Joe Murphree, Otis Gray, Willie Hamilton, Willie Williams, Mrs. Luther Little, Hugh Taylor, Mrs. Irbey DeRamus, Mrs. Sidney Gibson, Judson Messer, J. G. Newton, Sam Powers, Dick Arnold and others.

E. D. Sledge will be recruiting officer for colored people.

If you live in the above designated Clanton District, fill out the printed form and mail same to C. E. Stapp, Chairman, Clanton, Ala.

TUCK RETURNS

With the beginning of another school year "Tuck" will be with us starting next week.

He promises a better and newer column than ever before of the "doings" at C.C.H.S.

PROMOTED TO QUEEN WITH A SCEPTER

NELMA JOE BOOKHOLDT

In 1947 at the age of nine years Nelma Joe was promoted from Sunbeam Band to Girls' Auxiliary. At this time she started studying the forward steps. The thing she enjoyed most in the first step was Isaiah 53:5, "All we like sheep, have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all."

When she had completed this first step she received a green arm band, as a Maiden.

Her next step was Lady-in-Waiting and she was in a coronation service at Thorsby Baptist Church and received the white star to go on the green arm band.

As she worked on the next step, "The Princess," she had more books to read and more Scripture to memorize. She was in the coronation service this time at Shocco Springs in June, 1949, and received the G.A. emblem to go on the White Star.

Her next step was, "Queen," and she was crowned Queen in her home church at Bethel Baptist Church in the coronation service on "Mother's Day" in 1950 and the W.M.S. gave her a white Bible.

The next step which she has just completed, "Queen with a Scepter," was much harder and required much more work, and more than a year to complete. She was in the Coronation Service at Shocco Springs the first week in August this year. She received the Scepter which she has in this picture.

What Nelma Joe has accomplished other G.A.'s can do too. It requires study and work, but is well worth the time and effort.

She has read six mission study books, memorized 189 verses of Scripture besides the other work.

The last step in G.A., "Queen Regent" which she has already began, her work will also require a lot of work and study.

Nelma Joe is a member of the Bethel Baptist Church, Chilton Association.

The new work at Lanett will be quite a promotion for Reid and all of his friends in Chilton County who have watched him rise from program director to assistant general manager here wish for him every success.

WE HEAR TALK

There is an opportunity, we understand, from reliable sources, for the city to get the two blocks between Second Avenue and State Highway 22 on Ninth Street paved at minimum cost if they will cooperate with the County and State when the road from Enterprise Community is paved.
If this be true then it is the duty of the Mayor and Councilmen of Clanton to lend their efforts to this end.
The new highway which is to be brought into Clanton from Enterprise to intersect Ninth Street just beyond the Willingham Hotel, could take much heavy traffic around our busiest corner at Second Avenue and Seventh Street. Too, it would eliminate congestion at times at the L. & N. tracks.
Eventually this two blocks must be paved and it seems that it would save much money to do the job when the men and machinery are here to do it.

GOOD WORK

The widening of U. S. 31 through South Clanton is an undertaking that has been needed for a long time. The building of the new concrete bridge is what was holding up the street improvement. Traffic as heavy as is seen anywhere in the State passes through Clanton and the old fashioned narrow streets just will not accommodate modern traffic.
Those who travel this artery can appreciate the improvement.

INDUSTRY DAYS

September 13, 14, and 15, have been proclaimed Alabama Industry Days this year and local citizens have agreed to cooperate with the County Committee in celebrating the event.
We commend the County Agent's Office in their effort to stage a stock show at the airport in connection with the celebration. This will add interest to the occasion and bring crowds here to join in the celebration—one of our principal industries is stock raising.
Alabama Industry Days is sponsored by Associated Industries of Alabama for the purpose of advertising Alabama Maid products and all merchants are asked to feature them in a special display on these days.
With the proper cooperation of all the merchants and citizens of the county much good can come from this annual affair.

--By BEN

You folks see where Peggy Ramsey, daughter of Cecil and Pauline Ramsey, won the Maid of Cotton beauty contest in Madison County? Peggy has only worked in Madison County little less than a year. She has a habit of winning beauty contests. She was sponsored by the Huntsville Kiwanis Club. Our sincere congratulations to Peggy, and if the Chilton County Maid, who is to be selected the last of this week, can't win the State Title, then we hope Peggy does.
Vacation Days have come and went Now back to school you "snooks." Your Pa is left without a cent From buying costly books.

Like we heard one bad boy say: It isn't school we don't like; it's the principal of the thing.
Charles Wade is remodeling the Wadeson Theatre on Second Avenue. Work is moving along slow but sure, on the project and not before it was needed. The Wadeson is Clanton's oldest theatre and deserves to be "dressed up" once in a while. When finished it will be modern and up-to-date in every respect and the Wade-sonian often gets a release on a new picture ahead of the larger houses in Birmingham and Montgomery. We're glad to the old house is getting a face-lifting and the result will add much to that block along Second Avenue.

Things we hear around town: Herman Lecroy getting a "kick" out of baby sitting for the Ralph Morrisons. . . . Ollie Blacklock "crowing" over the fact that he was the first citizen in Clanton to use natural gas. . . . Elijah Thomas at South Clanton Barber Shop bragging that he never saw a customer he couldn't please. . . . Rev. Carlisle Miller's picture on the front cover of Alabama Christian Advocate this month. He wrote a most interesting and pertinent article which accompanied the picture. . . . Construction on the John Higgins Building at Second Avenue and 8th Street goes forward. . . . Clanton Recreation Center opens the middle of September. Most of the younger set can be found there during skating hours, after that date. . . . Bolden Robinson bought what used to be Dubb's Service Station at Seventh Street and 4th Ave. . . . Curb and gutter going in along the Selma Highway is making things look much better there.

BACK ACHE?

One of the commonest of all complaints is low back pain. Many factors are involved, such as fatigue, poor posture, improper functioning of some internal organ or misalignment of a part of the spinal column.
In general, persons with backaches fall into one of two major groups: those with "extrinsic backache" and those with "intrinsic backache." In the former, the pain is caused by trouble outside the back.

In "intrinsic backache" the trouble stems from a disturbance of the mus-

Make Others Feel Important
ALBERT BOILING, West Middletown, Ohio, some six years ago was doing a moderate business in his restaurant. Customers often were both exacting and unreasonable; it wasn't too pleasant dealing with them. He was glad at times to see some of them leave; at other times, he even regretted seeing others enter, although it did mean cash in the tiller. But of course they had to be served. And that was just the way some of the waitresses went at it --they had to serve them!

Carnegie

One customer in particular found fault every time he came in. Either the rolls were not hot or the salad was too scanty, or the salad dressing wasn't right, or there wasn't enough ice in the water. Always something wrong. No waitress wanted to serve him.
So it fell to the lot of Albert to appease this disagreeable man. Well, if it was up to him, he might as well make the best of it. So he began being exceedingly nice to the grouch. When something wasn't right, he agreed, made an apology. He thanked him for telling him when anything went wrong, said they would do better next time.
By and by, that customer came in with a different attitude. He felt important and he enjoyed it. Too, he enjoyed contact with those who made him feel important. In time, he became a really pleasant customer.
Since it worked with one disagreeable man, Albert decided to try the same method with everyone. He treated every customer as if he were a very important person. Result. In six years he has done five times the business he once had. Just treated each person with great courtesy, as if he were important. That was all.

culo-skeletal system of the spine. The muscles of the back, normally designed to carry a tremendous load, are thick, heavy and strong. They are in action all the time, whether we are sitting, or standing, or even to some degree during sleep. In addition to the muscles, there are many other important structures which make up the musculo-skeletal system of the back, such as the ligaments and the joints.
Ordinarily, there is a certain amount of curvature of the spine which can be regarded as normal. However, if the curvature is excessive, either forward or backward, or to the side, the weight is placed abnormally, causing the small joints to carry the load. This is also true when the weight is thrown unevenly for a long period on the ligaments, muscles and small joints, or in any situation or occupation when the work done by the back is greater than the ability of the individual to carry the load without breaking down.

Once a complete physical examination has eliminated the possibility of disease causing the backache, every effort should be made to relieve the stress and strain on the back. Rest, careful attention to posture and certain exercises all contribute to removal of the complaint.

Fin-Fan Items

White Bass, often called Barfish, Striped Bass and White Lake Bass are on the move again. Large schools of these carnivorous savage of the finny tribe are very busy thinning out the vast herds of gizzard shad and other smaller fish that offer the slightest promise of a meal. Generally, fishing prospects are looking better on both the Coosa and Tallapoosa Lakes. During the past week on Mitchell Lake it was not unusual to see fifteen to twenty fishing boats trolling in an area about the size of a city block. Many were catching the creel limit in short order. The favorite lure was an Eli Spoon. An occasional Crappie was reported being picked up on deep running plugs. Bream are hot after flies, especially, along the deep banks.

There are only a few days remaining in August to try for the $1000 cash award, so be sure and enter your catch in the Alabama Power Company Fishing Contest. Only one Whopper Catcher reported this week, which came from J. O. Miller's 5c & 10c Store, Clanton; Cecil W. Jones, Selma Road, Clanton, fished the upper reaches of Mitchell Lake for Bass, but he cast his Colorado Spinner, right into the open mouth of a fine 8 1/2 ounce Bluegill Bream instead.

Several weeks ago, a Blount County Sportsman, expressed his and most all other Sportsmen's uncomplimentary views on telephone fishing. And for the information of those still in doubt about the law of this practice, here is an excerpt from a Conservation Department publication.

"... The Director shall publish in pamphlet form for general distribution, all laws, together with such rules and regulations relating to game, birds, fish, furbearers, sea foods and other matters over which such director has authority or supervision. Such pamphlet so published shall be received in evidence without further proof of such rules and regulations in any court of this state..." (Title 8, Section 21, 1949 Supplement of the 1940 Code; 1943 General Acts, Page 505.) Law or no law, there can't be much sport in this type of fishing.

Safety Comment of the Week: If you are ever in a boat that overturns or fills with water, your first impulse might be to swim ashore. But your best bet is to stay with the boat. It will retain enough buoyancy to support you and several others until help comes. —R. L. Scott Recreational Supervisor

Marshall Price in the Circuit Court of Chilton County. Said attorney's fee to be determined by the Court of County Commissioners.

The above stated resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote of the members present.

Commissioner Lenoir offered the following resolution for adoption; which was duly seconded by Commissioner Smith:

BE IT RESOLVED AND ORDERED: That the Court of County Commissioners advertise for two consecutive weeks in the Chilton County News for sealed bids for rental contracts, with options to purchase, for the following:

Two (2), 1/2 cubic yard Shovels mounted on New Trucks, delivered Clanton, Alabama;

Less Trade-in allowance on One (1), 1/2 cubic yard General Shovel, Serial Number 290785, without Pile Driver.

STORING LEGHORN AND PANAMA HATS

Storing clean hats is as wise as storing clean clothes, finds Le. ce Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist.

She advises that a leghorn or Panama hat be quickly cleaned with soap and water. For best results, place hat on hat block. Dissolve one tablespoon of soap flakes in one cupful of boiling water and dilute with one cupful of cold water. Brush in soap solution and work from center of crown to brim. Rinse hat and allow it to dry on hat block.

"Straw hats may be dry cleaned and blocked just as felt hats," adds, Miss Ellis.

til 9:00 o'clock, a.m. Monday, September 10, 1951. That the Court reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

The above stated resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote of the members present.

Commissioner Lenoir offered the following resolution for adoption; which was duly seconded by Commissioner Smith:

BE IT RESOLVED AND ORDERED: There being no further business to come before the meeting, that said court adjourn to continue said session at 2:30 p.m. Thursday, August 23, 1951.

The above stated resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote of the members present.

I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy to the best of my knowledge and belief of the minutes of the Court of County Commissioners of Chilton County, Alabama, of August 13, 1951.

W. L. PARRISH,
Judge of Probate and ex-officio Chairman of the Court of County Commissioners.

MONEY-MAKING WAYS TO HANDLE COTTON

Auburn, Ala. — Since Alabama farmers will soon be busy picking, ginning, and marketing their 1951 cotton crop, A. W. Jones, A.P.I. Extension Service marketing specialist, lists a few things that will help them get full value for their cotton.

Pick cotton soon after it opens and before it is damaged in the field. The lowering of one grade from middling to strict low middling would result in a loss of $12 per 500-pound bale under the government loan program.

Know the quality of cotton. This information can be obtained through the government classing service.

Find out what the government loan rate is. Use the loan, if needed, to get full value for cotton or to get needed cash now and still hold an equity in part or all of the cotton.

Follow the daily quotations on cotton prices and know what the market is at all times.

SLOW UP RUNOFF WATER AND CONTROL EROSION

Auburn, Ala. — Every farmer should realize that water allowed to run downhill carries away topsoil and plant food. "And," warns S. R. Doughty, A.P.I. Extension Service soil conservationist, "it doesn't take a 'gully-washer' to rob a field of its vital topsoil. Bare land up-and-down-slope, row crops, overgrazed pastures, and burned woodlands invite rain to carry topsoil away. But, sod and cover crops—even crop residues disced onto the ground surface—act like blotters to absorb and hold the water and thus help control erosion."

Therefore, Doughty advises farmers to put a blanket of green cover on every acre of naked land this fall. It will protect and improve the topsoil and provide storage for farm livestock.

ANNUAL STATE 4-H CLUB CAMP AT AUBURN

The annual State 4-H Camp at Auburn, August 27-September 1, will not be held this year, due to the increasing number of polio cases.

The girls from Chilton County affected by this decision were Betty Jean Milford, Baker Club, Joyce Ann DeVaughn, Enterprise Club, and Bobby Sue Crowe, Mt. Pleasant Club; as these were the 4-H girls chosen to represent this county.

State Camp is held annually to teach 4-H boys and girls to be better leaders and to learn new ideas from 4-H leaders and 4-H members from other counties. They bring these ideas back to share with club members in their respective clubs.

To qualify as a 4-H County Representative, a 4-H member must be active in his or her club and have a project with an up to date record.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLDTIMERS

From Mrs. Marie Diekhoff, Stout, Iowa: I remember when we got up early on Sunday mornings and drove seven miles to church with horses and buggy, sometimes in a bobbed and sometimes in a wagon, taking our lunch along. We ate in a school house on the way home where my parents had charge of a Sunday school which started with a very small group but grew into a large congregation.

From E. C. Wyatt, Ekilas, W. Va.: I remember when shingles and clapboards were rived out of wooden blocks by a dull instrument called a shrow, hence the old expression, "as dull as a shrow." The boards and shingles were made smooth with a draw knife and were held in place by a wooden vice, called a shaving horse which was worked by a foot pedal. The horse had three legs, one long in front and two shorter ones behind where the workman sat.

From C. E. Pless, Chipley, Fla.: I remember the windmill or pulley on wells and then the wooden stock pumps that froze up at night and had to be thawed out with hot water every morning. The horse they did squeal their complaints that sounded like a mule braying. We also made our own tall dip candles and had a underbox for keeping a fire all night, using punk.

From J. Risor Camryn, Seattle, Wash.: I remember when teenage boys got up quartets and sang at night on the street corners. Small repertory, but they could harmonize. They were inspired by the popular old time minstrel shows which featured male quartets in elaborate settings.

From Gladys A. Lyon, Pittsford, Vt.: I remember when milk sold for five cents a quart, and the big-haired farmer would give you a huge free cup to drink while you waited at the barn for the quart you paid for.

JUDGE PARRISH IS ASKED TO SUCCEED HIMSELF

In traveling the county we find that Judge W. L. Parrish has many warm political friends regardless of what section you travel. As we have often contended and as the good people of Chilton County know, Dr. Parrish is a well-known veterinarian and practiced throughout these confines for many years. In fact he is still interested in the protection of animal life, a profession we think to be one of the most commendable of them all. You know the veterinarian cannot go to his patient and say, "where do you hurt or what seems to be your most serious trouble," as does the doctor who practices with the animal that can speak.

Dr. Parrish became an expert along these lines and he has proved himself just as adept and efficient as Probate Judge as he did in his honored profession.

The people throughout Chilton County hold Judge Parrish in high esteem and many are insisting he become a candidate to succeed himself in next year's primary election. Dr. Parrish's friends are legion and are to be counted by the hundreds in every section of the county. It seems that the citizens throughout this section appreciate the efforts Dr. Parrish has put forth in the past and are well satisfied with his administration as Probate Judge.

RIGHT TIME TO SELL EARLY SWEETPOTATOES

The market for new-crop sweetpotatoes has been very good for the last few weeks.

John Bagby, A.P.I. Extension Service horticulturist, points out that sweetpotatoes often bring higher prices at this time of the year; therefore, it may be advisable for farmers who set plants early and believe they have made a good yield to dig and sell their sweetpotatoes.

He also reminds growers that the price usually drops off after September 1 when more sweetpotatoes reach the market. In marketing sweetpotatoes it should be kept in mind that the consumer wants a product free from decay, serious cuts and bruises, and other defects.

"YAMS" AND COLLARDS HIGH IN FOOD VALUE

Auburn, Ala. — Sweetpotatoes and collards, two favorite vegetables in the South, rate high in both Vitamin A and Vitamin C, according to Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist.

She points out that an average serving of sweetpotatoes offers more Vitamin A than the recommended daily allowance, and 60 per cent of the Vitamin C needed every day. Tests show that losses of these vitamins in sweetpotatoes during curing and storage are comparatively small. The sweetpotato is also unique in its ability to hold practically all of its Vitamin C during baking.

"As for collards, popular 'greens' of the South," says Miss Hulsey, "the also rate high in both vitamins. But long cooking in large quantities of water is wasteful of the natural Vitamin C in these leafy vegetables."

Congregational News—

Sunday School, 9:45 o'clock; Church services at 11 o'clock.

Our pastor will return to us this week and will preach at 11 o'clock Sunday. We are looking forward to a full house. We hope all members will be present, and we give a special invitation to all friends of the church to come out and be with us.

Lutheran Church News—

On next Sunday Dr. C. E. Fritz will occupy the pulpit at the 11 o'clock service. Dr. Fritz, who comes from Atlanta, Ga., is the President of the Georgia-Alabama Synod of the United Lutheran Church. It is hoped that a good crowd will be present to hear Dr. Fritz and we are sure that you will enjoy his message. You are invited and urged to attend.

Student Pastor Luther Fulmer, who has served the Lutheran Church this summer, left Sunday afternoon for his home in Augusta, Ga. It was a sad day at the church when goodbyes were said to this fine young man. We feel safe to say that never before has a person entered our community, who so completely won the hearts of everyone with whom he came in contact. He is already being missed all around the town, since he was always seen around with his jovial and liked manner. Luther will be sorely missed by the people of Thorsby and the surrounding community and by the members and friends of his church which he served so well during the short time he spent here. We can only hope that some day he will come back to us.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Petersen and daughter, Shirley, Mrs. Marie Reagan and Miss Naomi Turnquist accompanied Luther Fulmer to Birmingham on Sunday afternoon where he boarded the Silver Comet for Atlanta, Ga. They then visited with the C. R. Fosses and the Karl Petersens before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thompson of Sebring, Fla., visited here with friends for a few days, en route to points in the North where they will enjoy an extended vacation.

Mrs. Helen Hill and two sons, Mac and Charles, and Miss Theresa Bosworth, of Selma, Ala., visited with the James Bosworths last Friday. They returned to Selma on Saturday morning.

Miss Sue Bratton and Mrs. C. L. Walton of Jemison attended services at the Lutheran Church last Sunday. Miss Bratton was guest soloist accompanied by Mrs. Walton. Sue has a lovely voice and her rendition of the Holy City was indeed a treat to all who heard her.

Baptist Notes—

To all committees who served to make the revival the success it has been, we use this means to express our profound gratitude and appreciation. To all who made any contribution whatsoever to set forward the work of Christ, we are so grateful, and may the smile of the Lord richly abide with you.

The church family would like to use this means to express our appreciation to Bro. Gibbs and Bro. O'Bar for the very fine services they have rendered to our church in singing and preaching the gospel of Christ. As they go from us, they shall be kept in our prayers. May God richly bless them in their various fields of endeavors.

To you who have become new members of our church family, we welcome you and to you who anticipate becoming members of our church, we invite you. May the Lord use us mightily in glorifying His Name and in setting forward the work of His Kingdom.

The pastor called a special conference of the church for Wednesday night at 7:30. All members of the church was urged to be present. This conference followed by choir practice.

We are in possession of a letter from Mr. Evans, State Sunday School Secretary, asking that our Sunday School be represented by at least 25 workers Monday and Tuesday nights at Shocco Springs where a special conference is being conducted on Sunday School work. I trust that many of our workers will arranged to drive over and back each of the two nights.

We regret to learn of the illness of Mrs. Kaye Collins, who is now in the South Highland Infirmary in Birmingham. Please remember her in prayer that she may have a speedy recovery.

We also extend our sympathy to Bro. Maynard whose nephew was suddenly taken the first of last week. Please remember them in prayer.

Now that we are closing out the associational year, let us do our best and make all preparations to come into the new year with the organizational life of our church, ready to do a maximum piece of service for Christ.

TIPS ON ESTABLISHING FALL SEEDED PASTURES

Experiences shows that the farmer who prepares a firm, settled seed bed and seeds his pasture mixture on time usually succeeds in getting a good stand.

An example of growing interest in better pasture practices is evident by use being made of rollers of various types to firm the soil at time of seeding. In fact, J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. Extension Service agronomist, states that never before have so many inquiries been received concerning rollers for firming soil.

YVONNE HARGROVE WEDS CARL D. McCORMICK

A candlelight ceremony at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, August 22nd, marked the marriage of Miss Helda Yvonne Hargrove to Carl D. McCormick.

Rev. A. T. Hickman, pastor of the Temple Church of Clanton, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The wedding took place at the home of the bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hargrove, of Clanton. Mr. McCormick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. McCormick of Gurthie, Ky.

The bridal party stood before an altar draped with a cloth of white lace, centered with a large basket of white gladioli and roses with fern. Seven branched candelabra holding white tapers and standards of white gladioli interspersed with potted palms completed the altar decorations.

Rebecca Cole, of Clanton, was candle lighter.

Miss Dorothy Tucker was bridesmaid. She wore a white suit with navy and white accessories. Miss Dorothy Neeley, maid of honor, wore a navy dress with navy accessories. They wore a corsage of feathered pink carnations.

The bride was lovely in an exquisite dress of navy blue lace, trimmed in rhinestone buttons. Her accessories were of navy blue and she wore a corsage of "Better Times" rosebuds interspersed with matching lace net.

Bill Norris, of Atmore, Ala., served as best man.

A reception followed the ceremony. The bride's mother received in a dress of navy blue crepe. Mrs. McCormick, mother of the groom, chose a black crepe dress. Both wore corsages of feathered pink carnations.

The bride's table was spread with a lovely lace cloth and centered with a two-tiered wedding cake beautifully embossed with confectioner's hand-moulded white roses. A miniature bride and groom centered the cake. White candles in crystal holders completed the table appointments. Following the cutting of the cake by the bride and groom, Miss Betty Hayes and Mrs. M. C. Jones served the cake with punch.

After a wedding trip to Kentucky, Mr. and Mrs. McCormick will be at home in Clanton.

FALL ARMY WORMS

Two poisons will stop fall army worms in their tracks. They are five per cent DDT and 20 per cent toxaphene. If DDT is used a period of 30 days should elapse after treatment before harvesting or grazing the crop. Twenty per cent toxaphene can be safely applied to forage crops and pastures provided the crops are not harvested or grazed for two weeks after treatment.

KEEP THAT RED COLOR IN CANNED TOMATOES

Auburn, Ala. — One of the appetizing qualities of tomatoes is their bright red color. Keeping that color in cooked or canned tomatoes is important because it makes this valuable food more tempting.

Some color-saving tips suggested by Lavada Curtis, A.F.I. Extension Service food preservation specialist, include keeping them away from iron or steel, except stainless steel. She explains that the acid in tomatoes combines with the iron and changes the color of the tomatoes. Also, long slow cooking darkens and dulls color. When cooking down tomatoes for sauce and relish, use a wide shallow kettle which allows for rapid evaporation, thus making the cooking time shorter.

"For seasoning any tomato relish or sauce," adds Miss Curtis, "use whole spices, tied in a bag, rather than powdered spice. The bag is removed before the relish goes into jars, but the powdered spice stays in and darkens the relish as it stands."

EASIER WAYS TO DO THE HOUSECLEANING

Simple, easy ways to save time and labor in housecleaning are overlooked by many homemakers.

Stella Mitchell, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist, points out that much time and labor can be saved by assembling cleaning supplies and equipment so that they are ready to move with the worker.

Some homemakers keep small items like soap, cloths, brushes, sponges, and scouring powder in a basket which is easy to carry from room to room; others use a small table on wheels.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST POLIO

Medical authorities advise taking special precautions in summer against polio infection. They say it is extremely important not to become overtired. Also, follow a good program of personal hygiene. Wash hands before eating, keep flies and other insects from food.

tain Lane has been a visitor in this section all during his life. He is the grandson of Mr. Frank Reynolds.

NELMA JOE BOOKHOLDT

In 1947 at the age of nine years Nelma Joe was promoted from Sunbeam Band to Girls' Auxiliary. At this time she started studying the forward steps. The thing she enjoyed most in the first step was Isaiah 53:6, "All we, like sheep, have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all."

When she had completed this first step she received a green arm band, as a Maiden.

Her next step was Lady-In-Waiting and she was in a coronation service at Thoraby Baptist Church and received the white star to go on the green arm band.

As she worked on the next step, "The Princess," she had more books to read and more Scripture to memorize. She was in the coronation service this time at Shocco Springs in June, 1949, and received the G.A. emblem to go on the White Star.

Her next step was, "Queen," and she was crowned Queen in her home Church at Bethesda Baptist Church in the coronation service on "Mother's Day" in 1950 and the W.M.S. gave her a white Bible.

The next step which she has just completed, "Queen with a Scepter," was much harder and required much more work, and more than a year to complete. She was in the Coronation Service at Shocco Springs the first week in August this year. She received the Scepter which she has in this picture.

What Nelma Joe has accomplished other G.A.'s can do too. It requires study and work, but is well worth the time and effort.

She has read six mission study books, memorized 189 verses of Scripture besides the other work.

The last step in G.A., "Queen Regent" which she has already begun, her work will also require a lot of work and study.

Nelma Joe is a member of the Bethesda Baptist Church, Chilton Association.

STRETCHING FEED SUPPLY

To stretch this year's feed supply, farmers are advised to make good use of all grain by balancing it with protein supplements, minerals and grazing or other feeds, depending on the type of livestock or poultry on hand; save all the corn, hay, and other feeds now maturing by harvesting some with livestock and storing the remainder for use later; and produce all the winter and spring grazing that will be needed.

Keep a bottle of glycerine by the kitchen sink. It is excellent to prevent chapped hands. A teaspoon of glycerine added to each quart of soapy water will help keep woollens fluffy and soft. It can also be used to lubricate food beaters and grinders.

T. L. Williams Retires; Vacancy Filled By G. L. Robertson

Alabama Power Company's new manager for its Clanton District officially began his duties here September 1. He is Gordon L. Robertson, until recently supervisor of training out of the Company's General Office, Birmingham.

Mr. Robertson has been in Clanton during the past month familiarizing himself with the Company's lines in this area and becoming acquainted with some of the Company's customers here. He succeeds veteran manager T. L. Williams, who retired September 1 under the Company's pension plan.

Mr. Williams began his electric light and power career in Clanton with the old Wade Electric and Ice Company as general assistant. He worked for a while at Lay Dam as an assistant operator, became local superintendent for Alabama Power Company in 1920 and has been district manager since 1926.

In his long experience, Mr. Williams has seen the number of electricity users in the Clanton District grow from less than a thousand to nearly 5,000.

A. S. Coleman, vice president in charge of the Company's Southern Division in which Clanton is located, in announcing the appointment of Mr. Robertson as Mr. Williams' successor stated, "Mr. Williams has given long, faithful and capable service to the Company and its customers in the Clanton area. Our best wishes go to him in his retirement. Although his duties will be taken over by Mr. Robertson, we still will consider Mr. Williams a part of our organization. We are fortunate in having in our group a man with the long experience and ability of Mr. Robertson to succeed him."

Mr. Robertson, a native of Loachapoka, Alabama, where he attended high school, is a graduate from Virginia Military Institute. He has been with Alabama Power Company since 1923, when he was employed as electrical engineer at Anniston. After two years he was transferred to Montgomery and in 1928 became district manager at Greenville. He was granted leave of absence for military service in 1940 and at the time of his release from active duty held the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. Most of his military duty was at Ft. Sill, Okla.

During the summer and fall of 1946 he was on leave of absence to serve as veteran training coordinator and resumed active work with the Company in October 1946 as supervisor of training.

Mr. and Mrs. Robertson are members of the Methodist Church. They have two children, Betty, 19 years old, a sophomore at Huntingdon College, Gordon, Jr., 16 years old, is a student at Clanton High School. Mrs. Robertson is a graduate of Huntingdon College.

Boy Seriously Injured When Shot By Friend

Willie Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson of Clanton Route 1, was seriously injured last Saturday afternoon when a 20-gauge shotgun was discharged into his legs by J. D. Adams. The two boys, about 12 years of age, were strolling along the creek with their guns and the little Johnson boy was walking in front. The gun in the hands of the Adams boy accidentally discharged and the load caught the Johnson boy in the legs.

He walked a half mile to his home and then Adams got a neighbor to take him to a doctor. He was then rushed by Spigener's ambulance to St. Margaret's Hospital at Montgomery, where it is reported he will be unable to walk for the next eight months if at all.

Adams is the son of Mrs. Lorene Johnson also of Clanton Route 1.

ALABAMIANS PAUSE, HONOR INDUSTRY SEPTEMBER 13-15

Alabamians will pause to pay homage to the element which provides them with the necessities and luxuries of life on September 13, 14 and 15.

The occasion is the second annual observance of Alabama Industry Days, sponsored jointly by the Associated Industries of Alabama and the Alabama Press Association.

Designed and promoted for the first time last year, the primary objective of the program is to "acquaint the public with Alabama Industry, its place in the community life of Alabama, and what industry means to the individual community."

Stressing Alabama-grown, Alabama-processed, and Alabama-made products is also one of the major objectives of the program.

Alabama took the lead last year when this program was undertaken and promoted to a highly successful conclusion. Never before had any state attempted a celebration of this type in honor of its industry.

The man behind the program last year was Paul A. Redmond, President, Alabama Mills, Inc., and a past president of the Associated Industries of Alabama. In serving as General Chairman of the Industry Days celebration, Mr. Redmond enlisted the active co-

OUR REPRESENTATIVES

Everybody wants better government, but nobody, does anything about it.

Now why did Tom Phillips do that?

Why did Jim Platt do that?

And on the other hand, why didn't Tom Phillips or Jim Platt do this or that? The point we wish to bring but today is, did you offer a suggestion, or an idea, to them in working out any of our county problems—it's doubtful.

We'll bet a plugged nickel that both our Senator and our Representative haven't received a half dozen letters combined offering constructive opinions on county legislation, notwithstanding the fact that one Bill introduced even changes our form of county government.

None write letters to help solve our county problems, but everybody cusses the office holder for not being a mind-reader and knowing exactly what the individual wants, personally.

We got a notion that we'd have better public officials if we had better citizens.

And wrote more letters to our Representatives telling them what we needed, and wanted, back home.

They're really interested in the way you feel about it.

A CAPABLE OFFICIAL

We seldom take part in editorial opinion on state or national affairs, leaving that for the "big boys," but while we are on the subject, we wish to commend Judge Anna Lola Price for her fine work since being appointed to the Alabama Court of Appeals.

Judge Price is extremely popular over the state with those with whom she is thrown in contact and everyone who knows her remarks on her honest and competent handling of her work.

Our opinion is that Judge Price will be a candidate in next year's election and we predict little or no opposition.

TURN THE PAGES, LITTLE SON

I read my newspaper and toss it on the floor. My two-year old son comes toddling into the room and sits down to play with the pages. As he turns them, folds them, and listens curiously to the rustling of the paper, I find myself filled with meditation with wonder.

I find myself speculating about the future of my son—and the effect of the newspaper. Now it is only a toy to him. But in a few short years he will be reading it; he will be studying its contents in search of knowledge and truth.

If you could understand, my son, what could I tell you about that mighty instrument of communication that you hold so casually in your tiny hands?

Will you learn to read it and understand, analyze, interpret? To cull the facts from the propaganda and apply them effectively to your own life?

There is so much I could say, my son. I could tell you, first, of the great sociological knowledge to be gleaned from your newspaper. I could tell you that only by reading of the actions of the individuals and groups who make up our own particular culture, and of the reactions of others, can we assure ourselves of right from wrong, of the acceptable from the non-acceptable.

Then, my son, I could tell you of the great value of the newspaper in the teaching of government. This is vitally important, and is perhaps the outstanding influence in our keeping democracy alive.

And finally, my son, I would warn you that the newspaper tells all, and that the decisions are yours in separating truth from fallacy in the quotations of men. I would beg of you to read all that the newspaper has to offer.

I would ask you to read, and be affected by accounts of the goriness and horrors of preliminary wars in other corners of this very small world, and not toss them off with a shrug, as I have. I would ask you to heed the warnings in your newspapers of approaching conflict, and to listen to the advice of the editors who would avoid coming to grips with other nations.

Turn the pages, son, and stare at the strange hieroglyphics. Never forget that the newspaper is your eternal shadow. In the span of existence, it is but an infinite particle of time behind you, recording your actions, your beliefs, and sometimes prophesying your destiny. You cannot escape it.

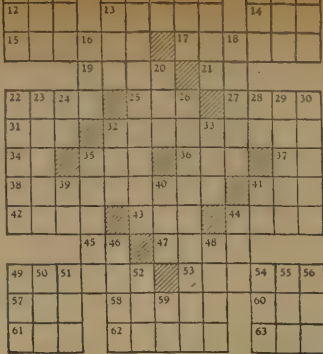

And if you and your generation survive, you must learn to read it, and study it and somehow develop a deeper understanding of yourself and your fellowman than I have in my generation.

(This is a condensed prize-winning essay written for the ANPA in 1948 by Dean Helms Jr., University of Indiana.)

--By BEN

We deeply regret the death of W. J. Patrick, Mayor of Thorsby. He was a very good friend and has been for the past ten years. He was a loyal public servant as well as a good businessman and he served Thorsby well. We are sure he will be missed by scores of friends throughout this section of the State.

The following article was handed us by Hoover Moatts who holds down the "Bull Section" of the local A & P Store here. Hoover thought the article rather interesting knowing something of the trials and tribulations of a groceryman. We thought it worth passing along. He didn't inform us as to where he read the article, but we are sure the writer wouldn't mind. Here 'tis:

"Sure, it's easy to run a grocery store. You work half the night getting the stock arranged and 30 minutes after you open, the stock has been mauled over worse than before.

We have the latest OPS prices and must sell beans for 2 cents a can less than they cost us, and the girl we hired to fill out the government forms ran away with the stock boy Friday night. Somebody left the refrigerator door open last week end and $500 worth of meat and produce spoiled. The cashier gave change for a $20 bill Wednesday instead of a five. Today the same woman came in and said she thought that we overcharged her. The cashier is in the hospital being treated for shock.

We received the following merchandise today which was, oddly enough, more than half used before our customers discovered it was spoiled:

- 4 quarts milk
 - 1 pint whipping cream
 - 3 dozen eggs
 - 2 lbs. luncheon meat
 - 1 jar olives
 - 3 cans pork and beans
- We delivered the following order three miles and made a charge ticket on it:
- 1 10c package of potato chips
 - 1 package cigarettes

We received the following letter from the collection agency which tried to collect accounts we can't collect:

We regret to inform you that the enclosed accounts totaling $1782.92 may be considered uncollectable and therefore deducted from your income tax as bad debts.

In a 15 minute period this morning we took down four grocery orders, bought merchandise from two salesmen, figured last month's sales tax, checked out nine customers, and made an appointment to see the doctor.

The new stock boy dropped a 200 pound carton on his foot. The roaches got into the cookies, the delivery boy into the cigarettes, and the ants into the sugar.

The sales tax department sent a man around to see the records on a man who worked for us in 1937 and, incidentally, wanted to check our books for 1948, 1949 and 1950.

Two of our best customers quit us because we charged 1 cent more than Kroger on a can of shortening, which our customer drove 25 miles and back to purchase.

Sure it's easy to run a grocery store. You ought to try it some time. And the same goes for hardware stores, drygoods stores, service stations, and so on ad infinitum."

ALABAMA BANKERS SHOW INTEREST IN FORESTRY

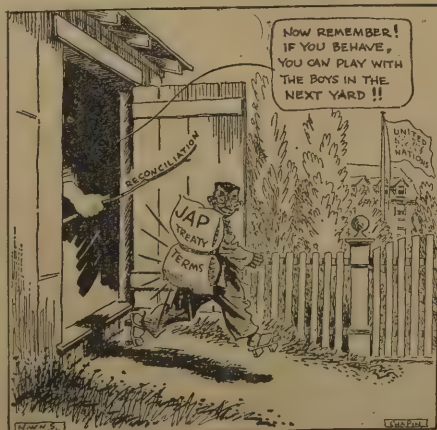

The first meeting of the Forestry Committee of the Alabama Bankers' Association was held at the Jefferson Davis Hotel in Montgomery, August 22nd.

Among highlights of the meeting was the request of Chairman Sam Morgan, president of the Opelika National Bank, that committee members suggest activities to be promoted during the coming year.

The suggestions were to make more trees available to 4-H boys for planting, inform all bankers of the magazine "The Forest Farmer," and urge these bankers to subscribe to this magazine.

Also, four resolutions were passed which will stimulate the interest of bankers and farmers in better forestry practices.

OUT OF THE WOOD SHED

KNOWING GOD

It was the apostle Paul that said he desired to know God, and the power of His resurrection. It would be well for everyone to seek for the knowledge of God. To know Him, is to love Him, is to have fellowship with Him; this brings eternal life to the believing soul. I will mention few ways by which we can know God.

Know Him through His Word, the Bible. The Word of God reveals to the heart of man the God of the Bible. And the more we know the Word of God, and the more we understand the Word, the more we know God and understand Him. So seek to know God through His Word. The knowledge of the Bible, Scriptures and what they teach will lead us to know Him. There should be a daily reading of the Holy Scriptures on the part of every one. Jesus said, "Search the Scriptures daily, for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and they are they which testify of me."

A. T. HICKMAN Scriptures and what they teach will lead us to know Him. There should be a daily reading of the Holy Scriptures on the part of every one. Jesus said, "Search the Scriptures daily, for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and they are they which testify of me."

Then we should know God through prayer. Men ought to always pray and not faint. And the more we pray and commune with God, the more we are going to know Him. The more we visit with our friends the more we learn them, and come to know them better. So we should have a visit with God in prayer very often, two and three times every day is not too much. The reason some people do not know God at all, they have never met Him in communion. If you want to know God through prayer, come boldly to the throne of grace, and find grace to help you in time of every need.

Another way is to know God through His works. First, what He does through others. We read of His blessings upon man throughout the Bible. And then we know of His blessings upon our friends, and neighbors. We hear them testify of His mighty works in their lives, and we even see and know of what he has done for others; just remember in the words of the song, "There is no secret what God can do, for what He has done for others. He can do for you." Second, know God through His works in your own life. Know Him as a Saviour, One Who can save and does save us from all our sins. Know Him as a Baptizer in the Holy Spirit, for it is He that baptizeth with the Holy Spirit. Know Him as the Keeper of your soul. He will keep that which you commit unto him against that day. He can keep you from falling, so seek to know Him better.

Know How To Be Thankful

MRS. M. NORTHRUP, N. Y., is a courageous woman. Read on and see if your courage would sustain you if you had to experience all she went through.

First, her husband who had held a responsible position in a bank which served a large area of wealthy farmers and small town folk, and who was on the school board, active in civic and church work in various capacities, as well as being much-liked and respected in the community, suddenly, after ten years of building up his prestige, found himself out of a job when his bank closed practically over night.

Not only was his job gone, but due to loans he himself had made at the bank his respect was injured. Worst of all, many unpleasant and unfounded rumors were made about him. Then for years he found only odd jobs to do for short periods of time. He was nearing middle-age and that was the reason for many of his rebuffs when applying for work. Mrs. Northrup taught school to keep the family going, but this only tended to increase Mr. Northrup's feeling of inferiority. Finally he got a position, at $150 a month—most inadequate for their needs and certainly not enough to bolster his morale. But he worked hard and developed the department where he held his position.

Then came a series of physical ailments, no doubt the direct result of his mental difficulties. By and by, he resorted to drink. He turned against his wife, and would leave home for days at a time, returning each time to plead for forgiveness. Eventually he found his burden too heavy to carry and laid down his life.

Mrs. Northrup who had struggled to carry her family's responsibilities, and had worked hard to build up her husband's morale suddenly felt that it had all been absolutely futile. She had loved her husband and she didn't want to go on without him, although she had their child to live for. She cast no blame on the one who had made her life so difficult. She was even glad she had married him rather than one of the other men she might have married.

So on this she built her future. On this she built her young son's morale, who never seemed to feel the slightest criticism of his father. (Mrs. Northrup says she was grateful for her child for that.)

So she started anew, is still teaching, renting rooms and making a home for young college girls who she feels should have a homelike place, and doing all she can to bring happiness into her son's life.

But where her courage looms up greatest is in her remark that she has had so much more to be thankful for than so many people she knows.

PSORIASIS

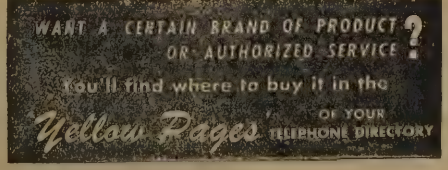

What causes psoriasis? No one knows, but it is one of the most unsightly skin conditions if widely spread and one causing excessive mental discomfort in the mind of the sufferer.

The eruption usually begins as small red spots which subsequently are topped with fine white scales. These may take any shape, either round or irregular. The spots may increase in size, become more scaly, tending to link with other spots until large areas of the skin are affected.

Sites of the body affected chiefly are the scalp, external surfaces of the arms and legs, knees, elbows, small of the back and the buttocks. Psoriasis is not contagious, appears frequently in persons who enjoy good health, but is inconsistent in that it develops often in the inadequately nourished person as well as the overfed, obese individual.

Plenty of soap and water are advantageous, but the scales should be removed gently with a soft brush. Because of the danger of infection great care should be taken in removing the scaly layers associated with psoriasis. Once removed bleeding pin-point areas are exposed which are easily susceptible to bacteria.

Because of the varying and inconsistent characteristics of psoriasis, it is important that the physician watch the condition carefully. Different treatment is used in the acute stage of the disease than in the chronic. Neglect and improper self-medication on the part of the patient may cause permanent disfigurement and scarring.

MACEDONIA

(MRS. EZRA MOORE)

Our revival meeting closed Friday night. It was one of the best we have ever had. The messages brought by Rev. Fred Lowery were heart-stirring. We know that lots of our people were revived, although there are some lost.

We ask the praying people everywhere to pray for them. Mrs. John York and Miss Bessie Smith came for baptism and Mrs. Coy Rasberry by letter. Baptismal services were Sunday afternoon at the creek at 3 o'clock. It was a very sacred and beautiful scene.

W.M.U. meets Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All the ladies are urged to come.

We were indeed glad to have the following ministers and their wives to visit in our revival last week: Rev. and Mrs. Evan Johnson, Rev. and Mrs. M. Lockhart, Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Hand, Rev. and Mrs. Charlie Haggard, Rev. and Mrs. Rabie Crompton, Rev. Paul Oden and Rev. Lowery's wife and children, and his sister. We invite them back.

Farmers! Use Your Own Credit System

FARMERS HAVE REASON TO BE PROUD OF THEIR LAND BANK SYSTEM

Farmers of Alabama, Mississippi, and Louisiana are proud of the Federal Land Bank and the 79 National Farm Loan Associations in the three states. The banks and the associations have a net worth of over 26 million dollars. They are owned entirely by the farmers who use them.

The bank and the associations are operated for the sole benefit of farmers. The long-term loans and small annual payments make it easy for members to repay their loans. If the member has a crop failure or some other disaster, the National Farm Loan Association—with a local board of directors—neighbors in many cases—will lend an attentive ear to the member's problems.

Local servicing of a member's loan affords many advantages. Consider now consolidating your debts into a land bank loan, or borrowing for any necessary agricultural purpose. Visit, Telephone or Write the Secretary-Treasurer of your

JERSEY CATTLE CLUB MET PAST WEEK

Members of the Chilton County Jersey Cattle Club met this past week to make final plans for the coming Jersey Show. The show will be held September 14 and 15. All classes will be judged the evening of September 14 and top animals will be held over until the 15 when the Grand and Reserve Champions will be judged.

This year the Jersey Cattle Show will be held in connection with Alabama Industry Day. Since livestock is one of the county's principal agricultural industries it should be recognized as a leading industry.

In addition to the purebred Jersey Show, beef cattle and hogs will be on exhibit. While beef cattle and hogs will not be entered on a competitive basis, there will be enough animals of the major breeds to make an interesting exhibit.

This year a new system of judging will be used. Instead of using the numerical system of placing, animals will be placed by groups. Members of the club feel that through the group, or Danish System of judging, prize money will be more evenly distributed to contestants.

Approximately sixty purebred Jerseys have been entered in the show. Close to one-half of the entries have been entered by 4-H Club members. From all indications this year's show should be one of the largest as well as the best that has been held. Owners are doing a good job of fitting, grooming, and training their animals for the show. Unless animals are well trained and fitted the prospects for a good show are poor regardless of how good the animals themselves may be.

Below are the names of purebred Jersey owners who have entered animals. Anyone who has an animal that they have not entered may do so by contacting the County Agent's Office. 4-H Club: James Rice, Harold Nelson, Wayne Rice, Billy Burgess, Charles Burgess, Ellis Burgess, Thomas Traywick, Charles Williams, John Williams, Douglas Williams, Howard Arledge, Ernest Hayes, Reuben Hayes, Brenda Higginbotham, Eddie Higginbotham, Jimmy Kincaid, Homer Lawrence, Ralph Mims, Jimmy Northcutt. Adult: Hoyt Burgess, Cleo Coter, Harry Higginbotham, Ben Brinker, J. G. Heida, O. H. Lawrence, Marvin Oates, Frank Parrish, Cliff Walton, R. O. Williams, W. A. Williams, J. E. Minor, R. P. Kendrick, Buford Lawrence, C. L. Wilkins, Claude Glass.

The time to "blue" your clothes is in the last rinse water. Bluing is not the equivalent of bleaching — it merely adds a faint blue tinge to counteract any slight tendency to yellowing. It can be used after bleaching to supplement it. It can be eliminated entirely if the clothes are washed properly and hung to dry in the sun.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Mary Ann Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Baker, celebrated her eighth birthday on Tuesday afternoon, August 28th, with a lawn party at her parents' home on 3rd Ave., So.

Gifts were received on a beautifully decorated table.

Games were diversion for the afternoon. Mrs. Baker made snapshots of the happy group during the party hours.

A lovely birthday cake, embossed in white, pink and green, with the inscription, "Happy Birthday, Ann," was cut and served with ice cream and a cold drink.

Balloons were given as favors to each guest, who were: Patricia Traywick, Robert Traywick, Sally Jo Smith, Carolyn Tucker, Jean Howell, Janice Traywick, Betty Smith, Don Jones, Joan Howell, Sandra Blalock and Robbie Hagin.

LITTLE ROGER DAVIS IS THREE

It was a happy birthday for Roger Davis on Thursday afternoon, August 30th, when his mother, Mrs. T. C. Davis, entertained at a children's party at their home on Lay Dam Road.

As the guests arrived, each was presented a colored paper hat.

The carnival theme was carried out in the decorations for the party which took place on the lawn of the home. Roger's sand box was transformed into a merry-go-round. Colorful inflated balloons dangled in dazzling splendor from the tree limbs. There was a stand where the children were served refreshing lemonade throughout the party hours. And instead of a shower of rain, there was a "shower" of candy kisses as Mrs. Davis threw the "kisses" into the air for the children to catch.

As the gift wrapped packages were opened the group sang, "Happy Birthday, Roger."

There was a large birthday cake beautifully embossed in yellow and green, holding three small candles for the little honor guest to blow out. Snapshots were made during the party hours.

Games were directed by Bobby Davis and Harry Deaton.

Individual cakes, decorated in pink and green were served with delicious ice cream. Novelty birds on sticks and the balloons from the trees were given the little guests as favors.

Mrs. Davis was assisted in serving by Mrs. Lee Ray (Roger's maternal grandmother) and Mrs. R. A. Devaughn.

Guests were Shirley and Geraldine Edwards, Ocie Larry, Terry Lee and Carolyn Devaughn, Scarlett Ray, Rita Weed, Lynn Linton, Kaye Williamson, Glenda Gale Clackler, Jo Doris Brown, Pete and Doll Johnson and David Deaton.

Unique Roadside Display Featured In Birmingham News

The above picture was featured in The Birmingham News recently. It is the wagon and flowers at Clanton's Drive-In Theatre.

An interesting sidelight regarding the old wagon is told by Joe Jackson, manager at the Drive-In. It regards an old Negro woman who stopped at his home one afternoon and knocked at the door. Upon answering the door Mr. Jackson was asked: "Boss, I wants to buy that wagon along the highway there, with the flowers in it. How much do you wants for it?" Mr. Jackson had quite a time impressing upon the old Negro that the wagon was not for sale.

Roadside scene: This old wagon is used as a flower bed to decorate a Drive-In Theatre somewhere in Alabama. With its bird house and gourds make it a picturesque scene.

Where is it? Names of the first person standing in the correct answer, will be printed next Sunday in The Birmingham News.

This picture, comment and question, "Where is it?" appeared in the September 6, 1951, issue of The Birmingham News. The first answer to the question was forwarded by tele- gram by Mrs. Jimmie Bell, Clanton, Ala. The correct answer is, the Clanton Drive-In Theatre, Clanton, Ala.

The Clanton Drive-In Theatre opened for business on October 15, 1949. This theatre is located three miles north of Clanton, Ala., on Highway 31. The Drive-In Theatre and grounds consist of 15 acres, more or less. The acreage was a corn field when the acreage was purchased about two years ago. Hard work, constant planning and planting has turned this cornfield into a place of beauty. By day and night more and more visitors from over the State and other states are visiting the theatre, commenting on the beauty of the grounds and achievement of progress, towards making the Clanton Drive-In Theatre the show place of Central Alabama.

When the first planting of shrubbery, trees, flowers and plants were started in the Fall of 1949, a five-year plan was worked out toward the end of creating beauty for the enjoyment and pride of the owners, as well as for the patrons, friends and neighbors of the Clanton Drive-In Theatre. It has been the aim, and will always be, to make this a friendly, family theatre, where all Chilton County and surrounding counties can be proud of their drive-in theatre. Two years have passed towards the five-year plan of creating beauty. Some of the shrubbery and trees are small, but over three hundred plantings have gone in the ground since the Fall of 1949; the dogwood, redbud, magnolia, weeping willows and other trees, can be seen from the highway.

Some of these trees can hardly be noticed, but in five years the plan will complete itself for all to see. By night the long fence running parallel to Highway 31 is lighted with numerous colored lights, which reflect on shrubbery and flowers, that gives an illusion of fairly land beauty. The old wagon, full of many flowers, is lighted by a color wheel with ever changing colors. Where is the color wheel? Behind a colored block wall on top of which proudly repose white cement chickens. From the entrance to the boxoffice, shrubbery, flowers, pottery and statues, on which shadows of colored lights, are cast give the patrons, welcome to beauty.

The owners of the Clanton Drive-In Theatre appreciate the fact, that they have been instrumental in helping to create, with nature's help, something of beauty and outstanding. That a paper with an outstanding circulation would find it so attractive as to take a picture without their knowledge of this wagon and run it in a Sunday issue of their paper.

The Clanton Drive-In Theatre is owned and operated by J. A. Jackson, manager, Myrtle H. Wilson and Dr. W. P. Wilson.

POND FERTILIZATION PAYS OFF NEXT YEAR

Auburn, Ala. — Many farmers who fertilize their ponds today think they ought to catch big fish next week. "Naturally," says Earl F. Kenamer, A.P.I. Extension Service fish and wildlife specialist, "these farmers are disappointed since results of fishpond fertilization during one year will not show up until the following year."

To point out another misconception, many pond owners who had good fishing from a well-fertilized pond last year decided they did not need to fertilize this year. Of course, most of the fish caught next year will be thin and stunted, and more than likely an unbalanced pond will result.

One way to avoid such conditions is to ask the local county agent for complete details on fertilizing fish ponds.

SELLING SWEET POTATOES

It may be wise to dig early planted sweet potatoes before harvesting becomes heavy and prices fall. Also, these early planted sweet potatoes may become too large if left in the ground.

Bigger, Better Package of Service

...yet up in price far less than most things you buy!

A DOZEN EGGS is still a dozen, and a pound is still a pound. But the "package" of telephone service you buy grows larger and larger.

TODAY IN ALABAMA, you can call nearly three times as many local telephones as you could ten years ago. And the service is better. Yet with all this extra value, Alabama telephone rates in the overall have gone up less than half as much as prices in general.

ALWAYS ONE of your biggest bargains, telephone service is today, an even better buy than it was ten years ago... and a smaller part of your family budget.—Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Easy Makes His "Cat" Tread Lightly

Driving home on the highway yesterday, I was flagged down by Easy Roberts' boy Skeeter. "Take it slow," he advised. "Dad's crossing this road with our tractor, just around the bend."

Around the curve I saw why Skeeter stopped me. Easy had laid two rows of old truck tires across the road, and was driving his new "Cat" tractor over them!

"More trouble this way," Easy explains, "but it does keep those tank tracks from tearing up the asphalt when I have to cross over to our other fields. After all, the roads belong to all of us—and I guess I'd get mad if someone else chewed them up."

From where I sit, Easy is my kind of citizen. He doesn't just give democracy lip service. He honestly believes it's his duty to consider the other fellow's interests. Whether it's the right to use the public highways or the right to enjoy an occasional glass of beer, Easy's out to protect his neighbor's "right of way."

ANNUAL PUREBRED JERSEY SHOW
The Annual Purebred Jersey Show will be held at the Airport in Clanton September 14 and 15. This year the Jersey Show will be held in connection with Alabama Industries Day—since dairying is fast becoming one of Clanton County's major agricultural industries.

In addition to the dairy cattle show there will be a beef cattle and hog exhibit. While beef cattle and hogs will not be shown competitively, enough animals of the representative breeds will be exhibited to make an interesting and educational exhibit.

This year 4-H Club members will show about one-third of the total animals shown in the show. A very attractive prize is being offered to the 4-H Club boy or girl who does the best job of grooming and showing their animals. To the boy or girl who does the best job of fitting and grooming their animal goes a purebred Jersey heifer.

In addition to the cattle show there will be ten or twelve purebred Jersey heifers that will be sold. These heifers are being offered to 4-H Club members also.

Mr. Monroe Crowson has a consignment of young Holstein cows that he will offer for sale on the day of the show. Prices for these animals will range from $385 to $425.

This year there will be more than one feature to the Jersey Show. Not only will there be good Jersey cattle, but there will be commercial, beef cattle and hog exhibits and cattle will be offered for sale.

Gentle treatment and a pure, mild soap are vital to certain health. Otherwise, the general washing routine can be followed throughout, with hot water for both washing and rinsing.

operation of the Alabama Press Association and its member newspapers. Also assisting in the program last year was the University of Alabama's Department of Journalism. Mr. Redmond is serving in the same capacity again this year.

Original plans for the program called for it is promotion at the local community level. Similar plans have been adopted again this year and more than fifty towns and cities throughout the state are expected to stage the event on a "bigger and better scale" than last year.

Other communities have planned "open house" visitations of their local industrial plants to show the visitors the types and quantity of machines necessary for their operation. Here also, they will acquire some knowledge of a given product from the raw material stage, through each manufacturing process, until it emerges as the end consumer product.

Parades will highlight the event and line the streets of countless Alabama towns in honor of industry on one of the three days. High school bands will lead the way to "Rally Day" in many others.

Many local planning committees have set up their programs to include fun and frolic. Crowd pleasers will include bathing beauty contests, pie-eating contests, public drawings for valuable prizes, football games, and many other attractions.

Merchants in the local communities will lend their cooperation, too, in displaying Alabama-made, Alabama-processed products — and in many instances, "specials" will be the attraction for prospective customers.

Stressing the slogan "What Alabama Makes, Makes Alabama," the 1951 celebration of the Second Annual Alabama Industry Days program promises to be one step closer to its acceptance on a national scale.

ELECTRICITY
MOST FARMS in Alabama

Last week was Farm Electrification Week all over the United States. It signified the near-completion, by electric power companies and rural electric membership corporations, of major extensions of electric lines into rural areas.

Farm Electrification Week had special significance in Alabama, because it was in Alabama (in 1924) that the second large-scale (for that time) experiment in rural electrification in the nation took place. (Minnesota's was first, but Alabama's was larger.)

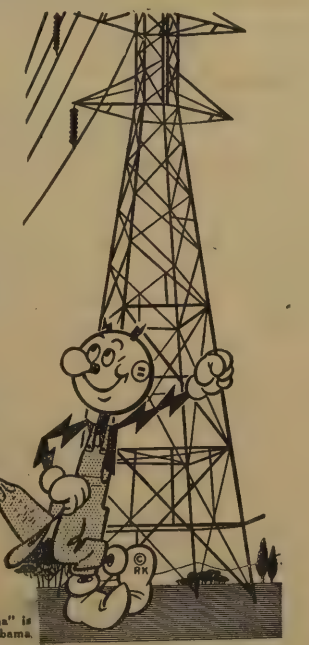

This experiment used rural electric lines built by Alabama Power Company in different agricultural sections of Alabama as the "laboratory." It was to determine for what purposes electricity could be used on the farm. It was conducted by Alabama Polytechnic Institute with funds provided by Alabama Power Company. The experiment was under the guidance of the Alabama Committee on the Relation of Electricity to Agriculture which was formed in 1924. Membership of this committee consisted of representatives of the Alabama Farm Bureau, Alabama Polytechnic Institute and Alabama Power Company. The experiment continued until it was proven that, even with the limited equipment available at that time, extension of electric lines to rural territories could be economically justified. The development of additional types of equipment resulted in broadening the areas to which rural electric lines could be extended.

Electric service now has been extended to most of the farms in Alabama and major rural line construction is approaching an end. It can be truthfully said that in Alabama the boom era of rural electrical expansion was the period between 1924-1951. The job of rural electrification is not, of course, complete. There are, and will continue to be, extensions to be made as development of additional rural areas takes place. Much work is yet to be done to make electric service of maximum value to the farmer and to rural communities. American inventiveness will create electrically operated devices not now thought of.

While the period 1924-1951 has been an era of rural line building, the coming quarter-century should be one of development and increasing use of electric service in rural areas. The success to be achieved during this quarter century can be all the greater if all interested in rural electrification join in mutual effort as did those of the 1924 Committee on Relation of Electricity to Agriculture.

What About Winter Feed?

WILL your cattle starve this winter? Well, look at this.

During the past 12 months producers have experienced just about every kind of weather in the books—and most of it was bad.

Livestock producers planned for the winter last year by planting more cover crops than ever before. Then came the big freeze. Many livestock producers were hit hard by the shortage of feed. Some growers had to sell off cattle in order to make it through the winter.

The lucky livestockmen were those who planted their winter crops early and had the plants well established when the cold weather descended.

This year farmers have continued to have troubles. A cold, wet spring was followed by a long drought that held growers to a late, poor start. Skippy stands and insect attacks took their toll. The dry summer forced many farmers to use their temporary crops much sooner than usual. Many hay fields had to be used for grazing.

All of this means that cattle may go hungry again if plenty of green crops are not planted on time.

What any particular producer plants for winter grazing matters very little so long as the crops he plants have been proven to be successful in his area.

The main points are to:

1. Plant on time.
2. Use enough fertilizer and seed.
3. Use recommended varieties.
4. Plant on a good seedbed.

Open Air School In Chilton

THERE'S no let down in learning among Chilton County 4-H Club boys during summer vacation time. Although there's no reading, writing, and arithmetic, they still keep busy getting practical education on their farm projects.

And this practical learning is paying off in bigger and better 4-H Club projects. For example, last year only six boys had cotton projects in the entire county. However, this year 86 boys are busy working cotton fields of their own ranging in size from one to five acres.

Four cotton growers of the Concord 4-H Club are shown at right getting a few tips on insect control from their county club leader, Assistant County Agent John D. Sellers.

New To The South

Regional Meat-Hog Conference

FOR Alabama hog producers the Southern Regional Meat-Hog Conference held in Dadeville last month was a new experience in hog shows.

The two-day event was different in many ways. First, the 300 breeders, producers, and professional agricultural workers who attended the conference got a chance to practice judging weight classes of market barrows. And they listened to a panel of experts explain the results on how the hogs dressed out after they were slaughtered.

Another feature of the conference was a purebred Hampshire sale. In the show were some 40 bred fall gilts, spring boars, and spring gilts from purebred herds in Alabama, Florida, Illinois, and several other midwestern states. These top-quality breeding animals were sold at the close of the conference and practically all of them were bought by Alabama breeders and commercial producers.

Many one-variety community cotton improvement associations have made application for free classing service for their members. Farmer-members of these associations should insist on the ginner or warehouseman sending samples from every bale to the classing office for free government classification. In marketing cotton, use the green cards received from the classing service showing grade, staple, and preparation. Lending agencies will accept these classing cards in making government loans.

Farmers Warned To Choose The Right Alfalfa Variety

By D. G. STURKIE, Agronomist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

ALFALFA varieties belonging to the non-hardy group are frequently winter killed in Alabama. Farmers should be very cautious in planting these varieties.

In the non-hardy group are Arizona Common, California Common, Chilean, and Peruvian. They grow rapidly but are not winter hardy in northern Alabama. They usually are not winter killed in southern Alabama. However, these varieties planted in October of 1950 were completely killed by the severe cold in November at Monroeville. They are not recommended for use above middle Alabama. They make more growth in the winter and early spring than do the hardy types, therefore, may be better suited for planting for winter grazing in the southern portion of the state.

Indian and African, two new varieties belong in the non-hardy group and they are even less hardy than the ones mentioned above. They should not be planted even in South Alabama.

The varieties that are satisfactory for use in Alabama are Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma Common, Buffalo, Argentine, and Williamsburg. These have always been winter hardy and have produced yields at or near the top in all tests.

Cooperation--The Key To Progress In Austinville

COOPERATION is the keyword to progress of the Austinville Home Demonstration Club in Morgan County. Through their cooperative projects club members have made untold changes in their community, churches, and schools this year. Activities sparked by the Austinville homemakers have touched almost every part of the community. They have put up new club signs, church signs, street markers, and sponsored clear-up campaigns to rid the community of eye-sores.

And this year they decided to build a home for their club, and are busily engaged in putting up the Austinville club house.

To raise money for their varied projects the club women have done everything from holding hayloft jamborees to selling photographs. They even called on the men of the community to put on a womanless wedding which netted the club treasury $240.

The school lunchroom is also a favorite project of the homemakers. They have prepared whole meals for the school children, and they helped to keep the lunchroom operating. This summer, they canned 569 quarts of apples for use in the lunchroom during the winter.

Not long ago the Austinville women helped to start a home demonstration library. Each club is donating books to stock the library in Hartselle and the library will be open to all farm women in Morgan County.

Projects completed by the Austinville Club are almost too numerous to mention. Although the new club house will soon be completed, this won't be the end of their community interest. The clubhouse will be used for community meetings and youth recreation. And it will serve as the permanent home of the Austinville Home Demonstration Club.

Plant Alfalfa Now

WEATHER conditions for the past three winters have not been ideal for alfalfa. All three winters have been very abnormal. Farmers should not be discouraged with alfalfa even though experience in the last three years has not been too good. Alfalfa is the "king" of hay crops. It is an excellent grazing crop and one of the best soil building crops. It should be seeded this month on land which has previously been properly prepared. Producers who think and plan ahead will seed winter legumes in this month and in October on land which will be seeded to alfalfa in the fall of 1952.

Along the Way

with P. O. Davis
P. O. DAVIS
DIRECTOR, APL EXTENSION SERVICE

A vital question before you and me each day, and every day, is: "Will we have war or will we have peace?"

This isn't a new question. It has been before us for months and, to some extent, for years. President Truman was very frank about it in his address at Detroit, Michigan, on July 28 when he said:

"As your President, I am telling you that the dangers in other parts of the world are just as great as they are in Korea. Every day reports come to my desk about Soviet military preparations around the world.

"If everyone of you could see these reports and receive this same information, you would give up any thought that the danger is over.

"You would be just as anxious as I am to see that this country builds up its armed forces, equips them with the most modern weapons, and helps to arm our Allies.

"Don't let anyone confuse you about this. We can not let down our guard, no matter what happens in Korea.

"The free world must have armed strength—and have it now—not in reserve, not later, but now. We must have men, ships, planes, tanks, bombs—on hand—ready for any emergency.

"We hope and believe that we will not have to use the armed strength we are building up. Our aim is to put an end to war. But we know that, unless we have armed strength, we cannot put out the fires of aggression that threaten the peace of the world."

You'll notice these words: "Our aim is to put an end to war."

All of us concur heartily in this aim, but we're realistic enough to know that it may not prevail. Others in the world may have different aims.

In fact, Secretary of Defense George Marshall said two days later that war conditions abroad are growing; that the trend is in that direction. An announcement was made the next day that more men will be called into the armed services.

These facts are of vital concern to us. More men in the armed services will leave fewer men for farms, for factories, and for other work at home. This means that each of us must do more because the needs of our nation must be supplied.

With more men in the armed services will go more material of all kinds into mobilization. Soldiers must have plenty of everything needed for the job to be done successfully—for victory.

This calls for higher production from our farms and from our factories. In addition to increased demands there is also the important fact that adequate production is essential to avoiding inflation and other evils in war or in peace. On the other hand, efficient production broods a multitude of evils.

In mobilization or in war, 4 m's are essential. They are men, materials, money, and morale.

The first two have been discussed. Money is the third. Enough money is essential for mobilization or for war; and "enough" is a lot of money. Either war or mobilization is very expensive. So bonds must be bought and other things done.

The fourth is that of morale. It's vital that we be realistic in our viewpoint and our approach. Our desire for peace tends to cause pessimism which must be avoided.

We'll meet this challenge. To do otherwise would be fatal to us as a nation as fatal to us as individuals. It would make unworthy of our great heritage.

It's Profitable Too

Hogs, Cows, Chickens Make Good Farm Living

THE sign in front of the neat brick farmhouse merely says purebred Poland China hogs. But Clear Brook Farm, on Cullman Rt. 6, is a living example of a well planned farm program and good farm living.

And members of the E. R. Neal family are now enjoying the fruits of wise planning where hogs, dairying, and poultry are making farming a paying business. But it hasn't always been that way.

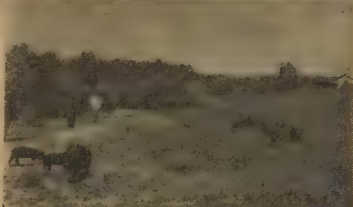

When E. R. Neal took inventory on his 120-acre farm in January, 1949, the entire hog population consisted of one brood sow. So the Cullman County farmer decided to do something about this phase of his program. After carefully planning ahead, he began to build up a purebred hog herd with the best breeding stock he could get.

For his herd sire Neal chose a litter mate of the grand champion barrow in Illinois. And for his brood sows he chose gilts of equal quality from outstanding breeding herds.

Hogs selected to remain in the breeding herd are picked with infinite care. They must be of the right body type, thrifty, and give promise of making outstanding animals. This, too, has proved to be sound thinking and Neal can now boast of his herd of high-producing sows. Litters have averaged 9.3 pigs each.

Another part of Neal's balanced program is feed production. Grazing crops and livestock go hand in hand on the farm, and the hogs aren't allowed to get ahead of the grazing. "Cheap feed," says the farmer, "is the best assurance of profitable livestock." His grazing consists of fescue, ladino clover, white Dutch clover, alfalfa, and permanent pasture.

The Neal story doesn't end with a good hog program though. He is equally proud of his 10-cow herd of milk cows which produces a steady income from grade B milk sales. "Dairying and hogs go well together," he points out, "because the same feed crop system can be used for both."

Last but by no means least is the poultry program supervised by Mrs. Neal. She has a flock of 175 laying hens and 240 pullets that are just beginning to lay. And Mrs. Neal has her own ideas about good farming too. "Poultry may not be as glamorous as purebred hogs or dairying, but the income from the hens certainly helps out the family treasury," she says.

Neal is a unit test demonstration farmer, and therefore must keep good records on all of his operations. Through these records he can easily spot any phase of the farm that is not doing as well as it should, and take steps to remedy it.

All of the details of the farm are watched with the same care that Neal used in planning his program. And this attention to little things has made E. R. Neal one of the outstanding farmers of Cullman County.

Oats Need Phosphate

By J. T. WILLIAMSON, Agronomist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

MANY of the oats planted in Alabama during the fall of 1950 failed because of a need for phosphate at planting. This is often the case because phosphate, like other fertilizers, helps in the development of a good root system through which the plant can take up the necessary plant foods from the soil.

The picture above made on the Tuskegee Experiment field shows, at left, oats that were fertilized with nitrogen, phosphate, and potash at planting time. The oats at right received only nitrogen and potash. The crop was planted October 6, 1950, and photographed February 26, 1951.

It can readily be seen that the phosphate application helped to maintain the stand and growth. Without phosphate the crop was a failure.

After many years of research, the Experiment Station has found that the following fall applications of fertilizer are best. To oats that are to be used for grain and grazing, or for grazing only, apply 400 pounds of 5-10-5 or 4-10-7 before planting and top dress as soon as a stand is obtained with 200 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre or equivalent amount of other nitrogen materials. To oats that are to be used for grain only, apply 200 to 300 pounds of 0-16-8 per acre before planting. If oats for grain follow crops that have been fertilized with 500 to 600 pounds of a complete fertilizer, the fall application may be omitted. However, it is always good insurance to apply the 0-16-8 at the above rate.

"An ex-sandwich shop serves the purpose," is the opinion members of the Eden Home Demonstration Club have about their club house. The club members hold their regular monthly meetings in the shop, and they usually make club day a "spend the day" affair. Members bring packed dishes to the club house, and the homemakers have a regular "dinner on the grounds" meal before their afternoon meeting.

Mrs. J. W. Nabors, of Eden, is shown at top right giving a demonstration on "Sewing Secrets" to members of the club. Seated are, left to right, Mrs. Cecil Bynum, Mrs. LeRoy Truitt, Mrs. A. D. Griffin, Mrs. H. M. Luna, and Miss Edna Scott, assistant home demonstration agent.

The St. Clair County club women recently demonstrated their sewing ability when they made drapes for the Eden Elementary School. The women are shown below looking over the finished product of their handiwork.

Don't Blame Muskrats

MUSKRATS burrowing in dikes and dams of farm ponds ordinarily do not dig through the fill and cause washouts.

Biologists at the Alabama Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit found that most burrows start about six inches under water, go in a short distance, and turn upward. The slope of the burrow is then maintained at about the same slope as the side of the dam. Most burrows extend about five feet into the dam, at which point the nest is located about two feet above water level.

Not one of 44 burrows examined in dams with 12-foot top widths extended even to the middle of the dam. Significant damage by muskrats was noted only in dams that were low and narrow.

Homemakers can find just about any type of recipe they want in the Favorite Recipes cookbook published by the Pansey Home Demonstration Club. Picking out an evening meal menu from the long list of recipes are Mrs. Curtis Mixon, at left, above, and Miss Fran Mallette, Houston County home agent.

Cookbook Or Community House Pansey Club Women Make Both

MEMBERS of the Pansey Home Demonstration Club have the reputation of being one of the most active clubs in Houston County. And they live up to their fame.

The most recent in a long list of completed projects is the printing of a cookbook filled with recipes handed down from generation to generation by the good cooks of the community. The book covers a wide range of foods from fancy cakes to pickle recipes.

Money from the sale of the cookbooks will go to the building fund for the Pansey community clubhouse. When the women get a sizable nest-egg built up they plan to call on their husbands to lend a hand and build their own clubhouse.

This home for the club is one of the main goals the Pansey women have set for the year. With 37 members in their club, very few of the women have homes large enough to accommodate all of the members at their monthly group meeting. The new building will serve as a permanent meeting place for the club and it will also be used for many community functions.

Officers of the club are Mrs. E. E. Eubanks, president, Pansey; Mrs. Evelyn Dozier, vice-president, Ashford, Rt. 2, and Mrs. E. W. Eubanks, secretary-treasurer, Pansey.

RECIPE FOR SEPTEMBER

SINCE meat is an expensive item for the homemaker, she must stretch low cost meats to make attractive main dishes for her family. A meat loaf is easy to prepare, and can be made from the less expensive cuts of meats.

MEAT LOAF

- 2 pounds ground beef
- $\frac{1}{4}$ pound sausage or salt pork
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped onion
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped celery or bell pepper
- 1 cup soft bread crumbs
- 1 cup milk or canned or cooked tomatoes
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 teaspoon salt

Pepper

Mix all ingredients together thoroughly. If salt pork is used, cut it in small pieces and fry until lightly browned before adding to the other ingredients.

Pack mixture into a loaf pan. Bake at 350° F. (moderate oven) for one and one-half to two hours. Serve hot or cold. Makes eight to 10 servings.

Serve with scalloped potatoes, green beans, lettuce and tomato salad and a fruit dessert.

Hog Producers

Watch For This Disease

A disease of swine called atrophic rhinitis is beginning to cause concern among hog producers in the Midwest and South.

Seventy years ago the disease was first recognized in Europe, and now widespread outbreaks have occurred in Canada. It has been reported in herds throughout the Corn Belt and in several southern states. Therefore, a sharp lookout for this disease should be maintained by Alabama hog producers.

State Veterinarian R. S. Sugg says that the disease usually appears on farms several months after the introduction of brood sows or boars purchased from farms on which the disease has occurred. Apparently the infectious agent is carried by the sows even though they appear normal and show no symptoms. Young pigs are usually the first to become infected. They begin sneezing and scratching or rubbing their noses against the ground and other objects.

"Fortunately," states Sugg, "the death rate is not high; however, infected pigs usually grow off slowly, and after a few weeks the nose and facial bones become distorted. Frequently the snout becomes crooked and pulled around to one side. Pneumonia is a complication in many instances."

All suspicious cases should be examined by a veterinarian immediately, or carcasses of animals suspected of having the disease may be sent to the State Diagnostic Disease Laboratory in Auburn.

Since no effective means of treating this disease has been found, swine producers should inquire into the history of the herds from which they purchase breeding stock. This precaution will help prevent bringing the disease on the farm.

DAIRY SHOW DATES

DATES for the district dairy shows in September are Gadsden, 4-5; Decatur, 6-7; Demopolis, 13-14; Mobile, 18-19; Montgomery, 20-21, and Dadeville, 21-22.

The state dairy show will be held in Birmingham, October 1-6. A new feature at the state show will be the addition of new competition in the open division of the show. For the first time, this part of the show will be open to the world. (Adult entries for the state show must be in the hands of S. Ross Smith, cattle superintendent, Alabama State entry fee for each adult's animal is two dollars.)

This Month on the Farm by API EXTENSION SPECIALISTS

USE lights on pullet flocks this month. Morning light should be started at four a. m., with one 40-watt bulb for each 50 hens. Use reflectors on lights, and suspend them so that they will shine on both roost and feeding areas. If all-night lights are used, use one 15-watt bulb for each 50 hens. Continue all-night lights on old hens. Cull them rigidly this month. Sell them as they go into a molt and go out of production.

CRIBS should be cleaned thoroughly before storing the new crop of corn. Spraying the floor, walls, and ceiling with DDT will help to protect corn from mice, rats, and weevils. Spray with 20 pounds of 50 per cent wettable DDT in 100 gallons of water.

THERE is now a sheep drench on the market that will control tapeworms as well as nodule worms and roundworms. This material is commonly known as pink drench and contains three-fourths of one per cent by weight of arsenate of lead in addition to phenothiazine. It is recommended that one treatment a year of this drench be given to all sheep. Now is a good time to treat your flock. (This material can also be given to cattle that have tapeworms.)

IF you have an irrigation system, don't overlook its value in insuring you a good stand of fall planted crops, grasses, or legumes. Even though the system was designed for a particular field or pasture, where water is available it can be used to insure a perfect stand of a new planting in another field or pasture being established.

THE use of good legume pasture helps to save new born pigs by making them stronger at birth, promoting growth and health in suckling and weanling pigs, and saving a lot of feed in finishing market hogs. Now is the time to prepare and plant plenty of fall, winter, and spring grazing.

SEPTEMBER sun is hard on hogs. Research has shown that fattening shots make fastest and most economical gains when it is not hotter than 75 degrees F. and not colder than 60 degrees F. Simple shelter or shade trees don't make good hog feed, but they can save a lot of it.

THE oats and vetch mixture makes good winter grazing and can be planted by almost any farmer in Alabama. If you have row crops such as cotton or corn, the mixture can be drilled in the middles. The seed may be planted on a prepared seedbed.

ALL clover-grass permanent pastures which have not been fertilized in 1951 should be fertilized this fall. September is a good month to do this job. Use plenty of phosphate and potash.

DEFOLIATE rank cotton by dusting with 25 to 30 pounds of cyanamid per acre about the time the cotton begins to open. Top bolls should be 25 to 30 days old or almost grown. Defoliation of cotton will reduce losses from rotten bolls. Pickers prefer to pick defoliated cotton because they can pick more and get started earlier in the morning. See your county agent for complete details.

1. BOOMING BROILER BUSINESS—built this modern poultry processing plant. Bill Bates, of Ft. Deposit, started processing broilers in a shed. His equipment consisted of a number three wash tub and an eight-gallon wash pot. He fired the pot for scalding the birds with corn cobs and stove wood. In the new plant steam heated water and modern equipment have replaced the outmoded wash pots.

2. BANISHED BROODERS—No longer in use on the Bates farm are these home-made broiler brooders. They have been replaced by modern poultry houses built to carry several thousand chicks each.

3. DAILY ROUTINE—Feeding time is one of the daily jobs that keep poultryman Bill Bates moving at a fast pace. He has several 3,000-bird capacity broiler houses and feeds and cares for the birds in addition to operating his processing plant. The producer markets his birds at eight to nine weeks of age.

4. QUALITY MEAT—County Agent J. W. Mathews and Bill Bates examine a fresh chilled broiler ready for the frying pan or oven. On market days the plant turns out as many as 1,400 dressed and chilled broilers. They are trucked to markets in Greenville, Chapman, Georgiana, Rutledge, Luverne, and Brantley.

From Wash Pot Processing To Modern Plant

Broiler Production Expands In Lowndes County

A number three wash tub, an eight-gallon wash pot, and a couple of homemade battery brooders were all of the poultry equipment Bill Bates had when he started out in the poultry business five years ago. But that was enough to give the young poultryman a start.

Bill grew up with a yen for raising chickens but he never did get around to producing many until he returned home after the last war. Then he really got down to business. And he has been continually expanding operations on his farm near Ft. Deposit for several years.

Like most young farmers starting out on their own, Bill started raising and selling chickens on a small scale. "It was strictly a home-sized operation," Bill relates, "and, business was awfully slow."

Of course raising out 50 broilers per week with his homemade battery brooders didn't keep him busy. After cleaning, dressing, and marketing the birds in neighboring towns he still had time to add 1,100 turkeys to his poultry program.

From the beginning the poultryman specialized in producing quality birds and the special attention to details of growing out, cleaning, and dressing the broilers soon began to pay off in the form of more orders than he could fill. So Bill called on his mother, Mrs. W. C. Bates, for help and she began to grow broilers for Bill to process and sell.

The next step in the Lowndes County poultryman's progress was the biggest jump he has yet had to hurdle. With the available help, he couldn't process the birds fast enough. Killing, scalding, and picking the birds by hand was causing a bottleneck in his business, so he decided to build a modern dressing and storage plant.

Bill now has an up-to-date 60 by 20 foot Auburn-type dressing plant furnished with modern equipment including a walk-in type cooler room large enough to handle several thousand birds. The next step in his expansion program will be a room equipped with retail facilities so that he can handle the take-home trade that stops to buy his chickens.

"Of course Bill Bates has had problems with his plant," says County Agent J. W. Mathews, "but he always digs down to the source of the trouble and comes up with a good remedy."

One job solved with typical "Bates ingenuity" was the problem of providing plenty of fresh water for the birds in his broiler houses. Bates found an easy answer. He rigged up a trough out of scrap metal that covers the full length of the house. And he timed the flow of water into the long trough so that the supply would be just enough for the birds with very little wasted water.

Keeping the troughs clean is simple. The water is turned on full-blast and one sweep down the trough with a brush cleans it completely.

Bates "Cloverhill" brand broilers, and turkeys, too, are well known down through South Alabama. And the poultryman is still hunting ways to turn out a better product. He is selling nearly 3,000 birds per week—all that he grows plus the birds his mother and a brother-in-law, J. R. McQueen, produce.

Profit In Pine Burr Picking

By I. R. MARTIN
A.P.I. Extension Forester

MOST of us know that pine seedlings are produced in tree nurseries, when they don't "come naturally" out in the woods. To keep the supply of seedlings up, nurseries need seed—seed from pine burrs that are found almost everywhere. And the nurseries are paying $1.75 per bushel for pine burrs for seed.

There's a catch to it, though. The burrs must be the right kind and must be picked at the right time. The right kind is loblolly, the three-needled oldfield pine so common throughout Alabama. The right time for picking is NOW.

Pine burrs cannot be haphazardly picked up, sacked up, and sold for $1.75 a bushel. Here are the requirements:

1. Cones must be picked at the right time. Start checking in early September. Cones must be green in color, not dried out or opened. They must mature on live trees. If the cones fit the above conditions and will float in water, they are just right for picking.

2. Stems must be trimmed close to the cone. Cones with stems hang up in seed extractors and cannot be used.

3. Pine cones cannot be piled up, either in a loose pile or in sacks. They must be spread out, one or two deep, under a dry shelter to keep them from going through a heat or becoming moldy. If this happens, the seed may be ruined and therefore the cones are not desirable.

Our tree nurseries need pine seed. Your local county agent has full particulars on how farmers, 4-H Club boys, and others can profit by picking the money that grows on trees.

Many excellent fence posts can be obtained by saving sprouts and small trees which make two and one-half to three-inch posts. This size takes less preservative and lasts 20 years or more. Instead of piling and burning these sprouts, utilize them for posts.

QUICK PICKLE MAKER—Mrs. J. F. Green, foods leader of the Ebenezer Home Demonstration Club in Shelby County, doesn't take a couple of weeks to make pickles. She has mastered the new 24-hour recipe that is a lot quicker and makes pickles that are just as tasty as before. After giving the pickle making demonstration in the Ebenezer Club, Mrs. Green has been teaching the pickle secret to her neighbors. This year she has already made 50 pints for her own family, 25 pints for other people, and she's helped a half dozen neighbors with pickling. Mrs. Green lives on Montevallo, Rt. 1.

For More Eggs In Winter Make Pullets Think It's Spring

By JOHN P. WEEKS
A.P.I. Extension Poultryman

WE must use artificial lights on the egg laying flock in order to get top fall and winter egg production and make the most profit.

In order to use lights properly, producers must understand the effect that lights have on a hen. Research people reveal that the lights shining on a hen stimulate a small gland at the base of the brain causing it to release a hormone in the hen's body that acts on the egg production system. This results in greater egg production. And it is important to remember that since the hen is producing more eggs, she needs and consumes more feed.

A period of about two weeks is required for the stimulating effect of lights to result in greater egg production.

Lights may be used to stimulate hens at any time during the year. The use of lights does not increase the total annual egg production of a hen, but it is one of the best means of swapping low priced spring eggs for high priced fall and winter eggs.

Two kinds of lighting are commonly used on our laying flocks—morning lights and all-night lights. The morning lights are most commonly used on pullet flocks. They are usually started in September when the daylight hours drop under 13 hours per day and are continued to April or May. Since the daylight hours are getting shorter through the fall and winter, the lights must be set up to come on earlier in the morning as winter progresses.

One 40-watt bulb is used for each 50 hens with the lights suspended so they will shine on the roosting area and feed hoppers. These lights can be turned on each morning with an automatic switch.

All-night lights are preferred by many poultrymen. When this form of lighting is used, the lights are usually started in September with one 15-watt bulb used for each 50 hens. Since hens react to an increased brightness of light, the size of the bulb used is increased to 25-watt, to 40-watt, and to 60-watt as winter progresses and additional stimulation is needed.

There is a great difference in the price of eggs in Alabama in the spring and in the fall and winter. By starting pullets early and using the proper amounts of artificial light, Alabama poultrymen can sell a majority of their eggs during the high priced period.

Alfalfa Seed Production--- Possible But Risky In Alabama

By C. M. WILSON, Associate Soil Chemist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

ALFALFA seed yields as high as 200 pounds per acre have been produced on experimental plots at Auburn. However, under Alabama's comparatively humid climate alfalfa seed production may be a risky venture.

Factors studied in connection with alfalfa seed production during 1947 and 1948 included fertilizer treatments and row plantings versus broadcast stands.

During the two years, seed yields were increased an average of 93 pounds per acre on a sandy loam soil by adding 20 pounds of borax per acre at planting and following with a 10-pound application annually. When 30 pounds of borax per acre were added to this light soil, some decrease in seed yield resulted. Alfalfa fertilized according to station recommendations for producing hay has been satisfactory for seed production.

When broadcast plantings were compared with alfalfa seeded in rows 30 inches apart, the seed yields were about the same. However, hay yields obtained from cuttings made before and after the seed crop were often twice as great from broadcast as from row stands. It is probable that a row width of 15 inches might have been more satisfactory from the standpoint of both seed and hay yields than was true for the 30-inch rows. The idea of seeding in rows for seed production originated from observations where alfalfa in field plantings bloomed more profusely and set more seed per plant along the edge of the field than did those plants completely surrounded by other alfalfa.

The general procedure followed in this study was to take the first growth in the spring for hay when the alfalfa was about one-tenth in bloom. The following growth was then left to mature seed. One of the problems with alfalfa seed production is that the second growth may get large enough to interfere with harvest by the time the seed matures. This is especially true if there is an abundance of moisture. The drier seasons are more favorable for alfalfa seed production. Most alfalfa seed are now produced on irrigated areas in the West where moisture can be controlled.

After the seed crop is harvested, there is usually sufficient growth for one more cutting of hay or enough to furnish some grazing. Approximately two cuttings of hay must be sacrificed in order to produce one crop of seed.

National Honors For H. S. Swingle

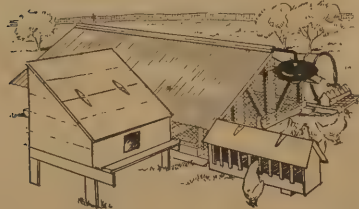

NATIONAL honors for distinguished service in the field of fishery research were recently presented to H. S. Swingle, A.P.I. Experiment Station fish culturist. He received the Conservation Service Award of the U. S. Department of Interior for his outstanding work. Swingle was the first person in the United States to receive the award.

Under the direction of Swingle, work on fishery research was begun on the Experiment Station at Auburn in 1934. Since that time 140 experimental ponds have been constructed on the station. The ponds range in size from a small fraction of an acre up to more than 20 acres and the total acreage under water in the experimental ponds is 140 acres.

The more than 7,000 farm ponds scattered about in all sections of Alabama are practical examples of the use that has been made of experimental findings at the station. And the bass and bream "fish dinners" that so frequently grace the table in hundreds of farm homes are but one of the many benefits from the farm pond program. Soil erosion control, water for irrigation, swimming, boating, and other recreational activities are benefits for farm pond owners.

BUMPER CROP—The bumper crop of hairy vetch seed from the Huntsville Arsenal reservation in Madison County will enrich hundreds of acres of North Alabama crop lands this fall. From 150 acres on the reservation M. C. Balch combined over 30 tons of vetch seed. And he believes that this seed is very winter hearty because all of it came from volunteer stands that survived the cold weather during the past winter. Above Mr. Balch, right, and Assistant County Agent Fred Glaze examine some of the clean seed.

Last call for moving the old laying flock. The poultry house should now be thoroughly cleaned and turned over to the pullet flock.

Move the old hens to a fenced-in area for the remainder of their laying period. Cull them closely and sell them as they molt and go out of production.

Provide temporary quarters for the old hens with a range shelter or other shade. Sufficient roost poles, nests and lights are also necessary. Keep the lights on all night and arrange them so that the light will shine on the roost and feeding area. The diagram above shows an ideal arrangement for handling the old flock.

Storage Of Farm Grown Grains Practical And Profitable Plan

By J. L. BUTT, Associate Agricultural Engineer
A.P.I. Experiment Station

GRAIN or other farm crops can be kept on the farm under proper storage conditions. Farmers who have difficulty in obtaining market prices during the harvest season when the market is usually flooded, or wish to keep the crop in good condition for home use may find on-the-farm storage profitable.

In 1950-51, for example, corn could be bought in some areas in November for as little as $1.20 per bushel while the actual market price was about $1.65 per bushel.

In a test conducted by the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station from February to June of 1951, 128 bushels of shelled corn were cleaned, stored in a steel bin, and treated. At the end of the four month's storage period the corn had lost 60 pounds. Part of this loss was due to a three-tenths per cent reduction in moisture, which was about 12 per cent at time of storage. The average germination was essentially the same as before storage.

The 500-bushel bin used in this test sells for about $150, and it was erected in less than two days by an inexperienced crew of three men. Poison to treat a 500-bushel bin costs less than $3.

Before attempting to store shelled corn, the following precautions should be observed: (1) The corn must be dry enough to keep (12 per cent moisture—this may require artificial drying); (2) it should be cleaned to remove foreign materials; (3) it must be treated with a recommended fumigant; (4) the bin must be tight enough to hold fumigant and keep out moisture and rats and strong enough to support weight and side pressure of grain, and (5) the corn should be checked periodically to assure safe keeping.

Income From Hogs Climbs 700 Per Cent In 10 Years

THE hog dollar is getting bigger. The official figures shown above show very clearly that income from hogs in Alabama is growing rapidly—in fact, income from hogs has been multiplied more than seven times during the past 10 years. If estimates on the home slaughter of hogs were considered, the figure would run well over $50 million.

Many factors play a part in the expanding production of hogs. One of these, points out G. B. Phillips, A.P.I. Extension hog specialist, is the fact that farmers have learned that they can make more pork from corn than peanuts—and at less labor cost. Another point is that corn furnishes hog feed 12 months in the year where peanuts furnish around three months' feed—and farmers are growing more and better corn.

Another factor affecting the size of the hog dollar is the quality of pork produced. Five years ago there was only one state hog breeder's association. Today there are seven state breeder's associations and high quality breeding animals are available to all producers.

Phillips also points out that merchants, bankers, and other business and civic groups are helping to improve the quality of hogs in the state through hog chains. Thirty-two counties have active purebred hog chains. And 4-H Club boys have more hog projects than any other kind of project.

"The pay off comes when you get the milk cans filled," says Winston County dairyman W. H. Burns. He is shown, at right, in front of his new barn with James Fields, assistant county agent.

Winston Dairyman

Beats Building Costs With Home Labor

THE high cost of building a dairy barn makes many farmers shun the dairy business. But this didn't discourage W. H. Burns; he found a way to beat the high costs.

About a year ago Burns decided to try his hand at dairying. So he started out in the grade B market on his 110-acre farm near Haleyville. After nine months of producing milk for manufacturing purposes he switched to grade A production. The two-stanchion grade A barn that he began using the first of the year didn't put a strain on his pocket-book though. Total cost of the barn was only $850.

The building is a milking parlor affair, except that it doesn't have a milking parlor.

A small room divided into two stalls serves as a milk shed. Two cows are milked at a time in the small room; then they are released and two more cows replace them. Burns doesn't put much stock in rules so he disregarded friendly warnings that you can't milk a cow from the left side. He went ahead as planned and proved that a cow doesn't know her right side from her left.

Milking time on the Burns farm follows the same pattern twice a day throughout the year. Cows file into the barn by pairs, catch a quick snack from the feed troughs that are built into the doors, and go out through the front doors into the pasture. The dairyman sticks to his post of duty in the center of the small room and milks the cows as they file through. One cow is milked from the right side, the other from the left. After milking, Burns simply pulls the ropes that opens the doors, and a new pair of cows is ready for milking.

Although the barn was built at a low cost, it is just about as efficient as a higher priced building. The dairyman says he milks 10 cows by hand in only one hour.

The Winston County farmer has already set a ceiling on the number of cows he will have in his dairy program. "I can produce only enough feed for a herd of 20 milkers, so that's my limit," he says. And Burns is a firm believer in growing feed at home.

He bases his winter feeding program on ryegrass and crimson clover, and the bulk of his summer feed comes from fescue, clover, and sericea.

Another young dairyman is beginning to play an important part in the Burns farming picture now. He's 12-year-old Neil Burns. In addition to helping out around the farm, Neil has started a junior dairy business of his own. So now W. H. Burns and his son, Neil, are working together in planning their dairy program of tomorrow.

Experimental work shows that wellbred pigs gain a third faster than scrubs and on a fifth less feed per pound of gain. During the next few weeks a number of fall shows and sales of good Alabama grown purebred hogs will be held. These sales offer commercial market hog producers a good opportunity to improve the quality of their herds at a small expense.

1950 $36,841,000

Cash income from hogs is climbing—and official figures show that the snubnosed roofer has grunted and squealed his way up to almost as much of the farmer's income as the total income from cattle and calves. Better feed—better pigs—and better management have made this climbing pork income possible.

A cash crop to brag about is the two-acre tobacco patch Ted Steward, of Georgiana, Rt. 2, harvested last month. The Butler County 4-H'er sold 2800 pounds of flue cured tobacco at an average price of 59 cents per pound. He is shown at left with Assistant County Agent George McMillan checking the stage of maturity of the plants.

At right, Ted checks the curing process in a barn full of tobacco. One of the hottest jobs in growing tobacco is the task of flue curing the crop after it has been put in the barn. The temperature was 170 degrees F. when Ted checked the thermometer in the picture at right.

Steward was one of seven Butler 4-H Club boys who had tobacco projects this year.

Big Plans For The Future

Jerry Langston, 15, Winfield, Rt. 2, is shown with two of his registered dairy cows. Jerry began the first of the year on a junior dairyman program and is now selling grade B milk from his two cows.

The youngster also has his eye on a dairy herd in the future and is rapidly putting his plans into practice. In addition to the two cows, he has one heifer and a bull. Before long Jerry and his dad plan to be milking ten cows. And with that he should have a pretty nice milk check every two weeks.

The first four months of this year he grossed $140 from milk sales from two cows and Jerry concludes that that is not a bad income for the amount of work and time he puts into the project. He keeps his profits at a high level by using home grown feeds almost exclusively. He has not fed the cows any dry feed since February.

Research Results

in brief
EXPERIMENT STATION

FALL MANAGEMENT OF ANNUAL CLOVER-SOD GRASS PASTURES. Young seedling clovers such as crimson or white will not volunteer early in the fall on a high Bermuda or carpet grass sod. The removal of old grass residues in the fall often makes the difference between an early volunteer stand of clover and a late stand or possibly a complete failure. Experimental results have shown that close grazing, close mowing, or light disking in the fall tend to favor early clover establishment; on the other hand, a deep grass sod left undisturbed will usually retard the clover severely and result in very little winter grazing.

THE PROTEIN CONTENT OF CORN was increased one per cent for each increment of 30 pounds N (nitrogen) up to 120 pounds per acre in tests at the Sand Mountain Substation in 1950. In other words, corn that received an application of 120 pounds of nitrogen (amount of N in 375 pounds of ammonium nitrate) was four per cent higher in protein content than corn not fertilized with nitrogen.

TO REDUCE COMPETITION with valuable pines on experimental plots in southern Alabama, hardwood trees were removed and the stumps treated with ammate crystals. Only 18 per cent of the treated oak stumps sprouted during the following year. In the case of dogwood, however, 94 per cent of the treated stumps sprouted.

A COMBINATION OF BEEF CATTLE, COTTON, AND HOGS on a 160-acre management unit at the Tennessee Valley Substation gave an average return of $4,715.40 per year to labor, capital, and management the first two years of operation.

HONEY BEES appear to be necessary for maximum production of crimson clover seed. In preliminary experiments where bees and other insects were excluded by one-eighth inch mesh screen cages, the average clean seed yield was 96 pounds per acre; where bees were numerous the average yield was 572 pounds per acre in the same fields.

THE AVERAGE PER ACRE PRODUCTION of the two principal commodities on the Cotton-Dairy Unit of the Piedmont Substation during the four-year period 1947-1950 has been 360 pounds of lint cotton per acre on 11.4 acres and 945 pounds of milk per acre on seven acres.

OLDER RURAL HOUSES HAVE CLOTHES CLOSETS as frequently as newer farm homes and more of them have "store rooms"—rooms which often were originally used as bedrooms but are no longer needed for this purpose, according to a recent rural housing survey in Alabama.

HALF OF ALABAMA'S EARLY IRISH POTATO CROP is shipped to market by motor vehicles. Shipping tests indicate that weight losses are twice as high for potatoes shipped by open truck as for those shipped by van. In addition, development of scald spots and browning is more prevalent in open trucks than in van shipments.

State of Alabama,
Clanton County.

To Honorable Oakley W. Melton, as
Judge of said court:

We, the Grand Jury, empaneled for the July Term of the Circuit Court, after receiving your Honor's most able charge, entered upon our investigations of the matters that came before us as Grand Jurors, and herewith submit the following report:

During our investigation we have considered 33 cases, and have examined 43 witnesses, and are returning herewith 24 true bills.

We have made a personal inspection of the County Jail, and believe it to be sufficiently safe for the keeping of the prisoners, and find that the prisoners confined therein are being well fed and cared for with reasonable comfort.

We have examined the Fee Book of the Probate Judge, and find it neatly kept and correct insofar as we are able to ascertain. On our examination of the Office of the County Superintendent of Education, we find that his books, records, and papers are neatly kept and insofar as we ascertained were being kept fully in accordance with the law.

The Grand Jury wishes especially to commend the efficiency in the performance of their duties of our Sheriff, his deputies, and the bailiff of the Grand Jury, Mr. Smith, all of whom have rendered to us valuable assistance during our investigations.

The Grand Jury wishes to especially thank the Circuit Solicitor, Hon. Winston Huddleston and the County Solicitor, Mr. A. B. Foshee, for their efficient help and cooperation in our investigations.

Chilton County Goes All Out For Alabama Industry Days

Jersey Cattle Show To Be Held With Industry Days Celebration

JERSEY BREEDERS PREPARING CATTLE FINAL TOUCHES ON CATTLE FOR BIG COUNTY JERSEY SHOW THIS WEEK

Four H and adult Jersey breeders and owners are putting the final touch on their cattle in preparation for the Jersey Show. Between fifty and sixty head of the county's finest Jerseys will be shown at the Airport in Clanton Friday and Saturday. Cattle will be entered not later than 2:30 P.M. and judging will start at 7:30 P.M. For the first time, the Danish System of judging will be used in the county show. Under this system cattle are not shown or judged competitively, but are compared with the ideal type Jersey. In placing the cattle, they will be divided into three groups: Blue, red and white. Each color group can earn a certain number of points: blue, 3 points; red, 2 points; and white, 1 point. When all cattle have been placed, the total number of points will be divided into the total premium money and exhibitors will receive premiums based on total points awarded their entries.

In addition to the premiums awarded in the Dairy Show, some 4-H or FFA member will win a purebred Jersey heifer. This prize is being awarded on the basis of showmanship and grooming. Neither type nor confirmation of the animal will have anything to do with selecting the winner. Premium will be the reward for patience, hard work, and the desire to see a job well done.

In addition to dairy cattle, there will be beef cattle and hog exhibits. Beef cattle and hogs of the various breeds will be exhibited both Friday and Saturday, but will not be shown competitively.

Several purebred Jersey heifers will be brought to the show and will be offered for sale to 4-H Club members. In addition to the Jerseys, there will be a carload of Holsteins that will also be offered for sale. Practically all of these animals are heavy springers and are calving with their first calf. These animals have to be consigned to Mr. Monroe Crowson and are unusually nice lot of cattle.

Since the Cattle Show is being held in connection with Alabama Industry Days, exhibits will not be limited to livestock alone. There will be some very nice commercial exhibits. Local industries and merchants will sponsor exhibits that will be interesting and educational. In sponsoring 'Alabama Industry Days' the Chamber of Commerce has attempted to include all of the county's major industries. Since all of the county's industries, both industrial and agricultural, will be represented, everyone is invited to attend and enjoy Alabama Industry Days, September 14 and 15.

HOGS TO BE AN EDUCATIONAL EXHIBIT AT AIRPORT HANGAR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

In view of the fact that the Veterans on Farm Training Program — under the leadership of M. D. (Dave) Tingle — has placed major emphasis on better hogs and improved hog production practices, the Veterans have been selected to exhibit hogs in the Industry Days events.

Ralph Jackson and his Thorsby Veterans Class are effectively presenting leading poplar Chilton County breeds of hogs. Along with a study of types and breeds, a valuable array of hog feeding information is being presented.

Visit Ralph Johnson's hog exhibit and see Hampshire, Duroc, O.I.C's and Poland China of desirable type. Talk with those in charge of the exhibits and learn more about "money making" hog production in Chilton County.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS TO MEET MONDAY NIGHT

The Fideis Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church will meet Monday night, Sept. 17th, at 7:30 a'clock in the home of Mrs. Louise Smith.

The Class new officers will be elected and all members are urged to attend the meeting.—Ludell Parrish, Reporter.

BEEF CATTLE EXHIBIT AT AIRPORT FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

TO BE A STUDY OF CHILTON'S POPULAR BEEF BREEDS

Horned Herefords, Filled Herefords, Aberdeen Angus, and Red Polled cattle are to be exhibited as typical examples of some of the improvements being made in Chilton County's beef industry. Beef cattle are to be exhibited not only as a type and breed demonstration, but the booth back-drop will carry production information and census evidence of the growth of the local beef industry.

Horned Hereford bull calf to be exhibited by Harold Smith of Maplesville, Route 1, depicts the vigor and growthiness of cattle bred by one of Alabama's leading breeders, L. Chatterton, of Greensboro, Alabama. This animal should be inspected by all interested in better beef animals. Dr. W. L. Parish will exhibit a group of sleek animals, that have been produced to the senior yearling state without dry feed — Yes, on green grazing in the winter of 1950-51 and through the summer drought. Black cattle representing the Aberdeen Angus breed will be displayed by Cleave Mims and H. C. "Dick" Arnold. N. L. "Doc" Roberts working with Mrs. N. H. Rarrell will present representatives of the Red-Polled breed. Red Polled cattle are dual purpose animals. This exhibit will be new to many of our beef display visitors. They are worthy of notice to many Chilton County operators. C. C. Foust, Secretary of the County Cattleman's Association, is presenting two senior yearling heifers bred and raised on "Lazy Acres" farm near Clanton. It is also rumored that Chick will have his "papa if twins" G. J. Alvance Domino 50th on exhibit as a 4-year oldsteer this year.

NEVER-ENDING BATTLE

PROTECT OUR CHILDREN

There is a great need for care by drivers of automobiles on 12th and 13th streets each morning and afternoon while children are going and coming from school. The two streets are lined with the little boys and girls and some who drive through there are not as careful as they should be.

And the worst part of their trip is to cross the highway (State 22) or 4th Avenue. We understand the State Highway Department will not allow traffic lights at an intersection like that, but that is only more reason the motorists should be extremely careful. These two streets lead from the Clanton Grammar School to the highway and a ten or fifteen mile speed limit should prevail there.

However, we have noticed speed limit signs do not do much good wherever they are placed, so it behooves each and every driver to make a personal effort to protect our children.

JIM WADE, MAYOR

Can you think of anyone who would make Clanton a better Mayor when election time comes around again than Jim Wade?

The people of this city should draft Jim for the next Mayor. He has every qualification necessary for the job. He is popular and a good listener and mixer. He has had years of experience in City affairs. He has the respect and confidence of the people.

Considering everything Jim Wade would make Clanton a mighty good Mayor and when the time comes around for nominations if we can get him to listen to our plea, we will nominate Jim Wade next Mayor of Clanton.

T. L. WILLIAMS, RETIRED

Congratulations for a job well done, and good luck always is our wish to Mr. T. L. Williams, manager of the local office of Alabama Power Company, who retired recently.

Mr. Williams spent nearly two score years with Alabama Power Company and deserves his well earned rest.

"HEART OF DIXIE"

Placing of a catchy slogan on Alabama automobile tags has been a promotion in which our state has dropped behind.

While other states have adopted tags that grab the attention of the public when their citizens travel about, Alabama has been content merely to put "Ala." on the vehicle licenses.

Now comes the suggestion that the phrase, "The Heart of Dixie" be imprinted on car tags.

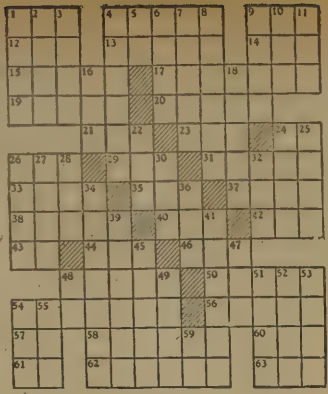

It has a noble ring. It is a lofty boast.

We think it fitting.

Maybe, too, it will inspire Alabama to keep on the march upward. The way Dixie is aflame with progress—and we mean growth and development, not just anti-Trumanism—the State of Alabama will have to move at a speedy tempo to hold claim to the title.—Andalusia Star-News.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Cleveland Driver was down last week and came by to see us. Cleveland says he is moving his citizenship to Jefferson County, that he believes a man should vote where he has his residence. We, too, believe like Cleveland. But we have a sneaking idea that Cleveland being one who never could keep his nose out of politics, has become so interested in the Birmingham variety, he has just got to get active and he can't do it very well unless he votes up there. Anyway, we hate to lose Cleveland's vote in Chilton County. He has been a staunch Democrat and an asset to his party in this county.

Grandpa went down to Bill Eiland's the other day to get himself a pair of "cheaters." This was the first pair of glasses we have ever had and so we had to tell Bill about our arms getting too short to read any more. He laughed politely even though he had heard the same corny gag from every patient he has had in years, and came back with the story about one of his customers who came in for some glasses and said he came to see him after his eyes got so bad he couldn't even read the paper when it was lying on the floor. Anyway, we got our eyeglasses and now on a good, clear day can see across the street—nearly.

Our sympathy goes out to the family of Jacob Bernard Margolis of Montgomery who died this week. He was the father of Mrs. Sadie Lande, Miss Bertha and Alex Margolis of Clanton and Ben Margolis who is well known here. To the children, in their bereavement, we grieve with them in the sorrow they have experienced.

Alabama Industry Days this week will create a lot of attention in this country. A big celebration including a livestock show will be held at the local airport and all our local businessmen have contributed financially to the success of the venture. A large crowd is expected to attend.

A "Band Fair" will be held at the Chilton County High School on September 27th. It will be sponsored by the Parent-Teachers Association and will include music, gift booths, fun in large quantities, and all the things that go to make a "Fair."

Jim Platt, Representative from Chilton County, left Tuesday night for Mayo's Clinic for an examination. Jim has been in bad health all summer and has attended sessions of the Legislature when he wasn't physically able to attend them. We hope he will find a speedy recovery at Mayo's Clinic.

Prize winning catches of the finny tribe this summer as posted in the window of Jeff Miller's 5c & 10c Store are: Large mouth bass, 4 lbs., 2 ounces; Small mouth bass, 4 lbs., 13 ounces; Striped bass 2 lbs., 5 ounces, and for Bream, 8 1/2 ounces. Records were made to be broken, though, and there's still time for you to win that beautiful new outboard motor by getting down to the river and going to work with that rod and reel.

Disaster Can Lead to Success

SAMUEL KRAJCI, Chicago, Illinois, believes that any difficult situation can be conquered if somebody has the will to do it. It was in 1928, during America's "prosperous" years, previous to the depression that hit us in 1929, and Celotex was the product being manufactured by Mr. Krajci's company.

In 1928 the Louisiana sugar cane crop was most promising. Good news to the Celotex experts who were depending upon this crop to furnish the fiber for the synthetic board. Cane fiber was the life-blood of their manufacturing plant.

Then came bad news! Just before the grinding season started, a Mosaic disease spread like wildfire throughout the fields. There was no crop! And the plant's equipment was suitable for making board only out of sugar cane fiber. It was easy to see what would happen to business.

Quickly they took stock of the situation, found out what they had on hand to work with. Just enough left over from the previous year to carry them for three months.

Then suddenly somebody came forth with the idea that they try to find a substitute for cane fiber. Seemed absurd, particularly as their plant was geared to cane fiber.

Then came good news! Louisiana's second greatest crop—rice—could be utilized since 20 per cent of rice straw could be added without affecting the product. So they hired planes to scout the rice fields and bought from the farmers on the spot. Now they had 18 more days to live!

During this time, they went to Cuba, bought enough sugar cane fiber to tide them over until another Louisiana sugar cane crop could be produced.

But that wasn't all the good wrought by this company. Their difficulty resulted in the development of disease-resistant strains of sugar cane and soon cane fiber in Louisiana was more suitable for their use than the old strains.

And so Samuel Krajci's belief is firm that disaster can be used as a stepping stone to better things.

Be Not Drunk With Wine

This portion of Scripture is taken from Eph. 5:18. The instruction of Paul to the church; and is a direct commandment to abstain from the use of strong drink, or alcoholic liquors. If men could only realize how drunkenness has been the ruin of lives, homes crushed, nations wrecked, and armies defeated, and hell has reaped a harvest; all this because of drunkenness. Crime is on the increase today because of strong drink, and weak men and women. "Who hath we? Who hath sorrow? Who hath contentions? Who hath babbling? Who hath wounds without cause? They that tarry long at the wine; they that go to seek mixed wine." Yes, the liquor traffic stands in the front line of the forces of evil, undermining and damning the souls of men.

A. T. HICKMAN

Think how drunkenness was the cause of the armies of thirty - three kings to be defeated. They had allied themselves together to fight against Israel. They felt themselves secure and were spending their time in drinking themselves drunk in the pavilions. It was at this strange hour the small army of Israel drove an attack against the drunken forces. No one has to guess the outcome of the attack. The drunken, besotted soldiers of the thirty-three kings were no match for the Israelites. The great Syrian army with her allies, were beaten. All because of sin, and that sin was drunkenness.

It was the same with Belshazzar the king of the Chaldeans. He and all his household, the top men of his kingdom, were busy drinking wine, and praising the gods of gold, of silver, of brass, and of iron; but in that same night, Belshazzar the king of the Chaldeans was slain; and the kingdom went to Darius. A mighty empire had fallen; strong drink had pulled it down.

History repeats itself. Sin is the same today as it was yesterday; and the result is the same. Liquor continues to be a curse, and a scourge to every nation that indulges in the stuff. Destruction follows in its path. Security has always fled before its poisonous breath. And as we remember the havoc that the passing years have not been able to erase, our heart cry within us; "Be not drunk with wine wherein is excess, but be filled with the Spirit of God." The use of liquor and other strong drink will cause any life to be defeated and ruined, and the soul to be lost to a devil's hell.—Hickman.

Your Health

UNDULANT FEVER

Brucellosis, also called Malta or undulant fever, is an economic as well as a medical problem; for at least 30,000 to 40,000 cases develop in human beings annually, not to mention the great loss each year in milk, butter, beef, veal and pork due to infection in animals.

A typical attack there is fever, a chilly feeling, loss of weight, profuse sweating, headache and muscular pain. Sometimes a slight rash is present. The fever goes up and down, accounting for the common term undulant fever. The majority of victims suffering from the chronic type complain for months and even years of weakness, slight fever and aching joints. The disease is acquired from or transmitted through animals. Although other domestic animals may harbor the Brucella organisms, even though not showing symptoms, cattle, goats and swine are the most common carriers.

Undulant fever is difficult to diagnose. Because its appearance is gradual and lacking in distinctive features, the disease may be mistaken for tuberculosis, typhoid fever, malaria and even neurasthenia. There are many laboratory tests used to identify the type of the infection, but because of the evasive character of the organisms, these tests sometimes are ineffective.

Since farm animals are the chief factor in the acquisition of the disease, persons who work with farm stock, particularly cattle and hogs, and slaughter house employees should protect their hands when cuts or abrasions occur. The farmer should have his stock tested for Brucella infection by a veterinarian once or twice a year; and animals found to be harboring the germ, called reactors, should be destroyed to safeguard the health of the farm family and the consumer.

The difficulty of diagnosing Brucellosis, the absence of specific effective methods of treatment, the widespread distribution of the disease among livestock and the lack of an effective method of immunization for human beings are the chief reasons why it causes much chronic ill health. Pasteurization of milk is the most powerful single preventative against the disease.

Parents' Problems

Early Adjustments

My eight-year-old son has attended private school but I have decided to send him to public school. My friends tell me there will be terrific adjustments for him to make and that he will need much guidance. Should I keep him in private school?

It is difficult to give a point-blank answer to your question without knowing more about the situation than the question reveals.

In the public school to which you plan to send your son a good one? Is your boy normal in intelligence and in social adjustment? If your answer to these questions is in the affirmative, you are wise in planning to send your son to the public school. If the school in question is very undesirable and if your son already is somewhat maladjusted, it may be wise to keep him where he now is.

Of course, there will be difficult adjustments to make as your son goes to a new school. But after all, isn't success in life largely dependent upon one's ability to adjust himself to all sorts and conditions of people? Isn't it far better that your son learn to make this adjustment now, while he is at home and under your sympathetic guidance, than at a later date? We can do too good a job of protecting our children from the realities of life.

Do not be too disturbed if during the first days of school he appears to be somewhat distressed. He may even plead to be sent back to the private school. Be sympathetic and understanding, but don't yield to his ples. If, at the close of the year, he still is unhappy, assure him that you then will consider whether or not to return him to the private school.

Cutting Apron Strings

My oldest daughter is twenty-seven and the youngest nearing nineteen. The oldest is doing graduate work in a theological seminary, the youngest is at a great university. The ever-changing ideas of their minds, the amazing changes of their religious ideas, and their criticism of parental ideas are under my many headaches. Please, is there any material available that can be of help and comfort to parents of "young adults" who want to help them?

I wonder if your problem does not lie in the fact that, without realizing it, you have failed to cut the apron strings that have bound your daughters to you. Evidently they have decided to do the cutting themselves, and since you have not as yet acquiesced to the idea that they are now grown up and have their own lives to live, you are troubled and a bit resentful.

Let me urge you, therefore, to accept the fact that you have largely fulfilled your responsibility to your daughters and that from now on they are pretty much on their own so far as their ideas and decisions are concerned. This will not be easy, I know. Neither does it mean that they will not continue to argue their judgment—at times. (Incidentally, they are much more likely to seek it if you do not offer it gratis at every opportunity!) But your clue to treat them as adults.

A final word. Not only let your daughters think and act for themselves, but rejoice when they do so. Don't act the martyr or pout or "suffer silently" when they disagree with you. Don't argue. Tensions will be reduced and you can begin really to enjoy your daughters. Grown-up children can be fun, if we've cut the apron strings.

Displaced Babies

How may I get an older child to treat a baby with respect and tenderness?

First, be certain that you are giving the older child plenty of love and affection. She may feel that the baby has come between you, and that you no longer care for her as much as you formerly did. If so, it is almost inevitable that she will have a feeling of resentment toward the baby. Feeling as she does, it is not strange that she does not treat the baby with respect and tenderness.

To counteract this feeling, it is important that each day you arrange to have some time alone with the older child.

The tattletale may feel neglected, Dr. Maynard says in his new booklet. It's free to readers of this newspaper. Mail a postcard to Donald M. Maynard, 810 Broadway, Nashville 2, Tennessee, and ask for your copy.

child. During this time, don't talk about the baby; let her talk about her interests, and how proud you are of her. If you detect that she wants to be babied or coddled, as she may, grant her desire. Feeling secure in your affection, she will be much more inclined to treat the baby with respect and tenderness.

Second, do not constantly urge the older child to show more respect for the baby. Neither should you scold or nag her for not doing so. Whenever she does show a feeling of tenderness toward her, let her know how pleased you are. It will help, too, if you talk to the baby in the presence of the older child about the fine sister she has (even though the baby doesn't understand you).

Third, let the older child have certain duties in connection with the care of the baby, but not certain duties that are pleasant. Find out what she likes to do for the baby and let that be her responsibility.

While his anxious parents watch, a seriously ill youngster receives a blood and saline transfusion and oxygen after an operation.

GIVING BLOOD IS EASY, PAINLESS

"Don't be a Mr. Milquetoast! There's nothing to be afraid of in giving a pint of blood," says C. E. Stapp, chairman of the blood program for the Clanton County Red Cross Chapter.

"A lot of people seem to have an unreasonable fear about giving blood," chairman Stapp said in an interview here recently, "but the process a blood donor goes through is as simple and harmless as a good night's sleep. The only thing to fear is the possibility that citizens of our community will not have an adequate supply of this vital fluid when the need arises. It's up to us to see that such a situation never develops."

Mr. Stapp, speaking in connection with the visit of the Red Cross blood mobile scheduled here next Tuesday, went on to say that if a donor is in doubt about his physical condition or is having an assurance that it will be safe for him to make a donation, a physician will always be on duty during the bloodmobile operation. His chief responsibility is to see that no one is accepted as a donor unless physically able to give without ill effect. In addition to the physician, the staff is composed of several registered nurses, especially trained and experienced in this work, and two custodians. New techniques of taking blood insure an entirely painless procedure that has no harmful after effects.

Eligibility requirements for a prospective donor are few, Mr. Stapp said. Generally speaking, any healthy man or woman between the ages of 21 and 60 can donate a pint of blood providing he or she weighs at least 110 pounds. Also eligible are young people between 18 and 21 who are self-supporting, married, members of the armed forces, or who have obtained the written consent of their parents.

Heavy meals should not be taken prior to donation. During the four-hour period before giving his blood, the donor should not eat eggs, meat, or fatty foods such as butter and cream. These foods do not effect the condition of the donor, but they do effect the quality of the blood for transfusion purposes. Following the donation the donor may have the kind of food he wishes. A canteen service will be provided by the local Red Cross volunteers where donors will be given light refreshments immediately after donating.

It takes only 30 to 45 minutes for a donor to go through the full process of giving blood, and that includes registration, examination, and the probable time spent chatting with friends and neighbors in the canteen.

"Your Red Cross chapter is happy to afford our community an opportunity to participate in this vital program," Chairman Stapp stated. "I hope that every qualified citizen of Clanton County will do his part in accepting this challenge."

Appointments for donating blood may be made by telephoning the local Red Cross chapter at 392, or Radio Station WKLF at 449.

FARMERS MAY NOW RECEIVE ASSISTANCE FROM P.M.A.

The Chilton County P.M.A. Committee announced today that farmers may receive assistance in carrying out conservation practices on their farms by making application for approvals before they begin the practices.

Mr. Cofer, Chairman of the County P.M.A. Committee, states that farmers will receive assistance to carry out approved conservation practices in the form of purchase orders for materials.

Under the Purchase Order Plan, the government will pay from forty to sixty per cent of the cost of the materials for carrying out approved conservation practices.

Mr. Cofer urges every farmer in Chilton County, who has not already done so, to request approvals for an amount equal to the conservation allowance set up for his farm before September 15th.

The conservation allowances for farms in the County are set up so that each farm may earn a pro rata share of the funds allocated for conservation in the County in proportion to the acreage of open land on the farm.

If producers on every farm in the County do not apply for assistance equal to the conservation allowance set up for their farms, some of the Agricultural Conservation Program funds allocated to Chilton County will not be used; therefore, the County P.M.A. Committee has set September 15 as the latest date on which the conservation allowances will be guaranteed to farms.

After September 15 the allowances will be increased so that farmers who wish to participate in the Agricultural Conservation Program may use the funds which are available for conservation purposes.

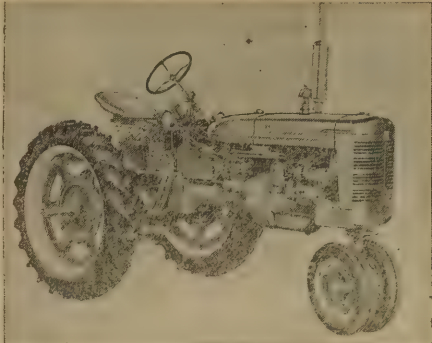

SHORT STAPLE COTTON BUT IMPROVED GRADES

Alabama cotton growers can expect staple length of this year's cotton crop to run slightly shorter than the 1949 and 1950 crops.

O. N. Andrews, API Extension Service cotton improvement specialist, explains this is due to extremely dry weather during the latter part of the growing season.

Variety and moisture conditions during the growing season are the major factors that determine staple length. Practically all of the cotton acreage in the state this year was planted with seed of varieties that have been tested by the API Agricultural Experiment Station and found to normally produce staple lengths of one and one-thirty second and one and one-sixteenth inch. But in extremely dry years the staple length may be reduced to one inch.

On the brighter side, the slight loss in staple length will be offset by better grades. Thus far weather conditions have been favorable for more middling and higher grades.

A new McCormick Farmall Super C tractor, with 17 major improvements, is International Harvester's latest addition to its line of five Farmalls. This new two-row, two-plow tractor, according to the manufacturer, puts into the hands of the operator "more power, more pep, more pull." IH dealers

IH ANNOUNCES NEW FARMALL SUPER C

A new McCormick Farmall tractor, the two-row, two-plow Super C, is being introduced in this community this week by Shelton Truck & Tractor Co. International Harvester dealer in Clanton, Ala.

"It's superior 17 ways -- with more power, more pep, more pull," says Mr. Shelton about the new Super C, latest addition to International Harvester's line of five Farmall tractors.

Some of these 17 superior features, according to Shelton Truck & Tractor Co., are the larger bore valve-in-head engine that provides 12 percent more power on every power stroke and delivers an abundance of smooth power over the entire load range; battery ignition starting; big-diameter, high-leverage steering wheel that steers easily, with finger-touch response; new self-energizing double-disk brakes that insure positive pin-point turning; new upholstered hydraulic shock-absorbing seat for all-day riding comfort; strengthened chassis from front to rear, and weight matched to power for high-traction pull.

Like all other Farmall tractors -- the Cub, Super A, H and M -- the new Super C has a full line of matched quick-change McCormick equipment designed especially to use with it. This includes direct-connected, forward-mounted and trailing equipment.

The direct-connected implements include two-bottom moldboard plows, two-furrow disk plow, four-disk harrow plow, two-row cotton and corn listers, and mower.

Forward-mounted equipment includes a two-row middlebuster, two-row checkrow corn planter, two-row runner-type planter for cotton, corn, peanuts and beans, six-row vegetable planter, two-row cotton and corn cultivator, and six-row vegetable cultivator.

Other equipment available: a rear-mounted six-row vegetable planter, and a four-row beet and bean cultivator with front and rear sections.

Mr. Shelton urges all farmers in this community to see the new Farmall Super C, now on display, and to ask for an on-the-farm demonstration. Shelton Truck & Tractor Company handles the full line of McCormick farm equipment in this area.

SWAP COTTONSEED FOR CATTLE FEED

A good swap for Alabama cattlemen who grow cotton is cottonseed for cottonseed meal -- ton for ton in many instances.

"And present prices paid farmers for cottonseed and prices received by farmers for livestock and livestock products make this seed-for-seed trade favorable," believes A. W. Jones, API Extension Service Marketing specialist.

Also, the outlook for supplies and prices of feed and the market demand for milk, meat and other livestock products indicate that feeding cottonseed meal is a concentrated feed, carries a high percentage of protein, and should be carefully balanced with other feeds for best results.

FERTILIZING FISH PONDS

Many farmers who fertilize their ponds today think they ought to catch big fish next week. Of course, these farmers are disappointed since results of fishpond fertilization during one year will not show up until the following year.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLDTIMERS

From E. E. Meredith, Fairmont, W. Va. I remember when the "eye rock" was not the Blarney Stone, but was that flat stone surface with a ring worn in it where sat the barrel of watered ashes from which drippings were secured for the making of homemade soap.

From Leon Warner, Clymer, N. Y.: I remember when my parents used to churn butter in an old barrel churn and sell it for 10 and 12 cents a pound. At that time, they used to buy flour for 75 cents and 80 cents a 49-pound sack.

From Mrs. Emma Salisbury, Blue Mountain, Ill.: I remember when coffee was selling 14 pounds for $1.00. If you'd send in 10 lion heads cut from the face of the wrappers, they would send you one pound. That way, we got 15 pounds for $1.00.

From Thurman A. Smith, Taylor, Neb.: I remember during the eighties seeing a cowboy twist a lasso from horse-chair tail and mane and the long hair of cattle's tails. His implement was a forked stick with which he deftly manipulated the hair into a four-strand rope. Said he learned trick from a Sioux. The Indian used buffalo hair.

From J. Risor Camryn, Seattle: I remember when horsepower used to drive machinery. Even some tread mills which go way back in history. I remember many of the type using a bevel gear, the horse walking around in circles and stepping over the drive shaft. Small treadmills were made for dogs to drive churns. My grandmother had one and "Shep" knew churning days and had to be routed from under the horse.

"A Bird in the Hand . . ."

This is Alabama Industry Week. Its purpose is to invite to the attention of Alabamians the importance to each citizen of industries already located here. The industries already located in Alabama are the industries which today lay the golden eggs of payrolls and taxes. How they fare, and how they are regarded, has a large bearing on the decision of other industries to locate in Alabama.

Materials, adequate help to process them, markets, transportation facilities, suitable plant sites and other things are important. Many communities in many states can compete equally in these fields. Often, however, when a location for expanding or for a new industry is under consideration, the decision sometimes rests on a report of the community's regard for existing industry. If the report is negative, and assuming that the existing industry merits regard, the new industry sometimes decides to go elsewhere.

Any community's existing industry (the bird in the hand) is worth many prospective industries (the birds in the bush). But the "birds in the bush" often are influenced by what happens to the "bird in the hand." If what happens is pleasant, new industries want to share the experience.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

THE NEW TAX BILL, likelihood of another congressional look at a price control bill, step-up in military spending and production as result of world out-look, sensations in veterans schooling probe, living cost increases, political bickering and possibility of an October adjournment date were high lights of congress.

The house passed the largest military construction program in history with only five dissenting votes, carrying authorizations totaling $5,766,720,928, which was $729,541,000 below the budget request. In the meantime the house had passed the foreign military aid bill with less of a cut than anticipated, and the senate foreign relations committee made a further slash and divided authority over the fund between the department of defense, for military, the ECA for economic aid, and the state department for Point Four and other foreign assistance.

The House also passed a measure authorizing $1,633,000,000 for housing construction in defense areas over determined opposition led by Rep. Jesse P. Wolcott of Michigan who said there "is no need for it" and that the measure was a step in the direction of socialism. Passage came on the heels of an investigation which showed that even members of the armed services were being charged unreasonably rentals for mere shacks unfit for human habitation in these defense areas and near government installations.

The appropriation authorization was split up as follows: $60 million for government-constructed housing; $60 million for community facilities and services; $15 million for loans to prefabricated housing builders; $10 million for land condemnation in isolated areas and $1 1/2 billion for FHA mortgage insurance on privately constructed housing.

Observers saw in the opposition the usual charges from men like Representatives Wolcott and Howard Buffett of Nebraska, that any governmental help is socialism.

Congressman Thomas B. Curtis (R-Mo.) pleaded with newspapers or any body for recognition of a slash of $15 million which he said he got through in the defense department appropriation bill. What the Curtis amendment did was not to cut appropriations and funds appropriated from the treasury by the defense appropriation bill, but reduced the amount that could be spent from proceeds of a salvage program, on salvage work.

The Senate by a vote of 59 to 10 passed an army civil functions bill allowing $638,573,213 for civil functions of the army engineers, ceremonial expense for the quartermaster and expense of the Panama Canal Zone government in fiscal 1952. Senator Paul Douglas was beaten back three times in moves to reduce rivers and harbors funds as was Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan.

Sentiment in favor of the army civil functions bill was strengthened, of course, by the Kansas-Missouri floods, but there was every indication that the congress would refuse to stand the cost of losses in that catastrophe. It would mark a precedent, and it was pointed out in some sectors that neither the Kansas nor Missouri state legislatures had made a single move to help their own people who stood the loss. The congress already had appropriated $25,000,000 for emergency relief of the flood sufferers.

Observers here point out that in the Pick-Sloan plan for relief of floods in the Missouri river valley there is nothing but a patchwork development because there is no over-all guiding plan. These same observers declare that the great demand for completion of dams and reservoirs, some of which are included in the civil functions bill, in Kansas, will be built at the expense of flooding great areas of farmland which under a more comprehensive plan would be perfectly usable. Some suggestion has been made that, if the proposal of a Missouri Valley Authority is too inclusive, that a national committee be named with no axe to grind, to make recommendations, possibly for breaking down the authorities into smaller valleys such as the individual watersheds of the Kew, the Platte, the Big Blue and other rivers.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Jim Lockhart, C. C. Fiquette, Boots Lockhart, B. F. Raspberry, Dr. W. L. Parrish, Otto Jones, C. R. Childress, J. N. Dennis, Joe Gibson and James Bean have planted fescue.

George Jarrell, Walter Fiquette, W. J. Alley, Dr. Stuts, Dewey Collins, Clarence Moore, A. K. Taylor, G. U. Mims, George Littleton, G. W. Hand, W. A. Williams, O. H. Lawrence, Bill Kelley, D. W. Nichols, Jack Roberts, Jack Freeman, S. A. Jones, Grady Bryant, Henry Lucas, Woodrow Hunter and several others have made a start toward land preparation for fescue and clovers.

Dr. W. L. Parrish and Osmond Glenn have planted two and one-half acres each to Ladino Clover for hog grazing. Osmond took advantage of the dry weather to prepare and lime his land.

Meadow outlets are to be planted on Howard Maddox, Red Gore, Dock Harris, H. M. Kelley, Grady Bryant, Cecil Hubbard, and Frank Paschel's farms. Kentucky 31 fescue and a clover will make the sod.

O. H. Lawrence, H. M. Kelley and W. A. Williams plan on planting Bahia grass, Kentucky 31 fescue and re-seeding crimson clovers for a year round pasture and water disposal.

Sericea, kudzu, and fescue have proven themselves for erosion control and abnormal weather conditions such as drought and freezes. All the above plants are deep rooted perennials that should be the bases of a conservation and grazing program. Plan now to establish an acre each for each mature cow on the farm.

GOOD EATING AT LOW COST

Turnips, rutabagas and greens will furnish good eating at low cost in the late fall when most fresh vegetables are gone.

ORDER PINE TREES NOW

Orders for pine trees needed to put idle acres to work this winter should be placed now. Farmers who wait until winter to order seedlings will find the supply exhausted.

A NEED FOR GREEN FIELDS IN WINTER

Overcropping with clean-tilled crops, such as cotton, corn and peanuts, has damaged cropland on most farms in the state.

With this fact in mind, S. R. Dougherty, API Extension Service soil conservationist, reminds farmers that legume cover crops help protect soil from erosion and leaching in the winter, increase yields of crops that follow, and furnish grazing for farm livestock.

"So, for the good of your family, your livestock, and your land, make the old farm green this winter," urges Dougherty.

MONEY-MAKING OPPORTUNITY

County agents point out that Alabama hatching egg flocks are not keeping up with the demand for broiler chicks, and the supply of hatching eggs is always behind the demand.

"The time to take that stitch is before articles go into the wash or out to the dry cleaner," warns Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist.

PROPER FLOOR CARE CAN BE INEXPENSIVE

Auburn, Ala. — Good floor care insures lasting beauty and less work for the busy homemaker, according to Alice Peavy, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist.

She points out that daily cleaning with a vacuum cleaner or a mop will keep floors free of dust and dirt. However, the mop should be treated to pick up dust easily. To do this, soak a clean, dry dust mop in a solution of equal parts of self-polishing wax and water for three minutes. Then squeeze it and allow it to dry.

For more thorough cleaning, the old wax will have to be removed. A long-handled mop equipped with removable steel wool pads works fine. Use it to apply a good floor cleaner to a small area, then wipe off the wax and soil with a cloth. Go over the entire floor this way, then finish with a clean cloth moistened with cleaner.

Miss Peavy doesn't recommend using soap and water on wood floors. Too often they discolor the wood and raise the grain. If floors must be washed, use a mild soap with warm water sparingly.

GI FARM FURLONGHS GIVEN IN EMERGENCY

Have you a son in the Armed Forces? Do you need labor on the farm?

Various branches of the Armed Forces may grant furloughs to servicemen in cases where they are urgently needed at home for farm work.

A serviceman who needs an agricultural furlough must apply for it in writing to his commanding officer. The application may be supported by statements from the county agricultural mobilization committee in his home county. These statements will be provided by the committees upon request of the serviceman, his family, or his employer.

Conrad Badgett, who left here 40 years ago to seek his fortune in Tibet, slipped into town quietly Saturday for a short visit with his brother, Constable Starr Badgett. What a wonder fabric is Tanishkeen — permanently crease-resistant rayon sheen gabardine that your fingers can't tell from fine worsted. And how beautifully Van Houten tailors it into stunning suits that look extravagantly expensive — but aren't. The suit at left has a convertible club collar; the one on the right sports newsy flap-jack pockets. Both come in green, wine, gray, sable brown, purple, black. Sizes 10 to 20.

Blood Donors Over Subscribe At Blood-Mobile

More than 100 persons were turned away Tuesday at the first County Blood Program. Approximately 200 citizens gave their blood but that was because it was more than the mobile unit and crew could take care of. Close to 350 signed up to give a pint of blood.

Cohen Stapp county chairman of the blood program stated he appreciated deeply the spirit in which the people flocked to the First Methodist church here to give their blood. Too, he thanked the newspapers, radio, and especially the ones who gave their blood.

In three months the mobile unit and crew of nurses and doctors will be at Thorsby. Six months from Tuesday they will be at Maplesville and nine months from now they will return to Clanton. Mr. Stapp was high in his praise of the people of this community and was assured by the doctors that on their next trip they would be prepared to take care of all would be donors.

According to a statement by the crew with the unit Tuesday they never had been to a community where they received the all-out cooperation that was given them in Clanton Tuesday. They were surprised and unprepared for the rush.

Mayor Jones Had It In The Bag

The picture above shows Mayor C. Fenn Jones, of Clanton, competing in the milking contest, held by the Mayors of Clanton, Jemison and Thorsby, at the Industry Days and Livestock Show at the Clanton Airport last week end. The contest was won by Mayor Sam Mims of Thorsby. The good sportsmanship of Chilton County's Mayors afforded much fun and merriment for the crowds.

Large Crowd Attends Industry Days

The Industry Days and livestock show at the Clanton Airport last Friday and Saturday drew large crowds and many fine beef and dairy cattle from throughout the county were shown.

Everyone attending the display complimented the efforts of the Clanton County Chamber of Commerce and the County Agent's office on the success of the undertaking.

Outgrowth of the celebration looks like a County Fair for Clanton County next year and with the County Chamber behind an undertaking of that kind, it can't lose. Of course the businessmen of the county, too, are responsible for the success of the show, cooperating in every way possible with the Chamber and the other officials.

The show proved the capabilities of the county when the leaders of the same mind and are willing to pull together. Success in any project would be assured.

CLANTON OPENS FOOT BALL SEASON WITH GREEN AND UNTRIED MEN

Friday night, Sept. 21, Chilton County High School will open its 1951 foot ball season with the strong Starke team of Montgomery. When Coach Spicer called his boys out for practice some three weeks ago he found eleven boys from last year's team missing by graduation or going into the armed forces of the country. No high school team can lose such players as Bannister, DeLoach, Easterling, Little, Muncher, Seales, Deaton, Robinson, Spicer, R. Smith, and Wingard of last year's team without serious handicaps in building a new team.

This year's team will be built around such boys as Eiland, Foshee, Blair, Gaylor, Kinney, Lawrence, Neeley, Popwell, and Scott.

These boys received some experience last year, but are a long way from being ready to fill the places left vacant by graduations last spring.

Starke brings to Clanton a finished team as was shown last week when it ended Prattville's winning streak that extended beyond two playing seasons. The visitors are coached by Charles Cox a former student of the local high school.

Coach Spicer with his inexperienced squad has little hopes of victory, but trusts that his boys can hold the visitors to a reasonably close score.

The time of the game is 7:30 at the high school field.

Seminar At Methodist Church—
A Seminar of the upper half of the Selma District of the Methodist WSCS was held at the Clanton First Methodist Church Thursday of last week. Around one hundred members throughout the district were registered in books which had been prepared by Mrs. Macy Jones. These books were given to the district president to be placed in the district secretary's book. Members of the six circles of the local church served lunch at the noon hour. One of the impressive events of the day's program was the announcement preceding the noon hour; that no matter where they were in the program, they would stop when they heard the chimes for a moment of silent prayer for peace throughout the world. The chimes are a reminder to all women to stop at the noon hour for a prayer for peace.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. McKinney. Mrs. W. C. Carter, district president, introduced Mrs. Harvey King, of Marion Junction, who presided over the program for the day.

Mrs. W. E. Huddleston was pianist for the entire program with Mrs. Cecil Morgan leading the hymns.

Speakers included several of the district officers; namely: Mrs. J. F. McClure and Mrs. Cecil Morgan who presented "The Mission Study on 'South America' for the morning session and Mrs. W. C. Carter and Mrs. Theresa Kendrick for the afternoon session.

Other impressive talks were given by Mrs. C. M. Nutall of Greenville; Mrs. Kenneth Jones, of Fort Deposit; and Mrs. Turner of Selma presented a play as the final devotional for the day, in which all who were present took part.

Twenty-one churches out of the 22 were represented at this Seminar.

Some of the other district officers present were: Mrs. P. Edwards of Ft. Deposit, promotion secretary; Mrs. George Gallier of Selma, district treasurer; Mrs. Claude Jack of Selma, secretary of Youth Work and Mrs. Zeigler, secretary of Children's Work. Mrs. Edwards was in charge of the literature room and presented each president with material for her church.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cox spent the last two weeks in Washington, D. C. with their daughter, Mrs. J. O. Williams, and family. While there they motored to New York City on a sight seeing tour with Mrs. Franklin A. Joseph, formerly Carrie Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Williams. They visited many points of interest including the Statue of Liberty, Empire State Building, Radio City, Times Square and Central Park. They also saw the Queen Elizabeth dock with many dignitaries including the Premier of Italy, Mrs. Joseph and little son, Joey, will sail October 9th, for England, where they will join Major Franklin A. Joseph of the USAF.

Mothers Choral Group Organized—
The Clanton Schools continue to have 'growing pains' and a marked sign of growth taking better and bigger things in their stride. It is gratifying to know that for as long as there has been a Clanton Grammar School P. T. A., it has had the name of being most active and always building for a better and more rounded education for the youngsters. This year it has organized a "Mothers Choral Group." Twenty-five have joined the group and an invitation is extended to any who are interested to join.

The first rehearsal was held last Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Herbert Klinner director.

Keep an eye on this new project! Who knows—Clanton's name may rank with our neighbor, Sylacauga, with its title, "the singing city."

Things We See And Hear-

-By Tuck

Looks like the Seniors of 1951-52 are not like the old saying "gone but not forgotten" instead we've not even gone yet and it looks as if they have already forgotten us. We still don't get some privileges. Will we ever?

Mrs. Dubose says that 6th period study hall is the worst she's had since she has been at our dear old Alma Mater. I can't understand it; she has some of the quietest LITTLE boys in school. Let's see . . . there's Joe Ellison, Tom Frank Scott, Glenn Bishop and others. I just can't see why that wouldn't be the makings of an ideal study hall. Well, anyone can dream.

By the way, I was speaking of Senior privileges, you know, seems to me we'd stand a better chance of getting them if some of our up and coming scholars of said class wouldn't get it into their little heads to go to the store when it suited them. Maybe if we slow down we'll get those privileges after all.

Well, the Misses' Chat contest will be held next week and by the way Joe Grooms is still trying to talk Myron Levine into letting him pin the ribbon on the girl who wins. I kinda think "Deal" wants to save that pleasure for himself. And I might add, I can't say I blame him a bit.

You know we have a doggone cute Drum Majorette this year, Keeds. Of course she isn't another R. L. But I guess we won't ever find one to compare with him. We will now have 5 minutes for E. L. Foster. Now! He really wasn't such a bad fellow at that.

The way that Starke-Prattville game turned out the other night you'd expect our squad to be worried but they certainly don't show it if they are. Here's hoping we don't get too overconfident. Joe Douglas Grooms says now that he's playing right end we've got the Stark game in the bag.

Guess everyone heard about our local fire boy going to Montgomery and setting off an alarm. He claims he didn't know what he was doing but I don't know. Guess he is like the rest of us guys, just a plain old country boy, and didn't know what a fire alarm box was. Well he do now!

Don Eiland went to get his physical along with the rest of the football boys the 1st period Monday and I didn't see him back until 5th period democracy. I knew he was a lotta man but didn't know he was that much.

Handy's Cows - "Tired But Happy"

Handy Peterson is one person who really lives up to his name. Stopped by his fine-looking farm the other day and watched his cattle enjoying his latest brainstorm—a back-scratcher.

What Handy did was to cut an old tractor tire in half—then he slid the open ends over the tops of two posts set in the ground—bolting the tire to the posts, making the inside edges come just about the height of a cow's back.

Handy's cattle-scratcher wasn't a very big idea—but he figures the happier his cows are the better. (And he'll probably get more milk from them, too!)

From where I sit, it's important to keep your eye on the little things. They add up. Reminds me of how beer retailers voluntarily co-operate with the Self-Regulation Program sponsored by the Brewing Industry. They keep their establishments clean, bright, and orderly right down to the last little thing—which all adds up to good will, and good business!

He gets a picture of the weather by Long Distance

Tomorrow's weather is on the wires today for the forces which guard this Nation's skies and shores.

Today the largest Long Distance network of its kind brings them detailed "isobar" weather charts around the clock.

These charts are sent by a system known as "facsimile" from the Weather Analysis Center in Washington, D. C. There, an electric eye scans the weather "picture" as it turns on a special drum. The signal waves produced go out over thousands of miles of wire to military installations throughout the country where the picture is automatically reproduced.

This weather network was designed and completed in less than two years. It's another demonstration of the importance of Long Distance lines to the security of the Nation—especially right now, when there may be stormy weather ahead.

MRS. H. H. GLENN

That Tella-tune man is ringing phones around Clanton and Chilton county again. One week ago Mrs. H. H. Glenn walked away from her telephone, after giving the correct title to the mystery tune, $65.50 richer. Mrs. Glenn was the first winner on the current series of "Tella-tune" broadcasts and she identified the tune, "Reed Rapture," played by Stan Kenton. Mrs. Glenn was the winner of such prizes as a Lady Ellen dresser set, a thermolair Gas heater, and a dozen roses.

This past Monday morning Mrs. A. C. Rogers was the second Tella-Tune winner. Mrs. Rogers won $19.30 in prizes, for identifying the mystery tune, "Topeka Polka". She won such prizes as groceries, gasoline, and cosmetics.

The third Tella-Tune winner, this week, was Mrs. James Carl Martin. Mrs. Martin won about $31.00 in prizes and she won by only identifying the mystery tune, "Street of Dreams", played by the popular Billy Butterfield. Mrs. Martin received, among other prizes a portrait from Scott's Studio.

It's really getting to be a habit of all the housewives to listen in each morning at 10:30 on Radio Station WKLF and try to—Give The Title and Take the Prizes.

Clanton Tigers Defeated By Unruly Cadets

By Tuck
A sad crowd left the local stadium last Friday night when the Starke Cadets (Coached by Blackie Cox- of Montgomery) eased through the Tiger line with a 36 to 6 victory.

In the first quarter of play, Jimmy McQueen ran 60 yds. for a T.D. and Mickey O'Brian, 40 yards for a T.D. The Tigers got off to a fine start but seemed to lose all their power at an early in e of the game.

Reuben Gaylor, Clanton's main hope was put out of the game with a strain- ed back, after running a kick-off back 85 yards for a touchdown, one of the most beautiful plays of the game.

In the second quarter of play, Fowler went over the center of the line for a TD and T. A. Prickett blocked one of Clanton's punts for a safety.

Seven more points were racked up for Starke in the third quarter despite the untiring efforts of most of the Tiger team.

Clanton played better ball in the third quarter of play than any time of the game, but their efforts were futile and did not last long.

The last score of the game was made by Fowler with an interception from Roy Mims which was good for 60 yds. and another TD.

Starke suffered heavy losses during the game, losing three of their best men.

Clarence Miller (Starke) kicked four out of 5 conversions and Philip Lawrence (Tigers) failed to connect in his only chance of the game for an extra point.

The game ended 36-6 and the Tigers were much the wiser in experience than before.

The Tigers play Montevallo next Friday (there- and are in hopes that the valuable but costly experience of the Starke game will help them in victory over Montevallo High.

The groom attended the Louisiana State University and graduated from West Point.

Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip to Silver Springs, Fla, thence to Phoenix, Ariz. where they will be at home.

Some Will Not Need To Assess Property Again This Fall

Several thousand property owners will not have to come in and assess their property this fall.

A new law was enacted by the last Legislature wherein those of you that have not bought or sold or otherwise made any change in your property holdings will not have to assess this fall. If your property holdings remain the same as last year you will not have to assess or claim your home- stead as it will be automatically done for you.

This new rule does not apply to personal property that you are now paying tax on. All personal property, such as stocks of goods, store furniture and fixtures will have to be assessed annually.

This new law applies only to those of you who assessed property last year. If you are a new property owner you will have to come in and assess your property and claim some- stead exemptions, otherwise you will suffer a penalty. Annually thereafter you will not have to assess unless you make some change in your property.

All new buildings, new dwellings, or additions to your old buildings will have to be reported to this office between October 1 and January 1, next.

—N. L. (Buck) Roberts, Tax Assessor.

Bids will be taken on all supplies for the county from a pencil to a five thousand dollar road machine. A county engineer has also been named by the Board of Revenue and Control who will supervise all road building and maintenance in the county. SOMETHING MUST BE DONE

Traffic has become so congested on our main street on week-ends that the time has come for us to do something about it. Officials from the State Highway Department have visited Clanton to see what can be done and have agreed, according to Mayor C. Fenn Jones, to mark Seventh Street (Highway 31) off in three lanes. The center lane through traffic for tourists and others who do not care to stop here.

We hope the solution by the state officials work as under present conditions traffic moves at a snails pace through town and is causing a bottle-neck for tourists and travelingmen who are in a hurry to be on their way.

Should the new system fail we can look for our Highway 31 to be moved to skirt the business district of Clanton—like it or not.

ACTION NEEDED HERE

We can see no excuse for the streets and driveways of Clanton remaining in the condition they are now in resulting from the gas mains and sewers being installed here.

Granting that the street crews have all they can say grace over, this does not mean that the filling of these bad holes in the streets and driveways are not just as important a problem as the one getting the attention.

It would be a great service to the citizens if means to correct this matter was taken up at the earliest possible moment.

PATCH UP PATCH

Alabama's Constitution is becoming increasingly unsuited to the needs of the state. This is indicated by the fact that the just-concluded session of the Legislature approved a record number of proposed amendments for submission to the people. All told, 27 proposals will be voted on as a result of the 1951 session.

This number is approximately equal to all those submitted in the first 25 years following adoption of the constitution in 1901. It is twice as great as the number approved by any previous session. Twenty-three of these proposals will be voted on in the November election. The greatest number ever voted on at any one previous election since 1901 was nine.

The expanding use of the amending power is seen in a number of comparisons. Dr. Hallie Farmer, in her valuable study, "The Legislative Process in Alabama," reports that between 1901 and 1943, inclusive, the constitution was amended 47 times. Since 1943 it has been amended 36 times. To put it another way, of the 83 changes in the constitution since it was adopted 50 years ago, 43 per cent have come in the last eight years.

And now the Legislature comes up with 27 more amendments, three more than were submitted to the people during all the four years of the previous administration. It would appear that the constitution is proving very unsatisfactory.

The imperfections of the constitution are all the more apparent when one considers only amendments with local application. In the 42 years covered in Dr. Farmer's study, 23 of the 47 amendments approved by the people were local amendments. Since 1943, of the 36 amendments passed by the voters, 26 were local in nature. The percentage jumped from 49 to 72.

Of the 27 amendments submitted by the 1951 Legislature, 17 would apply only to counties or municipalities mentioned by name.

Voters can hardly be expected to vote with wisdom and understanding on so many local issues even if, as is true in many cases, the amendment is merely permissive and not final. This November they will have to pass on 15 amendments of local application. These amendments affect only counties or in some instances only cities, but the whole state must ballot on them. . . . —Birmingham News.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Oh yeah. That was John Ponder Lawrence holding the umbrella. As if you didn't know.

Earl Parrish at the First National Bank says 1 and 5-32 inch is the longest staple he has in cotton this season. Nice cotton.

Our old friend Farmer Seale called last week-end. It was good to see him if it was only for a minute and he wanted a plug for his new Directory of the Alabama Cattlemen. We had already got a glimpse of one out at Restful Acres last Sunday where Chick and Olive Fiquette dwell. It is very complete directory of Alabama Cattle raisers and Farmer has done a wonderful work in preparing it. Course this is a commercial but he says he still has a few around at a buck apiece.

R. C. Veasey and J. C. Jones have more fun every year when Christmas toy time comes around. For days you can see them sitting on the floor at Clanton Home & Auto Supply Store putting, toy trains, wagons, and even dolls things together ready for placing on the display counters. Of course they say it's all in the days work, but we believe they're still young enough to get a big kick out of this kind of work.

We don't like Powergrams leaving Bernice Broadhead's name out of the lineup of the T. L. Williams family in the September issue. Bernice is the best looking one of the lot and that is saying quite a bit as you can see if you got a good look at the picture of the family group. We'll have to hand it to Mr. T. L., he has a most handsome family. And such an appropriate title to the article, "Families Do Grow." Boy, can we attest to the correctness of that declaration.

A mild little man walked into the office of the tax collector, sat down and beamed on everyone. "What can we do for you," he was asked. "Nothing," he replied. "I just wanted to meet the people I'm working for."

The Chilton County Chamber of Commerce is beginning a contest in this issue of Chilton County News that will mean hundreds of dollars in prizes to some high school student if they work, and are on their feet. Prizes will consist of valuable wristwatches, Defense Bonds, annual passes to Clanton Drive-In Theatre, and others to numerous to mention. All high school students of the county are asked to join in this contest. It is worthwhile as a public service as well as financially interesting to the student who wins.

A farmer down town the other day while stomping around on the hard asphalt said: "There's no wonder they built a town here. This ground is too hard to plow."

DALE CARNEGIE

See the Man Higher Up

A FEW YEARS ago W. R. Crow, Monroe, La., was close to becoming a complete failure in the business world. He had recently been given a job as outside salesman for his company, and his accounts included some of the largest and most important in the firm. That was all to the good—if he had not had an inferiority complex.

What he did was to spend most of his time and effort visiting the less important personnel at the paper mills, the gas companies and other industries that were assigned to him. He felt embarrassed at the very thought of calling on the officials and the key men in these plants. But often when he had discussed materials with those men of lesser authority, and thought because of their encouraging attitude that he would surely get a nice order, he was doomed to disappointment because the boss had directed the business elsewhere. And all his time had been absolutely wasted!

He realized now that the man higher up made the decisions, those men he feared to face. He thought it over. Were they any better than he was? Had they not started at the bottom? Didn't they want the goods he had to sell as much as he wanted to sell them?

That line of thinking did the trick. It cured him of his feeling of inferiority and gave him confidence. He made up his mind that he would go right to the top, at the same time treating with consideration the lesser men he contacted.

What did he find? Just that the man higher up is nearly always understanding and easy to approach, even friendly; that the order was easier to secure—and best of all, that you will never succeed with an inferiority complex.

TRIED THE BRAND?

There are new ways of trying out a certain brand of whiskey. Not long ago a police magistrate was approached by a distiller who asked him if he had ever tried his special brand of whiskey. The magistrate answered, "No, but I tried three men in court today who had used your new brand of whiskey." And from the report, the results of drinking it was the "hangover" was the same. The damning of the soul and life was the same.

George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D., of Chicago who is a noted writer on psychology and social relations, and author of daily newspaper columns that are read across the nation. He writes: "I receive over a thousand letters per day from Americans. These letters clearly show that liquor is destroying the morals of American youth. It is breaking up marriages, and contributing to our tragic divorce rate. It is subversive in its influence on functional intelligence, thereby serving as a definite contributing factor to the spread of venereal diseases."... To every open minded American this report is believed to be true. In the homes where cantanars have raised their children you can see the damning result of the liquor business. Te seed has been sown; and the moral fiber of real character has been destroyed, and there is no sense of shame, or remorse of guilt. The conscience seared with a hot iron, and to such people, sin is only a "play thing."

ALONG THE FLORIDA BEACHES

This article is written while on vacation in Florida. In this state you will find some of the finest people in the world; but on the other hand, there are those of the other sort. They lie along the Atlantic and Gulf beaches, basking in the hot sun with hardly any clothes on. Men and women of all ages. Already their old skin is burnt brown, and some have no sense of shame. Morals and character are things unknown. Where did such people come from? From the homes of non-Christians. People who do not know God. "The wicked shall be turned into hell, with all nations that forget God."

Parents Problems

By DONALD M. MAYNARD

Physical Handicaps

My older boy, aged five years, was born with a bad lip cleft. Plastic surgery has been done but it still is very noticeable. It doesn't affect his speech. How can I explain to him about it (he has never noticed it) and help him not be conscious of it? Also, when he goes to school next year and other children may tease him, how can I help him ignore or accept it without getting an inferiority complex?

It is important, first of all, that you and your husband accept the fact of your son's cleft lip without any feeling of bitterness or embarrassment. If you are doing so, and I judge you are, you are laying a foundation for your son's own acceptance of his handicap.

I would not be so sure that your son has not noticed his cleft lip—although you probably are right in feeling that he has not created a problem for him as yet. Sometime when you are having a "heart-to-heart" talk with him about your happy home and members of the family, you may want to say something like this: "Probably you have noticed the scar on your lip. I want to tell you how you got it." Then tell him about the cleft lip, and how wonderful it was that a plastic surgeon was able to fix the lip so that he could talk.

Let your emphasis be upon how thankful you are for what has been done, rather than upon how sorry you are that the lip was cleft. Then remark, rather casually, that sometime he may come across boys or girls who call attention to the scar, just as he sometimes call attention to one's big ears, or one's big nose. This will tend to prepare him for that experience so that when it comes it will not be such a shock to him.

In other words, neither magnify nor minimize the problem the cleft lip may cause.

Too Much Correcting

Does spanking a seventeen-month-old girl make her nervous? If so, what other method of punishment can I use? My husband and I are so eager to make the cleft lip of our little girl, that sometimes she jumps as if she is scared when we speak to her. We try to correct each thing she does that we feel isn't right.

Sometimes as we try to clarify our problems in order to ask questions, we find the answer coming with the clarification.

I am inclined to think that you have had this experience as you have formulated the above question. I believe you realize that you and your husband, with perfectly commendable intentions, have set up a goal of perfection for your daughter that she cannot possibly attain. This goal has caused both of you to be unduly concerned about her behavior, so much so that you have "nagged" her until the poor youngster never knows when she is going to be scolded for something that seems perfectly all right to her. It is little wonder, then, that she is beginning to feel insecure and scared when you speak to her.

Let me urge you and your husband to go slow on this "correcting" business. To be sure, occasionally it may be necessary to correct her, and when it is, do so kindly but firmly. Remember, however, that most parents would do well to learn to overlook much that at present causes them so much consternation.

The trial and error method continues to be one way by which children learn to behave as they should, or rather as we adults think they should. When your daughter does something you think isn't right, accept it as the "error" of the process. She isn't misbehaving because of a vicious nature. She just doesn't know any better. It isn't scolding that she needs; it's guidance and information.

It's your responsibility, then, to suggest more desirable ways of behavior, and incidentally this is much more difficult than correcting her for wrong behavior. When she responds to your positive suggestions, as she usually will, let her know how proud you are of her. Let your husband make desirable behavior attractive to her. As a rule, "overlooking" and "approval" are far more desirable and effective than "scolding" and "correcting."

There may be occasions when a slap on the hand or a "spanking" may be beneficial to a child who persists in the problem of stealing is serious but not unusual. Dr. Maynard says in his booklet, "It's free to readers of this booklet. Mail a postcard to Donald M. Maynard, 810 Broadway, Nashville 2, Tennessee, and ask for your copy."

YOUR HEALTH

THE KIDNEYS

While our good health generally depends on good nutrition, equally important is the elimination of waste products from the daily intake of food. The chemical waste products of the diet are eliminated by the kidneys. When these organs are not functioning properly, a condition develops which is known as nephritis or Bright's disease.

The kidneys may be considered the most important chemical laboratory in the body, as they not only filter the waste products but conserve the body's minerals and salts and keep the body fluids and chemicals in balance. They are so important that all of the blood in the body, eleven to thirteen pints, circulates through them every three minutes for the purpose of being freed of its waste products.

The kidney is primarily composed of two million little filtering units, which are clusters of blood vessels. As the blood circulates through the kidneys and finally through the little clusters the waste products are selectively transferred from the blood into tiny funnel-like tubes, known as kidney tubules. In addition to the waste products, large quantities of water, sugar and salt pass into these tubules. This is known as filtrate. As this filtrate passes down through the tubules, the water, salt and sugar essential to the body are reabsorbed through the walls of these tubules to maintain the normal body chemistry. The waste products, however, that cannot be used again continue to pass down into the bladder.

The urinalysis is the laboratory test used to detect albumin in the urine. While albumin is normally present in the body, it does not appear in the urine if the filter system of the kidneys is functioning normally. Everyone should have a urinalysis regularly.

ICE CREAM SUPPER
AT PLANTERSVILLE

Saturday night at 5:30 p. m. Sept. 22, 1951 at the Park in front of the Christian Church, Plantersville, the Plantersville Eastern Star will sell home made Ice cream and cake to the public.

Everyone is invited. The proceeds of this sale will go into a building fund. This chapter badly needs an Eastern Star and Masonic Hall and they are working hard toward this goal.

Come out and help them realize a good sum out of this sale. Just after the sale of ice cream and cake the lucky number will be drawn by some child for that beautiful crocheted bedspread. This spread was made and donated by one of the members of this chapter, Mrs. Martin Jones.

FIN-FAN ITEMS

Only another week remains in the month of September to qualify for the $1000 cash award of the month. The entries so far during September have been few and could easily be topped. All that is necessary to enter the Alabama Power Company Fishing Contest is to let your boat dock operator weigh-in your largest catch. It's as simple as that. You may win an attractive Whopper Catcher Certificate, suitable for framing; a $10.00 cash merchandise certificate; or, a very attractive trophy, with your catch and name beautifully engraved thereon.

Last month Mr. W. W. Cheek, 2509 Spruce Street, Montgomery, nosed out by a short margin to win the August prize. Mr. Cheek expressed a desire to trade his merchandise certificate in one of the Sporting Goods Stores that displays the placard telling of the contest.

Entries during the past week were reported from Lake Jordan. Mrs. Mathews, Manager, Blackwell's Fishing Lodge, Shoals Creek, reports: Capt. R. V. Sheetz, Maxwell Field, had good luck casting a Hawaiian Wiggler on Shoals Creek. His largest catch of the morning was a 4 pound Smallmouth Bass.

J. B. Kelly's Store, near Wetumpka, late Mrs. Vernon Cook, 103 Dairaid Road, Montgomery, fished Softkatchie Creek near Swayback Bridge with a Yellow Sally and hooked into a game fighting 4 pound 12 ounce Smallmouth Bass.

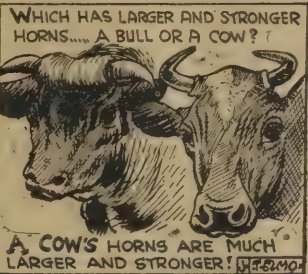

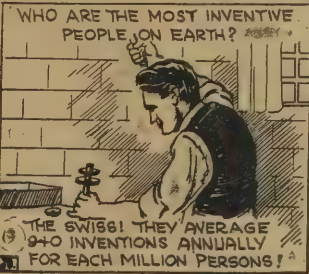

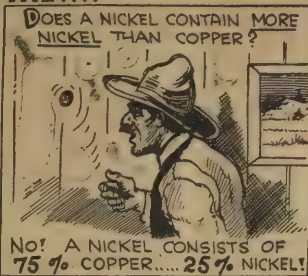

How about the other Lakes??? The Summer slump is over, and a large number of those nice Whopper Catchers are being caught but not registered in the contest. Enter the fun, and let us hear from you.

If you should see a surf-board go by without a tow boat preceding don't get excited and run to your psychiatrist. You will be seeing a "Skimboat," the latest thing out in the way of water recreation. This little rig is about the size of a regular surf-board but has a built in 10 hp Martin motor that makes it fairly fly across the water. In case you are interested, they are on display at Trousdale's Fishing Lodge, Lake Jordan and also in Alexander City.

Without damage to trot lines and Crappie fishing beds, many dangerous semi-submerged dead heads and logs were removed from Lake Jordan during the recent draw-down. Unfortunately fishermen have been known to plow into these hazards causing considerable damage to boats and motors. A propeller blade was removed from one such log giving mute evidence of a very expensive accident. It is the sincere desire of the Alabama Power Company that you enjoy, safely, the glorious recreational possibilities of the Coosa-Tallapoosa Lakes.

MISS MARGARET WADE BECOMES THE BRIDE OF RUSSELL BURSON

In an impressive twilight ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church of Prattville at 5:30 o'clock on September 16, Miss Margaret Wade, daughter of Mrs. John Pierce Wade, of Prattville and the late Mr. Wade became the bride of Russell Nettles Burson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Burson, of Selma. Dr. John H. Leith, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Auburn, and Rev. C. Lewis Morrison, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Prattville, officiated.

Magnolia foliage formed a background of greenery for tall standards of white gladioli and tuberoses. Seven branched candelabra held burning white cathedral candles.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Lew Turk, organist, and Mr. James Worthington, soloist, of Montgomery. As the wedding guests assembled, Mrs. Turk played "My Heart and Thy Sweet Voice" from Samson and Delilah; "Melodie," Tachakowsky; "Romance," Rubenstein; "Through the Years," Angel's Serenade; Braga; "Theme from Unfinished Symphony," Schubert. As the candles were lighted by William Quinn, Jr., and Stewart Burson, "Serenade" by Schubert was played. Mr. Worthington sang, "O Perfect Love," "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer." "O Perfect Love" was the ceremonial melody, and the traditional wedding marches were used.

The bride was given in marriage by her paternal uncle, James Wade, of Clanton. Her gown was of ivory satin. The long fitted bodice was designed with a yoke of illusion embroidered in seed pearls and crystals. Long tight-fitting sleeves were buttoned at the wrists and extended to a point over the bodice into a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of illusion edged with Brussels lace was attached to a coronet of seed pearls and orange blossoms. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and white heather. The bride's only ornament was an amethyst pin, a gift from the groom.

Mrs. William Lester Quinn, maternal aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. Maid of Honor was Miss Patty Herring of Hueytown. Bridesmaids were Miss Marcia Boyce, Miss Wilma Smith of Prattville, Miss Mary Ann Quisenberry, sister of the bride, of Clanton, Miss Joyce Burson, sister-in-law of the groom, of Selma, Junior bridesmaids were Nancy Quinn of Prattville and Julie Wade of Clanton, both cousins of the bride. Flower girl was Susan Murfee, of Prattville.

The bride's attendants wore identical gowns of gold changeable taffeta. They were fashioned with portrait neckline and fitted bodice. The full skirt formed a tier of three ruffles in the back. Attendants wore Juliette caps of starched lace braid in matching tones with brown velvet trim and long gloves in matching taffeta. Each carried an arm bouquet of daisy chrysanthemums in russet tones tied with moss-green satin ribbon.

Bruce Burson, of Selma, was his brother's best man. Ushers and groomsmen were Robert Cannon, of Fayette; Robert Gaddis of Prattville; H. C. Mattox, of Union Springs; S. M. Thomas of Columbus, Ga.

Mrs. Wade, mother of the bride, chose for her daughter's wedding a gown of turquoise chiffon. Her coronet

MRS. FANNIE MORRIS

STOCKPIILING OF PART OF 1951 COTTON CROP FOR ARMED SERVICES ASKED BY EDWARD deGRAFFENRIED

Stockpiling of a portion of the 1951 cotton crop for the high quality of the current crop was asked here today by Rep. Edward deGraffenried (Ala.), a member of the House Armed Forces Sub-committee on Stockpiling.

Rep. deGraffenried submitted evidence of the high quality of the crop to meet exacting military needs and asked Rep. Durham (N.C.) Chairman of the Sub-committee to request reports on the subject from the Munitions Board and the Department of Agriculture.

deGraffenried told Durham mid-South cotton experts had advised him the 1951 cotton crop had the best breaking strength of any within the past twenty years, and that "the fine quality of the cotton now being harvested made it the best possible type of cotton to meet military needs."

"1950 cotton was of a relatively poor quality, and could not be used where high standard material was required," deGraffenried said. "The chances are very great that a crop as good as the present one may not come along for many years, and it obviously is in the interest of our security program to hold a supply of this quality cotton in reserve for wartime needs."

The Alabama Congressman quoted a statement from W. M. Garrard, manager of the Staple Cotton Cooperative Association at Greenwood, Mississippi, to the effect that breaking strength of cotton tested at the Stoneville, Miss., laboratory was 85,458 pounds per sq. inch, with good uniformity of fibre and a Micronaire average of 4.4 for fineness.

ANNUAL DAIRY SHOW WAS ONE OF LARGEST AND BEST YET IN COUNTY.

The Annual Dairy Show, which was held in conjunction with Alabama Industries Days, was one of the best ever held in the county. This year's show was not only one of the largest shows ever held, but the quality of cattle exhibited was better than those entered in previous shows.

The Show was judged by Mr. Ted Besh of Sumter Farm & Stock Company. Mr. Besh did a very nice job of using the Danish System of judging in placing the cattle. By using the Danish System, cattle were not shown competitively, but were placed in groups—blue, red, or white—depending on how near they approached the ideal type Jersey.

John Marvin Williams, 4-H Club member of Baker Community, took top honors in the Show with his Grand Champion 4-H heifer. Mr. R. O. Williams of Collins Chapel Community had the unusual honor of showing the Grand Champion and also the Reserve Champion Female. Mr. J. E. Minor of Mt. Pleasant Community, showed a very nice young bull that was judged Reserve Champion Bull.

Jimmy Kincaid, 4-H member of Thorsby, Ala. Rt. 1, did a very good job of grooming and showing his purebred cow. As the result of his showmanship and fitting, he was awarded a purebred Jersey heifer. Reuben Hayes, another 4-H member of Thorsby, Ala. Rt. 1, was awarded a ten dollar award for doing an outstanding job of fitting and grooming his animal.

Blue Ribbon winners were as follows: John Marvin Williams, 4-H member, Clanton Rt. 4; Douglas Williams, 4-H member, Clanton Rt. 4; Jimmy Kincaid, 4-H member, Thorsby Rt. 1; Homer Lawrence, 4-H member, Billingsley Rt. 1; J. G. Heida, Thorsby; O. H. Lawrence, Billingsley Rt. 1; R. O. Williams, Clanton Rt. 1; J. E. Minor, Clanton Rt. 1.

MONDAY OCT. 1 PROCLAIMED ALABAMA TEACHERS DAY BY GOV. GORDON PERSONS

Monday October 1 was proclaimed Alabama Teachers Day by Gov. Gordon Persons.

In a proclamation issued from the governor's office the state's chief executive called on all Alabamians to join with him in supporting the move to honor Alabama school teachers.

Alabama Teachers Day will be celebrated on the opening day of Alabama State Fair at Birmingham. Sixty-seven teachers from each of the state's 67 counties will be honored guests on the Fair's opening day. Each teacher will receive a special Service To Alabama Youth Award in ceremonies during the special Teachers Day program. The 67 teachers will be chosen by school superintendents throughout the state on the basis of years of service within their respective school systems.

The proclamation by Gov. Persons pointed out that the special day will serve "to focus the attention of the State on the services, sacrifices, loyalty and devotion to duty of every single member of the State's teaching profession."

In addition the proclamation noted the "close working relationship between the Alabama State Fair and the educational forces of our State."

Gov. Persons termed the move to honor Alabama teachers "commendable."

The teachers will be guests of the Fair management and the Birmingham Classroom Teachers Association during their all-day visit to the Fair. The local teachers group will act as host or organizer to the visiting teachers.

BARBECUED BEEF PLACED UNDER CEILING PRICE REGULATIONS

Montgomery, Ala.—Barbecued beef—along with corned, smoked and dried beef—has been placed under ceiling price regulations to allow processors to adjust their ceiling prices to reflect current raw material costs.

The action was announced this week by Charles G. Dobbins, district director of the South Alabama Office of Price Stabilization.

"The new regulation does not apply to sales of canned meats, sausage, ground beef, or specialty steak products," Director Dobbins said. "Pricing under the new regulation will result in some increases and some decreases in prices," the director said, but it is expected that there will be an overall increase as a result of the regulation.

The new regulation is a result of the "Capehart Amendment" to the National Defense Production Act of 1951, recently passed by Congress.

DO YOU JUST BELONG?

Are you an active member. The kind that would be missed? Or are you just contented

That your name is on the list?

Do you attend the meetings And mingle with the crowd? Or do you stay at home And crab both long and loud? To help the church along Or are you satisfied to be The kind that just belongs? Do you never go to visit

A member that is sick, Or leave the work for just a few And talk about the clique? There's quite a program scheduled That means success if done, And it can be accomplished With the help of everyone. So attend the meetings regularly, And help with hand and heart— Don't be an ACTIVE part. But take an ACTIVE part. Think this over, member: Are we right or are we wrong? Are you an active member? Or DO YOU JUST BELONG?

NEW HIGGINS BUILDING

CHIROPRACTOR

Has recently opened his office for the practice of Chiropractic in the new building above. Located at 730 2nd Ave. N. Out of the downtown area to give better parking facilities for patients.

Dr. Marshal L. Ware, Chiropractor, has recently opened an office at 730 1/2 2nd Ave. N., Clanton, Alabama.

He is a native of Chilton County and Clanton, the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. (Matt) Ware. Dr. Ware moved here from Davenport, Iowa, where he practiced for the past three years.

Dr. and Mrs. Ware have two sons, Wallace Lee, seven, and Jerry Leister, four.

He graduated from C.C.H.S. in 1938. In the next few years he lived in a number of states and while in Toledo, Ohio, became interested in Chiropractic through what seemed to be a miracle to him at the time, which has come to be every day occurrence now. He went to Davenport to investigate Chiropractic but before he could get started war was declared and he served 42 months in service.

He graduated from the Palmer School of Chiropractic in June 1948 with a four year college degree which included the study of Anatomy, pathology, chemistry, bacteriology, physiology, hygiene, physical diagnosis, phychoiatry, x-ray and chiropractic philosophy and adjustment techniques. Later he served an internship at the B. J. Palmer private Clinic, the largest and most exclusive Chiropractic Clinic in the world, and did post graduate work at the Clear View Sanatorium for mental patients.

While in Davenport, Dr. Ware not only conducted a private practice but served as staff doctor with the Ellis Research Laboratories, Inc., of Chicago, Illinois, where he handled problem patients for other chiropractors. This work put him in contact with doctors in several states. He has lectured to numerous state conventions and district meetings on the importance and interpretations of the micro-dynameter, an instrument used by Chiropractors in spinal and neurological examinations of patients.

At present, office hours are daily 9 to 12 and 1:30 to 5:30, closed on Wednesday. Evenings by appointment.

Any one having a health problem should contact Dr. Ware and have him explain how Chiropractic could benefit them, consultation without obligation. Phone Clanton 394.

The following are case histories from Dr. Ware's Davenport office: These are some remarkable cases, while others obtained good results but due to chronic conditions and patient not cooperating the time element was longer. While there are other factors in health besides Chiropractic, the Chiropractic service speeds up recovery in all cases as the body must have a normal nerve supply or functions of the cells will not take place.

Bigger, Better Package of Service

...yet up in price far less than most things you buy!

A DOZEN EGGS is still a dozen, and a pound is still a pound. But the "package" of telephone service you buy grows larger and larger.

TODAY IN ALABAMA, you can call nearly three times as many local telephones as you could ten years ago. And the service is better. Yet with all this extra value, Alabama telephone rates in the overall have gone up less than half as much as prices in general.

ALWAYS ONE of your biggest bargains, telephone service is today an even better buy than it was ten years ago . . . and a smaller part of your family budget.—Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Chilton County C of C Resolution On Airport Endorsed By Clubs

The Clanton Kiwanis Club endorsed the Resolution by the Chilton County Chamber of Commerce in regards to the maintenance of the Airport on Sept. 21, at their regular meeting.

Clanton Lions and the Thorsby-Jemison Lions Club endorsed the resolution the following week. The resolution reads:

To the Probate Judge and Commissioners of Chilton County, Alabama:

Whereas the United States Government spent thousands of dollars on a municipal airport and hangar, which is one of the best in the country for a town the size of Clanton. This airport was in fine shape at the time it was turned over to Chilton County. It has since grown up in weeds, all window lights broken out, the rest rooms are in bad need of repair. Also the pump to the well has been stolen. This needs to be replaced. Most of the lights have been broken out in the building. The grounds around the hangar need some drainage work done, also limestone, cinders, etc., placed on said grounds, so that in all weather conditions, traffic can pass in and out.

The airport and airport grounds are greatly needed by many county activities, so be it resolved:

The Chamber of Commerce of Clanton, Alabama, go on record, asking the Commissioners Court of Chilton County to appropriate sufficient money in the 1952 budget to do all repair work on buildings, grounds, water system, etc., which is needed and mentioned above. We also wish to have the county employ an all-time custodian to see that the airport, grounds and buildings are kept in proper condition at all times.

Respectfully submitted,
J. A. JACKSON,
Publicity Chairman Clanton Chamber of Commerce.

Passed unanimously and adopted by the Chilton County Chamber of Commerce Monday night, Sept. 3rd.

CLANTON GETS NEW CHIEF OF POLICE

Charles Tucker was named the new Chief of Police of Clanton at the meeting of the City Council Tuesday night. Mr. Tucker has been a member of the force and succeeded Chief Anderson because of a desire of the Mayor and Council to get a younger man. Anderson will remain with the Police Department. He will be on the day shift.

Chief Tucker expressed himself as confident he could improve the department and solicit the cooperation of all the citizens of Clanton. Especially does he ask the cooperation of the motoring public in controlling the speed limit on their automobiles. He says some of our best citizens, through thoughtlessness are breaking our laws daily on the streets and highways in and around Clanton by not obeying speed laws.

The News congratulates Chief Chief Tucker and offers cooperation in all worthwhile progressive movements.

HIGH SCHOOL PARENT-TEACHERS MEETING

The Chilton County High School Parent-Teachers Association will hold their regular meeting Tuesday afternoon in the School Library.

A most interesting program is planned and all parents are urged to be present.

Big Success

The Band Fair which was held at Chilton County High School last Thursday evening was a big success. The Parent-Teachers Association did a grand job in making preparations for the fair, with booths decorated in appropriate colors and gifts and articles displayed in lovely exhibits for sale. The balloon and fish pond booth was quite a popular one and of course the White Elephant booth. The ladies in charge of the sandwiches, cakes and drinks did a wonderful job. In fact everyone did his, or her part in making the fair most successful.

One of the highlights for the evening was the presentation of Queen Chit Chat and her Ladies in Waiting. Queens Chit Chat is Miss Shelby Strudard and Ladies in Waiting were Miss Ruby Nell Crew and Miss Jean Thompson. They led the grand march with music furnished by Miss Bobby Grey. The High School Band, under the direction of Mr. Bittinger played almost continuously during the evening, which was most enjoyable and added atmosphere to the occasion.

CHILTON COUNTY TEACHERS

The Chilton County Teachers' Association met at the Isabella High School, Tuesday evening, September 25, 1951.

MORE CONTRIBUTORS TO ALABAMA INDUSTRY DAYS

The following named firms were unavoidably left out of the list of merchants who contributed to the Alabama Industry Days, Cattle show celebration conducted here in Clanton recently. Those organizations include Sutley Jewelry Store, Piggly Wiggly, and the Hat Shop.

To remove lipstick stains, rub the cloth with vaseline or glycerine, then launder as usual.

Clanton Plays Wetumpka Here Friday Night

After getting off on the wrong foot in its first and second foot ball games of the season, the Chilton County Tigers will be out to crash the win column Friday night against the Wetumpka Indians. Injuries have handicapped the local team in the two previous games. Joe Popwell has been out with a broken nose, Gaylor, Grooms, Askins and others have been sidelined with injuries. If Coach Spicer can get his crimples in playing condition the local team should give the visitors an interesting game.

Wetumpka has a record a little better than Clanton, in that she has tied one game and lost two. Her first game was with Dadeville that ended 0 to 0, she lost to Prattville and Billingsley by very close scores. Billingsley won last week's game 7 to 6.

Game time is 7:30. Tickets on sale at Calloways, Alfred-Wright's and Upchurch Drug Stores.

This group of girls have organized this club with the purpose of doing worthwhile things in their community. They will be grateful to the clubs and organizations in Clanton for an opportunity to serve in anyway they can.

October Is Church Loyalty Month At Methodist Church

At the Stewards meeting of the Clanton Methodist Church Monday night, at which 18 were present, all voted unanimously to support the Church Loyalty Program by attending at least one worship service each Sunday and more if possible.

We challenge the entire membership of the church to follow the lead of these Stewards, Rev. J. M. McKinney, pastor of the church said.

COMMERCIAL AND DOMESTIC

NATURAL GAS USERS TO PAY LESS THAN EXPECTED

Editor Chilton County News:

We had our first Natural gas meter readings on September 21. Knowing the people generally will be pleased to learn of the amount of gas consumed and the cost, covering a definite time, we submit a FEW of the bills for publication. THE DOMESTIC and SMALL COMMERCIAL RATE in effect now, was used in arriving at the amount of each bill. The rate is as follows:

First 300 cubic feet—$1.00 Minimum.
Next 1000 cubic feet—150 per 1000 cubic feet.
Next 1700 cubic feet—130 per 1000 cubic feet.
Next 17,000 cubic feet—80 per 1000 cubic feet.
Next 30,000 cubic feet—60 per 1000 cubic feet.
All over 50,000 cubic feet—50 per 1000 cubic feet.

Flem Higgins, turned on August 22, used 1400 cubic feet, $2.63.
Joe Higgins, turned on August 27, used 900 cubic feet, $1.90.
W. L. Hayes, turned on August 21, used 1300 cubic feet, $2.50.
Theatre Cafe, turned on August 31, used 12,200 cubic feet, $12.07.

Ed P. Goodgame, turned on August 22, used 1900 cubic feet, $3.68.
Lake Jones, turned on August 22, used 1800 cubic feet, $3.15.
M. C. Baker, turned on August 31, used 1000 cubic feet, $2.05.
Joe Ray, turned on August 27, used 1600 cubic feet, $2.89.
R. W. Stuckey, turned on August 24, used 1500 cubic feet, $2.76.

L. A. Baker, turned on August 25, used 2200 cubic feet, $3.67.

Aaron Guy, turned on August 25, used 2300 cubic feet, $3.80.

Jim Jones, turned on August 23, used 1100 cubic feet, $2.20.

O. E. Black, turned on August 22, used 1700 cubic feet, $3.02.

G. T. Murphy, turned on August 31, used 700 cubic feet, $1.00.
Walter Watson, turned on August 22, used 1200 cubic feet, $2.35.

C. L. Woodfin, turned on August 31, used 500 cubic feet, $1.30.

W. J. Bice, turned on August 22, used 1800 cubic feet, $3.15.

F. M. Guy, turned on August 25, used 800 cubic feet, $1.25.

T. G. Taylor, turned on August 30, used 1100 cubic feet, $2.20.

I have talked with several who have received their bills and each one states they are well pleased with the amount charged. You will notice that the Theatre Cafe began use of the gas on August 31, and consumed 12,200 cubic feet during the 22 days, at a cost of $12.07. I learned from the management of the Cafe that the change-over to Natural Gas resulted in a saving of 40 to 50 cents a day. Some of the homes are cooking and others have only water heaters at the present time. I hope the people will have their houses piped for gas as quickly as possible in order to be prepared for the cool weather just around the corner.

Respectfully,
C. FENN JONES,
Mayor

OCTOBER LIST OF PLENTIFUL FOODS

Apples are first on the October plentiful foods list for the Southeast. The apple crop this year is estimated at 119 million bushels, and volume marketing during the month should keep generous supplies of apples in most southern food stores.

Broilers and fryers are next on the October list, followed by turkeys, dry beans, cheese, skim milk products, fish fillets, canned apples and applesauce, table grapes, processed citrus products, cabbage, onions and honey.

Marketing of broilers and fryers in the coming month may average as much as a third above the same month last year. The turkey crop this year is a record high, and a large part of the crop will be marketed by the end of October.

DEATH SCHEDULE FOR PEACH TREE KILLERS

The peach tree borer is peach tree enemy number one in Alabama.

It kills thousands of trees each year, and it injures a much larger number of trees to the point that they are no longer profitable.

Fortunately a few cents, maybe a nickel a tree, will buy the material to kill peach tree borers. One material for use on trees four or more years old is para-dichloro-benzene. Certain emulsions, such as ethylene dichloride emulsion, can be used on trees of all ages.

ALABAMA'S CHAMPION BEEF JUDGING TEAM ON WAY TO KANSAS CITY

This team from Chilton County High School was the winner over 162 teams in the district and state judging. All of these young men are regularly enrolled in Vocational Agriculture for their second year and are officers in the Clanton FFA Chapter.

According to their agriculture teacher and chapter advisor, W. A. Lecroy, Clanton has a team that will give Alabama some good representation in the National Contest which will be held in Kansas City, October 9-11.

CRACK IN THE KREMLIN WALL

MORE ABOUT OUR TRAFFIC PROBLEM

A letter comes from a reader regarding our article last week about our traffic situation and several businessmen have offered their suggestions as to how the traffic could be speeded up on Seventh Street and on Second Avenue.

Ralph Johnson comes up with the best suggestion, providing it met with the approval of the local businessmen on Second Avenue and the City Council would put it into force, and that is prohibiting left turns at the intersection of Second Avenue and the Highway. As it is local motorists often go around a block to get a thru line of traffic across the highway and if the above regulation was put into effect it would practically do away with the "traffic jam" at that corner. Right turns on red lights might also aid in the clearing of the highway.

Below is printed the letter from N. E. Samuels and his opinion of the traffic situation.

Chilton County News
Clanton, Alabama
Dear Sirs:

I have just cut this clipping from your weekly newspaper. Now, may I say that I am very happy to see these steps taken, and I do hope it will work out satisfactorily.

May I also say that our law enforcement should take steps to enforce our traffic laws here in the main streets in Clanton. It is pitiful how some of our own auto drivers violate our traffic laws, especially on Saturday, p.m. Many of them will stop and have a conversation out in the middle of the street and hold the traffic up for a block. Truly something should be done about that, and many other violations. And did you know that there is a large number of teen age girls and boys driving all over Clanton and Chilton County that do not have and driver's license. That also should be looked into.

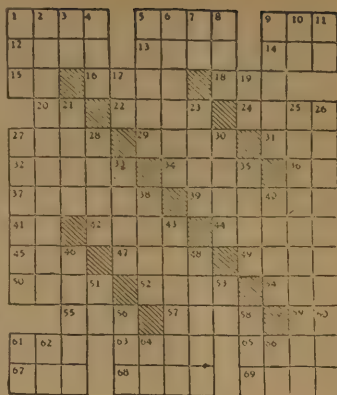

With kindest regards,
Yours Very Truly,
N. E. Samuel

THE CHANGING SEASONS

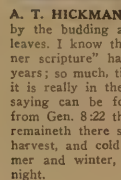

October comes so sly and still,
You scarcely hear it sound
Before he plucks the Autumn leaves,
And throws 'em on the ground"

"While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night shall not cease." (Gen. 8:22)

I quote the above
Scripture to prove that as long as the earth remains we shall have the regular four seasons
each year. There will never come a time when you cannot tell the winter and summer, spring and autumn, only by the budding and falling of the leaves. I know the old "chemney corner scripture" has been quoted for years; so much, till lot of people think it is really in the Bible. But no such saying can be found. But it is true from Gen. 8:22 that long as the earth remaineth there shall be seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, as well as day and night.

This should remind us again, that there is a season and time to every purpose under heaven. "A time to be born, and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted. A time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to break down, and a time to build up; a time to weep,
and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance. A time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together. A time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;
a time to get, and a time to lose; a time to keep, and a time to cast away.
A time to rend, and a time to sew; a time to keep in silence, and a time to speak. A time to love, and a time to hate; a time of war, and a time of peace." (Ecc. 3:1-8)

As time rolls on, mankind faces the changing of the seasons, and even of the times. Every thing does not remain the same. Man changes with the passing of the years, but God never changes. He is the same yesterday, today, and forever. The past, and the present, and the future, is the same eternal NOW with him...We welcome the change in the seasons. The summer has been hot and dry, but there was nothing we could do about it. Let us commit ourselves to God who does all things well.

Your Health

KEEP COLD TO YOURSELF

Keep that cold to yourself by staying away from other people, advises
Dr. Donald A. Dukelow of Chicago, consultant in health and fitness for the Bureau of Health Education, American Medical Association.

It has been pointed out by Dr. Duke-low that with the approach of the season of rapid temperature changes, frequent wet feet or wet clothes and increased exposure to infection in closed rooms, there is an increased risk of colds.

"Most of us take a cold in our stride and go about our work just the same he said. "Maybe we growl a bit and feel rather nasty, but we think we can get by and it will soon wear off."

"What's wrong with this picture? In the first place, anyone who goes to the office or sends a youngster to school with a fresh cold is a public nuisance.
He needlessly exposes countless people to the infectious disease that causes the loss of more man-hours than any other."

"A few of those who get his cold may develop pneumonia or have an allergy or chronic sinusitis flare-up. As far as he himself is concerned, a cold may be only a cold; yet many others will develop complications or catch a superimposed infection if he doesn't reduce his contact with them. With efficiency at a low level during an acute cold, the benefits from working are far overbalanced by the risk incurred."

"From all points of view—public health and your own public relations with your associates—the important factors in the care of a cold are to stay home, be quiet, make yourself as comfortable as possible and keep your cold to yourself. Nobody else wants it. And nobody wants you when you have a cold."

Folks and Things About Town

Mrs. Cohen Stapp has resigned her place in the Probate Office to accept a position with Dr. J. E. Edgar as assistant. She will be missed at Judge Parrish's sanctum as she was most efficient in her work and we are all sure will serve Dr. Edgar as well. Mrs.
Stapp is just a person who does what ever she has to do, well.

A personal letter from J. H. Robbins M. D., Director of the Birmingham Regional Blood Center, stated:
"Please extend my thanks to the physicians and nurses, and in addition to the volunteers who did such a fine job in assisting this unit on their recent visit to your chapter." The foregoing was sent to the Chilton County Chapter of the Red Cross and we would be very happy if the daily newspapers when crying about what a poor job is being done over the country in blood contributions would add a line and except Chilton County from their overall condemnation of the public for their lack of interest in blood for our service men.

Sgt. M. H. Westerman, local recruiting officer, is what the veterans would call a "good Joe." Having returned from Korea only recently he knows what the returning is up against and is doing something about it. He has made himself some signs with his name and telephone number on them and has posted them in, and in front of, the local bus station. The Sgt. offers to meet any returning overseas veteran, at any time—day or night—and take them home or anywhere else they may wish to go. He also offers his assistance in anyway possible to make their homecoming easier and
